The merchant whose story I have told you is one of many whose habit of "supposing" of imagining of cultivating the ideal, and building castles have paved the road to success. Someone has well said that the idealist is imaginative, hopeful and abounding with life and energy. "He sees visions and he dreams dreams," and he lives in a world of hopeful, happy forces that continually radiates new energy, that generate it indeed, and that kindles the coals on the altar. To him, at length strong and sure, as the Atlantic tides sweeping up the shore, comes inspiration with all its hidings of power. An intense desire itself transforms possibility into reality. Our wishes are but prophecies of things we are capable of performing.

I want to ask you to accept my sincere apology for my last letter in the Corner, the idea I wish to convey is that the Corner needed various kinds of letters. Those who don't care for recipes would find letters to develop the social conscience.

Sister Caro said "we would like to talk over old times with Kitty Lou but would wait until later." I think the desire is mutual.

ETHELYN.

GREETINGS FROM RURAL DELIVERY

Dear Social Corner Friends: October so far has been one beautiful month and the maple trees look fine after the first frost with all the colors of the rainbow.

Happy Go Lucky: Was glad to see you again in the Corner page. Your pen name reminds me of the following lines which I have always tried to follow:

"So let the wide world wag as it will, I'll be gay and happy still."

Potlatch: We were glad to see your letter in the Corner the past month. You have our sympathy in all the trials you have passed through for many months. We all have to part with our dear friends.

Lilac Lady: I am still guessing and I think I am right but sometimes it is best to keep mum. I try to give all the Corner people the compliments they surely deserve

Cady: You are right, the sunset route of the Southern Pacific from Los Angeles to San Francisco is fine on a daylight ride, as the train runs one hundred miles near the blue Pacific ocean and the salt breeze in the car window makes one think of a shore dinner. In a number of places the sea lions can be seen playing on the rocks near the shore.

Must ring off and make room for others.

RURAL DELIVERY, (Nov. 8.)

KINDNESS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Kindness is the heartease of the heart. Don't be too quick to see faults in other people, correct your own faults, and you will find little time for criticising those around you. Better seem to be a neglectful friend than an unkind one. Keep your friendship unimpaired and let some one else pick the flaws. If it is necessary for you to assume this unpleasant duty, ask God to show you the best way to do it and let it be done with a sense of delicacy and in a manner so gentle and courteous that your friend may be neither hurt nor offended. The character most closely resembling Christ is the one that rules by kindness. About the most disagreeable people on the face of the globe are those who make the assertion, "I always speak my mind." Such people take unwarranted liberties with your faults, criticise your actions dictate to you regarding family and business affairs and feel themselves privileged to offer any suggestions they may deem necessary, simply because they have formed the disagreeable habit of "speaking their mind." There is always a sting in their words and many a sensitive heart is wounded by their unkind remarks, in the course of a day. They think their motives are right. Perhaps they are—but they usually do more harm than good no matter what their intentions are. How much more do we love the friend who speaks to us tenderly and gently of a fault, who ventures to suggest not because he or she is "plain spoken" and fancies being privileged to do so for our good, but approaches us through the simple words "because you are my friend." The liberty of a true friend is very different indeed from that of one who apologizes for hurting one's feelings to gratify a desire to be plain spoken. Seek truth at all times; do not grovel with false things of the world. Truth leads upward, untruth downward. Truth holds kinship with God, untruth belongs to the evil one. Truth is open as the day and in its presence is light and joy while falsity reigns in darkness and dishonesty. Battle against error and wrong. Be not turned aside, keep fast hold of the hand of truth. Why is it that the hired help should be a slave for farmers working from two o'clock in the morning till late at night? Driving working people and pinching with wages they try to get every dollar out of them they can, what are they going to do with their millions of dollars? Give it to laughing stock? Divide your money as a Christian, help the orphan, the poor widow, the sick people and the starving people. Then you will get your reward. Don't heap it up to get moldy. Paul said that thou will be condemned if you think you can enter the kingdom of heaven with your money.

Thirty years ago a poor man had to work for 75 cents a day and starve by it. Those times are gone by. Millionaires years ago would pay a poor girl only $3 a week and pinch with their meals. Nowadays girls are wise. The employers always complain they cannot get any help. Use your working people right an old saying is, let me live and I will let you live. Where are those people now? In their graves.

PAULA.

CREOLE GREEN CORN

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: I will say present in answer to my name and am glad my name was on the roll so I can respond.

Zany: I don't know when or where you were cook at that picnic but I am sure it wasn't at the time we went for the water lilies. I mistrust that the rifle in your hands when it was aimed at the frogs, for unless my memory is treacherous you could shoot some yourself. Did you wear a hat to that picnic or were you obliged to go bareheaded?

Where were the Putnam sisters? Not one did I see at Aifara's and Tuny Ann's picnic. You don't know what you missed in not being there. I am sure we all had a jolly good time, and all of us thank our hostesses from the bottom of our hearts for giving us so much enjoyment. Even the weather man tried to outdo himself.

Rosalind: I tried your brown bread and like it very much. Have some crumbs soaking now to make some tomorrow.

Thank you Daisy Dean for your cook's recipe. I tried them but mine were the kind that had to go down. However am going to try them again.

I think when Caro selected her name, conciously or unconciously, she was thinking of the song her mother used to sing to us, Oh busy Caro, wife of Waro, come, come away." Can any of the sisters supply the rest of it? That is all I can remember.

Lilac Lady: You want to try some of Aunty No. 1's recipe for citron to put in cake. I can assure you it is O. K.

I wonder if any of you ever fix creole green corn. Cut corn from six ears and put in frying pan with one tablespoon olive oil. (I use butter or pork fat.) Cook for 10 or 12 minutes, add 1 small chopped onion and 2 sweet peppers, chopped, and then 2 ripe tomatoes chopped. 1-2 teaspoon salt, dash red pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar; cook for five minutes and serve. I like it very much myself and so think everyone else will.

Best wishes for the Corner and thanks to the editor for giving us the space and also to Alfara and Tuny Ann for our good time in North Windham.

RESPONDING TO THE CALL

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I saw my name on the roll call some time ago and I think I had better get busy. It is some time since I wrote. I have been quite busy.

I have attended only one picnic this summer. I have been away and have been doing quite a little preserving.

I spent some time at camp meeting. I missed Married and Happy's smiles.

Strawberry: Didn't we have a fine time at Bumble Bee's picnic? We had a fine dinner.

Queen Elizabeth: Many thanks for taking me up to B. B.'s picnic.

Verba: What has become of you? I miss you very much.

As this is a roll call letter I will answer with these few lines:

O Lord, renew our spirits and draw our hearts unto Thyself that our work many not be to us a burden, but a delight and give us such a mighty love to Thee as many sweeten all our obedience. Oh, let us not serve Thee with the spirit of bondage as slaves, but with the cheerfulness and gladness of children. Delight ourselves in Thee and rejoice in Thy work.

With love and prosperity to all of the sisters. I remain

OLEANDER.

A BUSY FALL

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Corner: They say one should never start a letter with an apology but I don't like rules so will forget and apologize. I was so very much pleased when I saw my name among the prize winners I wanted to sit right down (over a month ago) and write a "thank you." I didn't and though I've thought of it many times I was where I couldn't write or else thought I was too busy. Anyway I was thankful, pleased and as puffed up as I ever am when I find I have brought in an extra dollar.

It has been a very busy fall as usual. I think each year perhaps the next won't be so bad but it always is. This year besides the canning I have a boarder and our new ell isn't finished yet and my biggest little Don't Worry had to have an attack of appendicitis to help us along. She is much better now and safe from the operating table if we are careful.

I thank all of you who remembered my birthday. I always like to know someone is thinking kind thoughts of me. Try this;

Chili Con Corne: 1 pint dried lima beans or kidney beans soaked overnight, 2 cups beef, chopped, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup suet forced through food chopper, 1 red pepper cut in strips, 1-2 onion, sliced, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon mustard, 1 tablespoon vinegar, tomatoes to cover. Arrange ingredients in layers and bake slowly 3 or 4 hours.

DON'T WORRY.

A VISIT AT WATKINS GLEN

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I will try and do my best to help keep up the Corner. It seems as if with so many members we ought to keep the page full and running over so let us all try to do our best and write a few lines quite often.

I want to speak a few words in regard to my vacation of a few weeks ago. There was one place in particular that I was very much impressed with and that was Watkins Glen. I think of all the different places that took the lead. The scenery was wonderful and I want to describe the place so if anyone is ever anywhere near it they certainly ought to go and see for themselves and I think they would agree with me that it is more wonderful than Niagara Falls. While that is a great sight this place, Watkins Glen is situated near the head of Seneca Lake known far and wide as the gem of all the finger lakes of New York state in the outskirts of the village of Watkins and near the steamboat landing and station of the Northern Central railroad crossed at a dizzy elevation by the Pennsylvania division of the New York Central and Hudson R. R. Near the Glen route trolley from Watkins to Elmira the park comprises in its boundaries over 100 acres, its general course running in a narrow strip from east to west about two miles and the total ascent to the summit about 700 feet above the level of Seneca lake. The longest stairway in the glen has 47 steps. Anyone wants to take a lot of time in reaching the top but it well pays you for the trouble. There are beautiful sights all the way. I never will forget the beautiful scenery I saw.

Primrose: I went to the fair and had a very good time and I looked for you all day. I saw you once or twice. You are right I don't like thunder storms but I would like for someone to call a meeting for Club No. 4. Think I would try and attend. I am feeling much better than I was and thankful to say it. What lovely days we are having! Hope they will last. Am busy housecleaning and canning. With four men to cook for most of the time it keeps anyone pretty busy. Glad to see a letter from Primrose and hope that Grandma Grey and others will write a line soon.

Where is Free Air? Has she blown away? Let us work with a will for time gives its fullest measure to the workers who endure.

With the best of luck for the Corner.

RURAL AUNTY

UNUSUAL RECIPES

Dear Corner Writers: Perhaps you will like these unusual recipes:

Dropped Doughnuts: 1 egg, 1 cut sugar, 1 cup milk, 3 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon nutmeg. Hold teaspoon of batter close to hot fat and the doughnuts will come up in round balls. Make very small and be sure the fat is not too hot. Dip teaspoon in water or milk before measuring out the batter.

Prune Custard Pie: Line a deep pie tin with pastry, cover the bottom with pitted sweetened prunes. Beat three eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1-2 cups scalded milk, pour over and cook until custard is firm.

When you don't care to use three eggs, put prunes and milk in double boiler, then stir up three tablespoons flour (scant) 1-2 cup sugar, 1 egg yolk, 1 teaspoon vanilla and cook until thick. Make crust and bake on bottom of pan. Then fill with the prune custard which is cooked. Whip up the beaten white of the egg with with 1 tablespoon sugar.

A Good Bread: One yeast cake cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups each of milk and water, mix soft let rise over night. Next morning add 1-2 cup shortening, 1 teaspoon carroway seeds, 2 cups raisins, add flour to mix stiff; let rise again, then cut in loaves; let rise again and bake 3-4 of an hour. This is very nice and not as much trouble as it seems.

Lemon Pie: I have tried different lemon pie recipes but I think this is the best. Bake a rich crust. (I prick it all over before baking and I bake it on the bottom of the pie tin) put 2 cups of milk in the double boiler then take three tablespoons of flour 1 cup of sugar, 2 eggs, speck of salt, grated rind of one lemon and juice of 1 1-2 lemons.

Meringue: Put the whites of two eggs in a bowl, add 1 teaspoon of the lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon of baking powder. Beat all together with an egg beater, add 1-2 teaspoon cornstarch, 1-2 small cup sugar place on pie, bake in oven hot enough to brown in 8 minutes

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Editor and Friends: As I have been to several meetings, and find them to be social as the Corner is called, and have had such a good time I would like to join. I shall not be able to attend many meetings this winter but hope to be able to join you all in the spring. As Rose Lee and so many others say I look so pale and delicate. I would like for my pen name

UNCLE JOHN AND THE GAME

I consider myself a law-abiding citizen but I must confess I do not like the game laws nohow. I will tell you why. I had a nice field of beans once and so did the deer. The law says if you see a deer destroying your crop you may shoot him with a shot gun; but after trying all summer to get near enough to those deer to shoot them with a shot gun I decided I would have had better luck if I had used a spit ball or a sling shot.

Then one cold day last winter I saw a skunk in the hen yard but the law was on skunks so I could not kill him. I thought I would go out and drive him away so he wouldn't get Sarah's chickens. I took a great long pole and started up there. The skunk heard me coming and turned around and faced me so I stopped and tried to reason with him. I said "No be a nice little skunky and go away from here. Shoo!

I flattered myself I was very convincing for he turned and started to amble away in a very leisurely manner. But to make sure he left I ambled along too. We went a little way and skunky stopped so I stopped behind a tree. Then he ambled along and I did too. Once again he stopped and I pretended I was admiring the scenery. Then once again he ambled along and I dittoed. He stopped again and I played copy cat. Then once again he ambled along and I dittoed. Then skunky dittoed and I dittoed. But by that time skunky was tired of playing hide and seek with me and told me so in a very skunky manner so I decided to leave

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

REACTION IN STOCK PRICES.

New York, Oct. 10.—Stock prices reacted sharply in today's market, ignoring such favorable trade news as an increase of nearly 185,000 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, publication of record-breaking car loadings statistics for the week ended Sept. 27 and the conclusion of negotiations of the German loan.

Selling pressure originated with bear traders, who apparently acted on the theory that all the good news in sight was out. Profit-taking over the holiday and liquidation inspired by political uncertainties also were regarded by some traders as factors in the decline.

United States Steel common closed a point lower at 107 after having sold as high as 108 3-4. American Can was off 2 1-4 at 129 5-8, or nearly four points below its early high. Baldwin lost 1 5-8 at 119 7-8 which was 2 1-2 points under the day's maximum. Further liquidation in General Electric sent that stock down to 243 3-4, or nearly 40 points below the year's high established early in August.

Mack Motors broke seven points to 148 and losses of 3 to 4 1-2 points took place in United States Cast Iron Pipe, Woolworth, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, "Nickel Plate," Rutland preferred, Railway Steel Spring and Worthington Pump.

Nearly 100 issues sold off one to two points, some of the most popular being American Locomotive, American Sugar Refining, Colorado Fuel, North American, Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron, Studebaker, Allis Chalmers, American Ice, American Tobacco, Crucible Steel, Davison Chemical, Maxwell "A," National Biscuit, Pullman, Tobacco Products and General Motors, the last named at a new low.

The decline in rails was not as pronounced as the reaction in the industrials, although net losses of a point or more were recorded by such prominent issues as Atchison, Union Pacific, Norfolk & Western, Southern Pacific, Frisco issues, "Katy" preferred and Wabash Preferred "A."

American Water Works fluctuated within a range of four points, closing at 109 for a net gain of 1 3-4. Utah Copper and Indian Motorcycle, up 1 and 2 points respectively, were among the relatively few issues to show net gains on the day.

Foreign exchanges responded favorably to the signing of the German loan agreement. Demand sterling advanced more than a cent to above $4.40 and French francs climbed more than 6 points to around 5.20 cents. Japanese yen established a new low record for the year at 37 7-8 cents. South American exchanges lost ground on profit taking.

Call money held steady at 3 1-2 per cent. The time money market was quiet with no change in rates. Commercial paper displayed a somewhat firmer tone.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 10.—A sharp break in the Warner Sugar issues and renewed weakness of the St. Pauls were the outstanding incidents in today's bond trading on the New York stock exchange. Announcement of the signing of the German loan agreement was followed by heavy advance orders, construed by members of the offering syndicate as an indication that the American portion of the loan will be readily disposed of.

Prompt over-subscription was reported for the $12,000,000 issue of ten year 6 per cent convertible notes of the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Company. This brought the total bonds offered this week to above $100,000,000, practically all the major offerings being oversubscribed.

There was nothing new to account for the selling of the St. Pauls, which lost one to 2 1-2 points. Most of the other active railroad liens showed only fractional changes.

Dissolution of the syndicate, which offered the 5 1-2 per cent bonds of Armour & Co. of Delaware, was followed by a two point drop in that issue. Warner Sugar 7s and refunding 7s touched new lows at 88 and 81, respectively, the extreme break of the former being nearly 12 points, on reports that the company was having difficulty in arranging its fiscal affairs. Other sugar company mortgages reacted in sympathy, losses of a point or so being recorded by American Sugar Refining 6s, Estern Cuba Refining 7 1-2s and Manati 7 1-2s.

Foreign bonds showed only nominal changes, Japanese issues sagging on the establishment of a new low record for yen exchange. Liberty issues were unchanged to 3 points lower. U. S. treasury 4 1-4s dvanced slightly.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 10.—Unexplained heavy selling of Prairie Oil & Gas, which broke eight points to 194, featuring today's irregular curb market. The oils, which had displayed a firm tone in the early dealing, turned heavy but the net losses were held to fractions.

Trading was relatively light in volume, due to the coming holiday and the apparent disposition of traders to await further indications of the trend of business and the drift of political sentiment before extending their commitments. Public participation was unusually light.

Radio shares, as a group, did better than most of the others. Dubilier, Ware and Jones touching new high levels on the current movement. Lehigh Valley Coal certificates and Duz two of the most active industrials, yielded fractionally. Gillette Safety Razor dropped three points on a few odd lot sales.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—All grain underwent sharp setbacks in price today, especially during the last hour hour. The fact that the official estimates of the 1924 yield of wheat in the United States had been increased 18,000,000 bushels as compared with a month ago had a notable depressing effect which extended to the entire list of cereals. Wheat closing prices were heavy, 2 5-8 to 4 1-2c net lower, December 145 3-8 to 145 1-2 and May 149 3-4 to 150, with corn 1 1-8 to 1 7-8 cents down. Oats 1 to 2 5-8c off, and provisions varying from 10 cents to a rise of 35 cents.

Pronounced weakness was apparent in the wheat market right at the outset. Rallies which ensued failed to last. And in the final thirty minutes the downward swing of prices showed something of a headlong character. December and May finishing at virtually the day's bottom figures. A big break in quotations at Winnipeg, together with uncertainty regarding the Canadian government crop estimates this afternoon, had much to do with emphasize in bearish sentiment here. An advance in sterling exchange counted also as a discouragement to speculative buyers, and so likewise did assertions that messages from Germany were asking the cancellation of contracts for October shipment both of wheat and rye.

Notwithstanding that the government crop report on corn was construed as bullish, the corn market as well as oats acted in sympathy with wheat. The prevailing fine weather had some tendency also to undermine confidence among the traders who otherwise would have been inclined to purchase corn. Shipping demand for corn was reported as larger than has been the rule of late.

In the provision market, commission house buying of lard counterbalanced most of the influence of grain weakness.

It frequently happens that a man's meanness isn't noticed until after he suddenly acquires a little money.

IT'S THE CUT OF YOUR CLOTHES THAT COUNTS

GREATER VALUE

A Manhattan Suit for forty-five dollars! A Manhattan Suit, with the same excellence of cut that has made the reputation of these clothes, the same choice of splendid fabrics. It's a startling value. It is, we believe, the greatest clothing value ever offered.

MANHATTAN SUITS
$30.00 to $60.00

SHIRTS
There's a lot of satisfaction in having shirts that fit comfortably and come back from the laundry with their colors bright as new. Our Shirts are that sort.
$2.00 to $5.00

UNDERWEAR
COMFORT in underwear is important enough to receive special attention. You get a full measure of it in our underwear.
It's shaped to fit every curve of the body; crotch stays closed. Made in all weights, in all sleeve and leg lengths.
$1.00 to $5.00

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

The Pigeons

"Goodness gracious meebus!" exclaimed Uncle Lucky, who was reading about the Bunnybridge Bugle when we ended yesterday's story, you remember,—Danny Fox and his robber friends are having a hard time. Who says there isn't justice in this good old world. Just listen to this, and with a smile at Little Miss Mousie, he again put on his spectacles on his nose and scratched his ear with his front paw toes:

BOBBIE REDVEST HAS A NEW VEST
HENNY JENNY FINDS A PENNY
DOCTOR QUACK HAS A COME BACK.

"Yes, bad people have bad luck, and good people have good luck, sooner or later, although sometimes it seems never and never," added the dear old gentleman rabbit, taking off his spectacles to wipe his left eye with his blue silk polkadot handkerchief.

"There it's finished," exclaimed Little Miss Mousie, as she rolled Uncle Lucky's sock into a little round ball and stuck the darning needle into the strawberry cushion. "Now I must run out to the garden for lettuce leaves."

"Guess I'll hop out to see the pigeons," thought Uncle Lucky, and off he went, leaving Billy Breeze to rumple the Bunnybridge Bugle. But that mischievous little wond didn't blow it off the porch. No, indeedy. He knew Uncle Lucky would want to read some more after supper.

Just over the big barn door were four holes under which was fastened a shelf for the pigeons to stand upon. Hopping into the barn, the kind old gentleman rabbit filled his pockets with corn, and stepping outside, softly called:

"Come, little pigeons, fly down to the ground,
See what a nice supper for you I have found.
Come, eat a nice supper ere going to bed."

"Coo-oo-oo!" cried the pretty birds, and down they fluttered in their beautiful feather coats, one friendly little fellow sitting on the dear old gentleman rabbit's grovepine hat. Strutting around on the brim, he peeked over into Uncle Lucky's kind face.

"There are twelve little pigeons upstairs in the barn," he cooed. "Isn't that wonderful?"

"Well, I guess yes," answered the old gentleman bunny. "Do you need more room. Maybe I'll have to build another bird bungalow. Some people fasten a little house on the top of a pole. Would you like that?"

"It would come in very handy," answered the pretty pigeon. "We'll soon be crowded."

"Tomorrow the Old Red Rooster and I will build it," promised the kind old bunny uncle, emptying the last kernel out of his coattail pocket. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Don't try to hide skin trouble—
Get rid of it!
NO amount of cosmetics can conceal an ugly skin. They only fill in the pores and make the condition worse. Resinol Soap cleanses the pores, giving them a chance to breathe and throw off clogging impurities—the first step in overcoming skin defects.
A touch of Resinol Ointment for blotches and inflamed spots, relieves the soreness and reduces the angry look. The soothing, healing medication in the Resinol products makes it so easy to get rid of excessive oiliness, blackheads, blotches, redness, etc., why waste time trying to hide them.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 10th day of October, A. D. 1924.
Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Fanne Geisthardt of Lincoln, Nebraska, appeared in Court by counsel and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be an exemplified copy of the will of said deceased, together with a copy of the record and proceedings admitting same to probate, in a court of competent jurisdiction, to wit: in the County Court of Lancaster County, Nebraska, be admitted to probate, and that ancillary letters testamentary thereon be granted.
Whereupon, It Is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 17th day of October, A. D. 1924, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, and by depositing in the postoffice at Norwich, Conn., a true copy of said notice, postage paid, by registered letter, directed to "State Tax Commissioner, Hartford, Conn.," respectively, each at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

State of Connecticut, County of New London, Sept. 8, A. D. 1924.
Upon the complaint of the said plaintiffs, claiming, for the reasons therein set forth, a foreclosure and the possession of certain mortgaged premises, now pending, returnable before this Court on the first Tuesday of September, 1924.
It appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that of the said defendants Michael Legumsky is absent from this State—gone to parts unknown.
It is therefore ordered that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given said defendant by publishing this order in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Conn., two days successively, commencing on or before the 16th day of October, A. D. 1924.
By order of Court.
J. FRANK COREY,
Asst. Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas for New London County.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Lebanon, within and for the District of Lebanon, on the 9th day of October, A. D. 1924.
Present—GEORGE E. BRIGGS, Judge.
Estate of Morris Silverstein, late of Lebanon, in said District, deceased.
The Administratrix exhibited her administration account with said estate to the Court for allowance; it is therefore Ordered, That the 18th day of October, A. D. 1924, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate Court Room in Lebanon, in said District, be, and the same is, appointed for hearing the same, and the said Administratrix is directed to give notice thereof by publishing this order once in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District, and by posting a copy hereof on the public signpost in said Lebanon, nearest where said deceased last dwelt, at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and make return to the Court.

TAFTVILLE

Miss Helen C. Vigue of Willimantic is spending the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Axel G. Anderson of North Third avenue.

Mrs. Earle M. Wood of North Third avenue has been spending a short time this week in Hartford.

Miss Dorothy Wood of Willimantic is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wood and family of Second avenue for the week end.

William Smith of North B street, Baltic, town committeeman from the 19th district, attended the senatorial convention Friday in Norwich as a delegate.

Several cases of ivy poisoning are reported in town.

ATTORNEY DANIEL L. BROWN BRINGS BIG VIRGINIA SUIT

There is considerable interest locally in a suit filed this week in Richmond, Va., by the Norwich Water Power Co. against the Southern Railway Co. The Norwich Water Power Co. a preferred stockholder of the Southern Railway Co. suing for itself and all the other preferred stockholders asks payment of about $22,000 in dividends to the preferred stockholders before any further payments of dividends are made to the common stockholders. This sum amounts to about $2½ per share on the preferred stock outstanding.

It is understood that in some way a part of the preferred dividends have been retained, or that these dividends instead of being paid out to the preferred shareholders, were retained in the company's treasury for working capital and other purposes. Recently dividends were manipulated on the common stock, which the preferred shareholders claim shows that the company no longer has need of the moneys withheld from them and they ask that dividends on the preferred stock be continued until all of the $22,000,000 previously earned and withheld from them, is paid over to them.

The Attorneys for the plaintiff are Hale and Dorr of Boston, of which Daniel L. Brown of Norwich is a member. Mr. Brown was in charge of the case, his recent illness which compelled him to undergo an operation in Boston excepted. His firm represents the estate of the late Lord Astor of The Southern Railway stockholders. Mr. Brown's many local friends are pleased to learn that he is to arrange to appear in their behalf before the Norwich Water Power Co. and certain jurisdictional questions of the Langhorne Estate and Lady Astor is involved, was also learned.

The case will involve the largest amount of any suit ever tried in Virginia courts and is being followed with interest in Wall street.

WILL MAKE GOOD REPORTS TO CONVENTION

Mercier assembly will leave to attend the annual convention of Catholic Ladies of Columbia in Danielsville today (Saturday) to make favorable reports to the state for the local assembly of this city.

Plans for the banquet at the Wauregan Hotel to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the organization of Mercier assembly are well under way and the committee in charge anticipates a very pleasing affair for all. The banquet is to be followed by an invitation dance to which gentlemen friends of the members are to be invited.

Owing to the amount of important business on hand it will be necessary to hold a special meeting for next Tuesday evening.

New members are to be initiated at the regular meeting night October 21st. This meeting will also be a social one in charge of Miss Helena Leahy.

TWO SENATORIAL CONVENTIONS NAME CANDIDATES BY ACCLAMATION

Two state senatorial district conventions, the 19th and the 20th, were held in the town hall here Friday and in each the candidate before the convention was nominated by acclamation.

The convention of the 20th district which comprises the towns of Bozrah, Colchester, East Lyme, Franklin, Griswold, Lyme, Lebanon, Lisbon, Montville, North Stonington, Old Lyme, Salem, Sprague, Stonington, Voluntown and Waterford, was called to order at 12.10 by Chairman George H. Bradford of Montville and John N. Lewis of Voluntown was named permanent chairman, with Miss Josephine Dickinson of Mystic secretary.

The name of Frederick A. Beckwith, who is first selectman of the town of East Lyme, was presented for the nomination by Charles W. Tubbs of the same town and he was at once elected. Mr. Beckwith was notified of his nomination by a committee consisting of Mr. Tubbs and Mrs. Ambrose Sullivan who brought him before the convention, where he thanked the delegates for the honor which they had conferred upon him. He invited the delegates to be his guests at dinner at the Wauregan house which they accepted and the convention adjourned.

Nineteenth District.

The convention of the nineteenth district was called to order at 1.30 by Chairman Wallace S. Allis of this city. The delegates present represented the three towns which make up the district, Norwich, Preston and Ledyard.

The name of Lee Roy Robbins of this city, prosecuting attorney in the city court, was presented to the convention for its nomination by Walter M. Buckingham of Ledyard. When Mr. Robbins had been unanimously nominated he was escorted into the hall by a committee consisting of Frank B. Lathrop of Norwich, Herbert Richardson of Ledyard and Edward E. Lester of Preston. The candidate stated that he felt greatly honored to be tendered the nomination that had been given him and he invited the delegates to dinner at the Terminal.

The concluding business of the convention was to re-elect the senatorial committee consisting of Wallace S. Allis, Norwich; Edward Lester, Ledyard, and P. O. Yerrington, Preston, and to empower the committee to fill any vacancy that might occur.

PENALTY FOR FIRES ON STATE HIGHWAYS

To prevent damage to the surface of public highways and possible injury to autoists, the state police department, at the request of the state highway commission, has been instructed to curb the practice of burning leaves or rubbish on or adjoining state roads. This has been made necessary at this season of the year as a result of several flagrant cases which have been brought to the attention of the department.

The highway department points out that inasmuch as many roads are treated with asphalt, tar, or other substances which contain volatile oils, easily ignited, a serious menace exists and a needless waste follows when the roadway is chosen as a place to destroy the great piles of dry leaves.

Even though the fires are started in the gutters the heat from them is sufficient to draw the oils from the bituminous surface of the highway and cause a greatly increased maintenance expense.

The warning is also aimed at the danger to transportation which lies in the presence on a highway of the remains of such a fire in view of the fact that the majority of vehicles passing are driven by gasoline.

A similar warning issued on previous occasions, it is believed did much to prevent damage and undoubtedly saved the state the expense of unnecessary repairs to road surfaces.

The department points out that prosecutions are likely to result from such fires under a statute which provides for penalties for damage to the highways.

Honors at Brown

William F. Storms of this city, who is in the class of 1926 at Brown College, has been awarded preliminary honors.

CONNECTICUT KEEPS RECORD OF DRIVERS

"A man's driving record, extending over his driving period, becomes as valuable to him as the chain of title of his piece of land," says an article on "The Driver's License," read by Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel before the recent safety congress at Louisville, Ky., which has been published for distribution among agencies assisting in the work of reducing traffic hazards. Eleven states require all operators to be licensed, but few motor vehicle administrators keep a file, like Connecticut's showing the record of each driver.

Commissioner Stoeckel's article develops the idea that the mere knowledge that a record of his driving is officially kept makes for greater care in a person's driving. He points out that "a man who can refer to a state department and show by its records, if needed, that he has driven in the traffic of modern times without complaint and without discipline, will certainly be regarded by a court or by a license suspending power with favor. Business interests and his neighbors in general will regard him as a man who has trained himself to an extent where he is safe." Many drivers who have a clean record in the motor vehicle department exercise exceptional care to keep it clean. Those who have marks against their record realize that each additional mark for bad driving will militate against them in case the department contemplates taking disciplinary action against them.

"The suspension or an operator's license ought not to be considered from the standpoint of punishment alone," says the article, "but can be rated as being of educational value as well. In a state where suspensions are freely used, word soon gets about that certain forms of driving are taboo and that a conviction or a justified complaint for an offense of that kind will bring swift action by a state department along the lines of a suspension."

CHARLES BABCOCK IN BIG SOUTH AMERICA WORK

Charles J. Babcock, a graduate of Norwich Free Academy, and of Worcester Polytechnic Institute in the class of 1922, has recently written from Lima, Peru, to Professor A. W. Free, head of the civil engineering department at the Institute. Mr. Babcock, who is in the employ of the Fred T. Ley Company, Inc., has much of interest to tell of his work in South America. The Company has a big hospital job consisting of the erection of thirteen buildings, the whole to be completed by December at an approximate cost of $500,000.

Of another job—the erection of a hotel—Mr. Babcock writes: "In April we landed a hotel job which is the biggest we have had since we have been here. It has a floor area of 44,000 square feet per floor. We started around the 15th of April, and at the present time we have a cellar and three stories built. The structure is of reinforced concrete with steel joints for floor construction. The hotel will be when completed the only hotel in Lima of modern construction. At the present time we have about 700 men working six and a half days a week and eleven hours a day. The building is to be four stories high, and according to our contract must have at least two stories habitable before November 20th. The work is progressing just like a war job, as the government is backing the project and it must be ready for the national holidays in December. The job was given the Ley Company with no warning whatsoever. We started around April 15th to tear down the then existing structure, and the plans for the building were being drawn at the same time. All throughout the work, the job has been progressing faster than the plans could be made, so you can imagine the difficulties that we have had and are having. The building is estimated to cost a little over $1,000,000 gold."

Early in the summer the general manager of the company returned to the United States for a vacation, leaving Mr. Babcock in charge of the construction work. Mr. Babcock further states, "He was away two months, and while he was gone the concrete was poured in two stories, about 3,500 cubic yards of concrete at a cost of about $15 per cubic yard."

"Aside from the hotel and hospital jobs," Mr. Babcock continues, "we have a five story office and apartment building that will be completed in December. At present we have an office force of four architects, two draftsmen, and an engineer."

Mr. Babcock is living in an apartment house built by the Ley Company for the Archbishop.

WAITING LIST OF 400 AT MANSFIELD STATE SCHOOL

Tomorrow (Sunday) at 3 p. m., there will be open house for the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women at the headquarters of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, 244 Main street, Hartford. Miss Lillian Gray, Social Service Department of the Mansfield State Training School and Hospital for the Feeble-minded, is to speak on the "Problem of the Feeble-minded in Connecticut." Miss Gray has been engaged in this work for several years and is thoroughly acquainted with her subject. At present there are about 400 names on the waiting list for admission to the institution at Mansfield. Need of more adequate care for the feeble-minded is one of the important matters which will come before the General Assembly for consideration at its next session.

What a brilliant lot we should be if every man was half as smart as he thinks he is!

THIEF MUST RESTORE WHAT HE STEALS, SAYS PRIEST

The large congregation assembled for the women's mission at St. Patrick's church at 8 o'clock Friday morning had the privilege of hearing the superior of the three Holy Ghost Fathers, Rev. R. A. Hartnett, in a practical sermon on the Seventh and Eighth Commandments. Regarding the former "Thou shalt not steal," the missionary impressed upon his hearers the fact that it is not enough to be sorry, if we have ever taken that which was not ours; we are obliged to restore ill-gotten goods, in so far as is in our power.

Father Harnett considered the various ways of stealing—from actual shop-lifting in an open way to the dishonesty which leads a person to go from store to store, running up bills which he is unable, or unwilling to pay. "Pay your bills," he admonished his hearers, with emphasis. He spoke also of the sins against the Seventh Commandment in the line of damaging or injuring the property of another. If this should be done involuntarily it would not be wrong, since accident is no sin. Whatever the circumstances, the Catholic church teaches that restoration, reparation, is obligatory—in full at once, if possible, if not, as soon as one is able. In case there appears no way of making reparation, one must still have the will to restore, hoping for God's aid in paying in full in the future.

Regarding the Eighth Commandment, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor," the preacher took up the two grave sins of detraction—telling faults that are true—and calumny, telling untruths about another to blacken his character. It is forbidden to tell of another even that which we know is true, in case is is unknown to any but ourselves, or to recall faults forgotten. Calumny, the preacher declared, is the meanest of sins, making another undervalued by his acquaintances and the world, and Father Harnett had a sharp rebuke for the gossip and the tale-bearer of exaggerated language and uncharitable tongue. To all he gave the advice, "The Golden Rule, tell of others only what we would want told about ourselves."

Father O'Brien assisted Rev. Myles P. Galvin in giving Holy Communion to the hundreds who went to the altar at this mass.

The climax of the women's week of the mission comes today (Saturday) and Sunday. This morning there will be the usual Masses at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock and tonight there will be services as usual. Sunday afternoon, will be held the final exercises, when the women who have been divided for three masses daily will unite at a big service for a sermon on Perseverance, the solemn renewal of baptismal vows and the reception of the Papal blessing, bestowed by one of the missionary Fathers. The week's mission for the men begins Sunday evening.

This morning, also, the children will end their mission, with the reception of Holy Communion.

SACHEM CHAPTER PLANS ITS 21ST ANNIVERSARY

Sachem Chapter No. 57, Order Eastern Star, held its regular business meeting this week at the Masonic Temple. Several candidates were initiated and an invitation was received from Rebecca Chapter of Moosup to attend an entertainment and ball to be given in the community House, Plainfield, October 24th. Action was taken on the death of a member, Mrs. Angeline Faith Wilson.

The chapter also received an invitation from the New London Chapter to be their guests November 7th. The next meeting of Sachem Chapter will be held October 22nd, at which the 21st anniversary of the chapter will be celebrated. Past matrons and past patrons of the chapter and also from chapters in Moosup, Willimantic, Putnam, Danielson and Jewett City will be present, it is expected.

A meeting of the sewing circle of the chapter will be held with Mrs. Byron Evans October 21st.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, had Steiner hall filled Wednesday evening for its regular meeting when the first and second degrees were conferred on a class of twelve candidates. The work was done without the tableaux but the drill team presented a number of new figures that were very pretty. There were three visitors from the Bozrah grange.

Worthy master Arthur W. Avery presided at the business meeting at which it was voted to accept the invitation to participate in the armistice day parade in the dedication of the World war memorial.

Ham sandwiches, doughnuts, cheese and coffee were served by the new feast committee for the quarter.

At the next meeting the third and fourth degrees are to be conferred. Supper is to be served at 6:30 before the degree work.

MOOSEHEART LEGION.

The regular meeting of the Women of Mooseheart Legion was held Thursday evening at Moose Home with Senior Regent Sister Anna Crowe presiding. There was a good attendance and routine business was transacted. The lodge voted to accept the invitation to take part in the Armistic Day parade and a committee was appointed to arrange for this event. Plans were also made for a whist to be given during this month at the Buckingham Memorial. The next meeting of the lodge is to be held on Thursday, Oct. 23.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

Division No. 54 had a large attendance at its last regular meeting in A. O. H. hall, when the regular reports were made and accepted and four propositions for membership were received. The division voted to have a dance on Oct. 30 and Mrs. Charles O'Neil was made general chairman, assisted by Miss Margaret Caples, Mrs. Alice Shea, Mrs. Annie Connelly, Miss Barbara Sullivan, Mrs. Julia Breen, Miss Catherine Coughlin. The next meeting of the division will be held on Oct. 15.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

State Deputy William J. Mulligan of the Knights of Columbus is in receipt of a silver medal, struck by direction of the Pope in commemoration of the dedication of St. Peter's oratory.

JUNIOR MECHANICS.

Buckingham Council, No. 14, held its regular weekly meeting in Buckingham Memorial Wednesday night with Councilor E. Leseman presiding.

There was a good attendance and all were pleased to hear that a dispensation in the membership fee had been received from the national council. The dispensation is to extend to July 1, 1925. Meanwhile a special effort is to be made to boost the order in Norwich.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS.

The regular meeting of Sedgwick's Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, was held Friday afternoon at Buckingham Memorial with the president, Mrs. Clara P. Burke, in the chair. The reports of the secretary and treasurer and the quarterly report of the auditing committee were read and accepted. National Orders No. 1 was also read.

The corps was inspected during the meeting by Mrs. Martha Eldredge of Williams Corps, No. 42, of Mystic, who was escorted into the hall by the conductor. Following the inspection Mrs. Eldredge complimented the corps on its floor work, also for the manner in which the business records were kept. Mrs. Carrie Chapman of Mystic, guest for the day, also spoke briefly.

One application for membership was received and the executive committee gave a good report of the rummage sale held recently. It was also voted to hold a whist on the 22d of October.

Left Friedrihshafen, Germany, at 6:30 Sunday Morning—With Favorable Weather and Motors Working Well It is Expected the Flight to New York Will Be Made in Slightly Less Than Sixty Hours.

Berlin, Oct. 12 (By the A. P.)—The big dirigible ZR-3, which left Friedrichshafen at 6:30 o'clock this morning for Lakehurst, N. J., at 4 o'clock this afternoon was over the Bay of Biscay, near Bordeaux, France.

The motors and wireless of the airship were functioning perfectly. Dr. Hugo Eckner, commander of the airship, decided to take the southern route from Bordeaux by way of the Azores and Bermuda, which is considerably shorter than the route via Spain.

With favorable weather and the motors working well Dr. Eckner expects to cover the distance of 6,500 kilometres (about 4039 miles) from the mouth of the Gironde river at Bordeaux to New York in slightly less than 60 hours, arriving in Lakehurst late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

The distance flown from Fredrichshafen to the Gironde estuary, estimated at 950 kilometres (about 590 miles) was covered by the airship in about eight hours.

Leaving Friedrichshafen at 6.30 o'clock this morning the ZR-3 passed over Lake Constance at 7 o'clock and crossed Switzerland at 8.10 o'clock. A dense fog prevented people on the ground from getting a full view of the dirigible.

After cruising along the Swiss frontier the dirigible passed over Belfort, France, at 8.42 o'clock. At 3.38 o'clock the air cruiser crossed the Loire river and pointed her nose direct for Bordeaux.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the wireless station here picked up signals saying the ZR-3 had passed Bordeaux and that the airship was passing over the mouth of the Gironde river a short distance to the north of Bordeaux.

Another dispatch from the airship at 4 o'clock said she was cruising over the estuary of the Gironde, where she had arrived a half hour earlier.

When the ZR-3 was turned loose she ascended rapidly to an altitude of several hundred feet and then passed over Fredrichshafen. The entire population turned out to listen for the last time to the hum of the motors which had been one of the familiar sounds of the town for months, even prior to the trial flights as all the engines were tested for week after week, their roar sometimes keeping the residents of the town awake at night.

Berlin, Oct. 12 (By the A. P.)—At 8 o'clock tonight the German wireless stations were out of touch with the ZR-3. The following wireless message from Dr. Eckener was received by the Frankfort Gazette:

"Reached the west coast of France after a very pleasant and uniformly good flight through central France. Here at the mouth of the Gironde we take leave of Europe. We are traveling at an average speed of 65 miles an hour, with a south wind measuring 6 or 7 metres per second. The ship's motors are in excellent working order and everybody is in the best of spirits."

Sighted Off Spanish Coast.

Berlin, Oct. 12 (By the A. P.)—The ZR-3 was sighted off the Spanish coast shortly after 8 o'clock tonight, and at 9.36 passed Cape Ortegal, on the Bay of Biscay, and then headed for the open Atlantis.

Before leaving the Bay of Biscay the dirigible's officers and crew sent last offshore greetings to their families and friends at Fredrichshafen. Dr. Eckener reports favorable winds and auspicious weather generally.

DEAD CHINESE MAY HAVE BEEN VICTIM OF TONG WAR

South Arlington N. J., Oct. 13.—The finding of a body of a Chinese along the Belleville turnpike near here shortly after 7 o'clock this morning by a milkman, has led Inspector A. C. FRED R. RISTEEN WAS KILLED IN MIDNIGHT FIGHT

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 12—Fred R. Risteen, whose body weighted with cast iron was found in Norwood pond, at North Beverly, eight days ago, was killed in a midnight fight with George M. Plummer, Jr., in the woods, three miles from his home, Mrs. Marion A. Risteen, widow of the dead man, and Plummer, told the police today. Both were arrested last night, charged with murder.

According to the stories of Plummer and Mrs. Risteen, describing the events of the night of September 20, "when they said, Risteen met his death the victim died after striking his head against a stone in the course of a struggle with Plummer. Plummer then stumbled back three miles through the night to the home of Risteen, he told the police, and according to Mrs. Risteen induced her to accompany him to the scene of the fight, took the body to the pond, weighted and dropped it [illegible] water.

FARMER COMMITTED SUICIDE IN STRATFORD

HOW BOSTON PLANS TO CELEBRATE COLUMBUS DAY

Boston, Oct. 12.—Three parades, community exercises and an exhibition of evening parade on the Common will mark Boston's celebration of Columbus Day tomorrow. The annual parade of the Boston police department will be held in the morning. Nearly all of the 1456 officers are war veterans and on this day are permitted to wear the medals and decorations conferred on them for military service.

A little later a parade of many organizations, including the Knights of Columbus and various Latin nationals societies, will march over much the same route. Exercises follow on the common and at sunset regular army and National Guard troops will stand retreat.

EXPRESS SPEED BOAT BURNED AT SOUTHPORT

Southport, Conn., Oct. 12.—The "Pickaninny," a 35-foot express speed boat valued at $10,000 belonging to Witherbee Black of this place, was destroyed by fire late this afternoon and sank to the bottom of the Southport harbor. The fire started from a backfire while Mr. Black's captain was tuning up the motor in preparation for a cruise while the boat was anchored some distance from shore.

The boat was of the low built type of solid mahogany equipped with a 300 horsepower motor. The fire burned for about an hour and a half before the charred remains were slowly pulled beneath the waves and sank to the bottom. The boat was too far out in the water for the fire companies to be of any assistance and the lone man fought the flames with fire extinguishers until the gas tank was ready to explode and then he rowed away to safety.

PROJECT TO RECLAIM ABOUT 400,000 ACRES OF LAND

Washington, Oct. 12.—Six new western reclamation projects embracing more than 400,000 acres have been approved as feasible from an engineering, economic, agricultural and land development standpoint, by investigating committees whose reports were made public today by the interior department. The projects are the Yale and Baker in Oregon, Kittitas in Washington, Owyhee in Oregon and Idaho, Salt Lake basin in Utah, and Spanish Springs in Nevada.

THREE SUSPECTS HELD FOR $30,000 TRAIN ROBBERY

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 12.—Three men, one of whom the police believe to have been the driver of the automobile carrying the bandits who robbed the Indiana-Clearfield train near Colver Saturday morning and, after killing a guard, escaped with $32,000, are being held at Ebensburg in connection with the holdup.

Charles Bailey.

Born in England, Mr. Bailey came to this country when a young man and established a yarn and knitting factory in Oriskany in 1863. Two years later the factory burned and Mr. Bailey came to Little Falls where he has since resided.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Newspapers Barred as Wrappe

Paris, Oct. 12—Traders in the central markets are in revolt against an official ruling that old newspapers no longer may be used for wrapping fruit and vegetables. The authorities have condemned the practice of using newspapers for this purpose because of danger to health. The traders say that any other paper for wrapping purposes will cost them from three to five times more than newspapers.

Women in Germany Pugnacious

Berlin, Oct. 12—The times of the meek and blushing Gretchen have gone. Cases of assault and battery on the part of women are on the increase since the close of the war, according to police reports. Only recently a young Berlin matron, incensed at the supposed overcharging by a taxi driver, settled the dispute by attacking the man and chasing him around the block. When the driver took refuge behind a husky policeman the latter was beaten, too. The policeman used his rubber club, subdued the fury with a few well aimed strokes, and placed the woman under arrest.

ALLEGED THREAT AGAINST NOMINEE O. F. ATWOOD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, Oct. 12.—The Twentieth senatorial district convention was held Saturday at 3 p. m., in the Community House in Plainfield for the purpose of selecting a democratic nominee for state senator.

Valentine Murphy of Willimantic was chosen chairman and John F. Twoomy of Willimantic, secretary.

The secretary then proceeded with the roll call and the following towns were represented: Plainfield, John Govern, Joseph Metivere, Donald Burke, Charles Williams and Louis Gendron: Windham, John McCarthy, E. R. Portelance, John A. Kelly, John S. Sullivan, Mrs. Minnie A. Flynn, Mrs. H. Dion, Mrs. Jeremiah McCarthy; Hampton, Wallace N. Jewett, John J. Murphy; Sterling, Mrs. Lena Fletcher, Mrs. Helen M. Thompson; Canterbury, A. Hale Bennett, John B. Kearns.

The senatorial committee for the next three years will be A. Hale Bennett, Edward R. Portelance and Charles Williams.

There were only two nominations for state senator—James Walker of Plainfield and Oscar F. Atwood of Brooklyn. Mr. Atwood received a majority of five in the ballot and declared the nominee. John, Govern, who nominated Mr. Walker, moved that Mr. Atwood's selection be made unanimous.

There was another surprise brought out by Mr. Govern of this town, when he nominated Mr. Walker. He stated that Walker was threatened with suspension from his present position with the Lawton mills should he be elected state senator. (It seems as though the L. M. C. begrudges a man getting ahead in this town or are afraid that Mr. Walker will promote some progressive legislature in the assembly this year that will benefit the working classes).

The resolutions committee, John A. Kelley, Wallace N. Jewett and Mrs. Lena Fletcher, then convened to formulate the resolutions.

While the resolutions committee was in session there were brief addresses by Edward M. Yeomans, Wallace N. Jewett and John J. Murphy. Mr. Yeomans, member of the state central committee, stated that the democrats will have to work harder in the small towns if they want to carry the coming election. He also stated that the democrats lost the last election because they did not get out their entire vote, as the republican majority in 1922 was 20,000 and the number not voting being 100,000, out of which three-quarters were democrats. Mr. Jewett bitterly scored the highway department of this state.

Resolutions were adopted in which the senatorial convention pledged unswerving support to the great candidate for president, John W. Davis, and candidate for vice president, Charles W. Bryan, "who represent the best that is in public life today." The committee added:

We also go on record as giving our unqualified endorsement to each and every plank adopted in the democratic platform at the national convention.

We most heartily endorse Charles A. Morris, democratic nominee for governor, and pledge our support to him and the entire democratic ticket.

We endorse in the most emphatic manner our candidate for representative in congress, Frank P. Fenton as a man worthy of your best support and who, when elected will be a credit to the Twenty-ninth district.

We also wish to pledge our support to our nominee for State Senator Oscar F. Atwood, and feel he deserves our best support and endorsement.

CHINWANGTAO CAPTURED BY MANCHURIAN FORCES

Darien, Manchuria, Oct. 13.—The Manchurian forces marching on Peking have captured Chinwangtao, a gulf near the Manchurian border of Chihli province, an aerial bombardment assisting the troops, according to an unconfirmed report.

Amplified reports from Shanhaikwan, a town adjacent to Chinwangtao, credit the capture by the Manchurians of Chiumen, the key position to Shanhaikwan, to a so-called "forlorn hope" corps composed of 10 men picked from each regiment.

The first Fentian, Manchurial army, led personally by General Han Lin-Chun, captured a corner of the Chihli fortifications after four hours of assault. Hand grenades were used effectively. Few of the shock troops survived, subterranean mines swallowing whole groups.

FEAR 30,000 MULE DEER MAY DIE OF STARVATION

Washington, Oct. 12.—Imminent danger of extinction from starvation this winter fo the entire herd of 30,000 mule deer now on the Kaibab plateau in Grand Canyon game preserve, northern Arizona, has caused a committee appointed by Secretary Wallace to recommend killing of enough of the herd to prevent death of the remainder. The government has offered to give away the deer and if this does not reduce the herd materially, hunting under proper regulations is suggested. Only about 15,000 deer can be supported on the forage on the area, which is far below normal.

Sir Thomas Lawrence, painter of the Georgian period, once worked thirty-seven hours without intermission.

Yeggman Killed New Britain Policeman

James Skelly, a Veteran, Discovered the Men Attempting to Blow Five Safes.

New Britain, Oct. 12—James Skelly, a veteran member of the New Britain police department, was murdered today when the police discovered yeggmen attempting to blow open five safes in the Davidson and Leventhal department store here. The police are hunting for Gerald Chapman, who recently escaped from Atlanta prison where he was sent following a $2,000,000 mail robbery in New York. Walter J. Sheehan of Springfield, Mass., is under arrest charged with being an accomplice of the murdered.

The attempt to rob the department store and the Fair store next door, was discovered by B. R. F. Johnson, employed by a livery stable in the rear of the department store. Early this morning he heard an explosion in the store and saw men moving about inside the building. He telephoned to Samuel Davidson, who notified the police.

Patrolmen Alfred Atwater, James Skelley and Clarence Lamphier were rushed to the store and entered the building through a rear door. The store office is located on a mesanine floor and as the officers were half way up the stairs to this office a man, recognized by the policemen as Chapman, appeared at the head of the stairs and, revolver in hand, warned the policemen not to come a step further.

Atwater was in the lead with Skelley second and Lamphelr, third. The policemen did not stop but they had gone but one step upward when Chapman fired. Atwater dodged and the bullet struck Skelley in the abdomen. In the confusion Chapman vaulted over the rail and dashed through the store and out of the front door.

Skelley was taken to the New Britain general hospital where he died during an operation three hours later.

Shortly after notifying Mr. Davidson that all was not right in the store, Johnson saw a man come out of the rear door of the burning and start off through an alley towards Main St. Johnson followed and at the entrance of the alley enlisted the services of a friend to aid him in the task of trailing the stranger. The man carried a brief case which he threw into a large automobile standing nearby and then continued down Main street. At Church street, Johnson found Patrolman Walter Malone and Patrolman John Leiblin, and the stranger was placed under arrest.

At police station the man gave his name as John B. Clark, of New York. An inquiry to New York disclosed that the name and the address were fictitious but it was not until this afternoon that the stranger was identified as Waler J. Sheehan of Springfield, said to be the son of a prominent family in that city. Sheehan refused to talk about the murder and attempted robbery but admitted that he had known Chapman for some ime.

Johnson told the police that he had seen the two men in the alley way between the two stores several times in the past week but as the stores are being remodeled, he thought they were men in charge of the work. He said he saw the men arrive in their automobile again this morning, but as they made some remark about cleaning up the alley, he again thought they had a perfect right there. It was not until some time later that he became suspicious and called the proprietor of the store to learn whether any men were working in the store on Sunday.

The police upon an investigation of the store, found that all five safes in the two buildings had been drilled and charged with nitro-glycerine, ready to be blown open. The burglars had put rows of cloth in front of the safes so that they could not be seen from Main street and had hung a mirror near the safes so that they could watch the entrance of the store while they were at work. One of the smaller safes had been blown open before the arrival of the police. The lock on both the front and rear doors had been adjusted so that the men would have little trouble in escaping if discovered.

The police took possession of the automobile found near the stores and found $126 in cash in it. It is believed that it is a stolen car but the police are not certain of this. The number plates carried a Massachusetts registration.

Dr. Waterman Lyon, medical examiner, and Edward Lane, pathologist at the New Britain general hospital, performed an autopsy this afternoon and found that the bullet that killed Skelley was of .45 calibre. The bullet passed through the abdomen and lodged in the fleshy part of the hip. Death was due directly to internal hemorrhage.

Chapman escaped from the Atlanta penitentiary March 27, 1923, and a reward of $1,000 has been offered by the warden for his capture. He is 35 years old and at times has gone under the names of G. V. Calwell, Edward Brice, George Charters and C. W. Eldridge. He is sometimes known as "the count." Chapman is five feet, seven and one half inches tall, weighs 130 pounds, is slim built, his hair is of chestnut color, eyes blue and has a sallow complexion. He has high cheek bones and receding forehead. The man is clean looking, polished and intelligent and apparently well educated. He is fond of posing as an English gentleman of leisure, wealth and position and often stops at the best hotels and high class furnished apartment buildings. Sometimes he wears tortoise shell glasses and often carries a cane.

A state-wide search has been made for the murderer during the day. The state police have stopped hundreds of automobiles on the highways and Chapman's description has been flashed to all points of New England.

Skelley was 56 years old and had been a member of the police department for 22 years. He leaves a widow, two sons and one daughter. He was one of the most popular memoers of the department.

A. J. Leventhal, one of the owners of the store where the murder was committed, is in the Hartford hospital and knows nothing about the murder or attempted robbery.

Rootstown, O., has an industrious citizen who hoes his potatoes by night, having a searchlight mounted on his hoe.

Three of Family Killed At Grade Crossing

Two Others are Dying—Train Struck Auto South of Rochester.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 12—Three members of one family are dead, two others are dying and two are injured as a result of a grade crossing crash at the Linden street crossing in Avon, south of here, at noon today. The machine in which the parents and their five children were riding was demolished by an electric train of the Erie railroad.

The injured are: Winifred Ayers, 13, fractured leg and internal injuries, not expected to live.

The parents and three children were on their way to a family picnic, the crash occurring within a few minutes after they had left their home near the crossing.

Howard Ayers, the drivers, declared that he failed to see or hear the train approaching as he neared the crossing. The crossing, considered one of the most dangerous between Rochester and Mount Morris is without a flagman or warning signals.

ARRESTED FOR DRIVING AUTO WHILE INTOXICATED

Meriden, Oct. 12.—After his car crossed the sidewalk, knocked over a cannon, climbed up a steep bank and crashed into an iron fencing which surrounds the base of the Civil war monument in front of the city hall here early this morning, Robert Bechard, 27, of Bristol, was arrested for driving while intoxicated, evading responsibility and injury to property. When found a mile away from the scene by policemen, Bechard was asleep in his car, and had to be carried into the police station.

ARMED MEN ROBBED GAS STATION IN KILLINGWORTH

Killingworth, Oct. 12.—Three masked men, two carrying guns, held up and robbed a gas station owned by A. C. Smith here last night. While one man covered the proprietor with his revolver, and another stood guard at the door, the third rifled the cash register, taking $139 and a ox of cigars. The bandist left one cent in the register. They had handkerchiefs over their faces, two wore caps and the third a soft hat. They escaped in an automobile they had hidden nearby.

TWO LIQUOR SHIPS WERE SEIZED OFF SANDY HOOK

New York, Oct. 12.—The Norwegian steamer Sagatind with 43,000 cases of liquor aboard, and the small British schooner Diamantina, also carrying liquor but of an undetermined amount, were seized by the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Gresham today, off Sandy Hook.

The Sagatind had a crew of 25 men while the Diamantina was manned by a crew of nine. Armed crews of coast guard men took charge of the two vessels and brought them into the harbor here.

GENERAL WU PEI-FU GOING TO MANCHURIAN FRONT

Tientsin, Oct. 12.—(By the A. P.)—The actual departure of General Wu Pei-Fu, the Peking field marshall, for the Manchurial front is reviving the spirits o fthe Hhihli (Peking government) party.

News was received from Shanhaikwan on the Manchurial border of Chihli province, that the station there was heavily bombarded this morning. Several railway employes were killed, and wounded, and serious damage was done.

The railway between Peking and Tientsin and between Tientsin and Shnahaikwan is in hopeless confusion. Troops are still pouring through Tientsin.

MRS LAFOLLETTE FAVORS GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

Bridgeport, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Belle LaFollette, wife of Senator Robert M. LaFollette, progressive presidential candidate, speaking at a mass meeting here this afternoon prophesied that, as a planned sequel of defense day, a bill will be introduced in congress making military training of America's youth compulsory.

"If we have outgrown the Constitution, why not change it?" Mrs. LaFollette asked in defending the third party advocacy of an amendment giving the congress veto rights over decisions of the supreme court which nullify laws as unconstitutional.

She spoke in favor of government ownership of railroads and water power for electrical purposes and outlined reforms she said her husband had spent his life fighting for.

DEMOCRATS ARE ATTEMPTING TO DISPARAGE COOLIDGE

Democratic National Committee Charges That President Coolidge When Governor of Massachusetts Failed of Participation in Dealing With the Boston Police Strike Riots—Prompt Repretation Has Been Made by Henry Riots—Prompt Refutation Has Been Made by Henry achusetts.

Washington, Oct. 12—(By the A. P.)—President Coolidge's connection with the Boston police strike was the subject of statements issued tonight by both the democratic and republican national committees. The democratic statement said:

"The democratic national committee today issued a statement charging specifically that President Coolidge, when governor of Massachusetts, was innocent of any participation whatever in dealing with the Boston police strike riots or in the restoration of law and order in Boston at that time.

"It charges that he avoided taking any part in the controversy during the critical hours immediately preceding the strike and riots, when the citizens' committee of thirty-four leading men of Boston, appointed by the mayor to help solve the problem advised him that 'an avoidable strike was impending.'

"It further charges that Governor Coolidge remained wholly aloof until order had been completely restored.

"The committee also charges that Governor Coolidge was repeatedly appealed to by the mayor and citizens that led up to the strike and actual rioting but that he declined to do anything.

"In Boston, it is pointed out, the police are under a commissioner appointed by the governor, which fact gave Governor Coolidge definite responsibility, not only as chief executive of the state, but as actual, responsible head of the Boston police department.

"The statement recites that it was Mayor Andrew J. Peters and not Calvin Coolidge, who actually met the crisis, dealt with it by courageous drastic action, and restored [illegible] order."

The republican statement [illegible]

"Henry Wyman of Boston, [illegible] attorney general of Massachusetts [illegible] the time of the Boston [illegible] made the following statement [illegible]

"The statement given [illegible] headquarters [illegible] Boston police strike [illegible] issued and misleading [illegible] ments which are [illegible] any adequate understanding [illegible] situation have been suppressed [illegible] the general attitude of President [illegible] Coolidge Commissioner [illegible] Peters has been distorted [illegible] an accurate record of [illegible] at that time the attitude [illegible]

"I was attorney general [illegible] and was in constant [illegible] President Coolidge, and had [illegible] formation of every action which took Mayor Peters had [illegible] ity to call out the [illegible] Out of Boston without [illegible] governor. Nevertheless [illegible] offered to call out that state [illegible] which was in Boston, and that [illegible] rest of the state would [illegible] ed the adjutant general [illegible] readiness, at any time the mayor requested it. This offer was made before the police left their posts."

WORKERS WILL BENEFIT BY LOAN TO GERMANY

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The republican national committee tonight gave out a statement by Alanson B. Houghton, American ambassador to Germany on the operation of the Dawes plan as it affected Germany.

The ambassador said that the Dawes plan alone stood between Germany and other central European countries and "their complete collapse, as the borrowing power was pretty nearly exhausted."

The Dawes plan, he said, not only would stabilize the economic, but the political life of Germany as well. The loan, he said, would operate to improve the fortunes of even the lowliest workers. Through the loan will come increased opportunity as well as the incentive to save.

"Today," the statement continued, "we find in Germany and elsewhere a frightful lack of available and active capital. The factories are there, the men, the management but the capital to put these forces at work are not there and must in some way be provided if Germany is to have an opportunity to function normally.

"Once capital is provided everything will depend as in every other nation upon the stability of the German people to work and save."

The selectmen and town treasurer were authorized to borrow on specific [illegible] from time to time such amounts of money necessary to defray the current expenses of the town during the year. The motion for the adoption of this clause was made by Attorney Harry George [illegible] and Attorney Hugh C. Bishop presented the report of the school committee. Town Clerk Fenton gave the information regarding the increase and Attorney Haggerty asked for the approval of the appropriation as demanded. The yearly appropriations of $960 to the Welfare Bureau and of $250 to St. Joseph's Hospital were voted approved, as was also the appropriation and expenditure of $100 during the year, commencing October 1, 1924, for the public library at Windham center, in order that it may obtain the benefits of the expenditure of a [illegible] by the state in accordance with chapter [illegible] of the public acts of 1901 and the amendments thereto. Town Clerk Fenton stated that the town usually appropriates such a sum as it never pays it out. The [illegible] of the committee for the [illegible] evening of Attorney Sumner Gager was given as Charles W. Hall secretary of the committee. The original appropriation was $40,000 of which [illegible] was used, leaving a balance of $[illegible]. The work is now complete and the addition is being used. The selectmen having assumed charge of the addition from the committee before the commencement of the school year.

URGELE LA FRANCE CHOICE AS NOMINEE FOR SENATOR

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Oct. 12—By a unanimous vote of the republicans of the 29th district Urgele LaFrance of Plainfield a member of the Windham counyt board of commissioners was nominated for senator from the district, at the convention held in the town hall here at noon Saturday. Eugene A. Shoales of Plainfield made the nomination speech and the name of

URGELE LaFRANCE

Mr. LaFrance was seconded by Frank M. Bedard of Brooklyn. A suspension of the rules was ordered and the secretary cast one ballot for the nominee. Mr. LaFrance was then escorted to the stage by a committee of three, E. A. Shoales of Plainfield, Cyril A. Lamoureux of Windham and Frank M. Bedard of Brooklyn. In his brief speech of acceptance Mr. LaFrance announce his pleasure and pride upon receiving the nomination and [illegible] asking for the cooperation of all in electing the entire town the president down he pledged the best of his ability in fulfilling his office if elected.

On motion of Mr. Haggerty the committee was discharged with a vote of thanks for the efficient work which it has rendered. Previous to adjournment, Eugene J. Randall mentioned that adjourned town meetings should be held in the evening in the future, in order to secure a larger attendance.

The home of John Fitts in the town of Ashford was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin, early Saturday morning, causing an estimated monetary loss of $3,000 partially covered by insurance of $2,000 carried on the house and barn. Frederick Fitts was awakened when he smelled smoke at 3.30 o'clock Saturday morning. He rushed to the attic door from where the smoke appeared to be issuing and upon opening it discovered that the entire upper part of the structure was in flames. He ran downstairs and aroused his father and mother who rushed out to safety with him. A general alarm was soon spread about the neighborhood, but the wooden structure blazed like matchwood and the volunteers confined their efforts to preventing fire starting at nearby houses from flying sparks. Within two hours the two story structure had fallen in a mass of ruins. It is the opinion of members of the family that the fire was started by rats gnawing at matches. For the time being the Fitts family are staying at the Hezekiah S. Brown home. The rural fire-fighters performed excellent service in saving a home located less than ten yards from the Fitts place, after the roof had caught fire several times from sparks and the intense heat from the burning residence. Mr. and Mrs. Fitts are elderly people. Their son lived alone in the upper tenement. His wife and daughter are staying in this city while the latter attends Windham High School.

The death of William Henry Burnham, 82, one of the most prominent residents of the town of Hampton occurred at his home there early Saturday morning, following several weeks illness. He was born in Hampton, December 27, 1841, a son of Alva and Hannah Halloway Burnham. He leaves his wife, a son George J. Burnham of Hartford, a daughter, Mrs. Bertha B. Hartson of North Windham, a sister, Mrs. Helen E. Rollock of Taunton, Mass., and two grandchildren, William H. and Mary Q. Burnham of Hartford. Mr. Burnham was a strong democrat and had been judge of probate for thirty-five years and town clerk for forty-two years. He relinquished the latter office a few years ago. Twelve years ago he retired from the office of judge of probate owing to the age limit. In the session of 1907-09 he represented the Twenty-Ninth District in the state senate and for several sessions previous was the representative in the general assembly from the town of Hampton. He has had a wide acquaintance in Windham county.

From her home, 79 Maple Avenue the funeral of Miss Madge Rafferty was held Saturday morning. Requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock was sung by Rev. Charles M. Kelley. The music of the mass was by a quartet, Mrs. J. E. Sullivan, Mrs. Henry J. Mathieu, John F. Collins and Walter J. Costello. There were beautiful floral tributes. A delegation from St. Helena branch, L. C. B. A. attended in a body. At the Rafferty plot in St. Joseph's cemetery Rev. Father Kelley read the committal service. The bearers were John Reilly, Paul Vanneeman, John O'Rourke, John Harkreaves, Jeremiah E. Sullivan and John F. Collins. Friends and relatives attended coming from New York, Putnam, Hartford, New Haven and Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Mary A. Upton widow of Albert P. Upton, died at the home of her son, John E. Upton at 25 Maple avenue Saturday morning. She has been in poor health for some time. She was born in Scotland, March 24, 1845, the daughter of Sylvanous and Mary Harvey Capewell. She had resided in Mansfield for several years, being a member of the Mansfield Congregational church. She leaves three sons, Levi S., Rutherford B. and John F. of this city and a daughter, Mrs. Lydia A. Clark of North Coventry also twelve grandchildren.

Mrs. Albert E. Welch entertained a party recently celebrating the birthdays of little Mary Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer M. Harrington, Patricia Curtis, daughte of Mr. and Mrs. Don H. Curtis and her young son, Bondurant Welch, on his sixth birthday. Fourteen children were present: Mary, George and Dorcas Harrington, Patricia and Johnson Curtis, Clara and Robert Branch, Phyllis Lyndon, Harriet Stockbridge, Hannah Hines, Walter Taylor, Ann Louise Little and Albert and Bond Welch.

This (Monday) evening the democratic caucus to nominate two representatives to the general assembly and ten justices of the peace is to be held in the town hall. The names of Patrick J. Twomey and Alexis Caisse appear at the head of the possibilities, for the nomination for representatives. The republican caucus will be held on Tuesday evening, no special names having been talked of.

A delegation of over fifty undergraduates in a body and nearly fifty additional fans in private parties made up the cheering section representing Windham High School who saw the champion outfit retire and allow the second team trounce Killingly High's gridiron aggregation 58 to 0, on the Danielson field, Saturday afternoon.

Representatives of the local council who attended the gathering of officers of the councils throughout the state of the French Catholic society, Les Artisans in Hartford, Friday night were: Albert J. Fournier, Joseph Vincelette, Eugene Clouthier, Joseph Lefebvre, A. Morrisette, Ovila Benoit, Paul Fontaine, Paul Frigeault and Joseph Marrotte.

New Method Heals Rupture

Kansas City Doctor's Discovery Makes Truss or Operation Unnecessary

Kansas City, Mo.—(Special)—A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of Dr. Andrews, the well known Hernia specialist of this city. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of the Bulletin who writes him at his offices, 4081 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today.

MYSTIC

Fanny Ledyard Chapter, D. A. R., has received notice of the thirty-first state meeting of the Connecticut D. A. R., to be held in the Union Congregational church in Rockville, Tuesday, Oct. 21, by invitation of Sabra Trumbull Chapter. Every Connecticut Daughter is eligible to attend and those who plan to attend are being asked to notify the regent, Mrs. Adella B. Gray, before Oct. 16. The morning session will open at 11 o'clock with the formal entry of officers and guests. The afternoon session will convene at 2.15 and will close about 4.30, after which the officers will be served by Sabra Trumbull chapter. Members of Sabra Trumbull chapter are offering the hospitality of their homes to those who desire entertainment for the night, such visitors being asked to communicate with Mrs. Edwin G. Butler, of Rockville. Admission to the church will be by badge only.

Prof. Percy H. Hovnton has returned to Chicago after spending his vacation at his summer home on Old Mystic road.

Smelts are biting very well in certain places not too far removed from the village to make a tiresome journey and yet sufficiently far from the river to escape any possible pollution from it. Several good catches have been made in the last few days, one man having caught 72 on Thursday afternoon.

Miss M. Josephine Dickinson was in Norwich Friday as a delegate to the Twentieth senatorial district convention.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Fowler of Westfield, Mass., are guests of Mrs. H. Emeline Allyn.

Mrs. M. E. Colegrove of New London called on relatives here Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Denison have returned from New York.

The Mystic Country club committee in charge of the Sewing Society of Charity Chapter, No. 61, O. E. S., on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Moses Wilcox. In the whist game the prize went to Mrs. C. C. Dodd and the consolation award to Mrs. D. K. Corey. Following the playing, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Josephine Foote was home from North Stonington, where she is teaching school, to spend the holiday.

Miss M. Geneva Rathbun arrived home Saturday from Milford to stay over the holiday.

A successful whist was held Friday evening at Mystic Community house, the prize in auction going to John B. Grinnell and the consolation to Miss Kate Fish, while the prize in straight whist was won by Morgan Foote and the consolation was given Miss May Judd. Refreshments were served.

Miss Anna Bullard of Mount Vernon, N. Y., who accompanied Miss Louise Paige on a trip abroad this summer, is spending the week-end with Miss Paige, who is home from Milford for over the holiday.

There were seven tables in play at the whist held Thursday evening in St. Mark's parish house and the prizes were awarded Miss Annie M. Packer and C. C. McGaughey.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Gaskell left on Monday for Boston, where they will join Mrs. Gaskell's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Begg, and from there the party will proceed to Provincetown and other points of interest on the Cape.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Mystic Bridge Congregational church the following officers were elected: President, Miss Wilhelmina D. Schroeder; vice president, Mrs. E. A. Harrison; secretary and treasurer, Miss Julia G. Foote.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Fisher of Providence spent the week-end with Mrs. Fisher's uncle, Isaac Cundall.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Fisher moved Thursday from Stonington road to the property recently purchased by them in Westerly.

Mrs. C. F. Congdon visited friends in Colchester last week.

Miss Gladys Wilcox is home from Wethersfield, where she is teaching for over the holiday.

A number from here were in New London to attend the meeting of Jessamine Court, Order of Amaranth, at which time the grand officers of the state were present. A chicken pie supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Corey of Springfield were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wilcox last week.

Mrs. Fannie M. Kent was a caller

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

What has happened to the electorate of Killingly? The average man or woman whose name may be found on the voting list of the town is inclined to dismiss politics this year with a wave of the hand, or an inquiry about the weather. He, or she, as a general rule, is only passively interested. No more the days of the marching thousands in torchlight parades, no more the bitter partisan arguments, no more the "bet you a million we win" Something has set things askew. Some will tell you it was the war. Some will tell you it was tinkering with the constitution. All, or none, of them may be right. The fact is that one could not stir up much enthusiasm, at least in Killingly, over the prospect of electing Mr. Nash or Mr. Cadillac or Mr. Jewett or Mr. Dodge or Mr. Ford or Mr. Studebaker or Mr. Hudson or any of those plutocrats president. The average person has become a cynic. Show him a railroad timetable. "It's fixed," he says And that may be right. Otherwise many people would miss their trains. The world's series ? "All doped before hand" This is the fact of a heart-breaking finish ! The radio ? "A frameup, nothing goes through the air without wires" It is to laugh ! The world moves. Many do not move with it. The triumph of cynicism is to remain at home and lose interest in politics in this exhilarating age in which people complacently sit at home absorb gossip, add a little to it and let it go with and fiction gain the ascendency. And this in a world where one has to buy window screens to keep out the flies and other pests. Nor can one when even barred doors and steel vaults fails to stop the ravages of the vicious tongue and the writings of the false prophets. All of this a subject for consideration on the celebration of the anniversary of the discovering of America. All of this attended to since many people into not recognize to be at the polls on election day, whatever their political belief or choice. Just under 60 per cent. of the qualified people of Killingly voted a week ago today. Killingly, it has been said, will do better than that in November.

A sight recalling the old days was experienced in Killingly Sunday when a party of motorists who saw a flock of quail numbering nearly a score fly or run across an old country road just ahead of their machine. Quail in other days in this town the good story tellers among the hunters were fond of relating how they used to aim a shot gun at the northwest and on a flight of quail and gradually, as they drew a trigger, swing the gun around toward the southeast bring down 36 birds with one discharge. That isn't done any more. Getting a few quail now is almost among the things impossible. It is done, occasionally, even contrary to law. But of all the hunters hereabouts, who has seen twenty quail in one flock this season ? That was a sight permitted to a few motorists who do not hunt—on a quiet Sunday morning when the riders were more concerned with the delights of an autumn day outing than with the slaughter of any living thing.

Danielson appears to be in for a mild sensation. A man who has the evidence to establish that he has been talked about in a malicious manner was through his attorney, made a demand for retraction. If this is not forthcoming, he has firmly determined to bring suit for slander. The impending suit may set Danielson on its ears for a day. Withal it will be interesting to what it will develop as to establishing to what lengths some people will go, even plunging into the unplumbed depths of untruth, to discredit in slanderous manner neighbors who are wholly innocent of the things that may be said about them. Verily, this is a great age. Even the deadest of all the regulators that have passed beyond have showed poor judgment in not being on hand, to enjoy it. They have missed the opportunity of the ages.

They must have hated to do it—almost anyone would—but the Windham High school football team, of Willimantic, came over here Saturday afternoon and just made a mess of the Killingly High school team. The score was 58 to 0. Almost anyone would admit that represents a real beating. But Killingly took it courageously. Killingly never quits. It so happens that the good team has been tremendously weakened in playing strength this year by the loss through graduation of its powers of strength. Windham has not suffered. With its team practically intact, it ploughed through the Killingly lines as though they were paper. Boyd and Havelas of the Killingly team were injured in the game, but not seriously. They will be back in their positions again to battle valiantly for their school in the next game. It is tough to lose against overwhelming odds, but many times it's worth it.

Eighteen people who belong to the Ku Klux Klan and who live in Danielson and vicinity had the support of several hundred fellow members from western Rhode Island and New London county towns, with a sprinkling from Plainfield, at a gathering here Saturday evening. They met on the Charles Williams farm, near the old Riverside driving park. There were many uninvited guests near the entrance to the field as was the case when they congregated here last month. All during the past week advance notices of the impending meeting came through the general public. But coming so soon after the world's series, it failed to arouse general interest, even in view of the fact that it was in observance of Columbus day. The tribute to Christopher Columbus discoverer of America, was none the less sincere. Though he would be disbarred from membership in the organization on various grounds and rated as far less than 100 per cent. American, the tribute paid him here Saturday evening has not been overlooked. "A good time was had" by all. Even by those who were not invited !

Though this is not a general holiday in Danielson—being the observance of Columbus day—it will be observed by the banks.

Misses Gertrude Stone, Carrie Lewis, Margaret C. Sullivan and Elisabeth Dunn made a motor trip Sunday to Mt. Wachusett and return.

Fogs, persisting every night this month in their appearance, have made driving difficult for motorists.

Misses Alma and Anita Buteau of Fall River, formerly of Danielson, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Bessette.

This (Monday) evening the democrats of Killingly will name their candidates for representatives in the general assembly for the session of 1925. The republicans will do likewise later in the week.

Following Saturday's session of the officials who are charged with making new voters in Killingly, no chance remains to be made in time to have a part in the national and state elections next month. There is, however, an exception. Young people who will not reach the age of 21 years until Oct. 13, will have a chance to be admitted as electors on Nov. 3.

Men who were in France during the World war attest that it was safer in the trenches on the western front than it was in any of the good hunting country about here Saturday, when every man who held a hunting license was abroad with a gun and alert to shoot anything that moved.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

PUTNAM

With the entrance of Mrs. S. Nikoloff into the contest for the nomination for the office of representative in the general assembly on the republican ticket, the caucus next Tuesday night will have a choice of five candidates, three men and two women. The declared candidates are Mayor Victor Chapdelaine, Samuel Rich, William Pechie, Miss Clara Larned and Mrs. Nikoloff.

Mrs. Nikoloff enters the race at the earnest solicitation of a good sized constituency. She at first refused to allow her name to be used but consonant urging and growing support led her to exercise her woman's prerogative, which is also a prerogative of any politician, and to change her mind.

Mrs. Nikoloff was born in Putnam and has been active politically since women were enfranchised. She has made a study of public affairs, carrying her investigation and study so far as to attend instruction schools and institutes at Smith college, Yale, Trinity, Harvard and Radcliffe, where civil government, both economic and political, has been analyzed by some of the best informed men of the country. Locally, as a life-long citizen of Putnam, Mrs. Nikoloff is acquainted by contact and observation with the needs of Putnam.

Rev. Simeon E. Cozad, who resigned a year ago as pastor of the Congregational church of Putnam, has received and accepted a call to become pastor of the Congregational church at Mansfield, Mass. Following Mr. Cozad's resignation Mr. and Mrs. Cozad made a trip to Nebraska and the middle west where they have relatives, with the intention of possibly locating there. They preferred the east and came back to Massachusetts. Mr. Cozad occupied the pulpit of his new church for the first time as pastor, Sunday morning.

The roll call of Putnam lodge of Elks is to take place Tuesday evening. Plans are being made for the members to receive returns in the lodge rooms election night, Nov. 4.

In observance of Columbus Day, Cargill Council Knights of Columbus, attended 7 o'clock mass at St. Mary's church in a body, Sunday morning. The mass was a requiem high mass in memory of the departed members of the council. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the regular meeting of the council was held in the club rooms on Union street. In the evening there was a lunch, entertainment and smoker at which Rev. George F. Donahue of Pomfret was the speaker and brief addresses were made by other clergymen.

There are no public plans for the observance of the day today (Monday) and business will be continued as usual except in the banks and postoffice.

Members of the citizens' committee engaged in carrying forward the organization of the Citizens National Bank of Putnam held a meeting on Friday evening at which H. H. McKee, representative of the comptroller of the currency, was present. What transpired at the meeting is not known as those attending were requested not to talk. Chairman M. H. Geissler said Saturday morning that a statement will probably be issued within a few days.

Mrs. E. C. Morse went to Brunswick, Me., to attend the football game between Bowdoin and Amherst. Mrs. Morse's son, Chandler Morse is a member of the Amherst team.

A family dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Thayer on Fremont street, Saturday evening in honor of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. Thayer's parents, Colonel and Mrs. Henry J. Thayer, King street. The dinner was quietly arranged by the children and only the members of the families attended. Many friends of the couple expressed congratulations during the day. Those at the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred I. Thayer and children, Ruth, Mildred and Florence Thayer, of Worcester, Mr. and Mrs. Wendel Mowry and daughter Dorothy of Taunton, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Thayer and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Thayer and two children of Putnam, a third child, an older son, Allan Thayer, is a student at the West Point military academy.

Both Colonel and Mrs. Thayer were born in Woonsocket, R. I., where they were married, Oct. 11, 1748. Within a year or two following their marriage they came to Putnam.

Mr. Thayer came here to the Monchanset mill and had charge of the office until the concern went out of existence, afterward becoming the Manhasset Manufacturing company. He remained with this company and is now in the same office where he has worked continuously for forty-five years.

Soon after coming to Putnam Mr. Thayer became a private in Company G, Third regiment, Connecticut National Guard. His promotion was rapid and for years he was captain of the company. He continued to be promoted along the line and before retiring became a colonel of the Third regiment. Colonel Thayer has always taken an interest in the affairs of his adopted town and city, is a member of the school board and for several terms was republican alderman from Ward 1. Colonel Thayer is a member of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Thayer was Miss Lucy Amelia Darling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Darling. Since coming to Putnam she has identified herself with social and civic affairs. She has been an active worker for the Day-Kimball hospital and in the affairs of the Congregational church of which she is a member. She is a member of the D. A. R.

Colonel and Mrs. Thayer have two sons, Frank D. and Charles A., both living in Putnam, and three grandchildren.

Frank L. Davis, county agricultural agent, announces that the Windham County Farmers' association and the Woodstock Vegetable club, cooperating, are to hold a meeting at the Community House, East Woodstock, Tuesday, at 8 p. m. A. E. Wilkinson, vegetable specialist, will speak at this meeting on Crop Movement and Price.

Mark Gallant, yard clerk in Putnam for the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad, is at his home on Church street with a bad laceration under his left eye. Mr. Gallant was standing by a switch in the railroad yard and as a locomotive passed him a heavy poker fell from the engine and the prongs caught his left lower eyelid. The weight of the heavy iron tore the flesh and somewhat injured the cheek bone. Had it caught the upper lid the man's eye would have been pulled from its socket, but as it was the eye itself was not seriously injured, although badly swollen.

Railroad men remember a similar accident some years ago, when Henry Johnson, employed in the freight depot, lost his arm when it was caught by a poker protruding from a locomotive.

The fourteen men who signed the notice of intention to organize The Cargill Trust company met Friday evening, Oct. 10, and formed a preliminary organization. Byron D. Bugbee was elected chairman, and Luther M. Keith clerk.

It was voted to proceed and Luther M. Keith clerk.

It was voted to proceed to obtain a trust company charter in accordance with the notice of intention to organize, to proceed as rapidly as possible and to open a trust company for the transaction of business on the very earliest possible date.

The stockholders of The First National Bank will be given the first opportunity to subscribe to stock. Then those transacting banking business in Putnam and vicinity will be given an opportunity to subscribe, and all will be treated upon the same basis.

The amount of the capital stock and reserve fund will be finally determined when the details are worked out.

Every person who signed the notice of intention to organize was present, and all joined in executing the necessary papers.

PLAINFIELD

Miss Hannah Patten and George E. Baxter were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at St. Paul's Episcopal church, by Rev. Mr. Richards of Danielson. Miss Emma Kay, the church organist, played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bridal party entered the church. Miss Emma Patten, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid and Louis C. LeLacheur was best man.

The bride wore white canton crepe and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid wore orchid crepe de chine and carried pink roses.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a pink sapphire ring; the groom presented his best man with a set of gold cuff links.

After the wedding there was a reception and a dinner at the home of the bride, in the Old Village. There were numerous costly gifts of silver, gold, cut glass and linen. After a short stay in Portland, Me., Mr. and Mrs. Baxter will reside in Dorchester, Mass., in a newly furnished home.

Alfred Walker and Alfred Wilson furnished the entertainment in the evening.

The following guests attended the ceremony and reception: J. L. Traverse, Boston; Mrs. Flora Crocker of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. William Kay of Taftville, Mrs. Charles Alexander, Mrs. John Mercer, Mrs. Ralph Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Higham, Mrs. Charles Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Richdra Ward and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Pie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sykes and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield of New Bedford, Mass., Mrs. Ella Baxter of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Hindle, Taftville; Mr. and Mrs. O. POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Little Gustava

Little Gustava sits in the sun,
Safe in the porch, and the little drops run
From the icicles under the eaves so fast,
And glad is little Gustava.

She wears a quaint little scarlet cap,
And a little green bowl she holds in her lap,
Filled with bread and milk to the brim,
And a wreath of marigolds round the rim;
"Ha, ha!" laughs little Gustava.

Up comes her little gray, coaxing cat,
With her little pink nose, and she mews, "What's that?"
Gustava feeds her—she begs for more;
And a little brown hen walks in at the door;
"Good day!" cries little Gustava.

She scatters crumbs for the little hen,
There comes a rush and flutter, and then
Down fly her little white doves so sweet,
With their snowy wings and their crimson feet;
"Welcome!" cries little Gustava.

So dainty and eager they pick up the crumbs!
But who is this through the doorway comes?
Little Scotch terrier, little dog Rags,
Looks in her face, and his funny tail wags;
"Ha, ha!" laughs little Gustava.

"You want some breakfast, too?" and down
She sets her bowl on the brick floor brown:
And little dog Rags drinks up her milk,
While she strokes his shaggy locks, like silk;
"Dear Rags," said little Gustava.

Waiting without stood sparrow and crow
Cooling their feet in the melting snow;
"Won't you come in, good folk?" she cried.
But they were too bashful, and stayed outside,
Though "Pray come in!" cried Gustava.

So the last she threw them, and knealt on the mat
With doves and biddy and dog and cat,
And her mother came to the open house-door;
"Dear little daughter, I bring you some more,
My merry little Gustava!"

Kitty and terrier, biddy and doves,
All things harmless Gustava loves.
The sky, kind creatures 'tis joy to feed.
And, O, her breakfast is sweet indeed
To happy little Gustava!

—Celia Thaxter.

What Does Little Birdie Say?

What does the little birdie say
In her nest at peep of day?
Let me fly, says little birdie,
Mother, let me fly away.
Birdie, rest a little longer,
Till the little wings are stronger.
So she rests a little longer,
Then she flies away.

What does the little baby say
In her bed at peep of day?
Baby says, like little birdie,
Let me rise and fly away.
Baby, sleep a little longer,
Till the little limbs are stronger
If she sleeps a little longer,
Baby, too, shall fly away.

—Alfred Tennyson.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

It is surprising what a lot of damage a tiny insect, like an ant can do. The damage done by one ant, of course, would not be noticed but when millions of them all working together start in they can wreck a house, that is a certain kind of ant, called the white ant. This goes to show what can be done by cooperation.

This particular kind of ant abounds in a large part of northern Australia. In that section wooden houses never last very long for if they are built they are eaten by the ants. The whole of the woodwork is chewed to a pulp from the inside out by the white ants and in time it becomes a mere shell, with walls no thicker than paper. When a wind storm comes up these houses very often collapse in ruins.

Nothing short of sheet iron is safe from these pests for the ants eat furniture, rafters, door posts, doors and even the floors of the houses. The white ant lives in hills the size of which compared with the proportions of the insect itself are simply astounding, for the hills are often fifteen to eighteen feet high A most extraordinary thing about these strange dwellings is that the opposite ends point with perfect precision to the magnetic poles.

In the section of the world where white ants live there are hundreds of square miles of the country all dotted over with these hills. Each hill marks the spot where a tree once grew, the tree having been eaten away to its very roots for the ants not content with destroying that part above the ground will sometimes burrow sixty feet down into the earth in search of moisture.

LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Ida M. Roode, Voluntown—I thank you very much for the prize book you sent me entitled Mrs. Over The Way. I have started reading it and find it very interesting.

Leonard Williams, Norwich—I thank you very much for the book entitled The Boy Scouts on the Western Front. It is very interesting.

Doris Newman, North Franklin—I received my prize book and want to thank you very much for it.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

HAS WHITE CAT

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write to you and tell you about my cat. She is all white. I play with her every day. She likes to play with me because I do not hurt her. She can catch mice.

JENNY SACHONCHIK.

OUR SCHOOL FAIR

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell you about our school fair which was held in the Union hall on the nineteenth of September, at night. The children in school brought what they raised in their gardens, and some of the girls exhibited their fancy work. I exhibited seven petticoat yokes, a knitted scarf and a rug. I won first prize on them, also I won first prize on my loaf of cake I made.

My brother took a pair of bantams and five little bantams, and won first prize on them.

At six o'clock we sold sandwiches and coffee. After the people had inspected our exhibits we had a program. When the program was over we had an auction of the cakes and sandwiches. The money which we got from them we are going to buy a book case for our school and some pencil sharpeners. How many of the Wide Awakes ever had a school fair?

KING ARTHUR

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about King Arthur and His Knights. Among the greatest treasures of the English language are the legend of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table.

Arthur was the name of the king of England. In his infancy, Merlin, a great magician, feared that he might be slain by enemies of the king, and therefore gave him into the keeping of Sir Ector, who did not know that he was bringing up the King's son. In fact, Arthur himself supposed that Sir Ector was his father. When Arthur had grown into a fine noble boy Merlin felt that the time had come for him to ascent the throne left vacant by the death of his father. He therefore urged the Archbishop of Canterbury to summon all the nobles and gentlemen of arms to come to London on Christmas day. When they reached church they found in the churchyard a large square stone supporting an anvil of steel. The point of a sword stuck in the anvil. On the sword were these words: Whoso pulleth this sword out of this stone and anvil is the rightful king of all England. All who wished to be king tried to pull out the sword, but without success. It was therefore decided to have a tournament on New Year's day and give another opportunity to those who were ambitious to ascent the throne.

A QUEER NAME

Dear Uncle Jed: One day a little boy went to a ball game and took his dog with him. It happened to be a new dog and they had not given him his name yet. While watching the ball game a boy happened to come around selling popcorn, sweet chocolate, and peanuts. When the dog heard peanuts he jumped as if mad. The people thought he wanted peanuts, but it was altogether different.

The dog was given the name of Peanuts. This is the end of my story and hope all the Wide Awakes will like it because it is my first story to you.

A FIRE ALARM

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awakes. I am hoping they will like it. One day when I was in Fall River I heard an alarm which startled me and it was a fire alarm too! I didn't know that the fire station was near me. I saw men sliding down poles and I saw the horses getting harnessed. Then in about one minute the horses were galloping down the street. The driver was leaning forward as if trying to rush the horses. People were running to see where the fire was. My father took us there. But when we got there it was only a rubbish heap in which some children had started a fire. The old woman who lived upstairs got frightened and rang the alarm. So the people went home and the horses only trotted home.

MY VACATION

Dear Uncle Jed: I have been reading your letters in the papers and I think they are very interesting. I thought I'd write and tell you what I did on my vacation. This vacation I took care of two babies. Ones names is Yvonne and the other is Irene. I like to take care of them.

When vacation was over I was glad because I like to go to school. I learn very well in school. My mother is very glad that I learn well and the teacher is too and I think you are glad to hear that I am doing well in school.

A TRIP TO KEENE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our trip to Keene, New Hampshire. It was very rough riding. We had to go on detour. We didn't get there till late. On the way we went over mountains and valleys. We saw Mt. Greylock, the highest mountain in Massachusetts. When we were going home, my father went back Greenfield way. We went over the Connecticut river twice. We got home at twelve o'clock. Don't you think this is an interesting trip?

GENEROUS REVENGE

Dear Uncle Jed: Once upon a time a young man wanted to get rid of his dog and took it along to the Seine. He hired a boat and rowing it into the stream threw the dog in. The poor creature attempted to climb up to the boat but his master whose intention was to drown him, constantly pushed him back with the oar. In doing this he fell himself into the water and would certainly have been drowned had not the dog as soon as he saw his master struggling in the stream suffered the boat to float away and held him above water till assistance arrived and his life was saved. I wish to tell the Wide Awakes that the man would have lost his life if it hadn't been for the dog.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Whip-Poor-Will

Whip-poor-will, whip-poor-will,
Comes a bird-call, weird and shrill.
Then it ends, this sad refrain.
From the Shady Forest Lane.

"All the birds have gone to sleep except Whip-poor-will," said Lady Love turning to her bunny boy as they sat on the little front porch of their bungalow in the Dear Old Bramble Patch.

The shadows had deepened into night, and the Twinkle Twinkle Star was shining from the sky.

"Does he want somebody to whip poor will?" asked the little rabbit anxiously. But before his pretty bunny mother could answer, a bird, the size of Bobbie Redvest, in a reddish-brown feather suit mottled with grayish-black and dusky white, alighted in the clump of willows close to the Bramble Patch.

"There he is, mother," cried bunny. "Do you see the white band across his breast and the white on his tail?" and hopping down through the brambles the little rabbit stood before the clump of willows.

"Hello," said the Whip-poor-will, turning about so that the little rabbit could easily see the flat, wide bill, surrounded with a fringe of stiff, bristlelike feathers.

"Where have you been all day?" asked the little rabbit. I never see you flying about."

"That's because I hide in the Shady Forest during the daytime," answered the bird. "I sit lengthwise in the cool shady woods, or crouch on the ground. People seldom find me, for my feathers are very like the color of the bark and dried leaves."

"Where's your nest?" inquired the curious little rabbit. You see, he was anxious to learn all about the habits of the birds.

"Mrs. Whip-poor-will and I build no nest," answered the bird. She lays two dark-spotted, creamy-white eggs in a little hollow on a bare rock, sometimes on a stump, and once in a while on the ground. No, we don't bother about a nest. Too much trouble for just two eggs." And away flew Mr. Whip-poor-will over the meadow, close to the tops of the bushes, to gather a supper of insects. A very useful bird to man is the Whip-poor-will for it eats nothing else.

Hopping back to the tiny bungalow, the little rabbit sat down beside his mother. In the distance they could hear the chirping of Tiny Miss Cricket and the song of Tommy Treetoad. The little cricket, now that summer had come, had left the woodbox in Lady Love's kitchen for the Sunny Meadow, and the three Little Grasshoppers had hopped into the fields. But they would come back when the chilly days arrived. Oh, yes, indeedy. They never forgot that they were welcome in the little bungalow.

In the woodbox by the stove.
No matter how bright Merry Sun shone
They never hopped out to rove.

WESTERLY

The Columbus day celebration got away to a good start Sunday afternoon when the long street parade was viewed by hundreds of spectators along the route. There were five local Italian-American societies in the formation, in addition to the Westerly band and Providence band.

In the evening at 6.30 the members of the committee in charge of the day's arrangements, led by the Providence band, marched from the square to the High street playground where another concert was given from 7 to 8.30 o'clock.

Following the concert there was a grand display of fireworks.

Two Protestant churches of Westerly held congregations Sunday, which would have been a revelation to the once-in-awhile churchgoer. The sudden interest in matters ecclesiastical was caused by the consideration of the subject of the Ku Klux Klan. Rev. Arnt L. Schoning of the Broad Street Christian church preached before a congregation of at least 250, that "God Demands of Men That They 'Get Up, Get In, Get to Work.'" It was said that his audience held many klansmen, including the klan organizers of New London and Windham counties, Connecticut, and Washington, Kent and Providence counties in Rhode Island. Rev. Mr. Schoning said he respected those who had the deepest regard for the American flag, the Constitution and the Bible and urged his hearers to get up to the tasks before them; get into the kingdom of God, no matter what may be the cost and when their place was found get to work.

Pastor Morrill told his congregation that to him the klan meant lawlessness and cited as examples the recent disturbances in Merrouge, La., and stated that he had it from a prominent Westerly klansmen that the two men reported as thrown into the pond, had been held as prisoners by the klan in Louisiana. The pastor said that the conduct of the klan was contrary to the teachings of Jesus Christ.

At the funeral of Jane Rae Lebban, wife of Alexander Aitken, held at her home, 55 Cross street, Thursday at 2 p. m., the services were conducted by Rev. E. E. Morrill of the Congregational church. Mrs. Jessie Davidson sang Just As I Am and and Now the Day Is Over. The floral pieces were beautiful. Burial was in River Bend cemetery, the bearers being Alexander G. Aitken, John Aitken, Clarence Vars, Arthur Blatcher, John Laing and James Rae.

In the west end of London three men, formerly of a high station in life, but reduced now, have opened a school that has for its sole purpose the teaching of men to dress well. The school carries no salable articles.

STONINGTON

Mrs. J. F. Joseph, gave a sailing party to Norwich, Friday in her yacht Flavia, with dinner at the Terminal. She had as guests Mrs. Harlan Burdick of Mystic, Mrs. Peleg Briggs, of Westerly, Mrs. William Robinson, Mrs. E. Northrup, Miss Shelling, Mrs. H. Wilkins, Mrs. A. Fort, Mrs. Wadsworth, Miss McGraf, Mrs. E. Chesebro, Mrs. J. Cushman, Mrs. Powers, Mrs. Holland, Miss R. D'Amico, Ethel Adams, Anna Bailey, Cassie Brooks, Edith Carson, Emma Anderson, Mrs. Avalah, Mrs. Rose and Mrs. A. Kenyon, of Stonington.

Mrs. Peleg Briggs of Westerly was a recent guest of Mrs. E. Chesebro.

H. M. Friedman who recently underwent an operation, has returned to his home.

David Conklin of Sag Harbor was a guest Saturday of local relatives.

Friday night being the last night in a series of dances at Wequetequock Casino, there was a large attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hull and daughter Helen of Groton were guests Friday evening of John O'Amico and family.

Mrs. Kathlyn Lamphere is visiting her brother, Arthur Anderson in Noank for a few days.

A republican caucus is to be held in Arion Hall Tuesday evening.

When J. F. Turnbull, W. R. C. meets this (Monday) evening in Mullers Hall there will be one candidate for initiation.

The Sunday school room of the Baptist church is being redecorated.

Dr. W. T. Veal who lately purchased the Pollard Homestead on Water St., is having it remodeled.

The Congregational Sunday school at its session Sunday elected Mae Rix secretary to take the place of Constance Joseph, who has resigned.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Monday was the feast of St. Edward and at St. Edward's church there was solemn high mass at 9 o'clock with the special liturgy for a patron saint. The mass was a memorial for the Knights of Columbus, and a celebration of Columbus day at the same time, as arranged by the pastor, Rev. Felix J. O'Neill.

JEWETT CITY

As the result of the activity of Deputy Sheriff John T. Dolan and State Policeman Arthur Williams, Polydor Rondeau was rounded up and brought before Judge John T. Barry, in the Griswold town court Saturday. There have been numerous reports of loss from fruit growers that thieves are making wholesale hauls from their orchards.

Rondeau paid a fine and costs close to $25 for parking his car on the side of the road, in the night season, without lights, near the residence of Frank Gardner, on the Voluntown road. Rondeau's pelt was saved by a lenient judge, who suspended sentence on an apple stealing count, because the prisoner was a veteran of the World war, and possesses papers testifying to his honorble discharge. If Rondeau keeps on the right side of apple orchard fences until Jan. 1, he will escape the possible sentence of three years in jail, and a fine of $500.

Two large audiences Saturday were highly entertained at Finn's with the great screen production of Tiger Rose. Mr. Barnett closed a contract Saturday booking Abraham Lincoln, The Sea Hawk and The Secret. It was only recently that production of this chase came to the local opera house.

People in the borough were gratified Sunday evening to learn that Clark C. Palmer of Griswold, who has been critically ill, was much improved, with hope given that he may recover.

Mr. Palmer will be 90 Dec. 15. He hopes to vote for Coolidge in November.

The search all through this section to try and locate some, or even one, of the habitats to which the fringed blue gentian has shifted, met with a staggering set-back Sunday. The day being fine, everybody took the opportunity to ride out or walk afield in the afternoon, so also, did a small Polish girl of less than 10. Returning along toward dusk the little miss had a bouquet of gentians, the finest of the fine. One man made earnest appeal to the small flower girl at the same time showing her the color of coin, if she would tell where they were gathered. He reports the answer as being altogether to the point, when she replied, "No tell, me sell." As a matter of fact, in this connection gentians, as fine by half, as those this little Polish girl had found, were selling last Sunday in the Sixth avenue flower markets of New York, at three blossoms for a quarter. The girl in question had over 200.

According to the records of the board of selectmen for the town of Griswold there have been 100 voters made so far this fall, with one more chance next Saturday. A talk among party leaders in this town, on all sides of the fence has resulted in the common belief that the quality of local voters on election day is much to be deplored. No Jewett City man or woman eligible to vote can find any possible justification for failure to exercise the privilege or rather to discharge the duty in the coming election.

Local officers promise that no more complaints will be side-stepped in the picket-breaking rage that has overtaken certain of the Riverside people.

Regardless of youth and anxious parents, unless damages are paid, Meriden is what will be handed to those detected breaking pickets, and doing other damage that is becoming, according to the officers all too common.

A fine day Sunday was the signal for a fine church attendance. All had special attractions. The St. Mary's masses and sermons never had more attentive consideration by larger congregations.

At the Congregational church the rally day exercises brought out a large audience. Many listened to the chalk talk at the Methodist church by G. H. Prior. At the Baptist church, a male quartette and a sermon by Rev. Floyd L. Carr added to the usual morning service interest. Rally day and Epworth league celebrations, with Hugh Kinder, as soloist, swelled the audience at the Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Leeds of Worcester, Mass., were guests at dinner Sunday at the home of their uncle, Thomas E. Lee of Palmer avenue.

The baseball series finished to suit many Jewett City people, although the money was placed on the Giants. The observant citizen figures a hard road for the local man who will (as the result of a bet) have to go barefooted, until the league teams play ball again.

COLUMBUS.

Four hundred and thirty-two years ago Christopher Columbus landed somewhere in the West Indies that eventually resulted in the discovery of America. In this year 1924 there may be no greater reason for observing the anniversary than there has been in the past, although it will be noticed that 1924 contains the same figures as 1492 although differently arranged.

Probably the time will never come when it can be any more clearly established just who discovered America than today. There is a claim that Ericsson was here long before Columbus. Possibly that is so but that does not dispose of the fact that Columbus came and discovered. He was not trying to amplify something that he had known Ericsson did. He was not seeking America. He believed the earth round and that by sailing west he would reach the East Indies. He didn't reach his goal but he proved his contention and this country isn't likely to forget the part he played in giving the world a chance to expand westward.

The story of Christopher Columbus is not a new one. It nevertheless holds its interest and it is but proper that there should be due recognition given to the anniversary of his arrival as the years roll around.

MONOXIDE GAS POISONING.

By the statement of the chief medical examiner more deaths are caused in New York city by monoxide gas poisoning than by any other cause except reckless driving. That reveals a deplorable situation when it is realized that they are so easily prevented. But the very knowledge of such a situation should be sufficient warning to others to profit thereby and provide for themselves the protection that will avoid contributions to the death rate.

We are now approaching the season of the year when there will be an increasing disposition to shut the door of the garage when working about the car, and when work on the car will be more agreeable on the inside rather than out. That in itself should carry its own warning.

In every garage there should be several conspicuous signs reading something like, "Never let engine run while garage door is closed." The disposition to start a car with the door closed on a cold day to see how this or that part of the engine works is natural. It is more comfortable with the door closed, but to that very degree that it is more comfortable it is also more dangerous. It requires only a few minutes for the exhaust of the engine to flood the garage with a gas that eliminates the oxygen. With little or no warning the poisonous effects of that gas gets a grip upon the human being within its reach and he is lulled into unconsciousness and death quickly follows. There are many who have had very narrow escapes. There are many more who have lost their lives under those conditions.

The protection is easy. It lies in not running the engine in a closed garage, and when it is recognized to be a matter of life or death there is good and sufficient reason for exercising that simple degree of care that is needed.

GOING NORTH.

Explorers come and explorers go, but few are discouraged. There are those who reach the coveted goal, there are others who make important discoveries though they fail to reach their desired object and there are those who experience failure, but there is never any lack of those who want to go into the wilds of the arctic region for further adventure.

American explorers have always occupied a conspicuous place in the eyes of the rest of the world. But it is not solely the American explorer, or the American backed traveler who gets there.

Amundsen has been north and he has been south. He holds the distinction of locating the south pole. He has had ambitions to fly over the north pole, or to it if a landing can be made. There are plenty who are interested in such endeavors but it is not always possible to get a sufficient number of financial backers to equip an outfit for the far north every time the desire to go north gripe these intrepid explorers.

It is for that reason that Amundsen has come to the United States. He cannot resist the urge to get back into the arctic regions. He is of course a man who knows how to get scientific as well as other data. He has done it before and he can do it again. His appeal will therefore get a hearing and if he can convince those with available funds in this country that he can accomplish something more he may get a commission. There isn't much of the time but what there is one or more expeditions beyond the arctic circle from some part of the globe.

KEEP OUT OF A DEADLOCK.

From time to time there have been claims to the effect that combinations were being effected between democrats and third party members to work for a deadlock in the electoral college in order that the election might be thrown into congress, where a combination of the two parties worked so much havoc in the last session and where it would exert control in case congress had to decide the presidency.

William Jennings Bryan has been credited as lending encouragement to the La Follette cause by his bland words, but he says the third party leader hasn't a chance and maintains that it is bad doctrine to work for a deadlock. In speaking against it he says: "It is much better for the people to elect than to permit congressmen elected two years ago to decide the presidency for the next four years."

Upon that point there is no reason to be supposed that there will be any opposition. But that is a matter which should be realized by the people themselves. It is plainly their duty to not only see that there is no combinations of parties for the purpose of a deadlock but to prevent any chance of congress making a decision on the presidency for them.

It was never intended that congress should render such a service. It was provided to meet a possible emergency and it is the duty of the voters to see that no such emergency ever arises. It is a time to vote so that the electoral college will be prepared to do what is expected of it. A vote for national welfare by voting for Coolidge will fix it.

ELECTRIC ROADS.

According to the sentiment of the American Electric Railway association in annual convention there is no immediate prospect that the trolleys will be crowded out of business. There is evidence aplenty that certain lines are being abandoned where it has been demonstrated there is no chance of an adequate return, but in centers of population it is declared with full recognition that there hasn't as yet been provided any transportation which meets the situation as well as do the trolleys. A number of communities have found this out through experience. They thought they could get along with a substitute but they were only too glad to welcome the trolleys back.

What the trolleys do is indicated by the statistics read at the convention showing the transportation of 16,000,000,000 yearly, the employment of 500,000, the existence of 42,000 miles of track and an investment in electric railways totalling $10,000,000,000.

That trolley lines have been driven out of business by good roads, automobiles and busses is well known. It is not improbable that more will be. That is the logical result where it becomes impossible to make ends meet. But when it comes to terminating the service of trolleys in cities there is not that assurance that the days of this form of transportation for moving large numbers are numbered. The jitney does not take the place of the trolley and neither does the bus. If, however, the future can provide something better than the trolleys they will have to give way.

This doesn't mean that the busses are not likely to increase. As a matter of fact they are increasing and they are being more and more employed by transportation lines to replace trolleys or to provide additional service. Run by companies which can be depended upon to maintain schedule and to furnish the necessary financial responsibility they can help materially in solving transportation problems, and the fact that there are 1500 bus lines operated by electric railways indicates what may be expected in the future. When bus lines are operated over roadbeds built by the state and at increased fares, it is not surprising that they are replacing some of the trolleys. For the present, however, their use in the cities must be more or less limited.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Boston wants a deeper channel. So does Norwich.

Bulgaria has money which is turning to dust. That is not doing much better than the old German marks.

The man on the corner says: If you're old enough to be made a voter you can never be made any younger.

Just because woodbine, sumac and other foliage are turning red doesn't mean the spreading of socialistic tendencies.

Since it is claimed the radio is keeping the children up at night there is something more for the standard timers to fret about.

The United States supreme court having resumed its session there is no indication that it sought the consent of Robert M. La Follette.

Down in West Virginia they still continue to administer lynch law by shooting from ambush those who undertake to disregard union authority.

The governor of New York says he had hoped to be relieved of the duties of the governorship, and there doesn't appear to be any reason why he should abandon hope.

That picture of a big fleet of idle government vessels each with a watchman and requiring a heavy yearly expense with the probability they will never be used isn't exactly a convincing argument for government ownership of anything.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Sour milk will frequently remove iron rust from white goods.

When painting or varnishing, follow the grain of the wood.

Air your linens occasionally if the weather continues damp.

Wring table linen by hand and the creases will not be so hard to iron out.

Wear dark glasses if possible when hanging white clothes out in the snow.

To drive a nail into a plastered wall, first put it into very hot water. You can then drive it without breaking or chipping the plastering.

When coloring an article at home, if it is anything to be made over, color two spools of thread at the same time. It will then be sure to match in color.

If the mattress is full length, double in the center lengthwise, tie in three places with a stout cord, then insert three bundle handles (such as all housewives should keep) and it may be handled very easily. If in two pieces tie the larger part twice and insert handle and move with ease.

Yolks of eggs may be kept several days if they are placed in a cup and covered with cold water. They may be used for salad dressings, custards, cakes and stuffings.

An easy way to keep silver bright is to put a handful of borax in a pan of hot water with a very little soap. Place the silver in this and let it stand the entire morning. Rinse in clear water and wipe dry with a soft cloth.

When cane chairs are sagging in the seat, if you turn them upside down, wet the seats with soap-suds, soak them well and allow them to dry, the cane will stiffen to its normal condition.

When cooking a steak smothered in onions squeeze the juice of a lemon over it before serving and you will find the flavor greatly improved.

OIL LAMPS

When lamp wicks are short and the kerosene can empty put enough water in lamps to bring the oil up to the wicks and the lamps will burn until every drop of oil is consumed. Be sure to empty water out and dry wicks before refilling lamps.

TO HOLD SPICES

The tumblers and jars in which jellies and jams have been purchased may be made into neat spice containers. As they have neat little covers these can be labeled and they make a neat appearance on the pantry shelves besides keeping the contents from dust.

BROOMS

Place a broom on its handle end when not in use. To preserve brooms dip them for a minute or two in a kettle of boiling suds once a week and they will last much longer, making them tough and pliable.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

About half a cup of vinegar in the rinse water when next you wash your hair will make it lovely and soft and give it an attractive sheen.

When giving castor oil try beating it up with the white of an egg; this renders it entirely tasteless and quite palatable.

You may be helped by the following skin tonic: One part cherry laurel water and three parts milk almonds. Use it the last thing at night and wash off in the morning. It may also be used as a powder base.

Tonsils and teeth have a great deal to do with rheumatism. If you are a chronic sufferer from rheumatism have your throat and mouth examined and you may be surprised at the effect these remote regions have upon one's painful feet and knees.

SHOES FOR CHILDREN

The attention of every mother should be given to the state of children's feet, for much pain, lameness and distortion can be prevented if consideration is given in time to the child's boots and shoes. A proper length and width are given all will go well, but this must be seen to constantly, as little feet grow rapidly. Children's shoes should be easy across the toes and of a good form in the sole. If the ankles appear weak, consult a doctor without delay. In a few months damage may be done to the foot which will never be got over.

FOR A DRESSING TABLE

The modern dressing table is entirely different fromthat of a few years ago, when silver was considered the only material appropriate. Now one's toilet articles may express one's individuality quite as much as anything else. Toilet articles of a pink composition that is slightly translucent give a delightful bit of color, while a powder box of pink covered with golden net and having the top completely covered with a pink satin rose and a rosette of ostrich feathers is delightfully feminine.

LIGHT SUPPER DISH

For light supper dishes vegetables are favorites. The food elements contribute in easily digested form to the food needs of the body, yet there is not the heavy, uncomfortable feeling which follows a regulation dinner. To balance a vegetable supper so that every need of the body is satisfied, at least one vegetable should have a sauce of milk or cream. In addition milk or cocoa may properly be served by young and old. String beans, peas, or lima beans are especially suited for the main dish. The delicate flavor of these vegetables is evenly distributed through a cream sauce so that every drop of this wholesome sauce is consumed.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The waistline remains low.

Daytime dress sleeves are long and tight fitting.

Coat sleeves, for the most part set into regulation sized armholes, are often straight all the way down, and sometimes widely flared below the elbow.

Skirts are shorter.

In dresses there is a marked development of the pointed neck.

Spanish turbans of rich brocades with hanging ends of the fabric or with heavy silk fringe dripping off one side are to be exploited for fall.

The very large droopy, floppy hat is very smart in Paris as well as in New York and is usually worn with the very short frock.

Small hats are severe in outline, have very high crowns and narrow brims, the large ones are picturesque, but quite unpretentious.

The dinner dress of brown silk lace is a favorite this season. Usually it has a touch of orange or of Venetian red.

Three shades are the favorites for autumn hosiery. One is a seal brown, rich and attractive. Another is a definite beige, without a rosy tint. The third is skin.

Reversible capes and coats for winter are frequently combinations of fur and velvet or cloth and fur.

When the square-crowned high little felt hat—usually untrimmed—proves too severe in line a silk veil in blue, henna or black may be draped over the high crown.

ECRU LACE EFFECTIVE

Ecru lace on black satin is a pleasing thought of the moment. A black satin frock of simple lines has its round neck trimmed with wide ecru lace, while the tiniest of lace ruffles, in rows of three, are placed up and down the side of the skirt.

THE ENSEMBLE COSTUME

The vogue of the ensemble costume centers attention upon the type of dress worn under the long coat. Generally it is of the same material with the fabric. Since many women do not feel like going to the expense of a dress and coat which must be always worn together to achieve the correct effect, they plan their costume so that the dress may be worn separately and the coat serve as a wrap over other gowns. This autumn there is evidenced a pronounced liking for all shades of brown, a color that is particularly becoming to American women, who, as a rule, have the clear skins which brown demands if it is to be worn successfully. In the ensemble costumes a favorite combination of materials is the supple crepe back satin put together with a soft finished wool. Not a little smartness is given by using both the dull surfaces of the material.

OCCASIONAL WIDE HAT

While the majority of hats today are high-crowned and small-brimmed, one now and then sees a hat of the picture variety. Is brown felt, with sweeping uncurled plumes of orange a hat of this sort worn recently was as wide of brim as Gainsborough himself could wish.

LAUNDRY HINTS

By using soapy water when making starch, the clothes will have a glossy appearance and the irons will be less likely to stick.

Table linen should be ironed on the wrong side first and then on the right side. It is the only way a satiny finished gloss can be obtained at home.

If ink is spilled on the frock or table cloth apply salt immediately. The ink will then wash out quite easily.

One method of washing colored embroidery is to put a handful of bran into warm water and leave the article to be cleaned in the water to soak, pressing it gently from time to time, but not rubbing it. When clean, hang it up until it is nearly dry, then stretch it on a frame or iron it.

HOSIERY SHADES

The corduroy bathrobe probably needs a bath and you are afraid to take a chance on washing it. If carefully washed it will be like new. Wash in warm water and a reliable soap flake solution, just squeezing between the hands, not rubbing. Two solutions will probably be needed. Rinse in water of the same temperature and hang on a coat hanger to dry. Do not iron, but when nearly dry, brush briskly against the grain with a stiff brush. When thoroughly dry, brush again.

Except for sports wear, chiffon hosiery is the only kind worn by women with discriminating taste. For street wear there is a tendency to choose this hosiery in slightly darker shades than formerly. Such as tanbark or melon. But for afternoon the lighter shades of nude and French nude still predominate.

Once in awhile one sees a smartly dressed woman wearing sheer black hose. But this is so seldom as to cause remark and it is only with an all black costume untouched with white or any color.

SWEET MUSTARD PICKLES

Two quarts of cucumbers, 1 quart of onions, 1 head of cabbage, 2 heads of celery, add green peppers to taste. Cut all into small pieces, not too fine. Sprinkle with salt and let stand for two hours, then drain. Scald in equal part of vinegar and water, then remove and drain. Make a paste of 4 cups of granulated sugar (more to suit taste.) 5tablespoons ofmustard, 1 cup of flour, and 1-2 gallon of vinegar. Boil to a paste and pour over the pickles.

PRETTY GIFT FOR BABY

A gift for baby is often a most perplexing one to choose, but the problem is solved if one picks out a set consisting of tiny gold ring, three baby pins, a slender bracelet and a fine chain and locket, all of gold.

FINAL TOUCH OF COLOR

No costume today seems to be complete without an artificial flower at the shoulder. The camelia, in white or red, is good on a tailored suit, but an orchid in some fanciful shade seems preferred for the afternoon frock.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Houston, Texas, has a barber shop exclusively for women.

In the textile industry in England women workers are in a majority over the men.

Mrs. Laney Traux of Hastings, Minn., celebrated her 103d birthday by assisting in her housework.

Scotland Yard is recruiting a new women's police force in an effort to rope in more crime perpetrators.

Miss Marguerite Henderson, a society of Tifton, Ga., owns and personally supervises a large tobacco plantation.

Mrs. Herbert Sheets of Quinton, N. J., has cooked $7,000 meals in the past 61 years, during which time she has used the same stove.

Kansas now has its first woman assistant attorney general, Mrs. Charles I. Martin having been appointed to the position by attorney general.

AVOID WRINKLES

After removing clothes from the line fold them carefully before you put them away. If crushed into the clothes basket there are more wrinkles to remove.

RENDER FAT

To render fat, cut it in small pieces and melt in the upper part of a double boiler or in a basin set in the oven of a coal range. Then strain through cheesecloth laid on a wire strainer.

RECIPES

Peach Cocktails: One and one-half cups of very ripe peaches, one cup of preserved cherries, one grapefruit, three tablespoons of powdered sugar, one or two bananas, some rather large but equal sized oranges. Wash dry the oranges, then cut them with a sharp knife to form baskets with handles. Remove the pulp carefully to preserve the baskets in perfect form. Put the orange pulp into a bowl, add the peaches, cut in small pieces, cherries halved, grapefruit pulp and juice, sugar and the bananas, sliced. Mix and chill. Place the baskets on serving plates, fill with the mixture and serve.

Date Biscuit: The use of fruit in making bread, biscuit and muffins is increasingly popular and much to be recommended. Date biscuit is especially good. It requires a cup of sweet milk, a cup and a half of graham flour, two tablespoons of butter or other shortening, one well beaten egg, one level teaspoon of salt, one-fourth cup light brown sugar, four level teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup chopped dates.

Bring the milk to the boiling point. Add butter and sugar. Combine flour, salt and baking powder and sift. Stir this into the wet ingredients and add the egg. Stir in chopped dates dredged with a little flour. Fill the gem pans nearly two thirds full and bake in a rather quick oven to a golden brown. With marmalade these are delicious for breakfast.

Millerand Put Out of His Party

Winning success in public life at 41, Alexandre Millerand found himself sitting in the French cabinet next to the man who had ordered his father shot years before. Soon after that success he was voted out of his party.

Born in Montmartre, Paris, he was only 13 years old when his father, an active disciple of Karl Marx, met death in the Commune of 1871, and it was expected that the boy would follow in his parent's footsteps. The lad attended the Lycees of Henry IV and Michelot and then took a course in law.

By his defense of instigators of a strike he attracted public attention. Soon afterwards he became prominent in the Socialist party, and was elected a municipal councilor. At 26 he was elected a member of the Chamber of Deputies and eventually became leader of the Socialists, winning several legislative reforms.

As editor of the Socialist organ, La Republique, he was wounded in a duel by an offended deputy. As editor of La Lanterne, he was challenged by an angry anti-Dreyfusite, and narrowly escaped death from a bullet fired by the wife of a deputy who had been attacked editorially.

Revealing that he had departed from the true Marx traditions, he was was made Minister of Commerce, the first reformist Socialist to enter the Cabinet. Then he found that the aristocratic Minister of War was the man who had caused his father's death 28 years before. Millerand effected many reforms, but because of his new affiliations was expelled from the Socialist party. Soon afterward the Cabinet fell and Millerand stepped down to his seat in the Chamber.

Seven years later he was made Minister of Public Works, Post and Telegraph, but served only a year. Chosen Minister of War at 53, he took the undeserved blame for the reinstatement of Lieutenant-Colonel Paty de Clam, instigator of the Dreyfus case, and resigned, to make possible the election of Poincaire as President of France.

Reappointed Minister of War when the World war started, he was made a target by the extremists, and resigned in 1915. In 1919 he was made governor of Alsace-Lorrain; a year later he became Prime Minister and a few months after that was chosen President of France.

Tomorrow—Spah Had to Fight His Way.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The erection of the statue of Francis Asbury, pioneer bishop of American Methodism, the dedication of which is to be made the occasion for a great Methodist demonstration in Washington this week, is due in large measure to the personal efforts of Bishop William F. McDowell, as president of the Francis Asbury Memorial Association. Bishop McDowell is an Ohio man, educated at Ohio Wesleyan and at Boston University. He has had a varied career in the church.

Following work in the pastorate, he served for some years as chancellor of the University of Denver. Then he became administrator of the educational board of his denomination, and then, in 1904, a bishop. He has broadened the range of his activities far beyond those of a mere ecclesiastic and denominationalist, and has done his part in influencial positions in civic and non-sectarian organizations. In 1918 he was a leader in the movement which brought about "war time" prohibition of the liquor traffic.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS CONDUCT DEGREE, FOLLOWED BY BANQUET

Grand Counselor George A. Daniels of Malden, Mass., was the guest of honor here Saturday for the most notable gathering ever held by Norwich Council, No. 309, United Commercial Travels, when a meeting in the afternoon for initiation was followed by a banquet and ladies' night in the evening. The afternoon gathering was held in the council headquarters in the hall on Market street and the ladies' night programme, with banquet, was held at the Wauregan house.

Others of the grand council who accompanied Grand Counselor Daniels were Joseph Redavatz of Hartford, grand sentinel; Alexander Jordan of this city, grand chaplain; E. R. Daniels of Hartford, and [illegible] Duncan of Hartford, a past senior counselor.

In his address at the initiation and business meeting and at the banquet, Grand Counselor Daniels had the highest commendation to give for Norwich council, which has added 45 new members this year and he gave it a rating of 100 per cent. As spirit, in endeavor and in ritual. He spoke of the growth of the order which has a membership of 111,000 in the United States, of which 9,100 is in New England and he placed special emphasis upon the slogan he has adopted for the year of "Get a member—Keep a member." This, he said, was to be an incentive not merely to gain members but to maintain a high standard in those who are invited into the fraternity, bearing in mind the cardinal principles of unity, charity and temperance, upon which it is founded. The aim in membership shall be not only for the salesmen but for sales managers and proprietors and he urged that the membership take an active interest in civic affairs in which they could exercise a potent influence that would counteract the indifference of the average voter. He spoke also of the desirability of forming a women's auxiliary towards which a special effort is to be directed and in which a Waterbury woman, Mrs. Charles S. Poole has consented to act as [illegible]ntol.

There were nine initiated in the afternoon at 3 o'clock at the hall on Market street and there were two transfers, both past counselors, C. W. Way of St. Johnsbury, Vt., and Nate Morris of New Haven.

The council voted to take part in the Norwich Armistice day celebration and also to send H. W. Branche and James E. Campbell as its representatives to a big day on Nov. 1 in Boston in which eight councils of that section are to participate. Alexander Jordan, grand chaplain, will also attend as a member of the grand council.

The wives and guests of out of town members were entertained at the Wauregan house during the afternoon by a committee consisting of wives of members of Norwich council, and at 8 o'clock the banquet was served in the hotel dining room, where covers were laid for 125.

The tables were attractively decorated with flowers and U. C. T. insignia and colors, arranged by Morgan Cronin, Grover's orchestra rendered inspiring music during the evening and the following menu was served:

Fruit Cocktail
Consomme Royal
Celery Olives
Small Sirloin Steak, Jardiniere
O'Brien Potatoes
Dinner Rolls
Apple Pie, a la Mode
Coffee
Candy Cigars

Everett N. Lyons, past counselor, presided ably as toastmaster, and there were spirited addresses of much interest by Grand Counselor Daniels, Past Senior Counselor Duncan of Hartford, Grand Chaplain Jordan and Mr. Daniels of Hartford. William A. Holt, city manager of New London, represented Mayor Waldo E. Clark, who was unable to attend. Mayor Milo R. Waters was also unable to be present. Herbert R. Branche, editor of the U. C. T. Monthly, responded to the toast. The Ladies, in a pleasing way, speaking of the value that a ladies' auxiliary would be when formed in connection with Norwich council.

Musical numbers during the evening were solos by H. T. Shurts, F. R. Smith and William Mitchell, who delighted their hearers, and Edward T. Connelly sang and gave a monologue in the well known way that makes him a favorite on any programme.

After the banquet the tables were cleared away and an hour of dancing was enjoyed.

The successful event was in the hands of the following committees:

Reception: Clifford W. Nay, P. C., chairman; Nathan Morris, P. C., P. H. Sheridan, P. C., Alexander Jordan, P. C., C. D. Tingley, P. C., Jas. E. Campbell, J. C., Alfred Rogers, page; Ernest A. Bean, sentinel; Mrs. P. H. Sheridan, chairman; Mrs. W. A. Bussey, Mrs. H. R. Branche, Mrs. Alexander Jordan, Mrs. Ernest A. Bean, Mrs. James E. Campbell, Mrs. E. N. Lyon, Mrs. John R. Collins, Mrs. Jas F. Ahern.

BISHOP FROM WASHINGTON SPEAKS TO METHODISTS

Membes of Methodist Episcopal churches of Norwich and vicinity gathered at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening and heard a most inspiring address delivered by Bishop John W. Hamilton of Washington, D. C.

Bishop Hamilton, a man of nearly 80 years, spoke particularly of the value of old people to the world and what they could do to further the Kingdom of God.

It is strange, he said, that as we read in the New Testament we find that the first sermons preached by Christ were preached to one person. His first was to a man, whom he informed "that he must be born again," and the second to a woman, which he spoke of living waters. This makes it certain that the gospel is for both men and women, that it is to be individual.

Christ also said that salvation was of the Jews. Salvation came of the Jews, then of the Samaritans, then to the Europeans and finally to us in this country. What is the inference gained from this? Simply that man is the saviour of man, that no man can be saved except by another man. It mans that the privileged class should assist the less privileged. This makes the responsibility a personal one, it becomes, "How many have you saved? What have you done and what are you doing?"

Isn't it strange that this belief is not a practical one? In these days when all business is carried on by personal solicitation isn't it strange that the work of the Kingdom is not done that way by all professing Christians. I leave these questions with you, measure yourself by your own conscience to learn of your responsibility.

The best preachers are the old people for they are sincere, they have an unconscious influence. I say that an old person need only keep the light shining and trimmed and many will fall into his shadow and thus find the way into the Kingdom. Christ said that a child should lead them, and here again, we find personal work. Many a father and mother have been brought to God because of their child. Parents should set the child an example, lest that child lose faith in its parents.

It is a wonderful privilege to be a Jew, but yet, when we think of the way they have been treated, the way other races have been treated, isn't it a wonder we haven't had more trouble in this country. One of the greatest statements I ever heard was one by an old man, "I know not what judgment awaits me on the other side, but I have never been mean enough to despise the poor, the ignorant, the foreigner or the black."

The gospel of Jesus Christ touches every man and personal work will bring men to Christ quicker than any other way. It is your great privilege as Christians and leads to salvation.

MAN FOUND DEAD SITTING IN CHAIR

Christopher John Durr, 43, was found dead Sunday morning in his room at the home of Louis Metivier, 470 North Main street, where he had been a lodger. He had gone to bed with his clothes on and had evidently arisen some time during the night and sat in a chair where he died.

Mr. Durr had had an operation for hernia six months ago and had been in a poor state of health since then. Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, medical examiner, who investigated the case, determined that death was caused by dropsy and complications.

Mr. Durr was unmarried and is survived by a sister in Greeneville, one brother in Taftville and one in Occum.

Dahlias on Exhibition

Over 200 people from New Jersey, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Putnam, Plainfield and other places visited the beautiful dahlia garden of W. F. Brown at 46 Palmer street, Sunday enjoying the wonderful display of flowers. The dahlias are now in full bloom and include many special varieties conceived by Mr. Brown, among them being the G. A. R. dahlia. The public was invited by Mr. Brown to examine the display, which is one of the most beautiful in the state and it was evident that many accepted his kind invitation and enjoyed this annual event.

NORWICH DELEGATES AT C. L. OF C. STATE CONVENTION

The annual state convention of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus which was held at Rockville Saturday was largely attended with delegates present from all the assemblies in the state. Proceeding the opening of the business session at 11 o'clock, the delegates attended mass at 9 o'clock at St. Bernard's church, which was celebrated by Rev. W. P. Reidy of South Manchester, who took the place of the state chaplain, Rev. Francis M. May of Mt. Carmel, who was unable to be present.

The convention was held in the Knights of Columbus home with a morning session until 1 in the afternoon when dinner was served at the Rockville house for the delegates, with Rev. Fathers Synnott and Higgins of Rockville and Reidy of South Manchester as guests.

The meeting was reopened at 2.45 when reports of officers and minutes, of last year's convention at Danbury were read and accepted. The honorary state president, Mrs. Jennie Carroll of New Haven, addressed the convention, congratulating the delegates for the work that had been done and encouraging them to go on for the coming year, urging that the membership be extended in other states and localities.

A new assembly that has been started in Shelton was congratulated and encouraged for the coming year.

The state officers were relected including Mrs. James J. Dutton of this city as state treasurer, and a vote of courtesy was passed appointing Mrs. Rose Coblisse of Shelton on the board of directors. Miss Irene Gallivan of this city was appointed an alternate on the state board, and it was voted to hold the next convention in Hartford. Reports were ready by the presidents of the assemblies.

Those attending from Mercier assembly of this city were the following officers: Miss Mary Maloney, president; Miss Irene Gallivan, vice president; Miss Mae Riley, recording secretary; Miss Annie Stanton, financial secretary; Miss Maud Quinley, treasurer; and Mrs. Margaret Dutton, state treasurer.

GIVES AUTO AWAY AFTER SCOTLAND ROAD WRECK

A Ford coupe, said to belong to a Jewett City man who is working at Mansfield in the employ of a state department, was so badly smashed Saturday night on the Scotland road, Norwich Town, that the owner gave it away. The driver of the car crawled out from under the wreck unhurt.

The machine was headed towards this city and had apparently left the road just after rounding a curve, struck a pile of loose crushed stone and a barrel, plunged into the ditch and then turned over. It lay upside down in the ditch and headed the opposite way from which it has been coming. One wheel was torn off, two other wheels were crushed and the cab body was a crumpled mass of wreckage. During Saturday night a new tire was stolen from the machine.

The owner returned to the place Sunday and told some acquaintances living on the road that they could have what was left for clearig up the wreck. The number plates were removed.

DROPPED DEAD IN BARN ON HIS FARM

John Hermanson, formerly of this city who lived on a farm he owns on Pitch hill, in Montville, dropped dead in the barn there Sunday morning about 10 o'clock with a shock. Members of his family carried him into the house and secured medical aid but life was extinct.

Mr. Hermanson was 60 years old. He lived on Myers avenue in this city for a number of years and for fourteen years had been employed in the old Cranston printing press factory. He is survived by his wife, Charlotte one son living at home, two other sons and two other daughters.

Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve of this city acting medical examiner for Montville, in the absence of Dr. M. E. Fox, was summoned to make an investigation of the case.

THOUSANDS OF CONFESSIONS IN CATHOLIC MISSION

In the forty-five years since St. Patrick's Church, Norwich, was dedicated there have never been seen such manifestations of vigor and practical religion as were shown at the week end, with the closing exercises of the week's mission for the parish women. The three Fathers of the Holy Ghost from Philadelphia, Fathers Hartnett, O'Loughlin and O'Brien have received back into friendship with God, through the confessional, hundreds of the erring, day after day and evening after evening, so that at the masses at 5 and 8 Saturday morning these women were in a state of grace to receive the body and blood of the Saviour in Holy Communion. At 8 o'clock, when Father O'Brien and Father Galvin had administered the Eucharist to row after row of devout women, they began to give communion to the hundreds of children finishing up their special mission of three days. Never locally had there been such an amazing and edifying sight. This was repeated at the 7.30 mass Sunday morning, when three priests were kept busy; and the same condition was the rule at 9. Saturday evening, a great assemblage, after congregational singing, and the recitation of the five glorious mysteries of the Rosary—meditation on Christ's resurrection, ascension, the descent of the Holy Ghost on the Apostles, the Assumption and glorification of the Mother of Christ in heaven—which recitation was led by Father O'Brien, heard a marvelous sermon by Father Hartnett.

The preacher followed the sacrifices of Abel, of Noah, of Abraham, and others through to the night when—the sacrifice of animals having been mere types, figures, shadows of the Supreme Sacrifice—the Son of God took bread and wine, commanding His disciples for all time to repeat what He was doing, offering what He declared was His body and His blood, as a worthy oblation to His eternal Father. That sacrifice He made in veritude the following day on Calvary. It was the same Mass and the same Priest, when St. Peter offered the Holy Sacrifice in the catacombs, that St. Paul offered at Corinth, St. Francis in India, St. Patrick in Ireland. There is but one Mass and but one Priest the world over—yesterday, today and forever. That is why the Catholic loves his church, feels his soul elevated when entering it, realizing that in the holy sacrifice of the mass at which he assists he is paying honor, homage, making atonement in an unbroken act of oblation instituted by Christ Himself, an eternal Son, offering Himself for men and their sins and souls to an eternal Father.

Incidentally Father Hartnett while referring to St. Patrick spoke with loving tribute to the faith as it had been lived for and died for in Ireland—of the lofty character, loyalty and patriotism at home and abroad of the Irish people. While a dozen nationalities make up the Norwich congregation, in its great numbers and prosperity, all heard with approval and a glow at the heart the missionary's magnificent tribute to the sireland of the pioneer Catholics of the parish.

All day Sunday there was the same activity about the church, finding its culmination when, at 3.30 the women's week ended. Father O'Loughlin led in the recitation of the Rosary, there was inspiring congregational singing, and the eloquent sermon was by Father Hartnett from John XIV-27 "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you," his theme being Christ's gospel of peace, from His birth until His ascension. Then came the beautiful ceremonial of the renewal of baptismal vows, when the women holding lighted candles, renounced sin and pledged perseverance in the promises made during the mission. Father Hartnett bestowed the Papal benediction, as well as the blessing of the missionaries. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by Father O'Brien, assisted by Father O'Loughlin.

Throughout the services, Organist Frank L. Farrell played, also accompanying the great chorus of the body of women, singing hymns.

Sunday evening, the parish men began their week's exercises to consist of daily mass each morning at 5, 7 and 8, and services every evening at, 7.30.

OBSERVED THEIR 20TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Henschel of No 333 Main street observed the 20th anniversary of their marriage Sunday evening with a theatre party, followed by a supper and social at their home. The theatre party was held at the Palace theatre and from there the guests went to Mr. and Mrs. Henschel's home where a supper was served.

The programme included recitations by Mrs. A. J. Agranovitch, vocal solos by Mrs. Sarah Trachtenberg, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Barney Rubenstein. Mrs. Agranovitch also rendered vocal selections and Herman A. Bruckner entertained with vocal numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Henschel were united in marriage 20 years ago in New York city and for the past three years have made their home in this city. He is proprietor of Henschel's Tire Shop, Main street.

Among those present at the anniversary were Mr. and and Mrs. William E. Turhill, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Feyser of New Britain, Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Bruckner, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bruckner, Mr. and Mrs. William Trachtenberg, Mr. and Mrs. David Trachtenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Trachtenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Rubenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Agranovitch.

MISSIONS DEPARTMENT HEARS ALABAMA SPEAKER

The October meeting of the missions department of Park Congregational church was held Friday afternoon, Miss Alice W. Cogswell, presiding. Miss Catherine C. Perry of Thorsy Institute, Thorsby, Alabama, was the speaker. Thorsby Institute, she said, is filled with its 100 pupils from the poorer whites. These young people are taught that character rather than knowledge is the end and aim of education. Courses in agriculture and the domestic arts as well as the regular academic work send them back to their homes equipped to be Christian leaders in their communities.

Announcements were made of the meeting of the A. B. C. F. M., Oct. 21, 1924 at Providence, R. I., of the semi-annual meeting of the W. H. M. U. of Ct., Eastern District, at Danielson on Oct. 29 and of the annual meeting of the W. B. M. at Hartford Nov. 12-14.

Mrs. F. W. Cary gave out an invitation to the October meeting of the Parish House Department which will be a luncheon next Friday at 1.30.

NORWICH BOARD MADE 439 NEW VOTERS

A total of 439 new voters, of whom 245 were men and 194 women, was made Saturday in the town hall where the selectmen, town clerk and registrars of voters were in session from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. to make voters.

There will be further sessions of the board on Wednesday and Saturday of this week, at the same hours, to make voters.

TWO PENS IN CLOSE COMPETITION FOR LEAD

The forty-ninth week of the laying contest at Storrs finds the race for first place narrowed down to two contenders. The pen of Rhode Island Reds from Fernside Farm with 2,434 eggs to its credit is leading a pen of White Leghorns from North Branch, N. J., by a scant fifteen eggs. The total production of 2,510 for the week or 88 per cent is very good for this time of year. It is 342 eggs better than the eight year average when lights were not used although it is 279 eggs less than score for the same week last year. The leading pens for the week are as follows:

	Eggs
Edgar Stoughton (Barred Rocks) Wapping, Conn.	43
Hillton Farm (White Leghorns) Suffield, Conn.	43
Andrew L. Ohr, (White Leghorns) Wallingford, Conn.	42

The college is receiving more and more reports concerning the prevalence of paralysis among this year's crop of chickens. This disease which has been a mystery to investigators for some years is apparently becoming more general. In most cases the following is the only advice that can be given to alleviate or prevent the disease. (1) strict quarantine of all sick birds; (2) thorough cleaning of houses and immediate disposal of all droppings; (3) the feeding of abundant green food and a mash with a small amount of animal protein in it (5 to 10 per cent). Tape worms or round worms are frequently found in paralyzed birds and prompt measures against these parasites should be taken. In other cases paralysis has not been found to be associated with worms.

Plymouth Rocks.

WINS ESSAY PRIZE AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

At the Sunday evening service at the Central Baptist church announcement was made that Miss Ruth Hamilton is the winner of the prize essay contest conducted by the church on the general topic The Programme of the Central Baptist Church for the Next 16 Years. Announcement was also made that the prize will be presented Miss Hamilton next Sunday morning at the church service by the donor, whose identity will not be known until that time.

Rev David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the church just before his sermon called on Miss Edith A. Ellis, pastor's assistant, to make the announcement of the winner of the contest. Miss Ellis had charge of the names and numbers of the contestants and it was not known, even to the pastor, who the winner was until she announced the name of Miss Hamilton. The announcement was greeted with applause.

Rev. Dr. Pitt in his sermon used the topic Impressions of the Essay Contest. After reading the essays, he said. I am gladder than ever that the suggestion was made and that the prize was offered. I wish to express my thanks to the donor and to those who gave time and thought to the preparation of these essays. Only the future can reveal what a contribution they have made to the life of this church. One cannot read the essays without being reminded of last year's work in our church and in this community. This was a background for most of the essays. Again and again reference was made to the religious census, to the visitation evangelism, to Prof. Honline's work and to Dr. Agar's suggestion for the organization of a church, also to the community cooperative effort.

Speaking with reference to some of the things suggested by the essayists, Rev. Dr. Pitt said, I wish [illegible] sometime every one [illegible] have the privilege of studying these essays. They have been most interesting reading. First of all [illegible] section with the suggestions as to forward look. More than one of the essays advocated Dr. Agar's suggested plan of church organization. Considerable was said about regular monthly meetings of the deacons and the board of managers. Practically one subject came in for [illegible] attention as religious education [illegible] young people. Another subject that came in for much attention was the church building plans.

Lay leadership was [illegible] that the Thursday evening [illegible] should be for the [illegible] least once a month the [illegible] in charge. Another suggestion was that one meeting of prayer be printed on the church calendar. Missions, local, home, world-wide, came in for [illegible] of attention and many other [illegible] while suggestions was made [illegible] cordiality toward all, especially a stranger, a spirit of reverence [illegible] and more the practice of bowing head and lifting the heart in prayer that more time be given to the [illegible] ing of the Lord's supper.

Another suggestion was made for closer cooperation among the Protestant Christians of Norwich in the interests of a better [illegible] I am not pleading for one [illegible] Rev. Dr. Pitt. I am pleading for a spirit in all the churches, the unity of the Master.

In closing he said: It rests with the church now, whether [illegible] throw out a rope in the shape of a constructive program and [illegible] of that and with God's help make steadily toward the goal of her centennial in 1940.

RIVERVIEW AND FABER'S STARS PLAY SIXTEEN INNINGS TO SCORELESS TIE

Darkness called a halt on one of the tightest baseball battles ever seen in this part of the state Saturday afternoon at the Norwich state hospital when the Riverview club and Faber's Allstars fought for 16 innings to a scoreless tie. The game was undoubtedly the best of the season and was marked by exceptional brilliant fielding features that cut off scoring opportunities for both teams. Joe Faber, property of the Baltimore Orioles, who recently returned from Harrisburg, Pa., where he played during the past season was the fielding sensation of the Stars accepting 19 chances in the shortfield without an error.

Tony West, another member of the Baltimore club, pitched for Riverview and during his 16 innings in the box fanned 21 of the fifty men that faced him. Although three of the regular Riverview team were missing the substitutes played brilliant ball and the game was a wonder. Spike Liberto of Jewett City did the hurling, striking out nine and keeping the 11 hits that the Riverview team made well scattered. Fast fielding behind him saved the game several times with men in position to score. Eddie Burns was also a shining light of the Hospital infield, accepting nine chances without error. The score:

BULKELEY PLAYERS GUESTS OF YALE ATHLETES

New London, Oct. 12. — Eighteen members of the Bulkeley High school football team were guests of the Yale Athletic Association at the Yale Bowl Saturday afternoon. The New London contingent witnessed the Yale-Georgia game and enjoyed the affair exceedingly much. It will be the only Saturday left vacant on the entire Bulkeley schedule for Bulkeley played Springfield Technical High school on Friday here and gave that team a sound lacing.

The after effects of the Springfield Tech-Bulkeley game have resulted in more than one injury. Besides the broken left leg which Joe Barry, Bulkeley fullback sustained, Tillie Daniels also a member of the Bulkeley team had to leave the game soon after the second half began with a badly wrenched right shoulder. Whether Daniels' injury will keep him out of the next game which is with Naugatuck High at Morgan Park is unknown as yet the extent of his injuries at present is unascertained.

Joe Barry is resting comfortably at his home where he was removed from Dr. Lena's Private hospital, his broken leg in a plaster cast. Dr. Lena who set the injured leg, said that Barry had a quicker chance for recovery because the leg was a clear break, than if it had been a fracture. But it will undoubtedly keep the Bulkeley fullback out of the game for the rest of the season.

Injuries are hitting the Bulkeley machine hard, and four regulars of the team are now out of the game permanently with broken bones or fractures.

All Stars Defeat Crescents.

Sunday afternoon at the Laurel Hill park the All Stars defeated the Laurel Crescents by the score of 12 to 6. Both teams were evenly matched and the game was packed with thrills from start to finish.

The first score coming in the first quarter when Mingo caught an intercepted forward pass bepeath the goal post. The second score in the third quarter when De Rusha caught a forward pass and got the ball within three feet of the goal, Dixon taking the ball over on the next down. Laurel Hill scored in the last quarter when Savage got around his right end for 30 yards. It took the Crescents three downs to make the goal. Williams was the Crescents' shining star.

Challenge.

The Norwich Nutmegs challenge any football team in eastern Connecticut that averages between 130 and 145 pounds. The Nutmegs have open dates until the middle of December. The Nutmegs are particularly anxious to hear from either the Fall Rovers or the Jewett City Speedboys for a game next Sunday afternoon. Answer through this paper.

Speed Boys, Attention!

The Valiants would like a game next Sunday at Jewett City or at Norwich. The Valiants team averages 125 to 135 pounds. Games can be arranged through this paper or write to Thomas Vitagliano, 88 Boswell avenue, Norwich.

Colonials Win.

The Jail Hill Colonials beat the Thamesville eleven 18 to 0 at the Academy campus Saturday afternoon.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Fordham Star and New York Giants

Seventh inning. Score 3 to 0 in favor of team in the field. Team at bat has runners on first and second with none out.

What should infield look for and how should it play?

When the team at bat is three runs behind it is not likely that the next hitter will bunt. Even if batter did bunt and advanced the runners and all of them scored it would only tie the score. At this stage of the game the team at bat must play to win and the team in the field to hold its lead. Therefore, the latter's infield should play back and not look for a bunt but for a chance to make a double in order to break up any possible rally. The team in the field in a situation of this kind should never hurry a play. Take time and make sure of one man.

MANY SURPRISES ON EASTERN FOOTBALL FIELDS

New York, Oct. 12.—Major eastern football elevens tainted by the blight of surprise in Saturday's game will seek to retrieve prestige in contests this week when some of the classics of the season will be presented.

Heading the list is the annual intersectional premier between Army and Notre Dame which will be played this year at the Polo Grounds. Yale and Dartmouth at New Haven, Princeton and Navy clash at Princeton, Penn State goes to Atlanta for an intersectional with Georgia Tech and Colgate journeys to Nebraska to meet the Cornhuskers. Syracuse and Boston College will provide one of the day's highlights at Syracuse.

Cornell, whose string of 26 victories was broken Saturday by a well-coached and more alert Williams team by a score of 14 to 7, will go on without the heavy strain of consecutive wins, meeting Rutgers, an undefeated team, at Ithaca.

Loose handling of the ball led to the defeat of Doble's team. After scoring first in the second period Cornell cracked in the third when Ide, Williams, end, recovered a fumble by Hollman, and ran 10 yards for a touchdown. The Williams left end scored a pass which Cornell essayed in its own territory with the score even in the last quarter. Williams clung to its victory by holding for downs on its one-foot line in this period.

Marquette, now in its third undefeated season, smothered Navy with speed in the final quarter and earned a 21 to 3 victory after the Middies had taken the lead with a field goal in the final period. Making only one first down, and that on a penalty, in the first three periods, the team which is making Milwaukee famous again, made three touchdowns following runs of 70 yards by Delweg, 65 by McCormick and 45 by Skemp.

Princeton narrowly escaped relegation to the ranks of the football damned. Burke dashed 39 yards across the Tiger goal in the last quarter but officials returned the ball to the 11-yard line where the Lehigh end stepped out of bounds. Princeton rooters were happy to accept a 0-0 score as the bulky Lehigh line and hard-running backs constantly threatened the Princeton goal during the last half.

Georgia gave Yale a scare by scoring a touchdown in the first quarter after a 60 yard advance down the field. The Southerners failed to kick goal, however, and the Elis won, 7 to 6, by converting their goal after a touchdown in the third period into a point. Both elevens tried hard to tally thereafter but failed. Georgia reached the Blue 15-yard line in the third session and Yale was on the Crackers' three-yard mark at the final whistle.

Fumbling at critical times by the Mountaineers enabled Pittsburgh to administer a 14 to 7 defeat to West Virginia in the other big upset on eastern gridirons. Eckburg fumbled when across the Pitt goal line and Nardicci dropped the ball on the one-yard line. The Panthers uncovered two stars, Joe Schmitt and Ollie Harris, who scored touchdowns after good running.

Army tuned up for Notre Dame by trimming Detroit 20 to 0 and Dartmouth edged for Yale with a 30-8 victory over Vermont. Syracuse defeated William and Mary 24 to 7 and Columbia stopped Wesleyan 35 to 0. Penn State won from Gettysburg 26 to 0, and Colgate shaped up for its jaunt to Lincoln with a 41 to 0 victory over Clarkson.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 12.—Encountering unusual stiff opposition, the Submarine Base after settling down to business managed to score an 8 to 0 victory over the Newport Torpedo Station here at the Fort Adams field Saturday afternoon. The home players gave a good account of themselves in the first half, but cracked under a concentrated line attack in the second half, and a safety scored by the Sub Base including a touchdown gave them a total of eight points, the only scoring done by either team all afternoon.

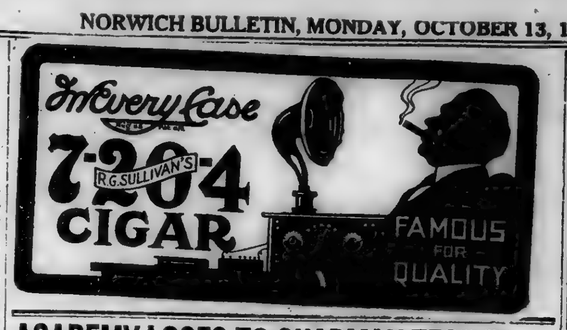
The local gobs played on even terms with the visitors in the first half, but after the Base received in the second half, they began a series of line plays that ended up in a touch down with Anctil carrying the ball over the goal line for the score. The Base was not content with six points and added two more in the final quarter, after Murphy intercepted a Newport pass, the Base again lost the ball on downs, but profited by a poor pass made by the Newport center. Newport was attempting to punt from behind their goal line, when a high pass was thrown to the Newport punter. The Base line was in on the punter, and before he had a chance to recover the ball, and punt out of danger he was tackled behind the line for a safety. The local gobs after this play tried numerous passes, but enough of these were not completed to really threaten the visitors goal line. An interception now and then would intervene, after several passes would bring the ball down the field.

The victory is the first for the Base in the quest for the Eastern States Service championship, and it looks as though the Base will be in the thick for these honors this year.

FOUR NEGRO BANDITS FLEE FROM DANBURY RESTAURANT

Danbury, Oct. 12.—Four negroes, armed with guns, raided a restaurant conducted by John Moses here, early this morning, and held up a dozen men who were playing cards. As they made a demand for the players' money, one of the men hurled a chair at the bandits. The hold-up men took to their heels and escaped.

During the turning over of old documents in the record office in London a batch of New South Wales postage stamps of the 1855 issue was discovered. Collectors value them at $4,500. The stamps were attached to a report sent to the colonial secretary by the governor of New South Wales.



ACADEMY LOSES TO CHAPMAN TECH IN FIRST GAME OF HIGH SCHOOL LEAGUE

New London, Oct. 12.—Chapman Tech retained its vise like grip upon first place in the Eastern Connecticut inter-scholastic standing, by scoring its seond victory in as many starts in league competition. After vanquishig Stonington High by a single touchdown last week, the Red and Black taking advantage of several opportunities to score, won over Norwich Free Academy at Morgan Park Saturday afternoon. Tech scored two touchdowns, and with two additional points after the touchdowns, registered a 14 to 0 victory over the up-river aggregation.

On orgy of fumbles by members of both teams furnished several chances for either team to break through for touch downs. Chapman Tech had a more efficient method of advancing the pig skin, while the Red and White found a stone wall in the advance line of the present league leaders. The chances that presented themselves for scoring were about equal, but the Tech machine in general attained its highest efficiency early in the first and second quarters. The pig skin while elusive, was nestled close to the bodies of the Tech backfield players when their matches to the Academy goal line were successful.

There were two such successful offensive drives down the field, and both ended up in a score for Tech on each occasion. Directly after the first quarter had no more than started, Tech began their drive down the field in a business like manner that finally netted this team their first touchdown. It was Williams who went over for the touchdown, following brilliant runs by Brown and Everts. Williams found a hole of tackle and knived his way over the final chalk mark, for the initial score of the game. But it was about time for Brown to eject one of his long end runs into the fray and he did in the following quarter. It was a run which depended upon his speedy feet running alone, for he was given very little co-operation from his team mates in the back field. The run extended from Academy's 46 yard line, and warding off several of the Red jerseyed Norwich players who were about to tackle him, Brown found his way across the final chalk mark and contributed the second and last touchdown of the afternoon. As in the first quarter, Brown added the point after touch down and the score stood 14 to 0 against the visitors.

Outside of the frequent fumbling, the game was rather well played and the fans although looking for some improvement in play later in the season, were entirely satisfied with the playing put up by both teams to a certain extent. Norwich Free Academy seems to lack a final and decisive punch to put the pig skin over the final chalk mark, and her play in general was not up to the usual standard. It was ragger in several departments, with the backfield making little headway against the Tech line. Never on one occasion was the Red and White within what one would term striking distance of the locals goal line. Their efforts to advance the ball were met with disastrous results on almost all occasions. The line play in general was not the type to open holes for the back field, and the taking out of the opposing backfield and ends was not done altogether any to well.

It was one lacking fault with the Chapman Tech backfield also, and they likewise failed to clear the path for the ball carrier. It was on some of these plays that Scott the visiting left end, piled up the interference and then bore in to get the man carrying the ball. In fact Scott was the most active member of the Norwich team and he retrieved several Tech's fumbles which materially helped to keep the score down. With him Hinricks, also played a game that could be mentioned good.

The play in the second half while it did not produce anything in the way of a score for either side, nevertheless found the Tech eleven threatening to break through for a score on almost every chance they had. But here was where some of the best line play shown by the visitors stood out prominently. It was one time that the Tech advance was halted, so that in an effort to annex more points to their total found a strong line that made Tech try two drop kicks, one by Brown from the 20 yard line and the second by Williams from the 40 yard line.

With the improvement of the line play, the backfield also began to make some head way against the Tech line, but a handicap of 14 points to overcome was too great to make on line plunges and a resortment to the modern methods, namely the forward pass, were made with little success. The Tech team sensing this particular line play would be attempted thwarted all Academy attempts to advance the ball.

The Tech team as a whole showed a decided improvement over their last game, and may in time be one of the contenders for Eastern Connecticut honors. There were several members from the first team missing from the lineup, but the back field which was the worse off of the two distinct constituents of a football team, was hard hit by the absence of Courbois and Kennanberg from the backfield and the shifting of Hewitt from the backfield also. Their return to the lineup will help Tech really carry out its threat to emerge the victor in the league.

The lineup:

Caruso		Scott
	Left End
Hewitt		Bush

The Moosup team, after being held scoreless a week ago, went on a hitting rampage Sunday at the Carpet Grounds in Moosup and smothered Willimantic under a 15 to 3 score. Clabby, a Moosup, reinforced by Jack playing local boy, who has been playing semi-pro ball all season, and Joe Faber, of the Baltimore Orioles, knocked Mathewson from the box in the second inning and Berchardt of South Manchester, who succeeded him on the mound, fared little better. Moosup collected 19 hits, which included two home runs, an even half dozen triples and a double, while the Threadmakers touched Davis for 13 hits.

The hitting started in the first inning when the first three men were safe on hits and Clabby batting in clean-up position, hit the ball out of the lot for a homer. Again in the second inning Moosup continued to pound the ball and three more runs scored. This was the means of Mathewson's retirement from the box and the pitching burden was taken up by Berchardt who after holding the Moosup team scoreless for two innings pounded in five runs in the fifth inning on a couple of singles, a triple and Faber's home run. The seventh inning was also a big one for the Moosup team when three runs were scored.

Clabby and Faber were the hitting stars of the game, Faber getting five hits, a home run, two triples, a double and a single in five times at bat. Clabby collected a homer, two triples and a single in five times up. The score:

POTHIER ACQUITTED OF MURDER OF MAJOR CRONKHITE

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 12.—Roland W. Pothier was acquitted of the murder ... Major Alexander P. Cronkhite by a jury in federal court here after deliberating for an hour and a half yesterday afternoon. One ballot was taken shortly after the jury retired at 2:45 p. m., showing the jurors in accord, on acquittal.

After discussing various phases of the case, the jurors decided that they had no evidence to justify conviction and notified the bailiff at 4:15 that they had reached a verdict.

Capt. Robert Rosenbluth, jointly accused with Pothier for the ... murder will not be tried, according to Thomas P. Revelle, United States district attorney.

Rosenbluth's trial was set for October 23 and the grand jury indictment against him will be dismissed on motion of the government, Revelle said.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY INDUSTRIAL REVIEW

New York, Oct. 12—(By the A. P.)—Industrial reports received in financial quarters last week have been encouraging. Steel ingot production, that rose 46 per cent in August increased another 11 per cent. in September. These increases brought the rate 51 per cent. Above the low figure recorded in July.

On the basis of the latest figures, the trade was inclined to believe that the country's steel mills were now operating at a rate closer to 55 than 50 per cent. of capacity. It previously held that the rate was between 55 and 60 per cent. Meanwhile the United States Steel corporation's tabulation of unfilled orders as of September 30 revealed an increase of 184,000 tons. This followed an increase in August that terminated the late spring and summer decline. As the corporation has been operating at a higher rate than the independents, it is inferred that its booking during September must have been on a fairly liberal scale. Buying by railroad and car manufacturers and can makers was good.

Another gain in car loadings brought the total in the week endeu September 27 up to 1,087,000 a new high record for the year. This figure, is, in fact, only 10,000 below that for the corresponding week last year, when the peak for all time was reached. Loadings of grain, merchandise and less than car load freight and of miscellaneous freight were the largest in history.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

An unusual scene of great dramatic power is developed early in the course of action of Bread, the Metro-Goldwyn picture which came to the Breed theater yesterday. This scene involves a woman's discovery of the theft of the household money by her husband, and the histrionic difficulties of this striking situation are met with an astonishing ease and power by Mae Busch in the role of the outraged wife.

Jeannette is forced to give up her position by the ill-founded jealousy of employer's wife. This catastrophe leads her to marry a spendthrift salesman by the name of Martin Devlin, and the marriage turns out badly. It is at this point that the discovery of the theft occurs. Jeannette leaves him and goes back into the business of earning her bread.

Victor Schertzinger, who directed the photoplay, has enhanced every possible screen value of the widely discussed Charles D. Norris novel of the same name.

Bread will be shown at the Breed again today and tomorrow and other pictures on the bill include Louise Fazenda in Dizzy Daisy and the Pathe News.

Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary Meeting.

On Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock the first meeting of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. Woman's Auxiliary will be held at the home of the newly elected president, Miss Marion L. Bishop at 189 Broadway. The meeting promises to be one of unusual interest. In addition to the business of the meeting Mrs. Allyn L. Brown will in her interesting manner tell of her trip abroad and of the American Bar association convention held in London a few months since. Mrs. Clayton Burgy will render pleasing vocal solos. Tea will be served by the hostess. This meeting will probably have a large attendance.

$5,179 MORE AUTOMO[illegible] OPERATOR

The state motor vehi[illegible] admitted 45,179 new mo[illegible] operators during the m[illegible] of the year up to the [illegible] of the present month, accord[illegible] tistics for the first three qua[illegible] s published at the department. [illegible] gs the total of licensed opera[illegible] onnected [illegible] by 231,204 by [illegible] greatest [illegible] in the [illegible] he department.

The issuing of ne[illegible] rs continued throughout the [illegible] arter at a rate nearly as gre[illegible] he second quarter, from April 1 to June 30, which is the most popular season for operators examinations. Whereas 22,[illegible] 58 operators were examined in the second quarter, 17,706 were examined in the third quarter, in addition to [illegible] forest applicants for aviators' licenses were examined.

At the same time, that is, in the third quarter, 17,043 additional passenger automobiles, 2,463 commercial cars and ten airships were licensed, bringing the total of all registrations made in the state of Connecticut in the first nine months of the year to 214,124 which is also a new high level. Gasoline licenses were issued to 361 persons or corporations during the past quarter, making the total of licensed gas stations in Connecticut now 2,360.

Fines for violations of the motor vehicle law totalled $60,507.91 for the quarter and trial fees $265. The total of such fines reported to the department for the nine months is $146,507.22.

The fact that there have been 32,[illegible] motor vehicle transfers for the [illegible] month period to October 1 as [illegible] 26,689 in the same period of 1923, probably indicates increased motor vehicle sales this year.

Department receipts, exclusive of the gasoline tax, for the past nine months, aggregated $4,923,359.07 an increase of 7.5 per cent over the receipts for the same period of 1923. These receipts are by law transferred to the treasurer for the use of the state highway department for road work.

Honored by the presence of Grand Master Harold Wentzell of Boston and visiting grand officers of the United States and the Connecticut district of the Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows, Loyal Hunh H. Osgood lodge No. 6920, of this city, held a banquet followed by a class initiation an open meeting and a splendid entertainment programme Saturday evening. The candidates, 28 in number, were put through the mysteries of the order by the crack Fall River degree team.

At 5 o'clock the members and guests of Osgood lodge were served a supper at the lodge rooms, Steiner hall. Covers were laid for about 150 and the menu was as follows:

Salads
Cold Meats
Cheese Pickles
Rolls Coffee

Following the supper adjournment was taken to Olympic hall where the class initiation took place. The degree was worked by the crack degree team of Unity Lodge, Fall River, in charge of J. S. E. Clarke, grand secretary of the order. Following the class initiation there was an open meeting attended by the families and friends of the members. Edward Crooks, grand lodge director, was in the chair and the address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Milo R. Waters. The reply was made by Harold Wentzell of Boston, grand master of the United States. The speakers included Grand Secretary J. S. E. Clarke of Fall River, Grand Treasurer George Lord of Providence, Past Grand Master Albert Goodwin of Southbridge and the following Connecticut district officers: Grand Master George Robinson of Stamford, Deputy Grand Master Albert Hole of Waterbury, P. C. S. Horace Lucas of Bridgeport, State Treasurer Henry Stevenson of Hartford, P. G. M. Harry Brenton of Bridgeport.

The entertainment programme included songs by James Jackson, George Inglis and George Hollingsworth, Miss Elizabeth Hartley and Mrs. Alice Cousins. After the entertainment program dancing was enjoyed until 1:30 Brennan's orchestra furnished the music. In addition to the grand officers and Connecticut district officers mentioned above other guests included Provincial Grand Master John Mowbray of Boston and P. P. G. M. George Haskell of the Massachusetts district.

The committees in charge of the affair were as follows:

Banquet committee—Mrs. William Partridge, chairman, Mrs. Frank Hill and Mrs. Robert McNeely, all members of Victory Lodge, I. O. O. L., M. U.

Sunday the grand officers of the United States and the Connecticut district, along with other guests, including Mayor Milo R. Waters, enjoyed a sightseeing trip by automobile. The line of machines went over the road as far as the state hospital, in Preston, and from there went to Groton, around the Groton monument, and back to Norwich, to Yantic and Taftville, the trip ending at the Wauregan hotel.

THE LATE LOUIS MABREY NATIVE OF NORWICH TOWN

Louis Mabrey, 67, who died suddenly from acute indigestion at his home, Mabrey's Hotel, Ocean Beach, New London, shortly after one o'clock, Saturday morning, as noted in The Bulletin of that date, was a member of a family closely identified with the early history of Norwich Town.

He was a son of Elijah and Esther Cook Mabrey. His father long had the useful and honorable post, in those times of community helpfulness, of sexton of the ancient First Congregational church and of its burial-ground. There were four children in the family James, of Norwich, Sarah, wife of George Lewis, of New London, Mrs. Etta Stanton Payne, in early life of Danielsonville, Conn., later of Los Angeles, and Louis. All now are dead.

For many years in his young manhood Louis Mabrey had charge of the silk department of the Boston Store, Norwich. Later he was in business for himself for a year or more in Pennsylvania. But practically his whole life, until about fourteen years ago, had been spent in Norwich. Here he married, in 1881, Elizabeth Dill, who died at their Ocean Beach hotel Sept. 1st 1919, and is buried in Maplewood cemetery, Norwich. Their home was on Broadway, where [illegible] years was on Broadway, where [illegible] register of its contents, and successful in the restaurant [illegible] to $38. The robber then ran t[illegible]

[illegible] married in 1919 Mrs. Jes[illegible] of Whitewater, Wis., who [illegible] ence and Teresa. less than fifteen minutes later, th[illegible] street have returned went into the Flickinger[illegible] where they were at No 418 Elm street and asked [illegible]wood, N. J., schools, Helen [illegible] room where they bought of the store, was alone. [illegible] Seattle, Wash. and [illegible] he could serve the customer [illegible] Mabrey, of Milton, Penn. [illegible] been a recent guest with a gun and direct[illegible] three grandchildren, the lit[illegible] Marion E. McHenry the cash register. He [illegible]ohn and daughter Elizabeth, [illegible] Coped [illegible]

[illegible] of Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Ma[illegible] Louis, son of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]

[illegible]rey was a member of She[illegible]ge, I. O. O. F. of Norwich [illegible] as its secretary for many [illegible]

[illegible]en years the family had [illegible]ean Beach each summer, [illegible]rs ago erecting the Mabrey [illegible]e Mr. and Mrs. Mabrey [illegible]ing after the season with [illegible] spending a month in [illegible] Mrs. Mabrey's relatives, [illegible] to St. Petersburg, Fla., [illegible]r, as has been their cus[illegible] had passed Friday with [illegible] friends on a picnic at [illegible]r. Mabrey appearing in [illegible] of health and spirits. Just before one o'clock, Saturday morning, Mrs. Mabrey heard her husband breathing strangely and on speaking to him and getting no response became alarmed. She called a neighbor and an effort was made to get doctor from New London, but without avail, so after some delay Dr. Douglass, of Groton was summoned. But Mr. Mabrey had died peacefully as he slept. The patrolman on duty at the beach rendered most valuable aid in the sudden emergency and neighbors hastened to the assistance of the saddened wife.

A telephone message to Prof. Fred D. Mabrey in his home enabled him to take an express out of New York about 8 o'clock and he reached New London by noon.

Mrs. Mabrey's brother from Chicago left that city Saturday, reaching the beach Sunday evening and Nelson Lee Mabrey arrived also. Norwich and New London friends rendered all possible assistance and manifested sincere sympathy, in the deep bereavement which had come upon the family with no warning.

Mr. Mabrey was of most generous impulses, helpful and kindly, and the hundreds of hotel guests and others who had come to learn the true hospitality under his roof had formed friendship for him which was strong and lasting. He loved his native Norwich and although living in another city never changed his pride in the traditions of Norwich Town, or his interest in the progress and prosperity of the city.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE AT FRANKLIN ST. CORNER

About 8:30 o'clock Saturday night a Dodge sedan owned and driven by Robert Appleby of No. 135 Cliff street and a Dodge roadster owned and driven by David M. Goldberg of No. 324 West Main street collided at the corner of Franklin and Willow street. The front left mudguard on the roadster was damaged but the sedan escaped damage. No one was hurt.

Preston Parent Teachers.

The October meeting of the Preston Parent-Teachers association was held Wednesday evening at the Poquetanuck schoolhouse with a good attendance.

PLACING NEW BOILER AT BOONE WOOLEN MILL

During the week Mr. Hult was in conference with engineers of the Berlin Construction company of Berlin and with the state inspectors to ascertain if the iron bridges were in condition to bear the weight of the heavy boiler and the engineers stated that they were. The boiler was put on rollers and when it reached the center of Depot Hill, it began to skid and for a time it looked as though it would tear away from its guides and run into the mill canal. Traffic was held up along Railroad street for some time.

James J. McGrath, chief engineer of the Daniel Boone chain of woolen and worsted mills, has been in Baltic for the past month, formulating plans for the erection of the new boiler and other work about the mill. Following the completion of the boiler Agent R. B. Murray will install a number of new machines of the latest type and make other improvements which will conform with the high standard achieved by the other eight mills owned by the Boone company.

The new boiler is of the water tube type, and will furnish added power to the new dyehouse and will be an additional horsepower for generating purposes. A new feed water pump and a feed water heater were installed this month.

OSCAR W. PARSONS AND BRIDE VISIT NORWICH FRIENDS

Oscar Wulf Parsons and his bride, who was Miss Marion Eleanor Gleysher, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Gleysner of Lisbon, England, spent the week end in Norwich. Mr. Parsons is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Parsons, whose home was on Cliff Street, Norwich. The wedding took place at St. George's Episcopal Church, Hempstead, L. I., October 10th. The bridegroom is a nephew of Mrs. Frank J. King of Sachem street, Norwich.

He and his bride spent Sunday afternoon with his brother, Lucius A. Parsons, of New London. They were entertained at dinner Sunday by Mrs. John M. King, of Washington Street, and were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Wulf of Laurel Hill avenue.

NEW LONDON MAN UNDER BONDS FOR KNIFING AND ATTEMPT TO ROB

New London, Oct. 12.—James Francis Murphy, 23 Walden avenue, former brakeman in the freight service of the New Haven railroad, arrested Friday night charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, and released on a bond of $50, furnished by his father, did not appear in the police court for trial Saturday morning. The bond was not forfeited, however, for the case was continued to Tuesday forenoon.

Murphy will have to stand another court hearing, however Monday, for he was taken into custody at Saybrook Saturday afternoon and on the more serious charge of assault with intent to rob John Rooney, 56 of Church street, victim of Murphy's assault Friday night, which resulted in the former railroader's arrest.

When Murphy failed to present himself in court Saturday morning a further investigation of the fact leading to his arrest by Patrolman Michael Dorsey the night before revealed that in the attack upon Rooney by Murphy, the former had been terribly beaten and was in need of medical treatment. Sergeant Nelson Smith accompanied Rooney to the office of City Physician George P. Cheney and an examination of Rooney's injuries resulted in the patient being ordered transferred to Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital. A further examination of Rooney revealed that besides suffering from lacerations and severe bruises about the face and head, he was suffering from two knife wounds, one under the shoulder which may have punctured the lung and another in the hip.

After Rooney had been delivered at the hospital, Sergeant Smith started to locate Murphy. Patrolman Clarence Martin had been informed shortly after 1 o'clock that Murphy had been seen on the tracks of the New Haven road near Maple avenue. Sergeant Smith, Acting Sergeant Edward Daniels and Patrolman John Roley were informed that a man answering Murphy's description had boarded a westbound freight train. The officers started in the police speed car in an effort to head off the freight train. When the train approached the station it was given a signal to stop and the officers started to search between the long string of cars for the fugitive. Murphy finally espied the officers and leaping from the train, ran into the wooded section. Sergeant Smith pulling his revolver fired a shot in the air to intimidate the fleeing prisoner. The shot had the expected effect for Murphy stopped running and awaited arrest. Murphy was brought back to New London and made a prisoner and this time his bond for court appearance was fixed at $5,000 which he was unable to obtain a surety. A search of Lane A where the assault upon Rooney occurred and the vicinity was made Saturday afternoon in an endeavor to find the knife that Murphy used on Rooney, but the weapon was not found, and as Murphy did not possess a knife when taken into custody Saturday afternoon it is believed that he disposed of it. At the hospital today it was stated that Rooney's condition was serious and that he would not be able to appear in the police court Monday morning.

Tax Collector Allen C. Richards is determined that delinquent taxpayers shall pay their personal tax and will hand a list of 100 or more names to Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin Monday morning and that the delinquents will be haled into court and a penalty imposed for their failure to pay the tax levy of 1923-24. If prosecutions result the parties will also be taxed the costs of the court about $9 which with the tax of $2, will make the amount the delinquents will have to pay about $11.

Michael Cahill, Waterford farm hand, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Victor Prince in the police court Saturday morning on a charge of intoxication. Cahill was found down and out on Division street Friday night by Patrolman Patrick Sheehan.

A refuse heap in the rear of the establishment of the [illegible] Printing Press Manufacturing company, Pequot avenue, became ablaze Saturday forenoon and threatened to reach wooden buildings. A still alarm caused the Ockford Hose company to respond and resulted in the fire being extinguished without damage.

Edgar L. Parker, 63, died Friday night at his residence, Phillips street. Mr. Parker was a painter and paper hanger and about two years ago sustained internal injuries by falling from a staging. He was married three times and is survived by a son, George Parker, and three daughters, Mrs. Mabel Cunningham and Mrs. Lucy Winslow, this city, and Mrs. Lulu Schmidt, New York and a brother, J. Frank Parker, of New York.

The funeral of Mary, widow of Daniel Cronin was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. Burial was in Derby.

Mrs. Anna Piascik, 7 Shapley street, reported to the police at 3 o'clock this morning that her two daughters, Ada, 12, and Stella, 13, were missing from home, having disappeared Saturday afternoon. When the girls were last seen they were attired in dresses of white.

Late this afternoon the girls returned home.

William Liese, 49 Holmes street, Mystic, was arrested Saturday night for violation of the city's traffic laws and will be presented in the police court Monday morning. Liese parked his automobile on Main street, near Masonic street and away from the curb so that trolley cars could not pass blocking traffic some time.

An automobile owned and driven by Max Jurist, 36 Warrington street, Providence, and a machine owned and operated by Max Rogoin, 177 North Bank street, were in collision this afternoon, corner of Main street and Crystal avenue. Both cars were damaged.

The automobile owned and driven by Eugene Manning of Yantic, and a car owned and operated by Nathan Hochman, 20 Belden street, were in collision Saturday evening, corner of Federal and Huntington street. Both cars sustained damage.

George Raymond, Connecticut avenue, has sold a parcel of land in Waterford to Louis Margolis, this city.

John and Mary Smith, of Mohegan, Mrs. Leroy Darrow, Lincoln avenue, Miss Marion McGarry, Lincoln avenue; Mrs. Henry Coyle, Westerly and Austin J. Ruddy, West Cott street, the last named, having suffered a fractured hip several months ago, by falling on a sidewalk at Ocean Beach, were patients dismissed at Lawrence hospital Saturday.

Harold Beaney, 12, residing at Station 9, Waterford, is a patient at Lawrence hospital as a result of a fractured leg sustained Saturday afternoon, being struck by an automobile owned and operated by Pasquale Capona, 24 Denison avenue, Groton, while walking on the sidewalk on Bank street. The youth, in company with George Rawley of Waterford was walking in front of the entrance to the New England Iron & Metal Co. The automobile, which was headed for the yard ran down the boy who was pinned beneath the front wheel and to free the lad the machine had to be backed from his leg. Traffic Officer Dennis Cavanaugh was near, placed the boy in Caponas car and ordered the driver to carry the boy to the hospital.

Capona declared that he did not see Beaney until the automobile was about to hit the boy and that he sounded his horn. The Rowley youth escaped injury.

Mrs. Betsey K. Woodworth, 93, widow of James L. Woodworth, died Friday night at the residence of her son, James L. Woodworth, 83 Norwood avenue. Mrs. Woodworth was a native of New London, born March 31, 1831, the daughter of the late John P., and Mary Jerome King. Besides Mrs. Woodworth, Mrs. Woodworth is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jennie Daniels of Konomoc street; a sister, Mrs. Abbie Hauck, White Plains, N. Y., and a brother, George King of Prospect street.

Miss Catherine Desmond, 690 Main street, spent the week-end in Woodhaven, L. I., as the guest of her cousin, Miss Virginia Desmond.

Mrs. George Cook is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bunnell and daughter, of Hastings on the Hudson.

The condition of Miss Florence M. Chase, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Horatio J. Chase, of Montauk avenue, who has been confined to her home three weeks by illness, is vastly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Rice left Saturday by automobile for a fortnight's trip through Connecticut and New York state.

J. W. Fowler, a sailor on U. S. Savannah, will be in the Groton town court Monday morning charged with operating an automobile without having a license to do so. Fowler was arrested by State Police Officer Henry J. Albright, Groton barracks.

H. H. GALLUP ELECTED HOSPITAL TRUSTEES CHAIRMAN

Henry H. Gallup was elected chairman of the board of trustees of the Norwich State Hospital, to fill the unexpired term of the late Costello Lippitt, at a meeting of the trustees, held Friday at the hospital. Mr. Gallup was nominated by ex-Governor Hollin S. Woodruff of New Haven and the nomination was seconded by Dr. James J. Donohue of this city.

Following this the regular business was transacted, after which the board members were entertained at dinner at the home of Dr. Franklin S. Wilcox. Attending the meeting were Mr. Gallup, ex-Governor Woodruff, New Haven; Dr. Franklin H. Mayberry, Hartford Charles Pinney, Stafford; Judge Frederick Huxford, Stamford; Dr. James J. Donohue, Norwich; Major Charles A. Hagberg, Norwich and Judge Arthur F. Libby, Norwich.

In the selection of Mr. Gallup as chairman of the board a man has been selected who is well qualified for these duties. He has served on the board since its organization up until a year ago when Major Charles A. Hagberg was appointed. At the death of Mr. Lippitt, Governor Templeton appointed Mr. Gallup a member of the board. Mr. Gallup has had a long and thorough experience in the affairs of the institution and the chairmanship of the board will be in good hands during his term. News of his election to that office will be in fact pleasing to his many friends in the state.

EXPLODING BOMB GASHES BOY AT WESTERLY

Westerly, R. I., Oct. 12—Thomas Biagio ,17, of Bristol, R. I., sustained a badly lacerated tear of the right thigh Sunday about 9.30 on the Westerly playgrounds off High street by the premature explosion of an aerial bomb. The accident occurred when the third from the last piece of fireworks was set off in the fireworks display, at the culmination of Columbus day observance by Westerly Italians. The piece of fireworks had hardly left the ground more than six feet when it fell back and injured three men, the young man named and his father who came with the fireworks was hit in the head with a piece of railroad tie and another man was felled by the concussion.

Officer George Marison who was nearest the accident sent for the Westerly ambulance and assisted Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown to keep the record-breaking crowd back from the injured man, weakened from loss of blood, until the arrival of the ambulance in which he was taken on an improvised stretcher. Dr. J. Devera Barber, who was on the field gave the man first aid and he was removed to the doctor's office on Granite street, where the wound was dressed. Before he was taken to the Lawrence hospital at New London, in the Westerly ambulance.

NORWICH SAVINGS SOCIETY LOWERS INTEREST CHARGE

At a meeting of the directors of the Norwich Savings Society, held at noon Saturday, the rate of interest charged on real estate loans was reduced from 6 to 5 per cent.

During the war years the interest rate went up to 6 per cent and has remained at that figure since then. The present action by the Norwich Savings Society makes it one of the first, if not the first, to lower the interest charge on real estate loans and will doubtless attract wide attention.

Bozrah Democratic Caucus

The democratic caucus of the town of Bozrah was held Saturday evening at the town hall. John J. Sweeney was chosen for chairman and W. W. Bentley for clerk. The following nominations were made: John K. Proctor for representative; W. W. Bentley, judge of probate; John J. Sweeney, John S. Sullivan and Joseph A. Elliott, justices of the peace.

Columbus

Against great odds, heart breaking,
Crushing odds, Columbus strove
And gained at last his goal.
He fought the sea and mutiny and Greater than these, he fought
The ridicule of half a continent
And kept his shoulders straight
His head erect, as who would say
"My purpose is my purpose—
I shall win!
Pile obstacles before me,
Fret my days,
Send ugly dreams
To worry me by night,
Do what you will!
You cannot stay me in the [illegible]

SECRETARY OF STATE HUGHES DEFINES AND DEFENDS OUR FOREIGN POLICY

Answers Criticisms by John W. Davis, Democratic Presidential Nominee—Declares That American Sentiment Will "Not Tolerate" Submission of Domestic Questions" to the Determination of Any Group of Powers—Present Administration Favors Submission of International Questions to Arbitral or Judicial Tribunals—In Domestic Matters We Reserve Our Freedom to Determine Our Own Policies.

[illegible], Ind., Oct. 13.—Americ[illegible] will "not tolerate" sub[illegible]mestic questions "to the [illegible] of any group of powers", [illegible]ghes declared here to[illegible]mpaign address answer[illegible] by John W. Davis, de[illegible]ee, of administration

[illegible]administration," Mr. Davis may be [illegible]democra[illegible]aken away his ammuni[illegible]m nothing but empty [illegible], as an individual, [illegible]to demand that this [illegible]he league, but ne[illegible]as a democratic candidate for president, for the democratic party has taken a back track on that proposition. It has taken note of the sentiment of the country.

"We have said that the people of this country would never tolerate the submission to any power or group of powers of the determination of our domestic questions. If we are to cooperate, we must be permitted to cooperate without the sacrifice of our right to determine our own policies."

Mr. Hughes referred also to what he termed the democratic candidate's effort to "belittle the Washington conference," adding.

He says that there are those who say this or that and without specifically making these statements his own he gives them currency and apparent approval. Thus Mr. Davis permits himself to say that "The country asks whether the Washington treaties have bound us to a definite inferiority as compared with England.' If he has read the treaties he should know that neither in letter nor spirit have the Washington treaties bound us to inferiority with England. This sort of innuendo cannot avail. On the contrary, within the scope of the treaties, Great Britain for the first time agrees to naval equality.

"Mr. Davis refers to the appropriation by Congress of $6,000,000 for the elevation of guns on certain of our retained ships. He dares not mention that this applies to ships which will be replaced within ten or twelve years. He should know that in the vessels which will replace these ships we can have any elevation we please.

"He does not refer to the fact that the appropriation was made under the mistaken notion that the British had increased the elevation of their guns on their retained ships, and that this report turned out to be inaccurate. The question is an important practical one to be considered on its merits and not one for partisan slurs on the conference treaties. If the leader of the democratic party favors this appropriation it will be interesting, no doubt, to his followers in congress to know it."

Mr. Hughes said the dominating question at the close of the campaign was: "Shall the third party be permitted to prevent the election of President Coolidge."

"All the indications point to the breakdown of the campaign of the democratic party," he declared. "It is still making its strident appeals, but they are important. The issue is not between President Coolidge and the democratic candidate. The issue is President Coolidge or no election."

He added that selection of Bryan as his running mate by Mr. Davis "shook the confidence of the country in Mr. Davis as a political leader" and was one of the chief reasons why the democratic campaign "has failed so miserably."

SHENANDOAH TO START EASTWARD FLIGHT TODAY

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 13.—Re-fueled and re-provisioned, girders damaged in landing here repaired, and fresh helium waiting in tanks to be injected into her gas bags, the navy dirigible Shenandoah is swinging at her North Island anchor mast tonight ready for the start at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning on her voyage up the Pacific coast.

Waiting aboard for all hands, from admiral to the lowest rating seamon of the crew, are wool and fur-lined flying suits and wool-lined Arctic boots for the upper air, even over southern California, carries a penetrating chill. It registered 35 degrees above zero in the air lane the night the Shenandoah loaded here.

Each of the suits is "wired" for connection to electric plugs fixed at intervals in the body of the ship. If the wearer feels cold he may back up to the wall, "plug in" and warm up.

Provisions taken on today consisted mainly of sandwiches, wrapped in oiled paper, and beans. In the forward gondola is the tiniest of kitchenettes and here on a gasoline stove the beans are warmed and occasionally eggs are fried. Everything else in the food line except the coffee is cold and owing to the danger of fires from the stores of the gasoline aboard, smoking is forbidden. There are bunks for each officer on the ship and one for each member of the crew off duty. These are arranged in groups of four and are equipped with wool lined sleeping bags.

COOLIDGE SANCTIONS APPEAL FOR DISABLED VETERANS

Washington, Oct. 13.—A letter from President Coolidge expressing hope for a "broad and liberal response" to the public appeal of the disabled American veterans, in connection with its "Forget Me Not" day, November 8, was made public today by the organization's commander, Frank J. Irwin.

The president declared, the veterans' announcement said, that he was deeply conscious that the care of the war's disabled is a national duty, and in endeavoring to solve this extensive problem, your organization has rendered valuable aid to those in authority."

GERMAN WINNERS OF PEACE PLAN AWARD ANNOUNCED

Berlin, Oct. 13.—The German winners of the peace plan award offered by Edward A. Filene of Boston were announced today. The first prize of $5,000 is divided between Dr. Eduard David of Darmstadt, socialist reichstag member and former minister of the interior, and Dr. Wilhelm Riedner of Solin, near Munich. The second prize of $1,500 went to Dr. Gustav Jodieder of Berlin. The third prize was divided among 35 contestants, each receiving $100.

Paris, Oct. 13.—The world's airplane altitude record of 11, 1450 meter made by the French aviator Said Lecointe in October, 1923, was eclipsed at Villacoublay on Friday by the French aviator Callizo, who set the mark at 12,066 meters. This announcement was made today.

CONSENTED TO DIVORCE AS A MATTER OF CONVENIENCE

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 13.—Frederick William Hart, former major in the British army, was free tonight to marry Mrs. Shirley Knox Hall-Quest, divorced wife of Dr. Alfred Lawrence Hall-uest, dean of the extension department of the Universit yof Pittsburgh, in the realm of "perfect love."

Mrs. Rosamond Hart of Cincinnati, was granted a divorce from her husband here today just seven days after Mrs. Hall-Quest was released by her husband, in order that she might marry Hart. Dr. Hall-Quest was granted his divorce in Chicago where he made every effort to conceal from light of publicity the name of his wife's associate.

Judge Charles L. Hoffman granted Mrs. Hart a divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty. He approved a contract entered into by Hart whereby Mrs. Hart received $5,000 in cash and a monthly allowance of $200 during the remainder of her life. She likewise was given possession of furniture and effects located in the Hart apartment here which adjoined that formerly occupied by the Hall-Quests. This contract will automatically become void should Mrs. Hart marry again.

Hart was not in court. During the hearing the name of Mrs. Hall-Quest was frequently mentioned as the "other woman" in the unusual triangle.

Walter Locke, attorney for Mrs. Hart, took the stand and told of a conversation he had with Mr. Hart.

"He was disturbed what he was able to do for Mrs. Hart's support," he said. "He admitted to me he was living in Chicago with Mrs. Hall-Quest. He said he would live with her whether he was divorced or not. I asked him whether there was not some way that he and Mrs. Hart could be reconciled."

"'Absolutely not,' he said 'I would never again live with Mrs. Hart.'"

The "perfect love" of Major Hart and Mrs. Hall-Quest began in Cincinnati where the families lived in adjoining apartments. Dr. Hall-Quest was connected with the faculty of the University of Cincinnati and Major Hart was an accountant there. Later Hart and Mrs. Hall-Quest left Cincinnati together for Chicago where they lived until last week when Dr. Hall-Quest secured his divorce.

Major Hart, in a short interview last week, said:

DAWES BREAKS SILENCE ON REPARATIONS SETTLEMENT

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13.—(By the A. P.)—Breaking his silence on the reparations settlement plan bearing his name, Dawes, republican candidate for vice president, opened a two-day campaign in Kentucky today with an address in which he asserted that the proposal as finally established today by the allied nations and Germany was a "workable plan," and furthermore, "will prove the foundation of an enduring and Christian peace in Europe and the world."

Mr. Dawes made his pronouncement before a non-partisan audience gathered at a noon luncheon held here under the auspices of the republican county committee.

The republican nominee spent the day in Louisville and in addition to the luncheon address conferred with republicaz state leaders tonight and spoke at a mass meeting in the city auditorium, at which he continued his attack on the LaFollette independent candidacy.

Discussing the reparations plan as "the experts' plan," and not as "the Dawes plan," as it has come to be known, Mr. Dawes used his reference to it to draw a lesson—the lesson that settlement of the nation's economic problems in his opinion must be solved not through oratory, not through preaching of inconsistent doctrines, and not through demogoguery but through work, thought and honesty of mind nad purpose divorced from politics."

MIDDLEBURY WOMAN VICTIM OF AUTO FIENDS

Waterbury, Oct. 13.—Police here are convinced that Miss Bridget Carey, whose body was found on Sunnyside avenue at six o'clock Sunday night, was killed by an automobile but believe that she was killed several miles from the spot where the body was found. Detectives found that she left the White home in Middlebury, where she was employed at 5.40 o'clock. It took her ten minutes to walk to Tyler's switch where she was to take a car. Ten minutes after that her body was found. Police believe Tyler's switch is where she was struck by a car whose driver picked her up and later, finding her dead, placed her on the roadside where she was found by the policeman.

JEWELS VALUED AT $12,000 STOLEN FROM BROKER'S HOME

Greenwich, Oct. 13.—Burglars today stole $12,000 worth of jewels from the new home of Harold Lloyd, a New York broker. Later in the day another house in the same street was entered and considerably loot was taken.

How the robbers gained entrance to the Lloyd home was a mystery for although both Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd were away, their three children and four servants were in the house all day.

Nan Querulous About German Loan

New York, Oct. 13.—Mayor John F. Hylan, in a letter to President Coolidge made public tonight, asked the President for an official statement concerning the safeguards provided American investors in the $110,000,000 loan to Germany to be subscribed tomorrow. The mayor said that "silence becomes sinister at such a time as this."

"One of the loan underwriters tells prospective investors that the benefits to be derived by the allies will prompt enforcement by them of the conditions of the loan," the mayor wrote. "It is reported that the guarantee offered by the banking syndicate is the possible use of the mailed fist of the allies.

"In the absence of any official statement as to what safeguards surround American investors under the Dawes plan, the American investing public must rest content with the statement of the international banking syndicate. That statement implies that war or threats of war may be 'anticipated' in the event of default. Does such a statement of the banking syndicate accurately reflect the official statements at Washington? Is that statement to be accepted in lieu of the official statement which I requested of you some weeks ago, and which has been withheld up to the present writing? I am loath to believe that any international banking syndicate is the official mouthpiece of the United States government on a subject when may involve not only the safety of American money, but the safety of the lives and limbs of American manhood."

The mayor also viewed as ominous the protocol adopted by the league of nations at Geneva, with 47 signatories. He declared that, through the pact, "the foreign as well as the domestic policies of the United States are swept into the keeping and control of the league of nations." He added:

"In this league, of which the United States declined to become a member, are many of the nations to whom we loaned more than ten billions of dollars during the world war. The American people are in no mood to listen to a cancellation of these debts. This is known to every one of our debtor nations. Nevertheless, the protocol by its provisions, can force us to appear before the council of the league and to prove to the satisfaction of our debtors that we are entitled to the payment of these debts. If the Anglo-French league of nations determines that the United States must remit these debts and we refuse to submit, then the forty seven signatories of the protocol are compelled to apply 'sanctions,' a neat little euphemism for 'war!'"

Under these circumstances, Mayor Hylan continued, Americans are asked by the loan bankers to believe "that the nations which have agreed under the protocol to make war upon the United States if we refuse to abide by a possible determination of the league of nations depriving us of the payment of billions owing to us, are ready to rush to arms to protect our money under the Dawes plan, upon which the mayor comments by 'anyone who would believe that would believe that the Fordney-McCumber tariff was passed to help American labor."

After asking President Coolidge if he did not think it time investors were told "exactly what to expect in the event of a default," the mayor asked:

"Does the situation not resolve itself into this alternative: If there is a default, the American monies advanced are as irretrieveable lost as water that haos gone over the dam, or that the army and navy of the United States will be called upon to make collection?

"There is still time to issue a word of warning. If American manhood is to be called out let us know it now. If crepes are again to hang from hundreds of thousands of American homes, let us know it now. If mothers, sisters, wives, are again to go through a long night of agony, let us know it now. If munitions manufactuers and war profiteers are again to wallow in riches coined from the blood of young America, let us know it now.

"Silence has become sinister at a time like this, certainly it is no time for hooded secrecy, no time for any foolish quaffing by American investing public of the concoctions offered by those who reap their profits the moment they sell their goods and accept no responsibility for subsequent ills, no time for any squandering of American resources because of an unwillingness to afford official protection."

NEGRESS WAS MURDERED AND THROWN INTO CANAL

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 13.—That Mrs. Clarence Dixon, negress, of Syracuse, was murdered and thrown into the Erie canal a mile west of Mountezuma was the beliefe of District Attorney Ben Kenyon and Sheriff E. B. Mosher today after an autopsy disclosed that she had been struck on the back, the spinal cord being almost severed by the blows.

The woman was found wedged in an overturned rowboat on the barge canal by John Palmiter and Charles Palmiter who were rowing home after a day's work in the flag fields of the Mountezuma marsh late Saturday afternoon. In an effort to capture two suspects the authorities did not disclose the facts until today.

Mrs. Dixon was a witness in the recent murder trial of Guy Lippins, now serving a life sentence in Auburn prison for the murder of Charles Sutton. The white men who were seen with the murdered woman are missing.

FORD HAS WITHDRAWN BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS

Detroit, Oct. 13.—Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., and son of Henry Ford, tonight confirmed an interview in the current issue of Collier's Weekly to the effect that Henry Ford had withdrawn his bid for Muscle Shoals. Henry Ford, who is making preparations to entertain the Prince of Wales here tomorrow, could not be reached tonight.

Edsel Ford refused to comment in any way on the withdrawal of the bid for the Muscles Shoals property, but asserted that the interview as published had been approved by his father and printed with his consent.

Shanghai Surrenders To Attacking Forces

Defensive Troops Were Unable to Withstand Onslaught—Armistice Now.

Shanghai, Oct. 14.—(By the A. P.)—After a final stand at Hwangtu, 15 miles west of Shanghai, the Chekiang troops defending the city against onslaughts of armies backed by the Chinese central government at last have admitted their defeat.

Foreign observers in the Sung Kiang sector reported this (Tuesday) morning that an armistice was arranged at five p. m. yesterday, after which both laides ceased firing. Advance guards of the retreating Chekiang troops arriving this morning from the Hwangtu, Kiating and Liuho sectors declared similar arrangements had been perfected there.

Apparently Chang Tse-Ping, sixty year old battler who refused to accept the decision of the other Chekiang chiefs to surrender, was forced to give in after his final brilliant attack, in which his four thousand troops forced some of the hottest fighting in the entire war.

About one thousand Chekiang soldiers from the battle fronts directly west of the city had arrived at Shanghai this morning, at the North railway station. Forty three carloads more were reported held at Chenju, five miles west of the city, while 10,000 were said to be waiting transportation at Nansiang, 12 miles west, and at Hwangtu.

All of the Chekiang soldiers stationed at Liuho, 30 miles to the northwest of the Yangtze coast, were reported withdrawn.

The discipline of the defeated troops was generally good, it was reported, despite their complete ignorance of where they were going or what they were supposed to do.

The city was orderly this morning. Heavy naval, police and volunteer guards patrolled the borders of the foreign settlements through the night, and no one was permitted to enter or leave them.

Persistent reports were circulated today that Lu Youngsiang, commander-in-chief of the defeated Chekiang armies, and Ho Feng-Ling, Military commissioner of Shanghai and General Lu's aide, had fled to Japan, but verification of the reports were not obtainable.

DEFEATED GENERALS ON THEIR WAY TO JAPAN

Tokio, Oct. 13 (By the A. P.)—Lu Yung Hsiang and Ho Feng-Ling, who today surrendered the city of Shanghai to the attacking forces of the Chinese central government, have fled from Shanghai and are on their way to Japan, the war office was informed today.

General Lu, at the outbreak of the fighting around Shanghai early last month, was tuchun (military governor) of Chekiang province, and the commander-in-chief of the Chekiang armies defending Shanghai. Ho Feng-Lin was military commissioner of Shanghai, and took charge of the first army of defense when the hostilities began.

Lu ceased to be the head of Chekiang province when a rebellion in his home guard forced him to flee from his provincial capital, Hangchow, to Shanghai. This morning he presided at a final conference of Chekiang leaders, at which surrender of the gateway city, Shanghai, was decided upon.

Lu and Ho were reported after the conference to have taken refuge in the foreign quarters of Shanghai where they would be free from possible arrest by the central government forces. The above despatch is the first word since receiving concerning their movements.

JURY SELECTED FOR TRIAL OF MRS. ANNIE S. WILLOW

Middleburg, Pa., Oct. 13.—Selection of a jury to try Mrs. Annie S. Willow, charged with being an accessory to the murder of her husband, Harvey C. Willow consumed all of today in the Snyder County Criminal Court.

Ralph H. Shadal, 18 year old farm hand of Willow's who confessed that he shot his employer while rabbit hunting last December, was found guilty of second degree murder in connection with the case last week, and was sentenced to ten to twenty years in the Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia.

He said he had killed Willow at the behest of Mrs. Willow, with whom he was in love.

Shadel is held in jail here at the request of the district attorney, who said that he expected to place him on the stand as a witness for the prosecution.

Mrs. Willow appeared weak as she entered the court room today holding the hand of her seven year old daughter. Her physician said that she had been suffering from indigestion, but that she was anxious to have her trial proceed. Her father and other relatives were in the court room when she arrived.

Counsel for the defense announced that they felt public opinion was too strong against their client, but that after a conference with Mrs. Willow they had decided not to request a change of venue. "We are anxious to bring the issue to an early conclusion," said the attorney, "and are brave enough to go ahead with the trial."

GIRL COMMITTED SUICIDE WHILE ON VACATION TRIP

Dover, N. J., Oct. 13—Charles Burchell tonight was en route from Chicago to his Dover home on a train bearing the body of his sister, Edith, who abruptly climaxed a vacation trip by committing suicide in a Chicago Lake Shore hotel.

The brother left for Chicago hastily when a description of the body forwarded here by Chicago police answered that of the girl who had left home September 22, presumably on a vacation trip. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Burchell, late today were told in a telegram from their son that it was Edith who ended her life in Chicago and that he was returning to Dover immediately with the body.

The mother last week received a letter and her daughter's suitcase in which the girl returned cash totalling $1,100 which he had withdrawn from a Dover bank before leaving home. She advised her mother in a letter received Saturday that she was "going to a better world than this" and that she was forwarding her clothes and a present for each member of the family.

ZR-3 ARRIVAL IS PREDICTED FOR WEDNESDAY MORNING

Naval Officers Are Hopeful That a New Record For Trans Atlantic Flight Might Be Set—Giant Air Cruiser is Coming Westward at an Average Speed of 50 to 55 Miles an Hour—Passed Over the Azores at 6:30 P. M. Yesterday—May Swing Over New York City Before Landing at Lakehurst, N. J.

Washington, Oct. 13.—The German built air cruiser ZR-3 was driving westward today at an average speed of from 50 to 55 miles an hour.

Unofficial dispatches during the day brought word of the air cruiser's passage of the Azores sector, reviving hopes that a new record for trans-Atlantic flight might be set when she stoops to her mooring mast at Lakehudst, N. J. The arrival is predicted for Wednesday morning by naval officers detailed to keep in touch with the flight.

Reports of a moderate atmospheric disturbance in her path were declared to increase rather than diminish her chances for a speedy passage. Westerly winds of more than average force are prevailing north of Bermuda, according to the observation ships, stationed by the navy near the northern steamship lines.

From Bermuda the course probably will be influenced by later meteorological observations but officials here are confident it will be a straightaway path for her destination, with a possibility that the ship may be taken on a short swing over New York city before landing.

The ZR-3 still will be "German property" when she reports at Lakehurst and several weeks probably will elapse before legal titles will pass to the United States.

As outlined by the government officials today the procedure to be followed in her delivery is:

United States naval board of inspection and survey makes a thorough test of the ship and inspects her from end to end for the navy department.

On receipt of report of trial board, navy department informs state department that the ship meets specifications.

State department, acting for United States government, acknowledges receipt of ship to the German government, completing the formal acceptance.

IN RADIO COMMUNICATION WITH STEAMER HAMBURG

Boston, Oct. 13—The dirigible ZR-3 en route from Germany to the United States, passed over Flores Island, the most westerly of the Azores group at about 6:30 eastern standard time, according to a message from the ZR-3 picked up by the Chatham, Mass., station of the Radio Corporation of America, tonight.

The message sent to Hamburg, Germany, was not timed but was picked up by the radio corporation's station at about 6:30 p. m. The island is located in latitude 39 degrees 25 minutes north, longitude 31 degrees 12 minutes west.

In conversation with Hamburg it was reported that the crew had become habituated to life on board the big zeppelin. At the time the message was being sent some of the officers and men were snatching naps in their bunks; others, more energetic, were playing a phonograph and singing while several were engaged in detailing their experiences in letters home.

A varied fare at the principal meal was reported. The menu comprised soup, boiled ham, string beans, potatoes and pudding. It was heartily enjoyed by all despite the novel conditions under which it was eaten, the radio operator reported.

Receiving difficulties were encountered at the American station owing to the fact that the conversation was being carried on with Germany. At the conclusion of the last message, Hamburg announced that it was unlikely that further word could be received from the ZR-3 there and the Radio Corporation station here prepared for communication with the airship.

LATEST MESSAGE FROM ZR-3 ALL IS WELL ON BOARD SHIP

Dirigible Hangar, Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 13.—(By the A. P.)—"All is well on board ship" was the brief message passing between the ZR-3 and the scout cruiser Milwaukee which Lieutenant T. G. W. Settle, officer of communication, intercepted here at 11.10 p. m., eastern standard time.

MESSAGE RECEIVED BY THE CRUISER DETROIT

Washington, Oct. 13—A message from the air cruiser ZR-3 received at the navy department tonight reported her position at 8 o'clock eastern standard time this afternoon as 130 miles west Fayal course (Azores) and added that all was well.

The message was received by the cruiser Detroit stationed at latitude 40.20 north; longitude 40.30 west, or about 500 miles northwest of the Azores, and by the cruiser Milwaukee, stationed at latitude 39 north, longitude 50 west, or about half way between the Azores and Bermuda.

WATCHING AT BERMUDA FOR APPEARANCE OF ZR-3

Hamilton, Bermuda, Oct. 13—(By the A. P.)—Upon the receipt of word today that the dirigible ZR-3 en route from Freidrichshafen to the American coast, had taken a course from the Azores which was expected to bring her over Bermuda, the men in charge of the lookout stations at the Gibbs Hill and St. David lighthouses were instructed to keep a close watch for the appearance of the giant air cruiser.

D. A. R. DECORATED GRAVE OF CAPT. JOHN COOLIDGE

Plymouth, Oct. 13.—The Coolidge lot in the little cemetery here, to which the nation's eyes were directed three months ago when the President and Mrs. Coolidge came to bury their young son, Calvin, was the scene of exercises again today, when Daughters of the American Revolution decorated the grave of Captain John Coolidge, who founded the family in this Vermont valley. It was as soldier of the Revolution in which he took part from the shot that was fixed at Lexington to the end of the war which found him at Fort Ticonderoga, that the memory of the president's ancestor was honored.

Samuel Ashley chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of Claremont, N. H., which discovered that the grave was unmarked, took charge of placing on it an official Sons of the American Revolution marker, and had Colonel John Coolidge, father of the president, assisting.

The pilgrimage afterwards moved on to the grave of young Calvin Coolidge, Jr., nearby, where Sarah Louise, Caroline and Leete Elliott, of Claremont, children, placed flowers.

Mrs. Bernice Webb Putnam, historian of Samuel Ashley chapter, read at Captain Coolidge's grave a sketch in which she mentioned that he was the sixth generation of Coolidges in America, and that at 19 years of age, living at Bolton, Mass., he answered the first call to arms, serving at Lexington, Bunker Hill and in other Revolutionary campaigns.

CONFESSION OF MURDER BY 17-YEAR PHILADELPHIA BOY

Philadelphia, Oct. 13.—Police today reported they had obtained a confession from Frank Magutski, 17 of this city, to the killing of Charles Gist, caretaker of a group of bungalows along Perkiomen creek, near Volleefevill Pa. Geist's body with a bullet through the heart, was found in one of the cottages.

A bloodstained piece of shirt, found in the woods near the scene of the slaying led to the tracing of Magutski, who had been recently released from a protectory near Collegeville and had been living with other boys in the woods. He was said to have told the police that Geist surprised the boys while they were pilfering in a bungalow and in the struggle that followed, wounded Magutski with a chisel before the latter shot him.

WORKING FOR EXTRADITION OF JOHN WESLEY DE KAY

London, Oct. 13.—Extradition proceedings against John Wesley De Kay wanted in America in connection with the failure of the Atlantic National Bank, Providence, R. I., in 1913, were continued today until Oct. 22. At the time Pleasant A. Stovall, former minister to Switzerland, is expected to testify for the United States govern.

NO TRACE OF SLAYER OF NEW BRITAIN POLICEMAN

New Britain, Oct. 13.—With Walter E. Shean, of Springfield, Mass., held without bonds for murder as a result of the death of Policeman James Skelly during an attempt to rob the Davidson and Leventhal department store Sunday morning, the state police were redoubling their efforts today in an effort to locate Gerald Chapman, a notorious hold-up man who is alleged to have fired the shot which killed the patrolman. All efforts to find the alleged gunman, who was convicted of a large mail robbery in New York and sentenced to Atlanta prison from which he escaped, had failed tonight.

Shean pleaded not guilty in court this morning and was bound over to superior court in Hartford. He was taken to the Hartford jail.

Numerous tips have been received by the police in their hunt for Chapman. It was reported from Newington that a man, very much excited, boarded a trolley car in that place yesterday morning and after dropping two coins in the box when but one was needed, stopped the car after it had gone a mile and left hurriedly. He told the conductor that he had forgotten some blueprints. Passengers on the car said the description of the man talked with that of Chapman.

All traces of Chapman vanished after he left the front door of the department store after the shooting. He is known to have gone south in Main street and have turned the first corner. The car barn is nearby and the police believe that the hunted man boarded a trolley car there and left the city.

The funeral of Patrolman Skelly will be held at 8.45 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Joseph's church. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery. The chief of police has ordered all members of the department to attend the funeral.

ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL COMMISSION APPOINTED

New York, Oct. 13—Gov. Smith today announced the membership of the Roosevelt Memorial commission, created by the last legislature, which will superintend the construction of a memorial to the former president on a site adjacent to the American Museum of Natural History, Central Park West and Seventy Seventh Street. An initial appropriation of $250,000 has been made.

WILLIMANTIC

The testimony of James J. Lee of this city, a Department of Justice Agent, who stated that he had secured a confession, was disregarded, in the murder case against Roland R. Pothier of Pawtucket, R. I., former sergeant in the United States army during the World War. On the grounds that undue influence had been used in obtaining the confession from Pothier at the time of his arrest in Providence that he had shot and killed Major Alexander P. Cronkhite at Camp Lewis, Washington, six years ago, Judge Cushman told the jury not to consider Mr. Lee's evidence, thus leaving a clear case for the defense.

A court of the order of Foresters, Alliance Americana was instituted the past week here at a largely attended meeting, held in Central Labor Union hall. One hundred and fifty-seven members were initiated and officers of the local were selected. Credit for the successful opening of a court here under Mr. Goulet has spared no time or effort in securing his quota of members for organization since his arrival in this city a month ago. That the perseverance had met with results is evident from the fact that Thursday of this week another meeting of the court will be held here, when fifty members will be initiated. Organizer Goulet has gone to Sanford, Me., to continue his work. The local court bears the name of Court Dollard Des Ormeaux. No name in honor of the famous French general. The institution and initiatory ceremonies were in charge of Wilfrid St. Mathieu of Woonsocket, R. I., supreme secretary, who was assisted by Chief Rangers Joseph Matevier of the Plainfield Court and Hormisdas Pierpean, of Baltic court. Before the police court Monday morning Marion Zaldeck of 49 Brook street was charged with breach of the peace and at the suggestion of Prosecuting Attorney Samuel B. Harvey the case was continued until Saturday morning. The arrest was made at midnight Sunday by Officer Grant Bombria, after the man had come home and threatened his wife and struck his little son. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lee, the latter a sister of Mrs. Zaldeck protected the woman and her child until the officer arrived.

The Willimantic B. P. O. E. Band is to furnish music for the parade of Knights Templar commanderies of New London, Westerly and Norwich at New London Thursday afternoon. The local band has also been engaged by the Nrwich Lodge of Elks to furnish music for the Armistice Day parade in that city, November 11.

O. K. Ormond of West Hartford may have a good set of initials, but he failed to secure the O. K. of officer Bombria Sunday after he had driven his machine down through the city in an alleged reckless manner. Ormon will be presented in police court Wednesday morning on the charge of reckless driving.

The October meeting of the common council was held Monday evening in the town building, with Acting Mayor George W. Hickey presiding. The main business transacted was inbreasing the salary of the corporation counsel from $600 to $800 a year to begin with the next term on Jan. 18, 1925. The additional $200 being granted upon the adoption of a resolution presented by Alderman William E. Jackson. Upon motion of Alderman Jackson the meeting was adjourned to Oct. 27 when the formality of a hearing will be granted Thomas H. Killourey to show cause why the office of city sheriff which he now holds should not be declared vacant. Mr. Killourey automatically loses all right to hold public office through the loss of his franchise resulting from a conviction at the last term of the criminal court on a charge of embezzlement. By the adoption of a resolution introduced by Alderman Jackson, a committee of three from the council will meet with members of general assembly elected next month, to secure some form of amendment to the city charter in order to establish a pension fund for the active members of the fire department. An attempt by Alderman Jackson to fix a salary of the permanent members of the fire department on the scale as that of the police department officers was frustrated by Alderman Laramee, chairman of the fire committee, who stated that his committee had the matter under consideration and planned to take definite action soon. The application of M. Paul Welch, as call member of Hose Company No. 1, was read and approved. The third report of Arnold H. Bowen, in charge of patroling the water shed, was read and on motion of Alderman Buck the reports will be forwarded to the state board of health for action. TOOMEY AND CAISSE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, Oct. 13.—Patrick J. Toomey and Alexis Caisse were named as candidates for the general assembly on the democratic ticket at the democratic town caucus held in the town building at 8 o'clock Monday evening for the nomination of representatives and justices of the peace. Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton opened the meeting and was chosen clerk, with John O'Rourke chairman. The name of P. J. Toomey was presented by James Haggerty, who spoke earnestly on the urgent need of a man of the nominee's type to represent Windham in the general assembly. The nomination of Mr. Caiss was made by Lyman Maine. On motion of James F. Toomey a committee of three, Alexis Caisse, Mrs. Flynn and William A. Buck, retired and brought in the names of ten nominees for justices of the peace and they were unanimously approved as follows: William C. Backus, Frank Bugbee, Samuel B. Harvey, Aime J. Martineau, Robert E. Mitchell, Eugene E. Hickey, Arthur Racicot, James F. Toomey, John R. McCarty and Arthur T. Kelley. The meeting adjourned after being in session 20 minutes.

CHARLES K. KNOWLTON DIES; WAS ASHFORD'S BENEFACTOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, Oct. 13.—Charles Clark Knowlton, 80, who donated the recently completed new Ashford town building, died at his summer home in West Ashford Sunday evening shortly before seven o'clock. His health had been poor for the past three years and at the dedication of the Ashford town building, two weeks ago Saturday, the townspeople whom he had benefited grieved to know that he could remain at the exercises but a short time. The building which he gave to the town cost $100,000 and was in the memory of his father Jonathan W. Knowlton and his famed ancestor, Colonel Thos. Knowlton of the Revolutionary war. Charles Clark Knowlton attended the grammar school in Ashford and then went to Boston where at the age of 20 he engaged in the silk business with Isaac Farwell. Later he conducted a similar business with his uncle in Conantville meeting with the same success which marked his every enterprise in life. For several years he was connected with the H. K. and H. Silk companies with factories in Watertown, New London, Putnam and other places. The main offices of the firm are New York and Mr. Knowlton had his permanent home in Brooklyn, N. Y., at 870 President street. He is survived by an adopted son, Clarence Hammond Knowlton who had the oversight of his foster-father's business during the latter's illness.

HELPS ABOUT HOUSE LIGHTING

HOW WE SEE

It may seem a bit odd to start with the kitchen instead of with the living room for our lighting lessons, but the kitchen is a room of importance. A home may be built without a sun room or a living room, but without a kitchen, never!

And this is the room in our home where somebody must work a good many hours each day. In most families that somebody is likely to be mother. Winter mornings there's breakfast to get by electric light. There's always kitchen work to do after dark in the evening and there are gloomy days when artificial light is necessary almost all day long in the kitchen.

Factory work rooms are compelled by law to be at least reasonably well lighted, but the work room of the home, the kitchen, often is very badly just because mother never has complained about it.

To be well lighted there should be a flood of soft, even light in the kitchen that gets into every nook and corner. When you stand at the sink while washing the dishes, there should be no deep, black shadows on the dishes. It should be impossible to "stand in your light" so as to throw a dense shadow on your work anywhere in the room. You should be able to open the oven door and actually see in.

Many kitchens are lighted with a fixture light like the one shown in this picture. No kitchen can be well lighted with this old style lighting equipment. In spite of everything you do, it will always make bad shadows, because the bulb is so low that you can't help throwing your own shadow in front of you. There's only one cure—take it out.

Proper light for the kitchen means a 100-watt clear bulb or 150-watt daylight or blue bulb, put close up to the ceiling so that there will be a minimum of shadow. To soften the light, it should be surrounded by a dense milk-white, all enclosing glass globe. Preferably this piece of glassware should be flattened out a little in shape in order to spread the light well over the room. This is shown in the next picture. In a very large kitchen, two of these may be needed.

Changing the old style fixture to this modern kitchen light will make a surprising difference in the appearance of the kitchen and in the ease with which kitchen work may be done.

In order to be sure that there is plenty of light at the sink, and no bad shadows, it is usually well to provide in addition to the light at the ceiling, a bracket fixture on the wall over the sing or, if that is not possible, another light will be over the sink. This light should be just high enough above the head to be out of the way. This fixture should have a deep, open bottom, dense milk-white glass shade. It may have an insulated pull chain switch. In some kitchens a fixture like this may be needed over the kitchen stove.

Just as a 100-watt lamp bulb in the ceiling fixture will give proper lighting, so 50-watt white bulb is excellent for a fixture over the sink or the stove. Some people prefer a 150-watt daylight or blue bulb in the center fixture and a 75-watt daylight or blue blub in the fixture over the sink or stove. The use of daylight or blue bulbs makes a well kept kitchen look even more spick and span and gives to it, night or day, a daylight cheerfulness.

When using an electric iron or any other appliance, we need all the light we can get. Therefore, it is not a good thing to remove a bulb to connect the iron. Have a convenience outlet just like this in the wall near the table, about 36 inches or more above the floor.

Hobart Bosworth, veteran screen actor, played in the first photodrama ever produced in Los Angeles. The studio was back of a Chinese laundry in Olive street. During the intervening years he has participated in more fighting and rough and tumble scenes than perhaps any other actor on stage or screen. He will be seen here again in The Silent Watcher, a First National offering produced by Frank Lloyd, at the Palace theater.

Notable Concert Organist

Bookings for Charles Leech Gulick, America's concert organist, who is to give a concert next Sunday evening in the Central Baptist church, already extend well into 1925 and are much greater than any other organist before the public. In his tour of New England this month Mr. Gulick has consecutive bookings for every night of the two weeks he has been able to give this part of the country.

Mr. Gulick plays only the best in the realm of organ literature, but he plays this in a manner that makes a direct appeal to the varied types of music lovers found at the average recital. He plays entirely from memory, without recourse to a score at any time, and this enables him to give an attention to the details of each individual instrument which, even to the initiated, appears uncanny because of its orchestral brilliancy.

Republican Rally

A republican rallv is to be held this (Tuesday) evening at Mt. Calvary Baptist church by the colored women of Norwich.

Pepsodent Scientifically Lightens Cloudy Teeth

Removes the stubborn film that makes teeth ugly and often leads to decay. The method to quick tooth beauty urged by leading dentists—acts without bleaching or harsh grit.

THE prettiest girl can't be pretty with cloudy teeth. The cleanest cut man loses attractiveness when his smile reveals discolored teeth. That's why all the world seeks whiter teeth.

Modern science now tells us how to clear up dingy teeth, quickly. A new way widely urged by high dental authorities. A method that succeeds beyond the power of old type dentifrices—that safely removes and combats, without harsh grit, the stubborn film that covers teeth and masks their natural luster and beauty.

Run your tongue across your teeth. You will feel that film. Under it are the pearly teeth you envy in others. Remove that film, and your teeth will then show their natural beauty. Mail the coupon for a 10-day tube free. Results will amaze you.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of teeth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

A capacity audience yesterday both matinee and night, greeted a perfect program at the Broadway theatery yesterday. It was the unanimous opinion of all.

Canzano, the piano accordeonist, opened the program with a fine musical offering.

Herbert Warren and his company of five people presented The Manhattina a comedy in two scenes by Emmett De Voy. It is sure fire fun.

Crisp stories, odd little songs, skill at the piano and striking individuality are the game of popularity. He comes here direct from Keith's theatre, Boston.

The Hedleys presented In the Moonlight, as the closing attraction. They also come here direct from Keiths' theater, Boston. Athletic ability coupled with balancing skill make this an outstanding attraction.

Gloria Swanson, in her latest Paramount picture, Her Love Story, which opened at the Broadway last night, furnishes ample evidence that Kipling knew what he was talking about when he said: "The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin." Only in Gloria's case it isn't a Colonel's lady but a Queen who shows us that under the thin veneer of royalty she is just a woman.

Never has Gloria looked more beautiful or played her part with greater sympathy, sincerity and understanding. And that goes for the entire supporting cast which includes Ian Keith, George Fawcett Mario Majeroni and many others. Allan Dwan has given the screenplay an extravagant production that is a delight to the eye. Such entertainment as Her Love Story affords is mighty rare and should not be missed.

Breed Theater

One of the season's finest casts was assembled for Bread, Metro-Goldwyn's screen version of the Charles Norris novel, which is the feature attraction at the Breed theater today. The chief role, that of a girl swayed between a love for business life and that of a home, is played by Mae Busch, who has lately appeared in such successes as Name the Man, The Christian, The Shooting of Dan McGrew, and Broken Barriers.

Bread was directed by Victor Schertzinger and was adapted to the screen by Albert Lewyn and Lenore Coffey. It is a Louis B. Mayer presentation.

Louise Fazenda in Dizzy Daisy and the Pathe news make up the remainder of the bill.

Palace Theater

Said to surpass in magnitude any attraction ever made with relation to sea adventure, Frank Lloyd's First National picture version of Sabatini's The Sea Hawk, is scheduled for presentation at the Palace theater commencing Sunday, four days.

Milton Sills heads the exceptional cast, being seen in the dual character of Sir Oliver Tressilian, and English knight, later Sakr-ed-Bahr, the hawk of the sea in the service of Basha of Algiers and the foremost naval commander of his day.

Enid Bennett, well remembered for her Maid Marian in support of Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood, enacts a similar type in The Sea Hawk, being cast as Rosamund Godolphin, Sir Oliver's fiance, who, following the slaying of her brother Peter, believes Oliver to have committed the deed and whose opinion is strengthened by the sudden disappearance of Oliver a day before the trial to prove the real murderer.

Palace Theater

Walter Hiers, rotund comedian of the films, wore the costume of a troubadour in one scene of Christine of the Hungry Heart, the new Thomas H. Ince First National picture coming to the Palace theater three days beginning Thursday Oct. 16.

Short subjects, new Telephone Girl story, No. 11, Faster Foster, Pathe news and Sport Light, Animal Athletes.

Burroughs Adding Machine Co.

Not long ago the National Association of Retail Credit Men conducted a questionnaire on the chief cause of business failure. Approximately 10,000 merchants answered: "Failure to keep books," which was but another way of saying, "Failure to keep accurate figure records in a systematic manner."

When it is considered that last year more than 20,000 retailers failed the significance of such an answer to the question of the cause of retail failures becomes more apparent.

For an analysis of those 20,000 failures would disclose this fact: the great majority failed because they had no exact knowledge of the status of every phase of their business. In other words, they were failing to keep accurate figure records in a systematic manner.

Those merchants were operating on guesses and hopes. They guessed they were keeping overhead down and revenue up and they hoped they were making money. But they did not know—they were operating blindly, were feeling their way. And because they had no knowledge of actual conditions, no means of detecting trouble when it occurred their profits dribbled away through the leaks of excessive overhead, too large an inventory and poor collections.

Norwich, Conn., business men who have been troubled with that problem have at their disposal the advice and help of the local Burroughs organization.

The Burrough company has been serving business for more than 30 years and in that time has won an international reputation as an authority on subjects of accounting and merchandising. It has become a rich storehouse of knowledge to which business men have learned to turn with their problems.

And without obligation the men of the Norwich, Conn., Burroughs organization will gladly help business men with their figuring problems and assist them in straightening out and simplifying their bookkeeping systems so they may avoid coming to grief through lack of accurate figure records.

If a man loves a woman he will give up smoking for her sake, but if she loves him she won't ask it.

PUTNAM

Nearly 200 teachers in the schools of Putnam, Killingly, Thompson, Woodstock, Pomfret, Eastford and Union attended the Teachers' Institute held in the auditorium of the Putnam high school, Monday. There were morning and afternoon sessions. The institute was in charge of R. D. McAllister of Putnam, superintendent of rural schools. The second act of the operetta which they sang last year was given by 69 children from Woodstock schools and was well received. Addresses were delivered by F. S. Camp, state supervisor of elementary education, E. S. Russell, superintendent of schools in Simsbury and Leon Staples, superintendent of Suffield schools. In the afternoon Dr. A. B. Meredith, commissioner of education of the state of Connecticut, was the principal speaker and addresses were also made by J. L. Meader, New Haven high school and S. H. Harrington of the bureau of statistics, Hartford. The general theme of the addresses was New Connecticut State Course of Study.

The activity of the five declared candidates for the nomination of representative in the general assembly on the republican ticket, will, it is believed, result in the largest republican caucus ever held in Putnam tonight (Tuesday). Two of the five candidates will receive the nomination but on this day before the caucus it is anyone's race. Of the five candidates, two are women and much depends upon how the women vote. There seems to be no doubt that the voting will be by ballot and those attending the caucus should be prepared to stay until a late hour. Those seeking the nomination are: Mayor Victor Chapdelaine, Samuel Rich, a retired silk manufacturer; William Pechie, a former ward alderman; Miss Clara Larned, president of the Putnam Coolidge club and probation officer of the Putnam city court, and Mrs. S. Nikoloff, an active party worker among the women voters.

The annual 18-hole golf tourna-ment of Pomfret Country club for the challenge cup presented by the president of the club, will be held next Saturday, Oct. 18, on the links of the Pomfret club, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. Play will be continued throughout the day and all cards must be in by night. The tournament is open to all amateur golf players in Windham county or to members of any Windham county club. Club handicaps must be obtained in writing and sent to the secretary of the Pomfret club not later than Wednesday, the 15th. No entrance fee is required. The secretary of the club is John P. Grosvenor, Pomfret Center.

The case of Lee Smith, wife of Samuel Smith of the City hotel, who is seeking to recover $2,000 damages from members of the Putnam police force for alleged false imprisonment, will go to trial in the superior court in Putnam this (Tuesday) morning before Judge William M. Maltbie. The defendants in the case are Captain of Police William Jarvis, Sergeant George Laird and Patrolmen John Ryan and Alferie Sponcey.

The case is the outgrowth of a search for intoxicating liquor in an automobile owned by Samuel Smith on the 5th day of April 1923. Nothing was found in the automobile, but Mollie Smith, who was driving the car, a daughter of the hotel proprietor, was placed under arrest for speeding and was taken to the Putnam police station. Others in the car went with her to the police station and the plaintiff now alleges that it was at this time and place that the false imprisonment occurred.

The writ sets forth that the defendants without warrant therefore and without legal authority wrongfully and unlawfully placed the defendant under arrest and forced and carried her from the public highway on which she was traveling in an automobile and transported her to the police station in Putnam and there unlawfully detained and imprisoned her for more than an hour.

In the second count the complaint alleges that on account and by reason of said acts the plaintiff was put to great nervous strain and caused to suffer greatly in body and mind and received permanent injury and has been for a long time unable to perform her duties as housewife and care for her children.

In the third count it is alleged that at no time was the plaintiff presented before any court for examination and trial.

The defendants, besides specifically denying any false imprisonment of the plaintiff, set forth that they searched the automobile in which the plaintiff was riding for intoxicating liquor having a warrant to do so; that the search was performed in a reasonable manner and that the plaintiff was in no way injured. It is also alleged that they arrested the driver of the car for speeding but any imprisonment of the plaintiff is denied.

The driver of the car, Mollie Smith, was arraigned in the police court and fined for reckless driving. She appealed to the superior court but the appeal was withdrawn and the fine paid. The plaintiff in the present action is the mother of Miss Smith.

One case of intoxication was disposed of by the Putnam city court, Monday morning.

Mrs. Jeanette Freeman of Boston, who has been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital for a number of weeks as the result of a fall which fractured her hip, has returned to Boston. She was accompanied by Miss Mary Johnson, who will remain with her for some time.

Howard C. Bradford and family were in Stafford Springs Monday to attend the fair.

Miss Agnes Osborne of Bridgeport, a teacher in the New York schools, formerly a teacher in the domestic science department of Putnam high school, her mother and sister, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bartlett.

E. CONN. MILLS ASS'N. DINES AT MECHANICSVILLE

Putnam, Oct. 13.—The Eastern Connecticut Mills Association, which includes mill agents, superintendents, overseers and office employees from the Massachusetts line on the north to New London on the south, held its meeting and banquet at the French River Inn, Mechanicsville, on Monday night. Nearly 200, including a party of fifteen mill men from Westerly, R. I., assembled about the banquet tables. Among the guests were John O'Neil, president, and Clifford Eccleston, secretary, of the Pawtuxet Valley Mills' association, William Spratt, president and Chas Mathewson, secretary, of the Blackstone Valley association, Fred L. Babcock and George A. Goulston, of Fibre and Fabric.

The inn and the banquet hall had been effectively decorated with palms and flowering plants and blossoms. Music was furnished during the evening by Champeau's orchestra of Putnam. Community singing was led by Mr. Goulston and was one of the features. A roast turkey dinner was served.

The French River Inn is a modern mill boarding house and an opportunity was given to inspect the establishment. The comment on the way the homelike boarding house for operatives is conducted by the Beachmont Worsted company which runs the large manufacturing plant in Mechanicsville, was most favorable. The inn is under the management and personal supervision of Frank W. Russell, formerly of Putnam.

The after dinner exercises included a number of speeches and impromptu remarks by those called upon by the president of the association, Harry Richardson of Moosup, who welcomed the guests and introduced the speakers most aptly. There was a short business session when routine matters were disposed of. The meeting was one of the largest and most enthusiastic the association has held.

DEMOCRATS ARE URGED TO WORK HARD FOR TICKET

Putnam, Oct. 13.—Dorothy Jones Bartlett and Alphonse D. Beausoleil were nominated for representatives in the general assembly at the democratic caucus tonight with 22 voters present, of which number seven were women. For judge of probate the caucus nominated M. Edward Duffy and for justices of the peace George Potvin, J. Harry Mann, A. D. Beausoleil, John J. McGarry, Alexander Gilman, John O. Fox and Herbert J. Smith. Mrs. Bartlett made a speech of acceptance and urged the democrats, lthough realizing themselves to be in the minority, to work for the party ticket. "I'd rather be right and lose," said Mrs. Bartlett," than be wrong and win, and I promise, if elected, I will give my best efforts to represent you, my constituents, and the town of Putnam." John J. McGarry was chairman of the caucus and George Potvin clerk.

Finally found health in Kellogg's Bran after suffering long with constipation

Mr. Patch writes that Kellogg's Bran "solved his problem." It has solved the problem of constipation—mild and chronic—for thousands of others. It has brought relief when all else has failed because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read Mr. Patch's letter:

Dear Sirs:

I have been a constant sufferer from constipation and have wondered what was the cause of it. I have tried about all the cereals I could think of, and finally tried Kellogg's Bran. This solved my problem. I feel 100 per cent better and I owe it to your Bran. Thanking you very kindly for this great cereal, I am

Very respectfully,
Chester C. Patch.
761 Main St., Greenwood, Mass.

For the permanent relief of constipation, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestines. It rids them of the dangerous poisons that lead to other diseases. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, is delicious with milk or cream. You will like its nut-like flavor—so different from ordinary, tasteless brans. Sprinkle it over the cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Eat it in Kellogg's Bran muffins, griddle cakes and many other wonderful recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, is made in Battle Creek and is served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. It is sold by all grocers.

Face Disfigured With Itchy Eczema Cuticura Heals

"Eczema broke out all over my face, arms, hands and back in pimples and blisters. It itched and burned causing me to scratch and irritate the affected parts, and my face was awfully disfigured. I could not do my cooking because the breaking out burned when I went near the stove. My clothing aggravated the breaking out on my body, and I lost my rest at night because of the irritation.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a few days I could see an improvement. I continued the treatment and in three weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Elizabeth Cloutier, 180 Newman Ave., Attleboro, Mass., Apr. 5, 1924.

Judge of Probate
NELSON J. AYLING

A COMMON SENSE VIEW.

More business in government and less government in business expresses the sentiments of President Coolidge as expressed in his latest radio address. He knows very well what the experience of the country has been with government ownership and he knows further how unwise it would be to enter into any other similar activities. As for such proposals as are advanced by the third party leader he has no use. He considers them against the best interests of the country and the individual, but he does believe that there must continue to be government regulation for the protection of the public interest.

With the interest of the public always uppermost, the president's view is that government prefers to keep out of business, to let it go its own way, so long as that way is the right way, so long as it is the way of honest and genuine service to the real public interest."

There is no more sound doctrine than that "the government must always represent the public." When it is declared that private ownership is a test of the freedom of the public it must be recognized by the thoughtful citizen, and when the president says that it is not the size of the business but the practices of business that must be used as the basis for judgment he states a truth which must be generally recognized.

It isn't necessary to go all through the taking of industry by the government, going through the experiences that were had with the railroads and the merchant marine and eventually admitting the mistake and the failures, to recognize the fact that this government wants no part therein. What was done as a war emergency is not going to be repeated with our eyes under peace time conditions.

The supremacy of the people's interests and a working cooperation between business and the public in accord with the dictates of common sense, with the government protecting the public interest and opposing bureaucratic control, as advocated by the president is a policy that will get widespread endorsement because it is sound and sensible.

GETTING BY ELLIS ISLAND.

Administering the immigration laws of this country, considering all the twists and turns that are given to the appeals for lifting the bars, is by no means an easy task. It is clearly a place where it is impossible to satisfy everybody. Many are the instances where the law cannot be upheld if certain admissions are to be permitted, and there are many others where it is recognized that the enforcement officials are not mind readers and must be governed by the facts that confront them.

Recently there has been complaint to the effect that a rich young Frenchman, a student at Harvard, returning to this country to resume his studies was denied admission because his passport was not properly countersigned by the American consul abroad. Just why this vise was lacking does not appear. It doesn't say that it was refused and the impression is gained that the necessity of getting it was overlooked.

Students are admitted to the country regardless of the quotas but since the vise was missing it was required of this student that he go to Ellis Isle until the case could be looked up. As to that there doesn't appear to have been any serious objection except that it was during the stay there that the objectional treatment developed. The student was prevented from communicating with either the French ambassador at Washington or Ambassador Herrick, both of whom he claimed to know personally. He also claims to have been forced to sleep on the floor and was awakened by being kicked in the back.

Whether there is any exaggeration in these claims remains to be determined, but like many other immigration cases it will doubtless get the benefit of a careful examination as to the facts. If the claims are correct as to improper treatment it is time to know and end it. Some of the trouble must be attributed to the failure to take the necessary preventive measures, but that doesn't justify any mistreatment, and there is no reason to believe that those responsible for anything of the kind will be tolerated.

THE 14TH AMENDMENT.

It isn't the usual experience of this country to add amendments to the Constitution of the United States and then a little while after remove them. Amendments are added after careful deliberation and in accord with the requirements and they are not easily removed.

It is 56 years since the 14th amendment to the Constitution was proclaimed and yet an effort has just been started to have it declared invalid. As might be expected it surrounds the color question. A Washington lawyer has filed a suit in the federal court at New Orleans asking that Walter L. Cohen, colored and controller of customs at that port, be enjoined from exercising the duties of that office on the ground that the 14th amendment was never properly ratified, since six states were coerced to ratify, eleven states were deprived of their suffrage in the senate and congress unlawfully declared the amendment a part of the Constitution.

Negro appointments are not exactly pleasing in Louisiana. The naming of Cohen was persistently fought. When first named by President Harding confirmation failed. After a recess appointment without pay his name was sent to the senate by President Coolidge. Again confirmation was denied but it was later given though the south strongly opposed it. The unwillingness to accept the Cohen appointment and the possibility of more of them has led to the suit. But while aimed at this particular man and this particular case it would mean of course the disfranchisement of all Negroes. There seems to be no prospect of success but the effort is to be made.

BUTLER REMAINS.

If we are to judge by the despatch from Philadelphia which declares that the mayor of that city is to ask for the continuation of General Smedley Butler's services after the expiration of the year, that he may continue to act as director of public safety in the Quaker city, the recent getting together of the mayor and the director general, when it was considered a break was inevitable, has been beneficial.

There is also the possibility that the big public demonstration in behalf of law enforcement in that city has also had its effect. It unquestionably let it be known what the sentiment is as was represented by that meeting in that city, and it became evident that an understanding between the mayor and the former head of the marines was not impossible or unwise.

Cleaning up a big city means that many obstacles must be encountered. There are many forces at work to block it, and while there was some indication that the opponents of Butler might succeed in causing a split between him and the mayor the test has shown otherwise. Philadelphia is not to see an end of enforcement efforts nor the termination of Butler's services. On the other hand there is to be a continuance under a new understanding by which there appears to be no curbing of the director of public safety's authority and no interference with his work. Philadelphia may yet experience the cleaning up that it desires.

ONE OF LA FOLLETTE'S EXAMPLES.

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, says: "I feel justified in making a statement, as there seems to be a tendency to draw the Canadian National Railways into United States politics. Mr. La Follette is holding up the Canadian National railways as an example of the blessings of government ownership. Others are holding it up as a horrible example of the vice of state ownership. I rather deprecate the situation and I would be obliged if they would let me look after my own troubles and attend to my own business."

"Troubles" is the way Sir Henry expresses it, and there is little wonder that he doesn't like to have his lines held up for scrutiny. If it were possible to accept the La Follette description as the correct one there would be no excuse for his statement. La Follette's handbook puts forth this government operated road as having and operating profit of over $20,236,000 last year, and the real cause for the Thornton statement can be seen from the fact that the 1923 report of the Canadian National railways shows that during that year it piled up a net income deficit of over $51,696,000.

To have a railroad, or "treubles," that is producing such a deficit is bad enough, but Sir Henry doesn't like to have too much said about it and cannot stand that misrepresentation which insists that it is a highly profitable example of government operation.

A SUPRISE PARTY

"I feel like a cat which has lost his eighth life," sighed the young married woman with the jade hat. "I'm so frazzled this morning, and it's all from taking Ted seriously. Such a thing should never be done by a well-regulated sister."

"But Ted was supposed to be the ideal brother, with that paragon of a husband running second," protested the young woman without a jade hat.

"No-o, I'd hardly say that. Jimmy, my husband, has his good points, but Ted is my brother. He has been west for years on that mining job and since he came back a month ago he has been quite sentimental about the good old times we used to have. You'd think he was 42, instead of 24, to hear him talk about the good old times and the good old gang and what fun we had when he was young. And all his old gang is married except Emma Wold. She's such a quiet little mouse and a teacher at that, and Ted isn't a bit bookish.

"Last night was Ted's birthday and I decided to humor him with old times and old friends, so I planned an old-fashioned surprise party, asking his old gang and telling them to bring the food along the way we used to do when we were youngsters. And then didn't that irritating brother of mine, who ordinarily wouldn't go anywhere at all in the evening, suddenly decide to go to town? It being his birthday, he explained, was no reason to sit round and see Jim and me act as if we hadn't been married a week when everybody knew it was over five years.

"Well, I tried every way I could think of to stop him, but he was set on getting the 8:20 to town, and I could see Anne Geer and her husband coming down the street and I'd heard the side door bang and knew it was Emma Wold with the big cake she was to get over early.

"So I had to think quickly. I said that if he would wait a second and take a letter with him to mail I'd forgive him, and I'd just run up and get it. I ran in and grabbed up the stairs, threw the book down and dictionary and went halfway up the then raced down after it and dropped gracefully on its open pages. Of course Ted heard the book drop, rushed in and thought it was my falling that he'd heard. And Emma heard it, too, and was kneeling beside me when Ted came in.

"He was so excited that he grabbed Emma and asked if she was hurt. Then I managed to moan and he realized that he had caught her instead of me and was down on his knees in a minute. I moaned that I'd hurt my ankle and would he carry me to the study, which was at the back of the house. He did it, of course, and got off my shoe, and then Emma came and held my hand, and I couldn't explain to her that I was faking.

"Just at that minute Jim put his head in and called, 'Ted, Anne Geer wants to see you a minute,' and Ted said to tell Anne to go to Halifax. Then I chimed in, in a gentle suffering sort of voice, and asked him to go, and he reluctantly left me.

"Before I could get up or pull on my slipper I heard the gang yell 'Surprise! Surprise!' and they flocked around him the way we did when we were youngsters and gave a surprise party.

"And what do you think that brother of mine did? Went white as chalk and nearly keeled over! Ned Morton is a doctor, you know, and he jumped for him and had him in a chair with aromatic spirits of ammonia and all fixed up. And then he turned to Jim and asked what sort of strain Ted had been under to make him keel over like that. Jim couldn't think of any strain and I was just about to chime in that Ted thought I'd fallen downstairs and was sort of worked up over it when Ted explained everything. 'Well, Bess fell downstairs and I thought it was Emma that fell and it gave me an awful scare.'

"Now, I ask, can you beat it? He had not the slightest idea of the gentle knock he was giving me or the bigger jolt that it was quiet little Emma that stunning big brother of mine was crazy over! Oh, yes, they're engaged, all right, and are to be married in August, but, I ask you, who was it got that surprise party, anyhow?"—Exchange.

Bush Had to Fight His Way

Irving T. Bush received a good education, his father was a prominent business man and the youth inherited money and influence, but he had to fight his way to success.

Born in Ridgeway, Mich., he was sent to the exclusive Hill school at Pottstown, Pa., and after being graduated at 19 was taken on a cruise around the world in his father's yacht. His father having become president of the Bush & Denslow Oil Company, with a plant in South Brooklyn, N. Y., Irving entered the employ of the company as a clerk. A year later he was chosen secretary. Soon afterward the company was purchased by Standard Oil and he became a clerk for that concern.

Only 21 when his father died leaving him a fortune, he plunged into business. The old Bush & Denslow plant had been dismantled and there were two acres of what real estate men called "non-negotiable" sand lots in South Brooklyn lying idle.

Securing control of the land, Bush began its development. Believing that a warehousing and industrial center could be developed he enthusiastically approached bankers and business men to obtain sufficient backing. His vision was laughed at, bankers would neither advance money or help sell his bonds, and others were dubious of the plan's success. Bush used his own money, formed the Bush Company, Limited, sold his bonds and started his development.

Unable at first to obtain business for his warehouse, he bought cotton and coffee and stored them until he could sell at a profit. He tried to interest railroads in lightering freight to his plant, but they ignored him. Sending a representative back home to Ridgeway, he bought 200 carloads of hay and had it shipped to the Bush Terminal. Then the railroads had to recognize him. When steamship lines refused to use his piers he established lines to the West Indies and dealt in bananas. Unable to get boats to handle shipments to Manhattan, he induced the state to sponsor ferry lines to the island.

Extending the two acres to 200, he formed the Bush Terminal Company and developed the project. Now the company has 123 warehouses, eight piers, 16 model loft or industrial buildings and many other structures and activities. In New York City, he controls two large buildings, is interested in many other projects and is one of the city's leading citizens.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Oscar Wells, of Birmingham, who has been elected vice-president of the American Bankers' Association, is president of one of the largest banking institutions of the southern states. He was reared in Platte City, Mo., where at the age of 16 he began his career as a clerk in his uncle's bank. In 1894 he interrupted his business career to finish school, going to Bethany college at Bethany, W. Va., and remaining there three years. He returned to the world of finance in 1898. Until 1913 he continued in the employ of banks at various points in Missouri and Texas. In that year he became vice-president of a bank in Houston and two years later was made governor of the Federal Reserve bank in Dallas. Then, in 1914, he left Texas to go to Birmingham as president of the First National Bank of that city, the position which he now holds. Mr. Wells has served on the advisory council of the Federal Reserve Board and also as a member of the Superior Liquidating Commission of Cuba.

A Little Talk on Thrift

THE LITTLE THINGS

The poet Goethe, who spent nearly an entire lifetime in the composition of one of his masterpieces, once wrote that "Genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains."

It is said that Thomas Gray worked with infinite pains for seven years on his immortal elegy—said by many critics to mark the highest literary accomplishment of any man.

In similar manner, an "infinite capacity for taking pains" generally spells success in the world of business.

Almost any successful business man will agree that it is largely the little leaks that constitute the attention to details and the mastery of them that brings progress.

In our personal lives—in our ambitious endeavors to accomplish success—the same rules hold true.

Through the steady, successful accomplishment of details, we move forward. Through successive failure in small matters we gradually drift downward to ill-success and possible ruin.

Very much of the essentials of good thrift lies in our ability to master the little things of life.

The successful executive so builds his organization that leaks and lost motion will be done away with to the greatest possible extent. It is true, of course, that men fail many times because they try to carry too many details, but this does not mean that such details are not worthy of ambition. The fault in these cases lies in inadequate direction.

To be truly thrifty one must be thorough. And thoroughness means taking pains — infinite pains — in all essentials.—American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

What's the Use

Joseph, seven years old, came home from school and solemnly announced that he had decided to quit school. His mother, much astonished, asked why he had reached this decision.

"Well, mother," he replied, "one of the boys said I was the smartest boy in the room, so I don't think I need to go to school any longer."

Before and After

A youngster came home from school the first day of the term, rejoicing because he had been assigned to the room of his favorite teacher, a young woman who had been married during the summer vacation.

A few days later he had changed his mind completely and wished for another teacher.

"What's the matter?" asked the mother. "I thought she was the one you liked so well."

"She was," the boy said, "but she must have got an awful husband because she's as cross as a bear now."

Professor of Humor

A university professor was spending his summer vacation in the country. He had climbed a hill and was about to walk down when he was overtaken in an auto. They asked him what he did for a living, and after telling them, he began entertaining them with jokes he had picked up in his travels. When they reached the bottom of the mountain and the professor started to leave, the driver turned to him and said:

"You didn't tell us what you were professor of, but it's my guess you must teach humor."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Granddaddy Bullfrog

The Bubbling Brook goes purling through
The Sunny Meadow to the sea.
It stops to turn the old mill wheel
That grinds the corn for Farmer Lee.
But after that it stops no more
Until it finds the white seashore.

All the Little Folk of the Shady Forest wondered why the Bubbling Brook never seemed content to linger anywhere. Even when it reached the Old Mill Pond, where the graceful willow trees bent over to look into the quiet waters, it rushed over the Old Mill Wheel, turning it around and around, with a gurgle and a splash, a sputter and a gush.

All this never bothered Granddaddy Bullfrog. Oh, dear no! He sat patiently on his log, waiting to make a meal of the unwary flies who buzzed too near for safety.

"I see him," croaked Granddaddy Bullfrog. "I'm not so old that I can't see a rabbit who comes to call on me," and the wise old frog stretched his legs on the hickory log. The minute he shouted, "Hello, hello, how's my little friend."

"Happy as the day is long," answered the bunny boy, setting down in the bank. "Have a lollypop?" and he opened his knapsack. "Here's a big yellow one, full of strawberry syrup."

"You don't say," laughed Granddaddy Bullfrog stretching out his hand. "I thought lollypops were hard all the way through."

"Not those from the Big Brown Bear's Lollypop Tree," answered the little rabbit. "That's a wonderful tree. I never tasted such delicious lollypops," and, smacking his lips, the bunny boy commenced to suck on such a pretty pink one.

"Gracious me!"—All of a sudden exclaimed the old frog, looking down at his beautiful white waistcoat, "I've spotted it all over. What shall I do? Dear, dear. Mrs. Bullfrog will be so provoked."

Just then who should come hopping by but Cousin Cottontail. "What's the trouble?" she asked stepping beside them. For answer the old frog pointed at three big red spots on his beautiful white waistcoat. "Too bad and then one more," he croaked mournfully.

"I'll wash them off in a jiffy," answered kind Mrs. Cottontail, and taking a tiny bottle from her shopping bag, she poured a few drops on a rag, and in less time than I can take to tell it, Granddaddy Bullfrog's waistcoat was as spotless as ever.

"Wonderful stuff. Many thanks," laughed the happy frog, as the two little rabbits hopped into the next story.

POETRY

God and the Preacher

The parish priest of Austerity
Climbed up in a high church steeple
To be nearer God, that he might hand down
His word unto the people.

So he daily wrote in sermon script
What he thought was sent from Heaven
And he dropped this down on the people's heads
Two times one day in seven.

In his age, God said: "Come down and die."
And he cried from out the steeple,
"Where are Thou, Lord?" and the Lord replied:
"Down here, among My people."
—W. C. Doane in British Weekly.

Dryad Song

I am immortal! I know it! I feel it!
Hope floods my heart with delight!
Running on air, mad with life, dizzy, reeling,
Upward I mount—faith is sight, life is feeling.
Hope is the day-star of might!

It was thy kiss, Love, that made me immortal.—
"'Kiss' Love? Our lips have not met!"
Ah, but I felt thy soul through night's portal,
Wild and as sweet as regret.

Come, let us mount on the wings of the morning,
Flying for joy of the flight.
Wild with all longing, now soaring, now staying,
Mingling like day and dawn, swinging and swaying,
Hung like a cloud in the light!
I am immortal! I feel it! I feel it!
Love bears me up, love is might!

Chance can not touch me! Time can not hush me!
Fear, Hope, and Longing, at strife
Sink as I rise, on, on, upward forever; Gathering strength, gaining breath naught can sever
Me from the Spirit of Life!
—Margaret Fuller.

THIS WOMAN'S MARVELLOUS RECOVERY

All Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Truman, Minn. — "I was badly rundown and had pains in my side and back; sometimes I couldn't hardly move around in bed. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it I was so much better I could do all my work again. I do my housework, have a garden, raise chickens, and in harvest time I worked in the field and helped pick corn. Sometimes I do chores and milk. I took the Vegetable Compound before and after my four-months-old baby was born, and it has always helped me wonderfully. I believe there is no better medicine made for women, and I hope every woman will give it a fair trial." —Mrs. AUGUST R. WINDERHOFF, R. No. 2, Box 84, Truman, Minnesota.

MOTOR MASHERS ANNOY CONNECTICUT COLLEGE GIRLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 13.—Complaint has been made to the police by President Benjamin M. Marshall, of Connecticut college, that students are annoyed by mashers, who park cars along Mohegan avenue and Williams street and solicit the acquaintance of the girls. Of late the practice, it was stated, had become so annoying to the college girls, that it was deemed advisable to request the services of the police to put an end to the cause of complaint. Motorcycle Officer William Babcock has been assigned to duty during the evening in the vicinity of the college. Numerous automobiles have been found parked at the approach to the college, but as the occupants of the machines there are not violating the law by parking there, no action can be taken. It is understood that Officer Babcock takes the registration of the cars found and files the list at the police station.

OBITUARY

Horace Burdick

(Contributed.)

In the death of Horace Burdick last week, resulting from a fall at his home, the town of Sterling loses one of its best citizens. Mr. Burdick was born there 73 years ago and always followed the business of farming and teaming. In 1875 he was united in marriage with Mary E. Lewis of Exeter, R. I., in the town of Richmond. Part of their early married life was spent in Exeter and Voluntown, but for many years they have resided in Sterling.

Two children of Mr. Burdick with his widow survived, the children being Horace Burdick of Sterling and Mrs. Alice M. Reed of Jewett City.

The funeral was held from the Methodist Episcopal church at Oneco where Mrs. Burdick is one of the most prominent workers.

Burial was in the family lot in Oneco cemetery. There were many beautiful floral offerings and a large attendance.

Mrs. Louis Porter

Following an illness of some duration, Olvin Porter, widow of Louis Porter, died early Monday morning at the home of her son, Arthur B. Porter, No. 13 Ward street. She was born in Quebec but for 40 years had lived in this city. A number of years ago in Hartford she was united in marriage with Louis Porter who died here in 1917. Mrs. Porter was a member of St. Patrick's parish.

Surviving are five sons, Arthur B. Porter, George Porter, Raymond Porter and Wilfred Porter of this city, James Porter of New Haven, a daughter, Mrs. Harry Brooks of New London, a brother in Canada and seven grand children.

FUNERALS

Louis Mabrey

Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, funeral services for Louis Mabrey, of Mabrey's Hotel, Ocean Beach, were held at the funeral parlors of Robert H. Byles, 15 Masonic Street, New London. There was a very large attendance, including many former business associates of Mr. Mabrey. The services were conducted by Mrs. Eleanor K. Eager, first reader of the First Christian Science Church, New London.

Burial was in Maplewood Cemetery, Norwich, in the Mabrey plot, the services being according to the ritual of the I. O. O. F. and conducted by members of Shetucket Lodge, No. 27, of Norwich, chaplain Harry N. Howard and Noble Grand Louis F. Waters.

The bearers were Frank L. Arnold, Edward F. Kinney, Harry N. Howard, Joseph W. Curran, James Blair and Louis F. Waters. Among the choice floral forms was the symbolic tribute bearing the three links of the Odd Fellows, from Shetucket Lodge.

Church and Allen assisted in the funeral arrangements in Norwich.

Among relatives in attendance were Mrs. Mabrey's brother from Chicago and Mr. Mabrey's sons, Frederick D. Mabrey, of Englewood, N. J., and Nelson Lee Mabrey, with Mrs. Mabrey, from Milton, Penn.

McCarthy. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brundson of Sterling and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCarthy of Jewett City. Both the young people have the best wishes of a large number of friends in their new life.

JEWS' HARVEST FESTIVAL OBSERVED THE WORLD OVER

The Feast of Tabernacles, or Succoth which commences on the fifteenth day in Tishri, was ushered in at sundown Sunday and observed Monday. It is the harvest festival of the Jews the world over and is the last of the cycle of Jewish festivals, Pesach, Sh'vuoth and Succoth.

Services were held in the synagogues and following them the worshippers spent some time in a succoth or booth commemorating the time when the Israelites, on their forty-year journey through the wilderness to the Promised Land, ate and slept in booths. Orthodox Jews have their own "succoths" and many eat all their meals in them during the nine days of the holiday. Oct. 21, the final day of the festival is called "Simchath Torah," or "Rejoicing in the Law."

HOLD-UP MAN CAUGHT AT WORK IN MARKET ON THAMES SQUARE

Attempting a hold-up early Monday evening in the Thames square public market at 1 Thames street, Eugene Bunner, 41 of 7 Hill street was caught in the act and is believed to be the same man who held up a meat market wagon on Boswell avenue in the afternoon and took between $60 and $70 from the driver.

Bunner went at his work along approved methods in the hold-up game, with a revolver in his hand and a handkerchief to cover his face in his Thames square attempt, but he made a slip in imbibing too freely before he started in with the result that he paid no heed to concealing his movements and his preliminary preparation were plainly visible to Stanley Romanowski who happened to be driving along in his automobile at the time. Romanowski noticed a man on the sidewalk fixing a handkerchief over his face and decided to watch what would happen. He saw the fellow disappear through the door of the market and a minute later through the window could see Stanley Zawlislinsky, the clerk, with his hands in the air. Romanowski jumped out of his machine and started to go through the store door but he was promptly backed out into the street by the man with the gun. Romanowski watched his chance and as Bunner turned the gun away for a minute, jumped for him, tripped him up and took the gun away from him. With the help of Zawlislinsky just as Officer John Donovan arrived and completed the capture. The hold-up man was taken to police headquarters in a jitney that had been sent from there with Officer Divito when word of the holdup was received.

As soon as Bunner had been brought to police headquarters, Capt. D. J. Twomey summoned from Greeneville one or two witnesses of a holdup here in the afternoon. They agreed that Bunner was dressed the same as the man they had seen and generally corresponded to his size and description, although they had not seen his face.

The Greeneville holdup took place on Boswell avenue about 2.45 in the afternoon when Stanley Olsiewski, who was driving a Greeneville meat market wagon, was met by a man with a revolver in his hand and a cloth over his face. The holdup told Olsiewski to throw his money on the ground. When this was done, the man with the gun gathered up the roll of bills, which Olsiewski said amounted to between $60 and $70, jumped the fence and disappeared in the woods near the Point saloon corner.

Bunner, who is employed by a Norwich contractor, had only some small change in his pockets when arrested. The revolver he was carrying was fully loaded.

JUDGE AYLING UNANIMOUSLY NOMINATED BY REPUBLICANS

Judge Nelson J. Ayling, who has held the judgeship in the Norwich probate district for the past 20 years, was renominated by the republican probate convention which was held here Monday at 12.30 p. m. in the town hall. Judge Ayling was the unanimous choice of the convention and had been endorsed a week ago by the democratic convention.

Justin Holden, chairman of the Norwich republican probate district committee, called the convention to order and Alvin Kaempff of Lisbon was made temporary chairman. Arthur P. Cote of Sprague was made secretary.

Charles W. Cassidy made the nomination of Judge Ayling, who was unanimously made the nominee and a committee of two was appointed to notify him of his nomination. This duty was given to H. B. Bates of Preston and Miss Alif Stevens of Norwich.

Judge Ayling accepted the nomination in a brief speech, in which he thanked the convention for the honor they had given him and he mentioned that this was the first time in 20 years there had been a lady on the committee to notify him of his nomination. He spoke briefly of some of the duties of the probate court in which he pledged himself to administer its business with justice and fairness to all.

The following delegates from the towns in the probate district attended the convention:

The following were chosen for the Norwich probate district committee for the next two years: Justin Holden, Norwich, reappointed; C. H. Lathrop, Franklin; Alvin Kaempff, Lisbon.

ANOTHER PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE IS APPOINTED

Miss Ellen C. Tongren has been appointed an additional town public health nurse, the appointment being made by Town Health Officer Dr. Harrison Gray, following an appropriation voted at the last town meeting. Miss Tongren is well known in this city and her appointment will meet with general favor. She is a graduate of the William W. Backus hospital training school and has practiced her profession in Norwich for a number of years.

With the addition of Miss Tongren to the staff the town public health nursing staff will comprise four nurses and one dental hygienist.

BATTERY B. VOTES TO PARTICIPATE IN PARADE

At a meeting of Battery B., 192nd artillery, Connecticut National Guard, held at the close of the regular drill Monday night, it was voted to accept the invitation of the general committee to participate in the Armitice Day parade and celebration in Norwich. The decision to accept the invitation was made after consideration of an invitation extended on last Armistice Day to attend the parade at Stamford this year.

Now that the cool weather has arrived the boys are becoming considerately interested in indoor baseball and basket ball. Plans are being made for indoor rifle practice in preparation for the match between the military organizations of the state.

Visitors From Mystic

Rev. John Beauchamp, rector of Mystic Episcopal church, was in Norwich Monday to attend a meeting at Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, and was accompanied by his wife, also by Mrs. Daniel Brown, Wells in town they were callers at the home of Mrs. Brown's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roswell J. P. Brown of Oneco street.

PARADE AND ADDRESSES CELEBRATE COLUMBUS DAY

Columbus Day was fittingly celebrated in Norwich Monday when Italian residents held a big parade in the evening. Headed by the Italian-American band they left their hall on Water street at 6.30 o'clock and paraded to Burnham Square, to Washington Square and thence to Union Square where a fine concert was rendered by the band. Brilliant displays of red fire and Roman candles made the parade one that attracted much attention.

At the concert at the square over 2,000 people heard addresses by Judge John H. Barnes and Rev. Valentino Panizzoli, Italian pastor of the Central Baptist church, who spoke of the daring of Columbus, who set out across an unknown body of water and found the land which today unites the whole world in commerce. Rev. Mr. Panizzoli also spoke of the importance of patience and courage when progress is to be made, also of the importance of a man voicing his ideas thus bringing about the fulfillment of great desires. Both speakers were heartily applauded at the conclusion of their addresses. The speakers were introduced by Nino DiPalma.

The arrangements for the celebration were in charge of a committee comprising B. Barbetta, E. Badaloni and A. Giovannini.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR WILL PARADE IN NEW LONDON

Columbian Commandery No. 4, Knights Templar of this city, will go to New London Thursday afternoon to participate in a conclave and parade to be held in that city. The parade will be headed by a detachment of marines and navy men and these commanderies will be in line: Columbian Commandery, No. 4, this city; Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, Westerly; Palestine Commandery No. 6 of New London. Each commandery will be headed by a band. The parade will start promptly at 4 o'clock and Right Eminent Sir Carey Congdon, past grand commander of Connecticut has been chosen grand marshal.

Palestine commandery, commanded by Eminent Sir George Paton, will be host to the other commanderies during their visit to New London. Following the parade the sir knights will enter the New London armory where a banquet will take place. The armory will be decorated in the Templar colors and during the banquet the Elks band will render a concert.

After the dinner a concert and entertainment will be staged by the Yale dance orchestra and entertainers consisting of 12 men. These entertainers have a regular program which includes monologues, dancing and music.

DEMOCRATS NAME THEIR CANDIDATES IN CAUCUS

At the democratic town caucus held Monday evening in the town hall two candidates were elected for representatives to the state legislature and 16 justices of the peace were nominated. Mayor Milo R. Waters was chosen moderator of the caucus which had its usual sized attendance. John T. Gleason was chosen clerk.

Anson R. Grover was nominated by Earl Mathewson as candidate for representative to the legislature and Albert W. Lillibridge was nominated by Herman J. Gibbs as candidate for representative. Both selections were unanimous. The following sixteen candidates for justices of the peace were named.

Patrick T. Connell, John J. Corkery, Jeremiah J. Desmond, Edward G. McKay, Roderick M. Douglass, John E. Fitzgerald, Cornelius J. Downes, William F. Hill, Charles V. James, Thomas J. Kelly, Earl Mathewson, Gilbert S. Raymond, Thomas M. Shields, Jr., William Weldon and Harold T. Robinson.

With the exception of Mr. McKay all were renominations. Mr. McKay was nominated to take the place of Edward T. Burke, deceased.

WATERBURY WITNESSES IN HEARING OVER KLAN

Waterbury, Oct. 13—Four local persons were summoned, today, to attend another naval hearing at New London, Wednesday, on the alleged presence at a Klan meeting in Cheshire, July 12, of three naval officers from the New London base. The four summoned are: D. T. Farrington, prominent realtor, Attorney Joseph A. Bergin, Walter R. Brooks, reporter on the Waterbury Republican, and John J. Mullen, former reporter on the Waterbury Republican, now a medical student at Tufts.

The first hearing on the presence of the naval officers at the Klan was held Friday, to which Tax Collector Jesse Devine of this city was summoned as a witness as to the conduct of the naval officers at the Klan meeting. It was alleged following the meeting, that the three officers declared they had been ordered to attend the meeting by their superior officers. The three officers are Chief Electrician's Mate Joseph J. Capdeville, Chief Electrician's Mate John L. Hess and Chief Machinist's Mate Roy T. Johnson.

GIVE INSTRUCTIVE TALK ALONG ELECTRIC LINES

The story of the electric railways was told in a most interesting manner and a fine talk on generating electricity was given by Walter C. Slade, chief engineer of the Rhode Island company, to members of the United Church Brotherhood, at the Community House, Monday evening.

The electric railway industry is passing through strenuous days at present, said Mr. Slade, but the business is no small one and in this country there is but one city with a population of over 25,000 that has no street railroad.

In the early days all companies had their own power plants but now they buy of central plants cutting down costs to a great extent. Types of vehicles have changed and there are many kinds in use but everything now is lighter than ever before, so costs of operation can be cut, to offset large wage increases. For heavy transportation the trolley is absolutely needed and today there is much unfair competition. Transportation everywhere should be unified, this being noticeable in New York and Providence where bus lines and taxi lines are overcrowded. With this in view it is easily seen that no city can be successful without organized transportation industry.

Speaking of the engineering questions, Mr. Slade said that speed has made many changes because the wear and tear is much greater than with the horse cars. Tram rails have given way to 60 and 104 pound rails. Rails are now welded together to prevent current leakage and copper alloy is being used for wires rather than copper. The industry is picking up again, however, and the trolley is here to stay. In 1922 a total of 9,000 motors were purchased at a cost of over 9 million dollars. Old motors scrapped weighed nearly twice as much as the new ones and would have cost 5 million more. The new motors cost between 50 cents and a dollar to operate per thousand miles as against from $3 to $5 for the old motors.

Then again, said Mr. Slade, we have cut costs by saving on power. In the early days the companies had their own power plants. These are now all gone and the central plant used. Old plants took from seven to eight pounds of coal for a K. W. H., while the new ones take two pounds or less. We have spent $2,000,000 to modernize our power plant and now generate power at the cost of two pounds down to 1.57 pounds of coal per K. W. H. and we feel that we shall soon get the cost down to 1.5 pounds per K. W. H.

This was done in the turbine room by purchasing a 20,000 K. W. turbine to operate at a pressure of 300 pounds and under a total steam temperature of about 600 degrees. Three new boilers were put in and we have operated 250 trolleys on one boiler and from 280 to 300 on two boilers. These boilers have 10,000 cubic feet of combustion space and we have tested boilers run at 300 per cent capacity and have made them deliver 400 per cent of rating without bad effects and there has been no brick renewal. We use pulverized coal sifted on correctly and with proper air adjustment so that all that reaches the pit is dust, there being no carbon in it.

In a half dozen tests the boilers were found to operate at 90 per cent efficiency, thus there is only a 10 per cent loss where there was from 25 to 35 per cent loss with the old boilers and with the old ones that took from five to seven pounds of coal per K. W. H. the loss was from 35 to 40 per cent, the cost of generating in a plant of this kind being higher than that of the plant generating power used for lighting.

The electric industry is coming back all over the country, said Mr. Slade. Electric cars last year carried more passengers than ever before, over 16 billion people being carried. Speaking of bus operation he said that as yet it had not paid, but that costs were being held to a minimum and it was believed another year would show a small profit.

Previous to the address of the meeting a supper was served by the Haviland class of the United Church and a business meeting held, President Walter F. Lester being in charge. The resignation of Albert F. Noren, who has left Norwich for Bridgeport, was read and accepted with regrets. Edwin V. Ross was elected secretary to fill out his term. Secretary Ross then read the usual reports and three new members were voted upon. Mr. Ross also announced that the speaker for the evening of November 10th would be Bert Spear, former Keith vaudeville representative, now in business for himself.

President Lester then called upon Ex-Mayor Herbert M. Lerou, chairman of the committee to arrange for an entertainment course and Mr. Lerou reported that the committee has secured three noted speakers to come to Norwich on Friday evenings during the winter. The first lecture would be given by Edward Markham, he said, the second by Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, of the Museum of Natural History, New York, a lecture on animals to be illustrated, and, finally, Rev. J. V. Moldenhawer, D. D., would lecture here in February.

Oscar Mosessian, who recently met Walter Johnson, the famous Washington pitcher, spoke highly of this popular ball player. Mr. Mosessian was at the first game in Washington when Johnson lost his 12 inning battle and said that Johnson was a modest, clean cut young man and that it was a pleasure to have met him.

SHETUCKET LODGE WILL WORK BIG CLASS

It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the meeting of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, I. O. O. F., this (Tuesday) evening for a large class of candidates is to be put through the first degree. The work, which is to be in full form, is in charge of Noble Grand John J. Parsons and staff.

At the last meeting of the lodge the entertainment committee announced that plans had been completed for the winter months. The entertainment program calls for two plays, two debates, the subjects to be selected later, and a farce comedy similar to the one that went over so well last winter. The plays and entertainments for the next two months are in charge of Archibald H. Perry and his committee.

Announcement was also made that on the good and welfare, numerous subjects of interest to all members were to come up at the next meeting. With the working of the final degree on the class a social is being planned.

N. L. ARCHDEACONRY HOLDS ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The clericus of the New London Archdeaconry met Monday noon at Grace church parish house, Yantic. Luncheon was served by the women of the church for the visiting clergymen. Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of the Norwich State Tuberculosis Sanatorium was a guest at luncheon and gave an interesting address on tubercular conditions and work being done along tubercular lines in the state.

Following Dr. Campbell's address the clergymen held a business meeting. In the absence of Rev. T. D. Martin, the president, and Rev. P. M. Kerridge, the vice president, the chair was taken by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown. The officers were elected for the ensuing year:

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE IN TEXAS UNDER CONTROL

Washington, Oct. 13.—The outbreak of foot and mouth disease among cattle in Texas was considered under control today, according to an announcement by the department of agriculture.

The disease was found in only five herds and there has been no new infection during the last eight days except in one dairy heard of 17 cows in an enclosure adjoining an infected pasture.

All of the diseased herds have been slaughtered and buried.

ST. PAUL TEAM BEATS ORIOLES IN FINAL GAME FOR MINOR LEAGUE TITLE

St. Paul., Minn., Oct. 13.—Premier honors in the Minor league baseball world rested tonight with St. Paul, achieved through victory today over Baltimore in the deciding game of the Junior World series.

Battling through to their third straight triumph, the Saints humbled the International league champions, 6 to 3, giving them five victories to the Orioles' four in the post-season fray.

Five of the series games were played at Baltimore, one of them—the third—resulting in a 13 inning 6 to 6 tie. Baltimore won the first game 4 to 2, and Merritt shut out the Orioles in the second, 6 to 0, allowing only three hits.

Winning the other two at Baltimore, 8 to 4 and 10 to 1. The Orioles came to St. Paul to close the series, holding a three to one game lead. Here the Saints won the first, 5 to 2, but when Baltimore took the second, 4 to 0, needing only one game to win the title, the Saints seemed hopelessly out of it.

Bracing Saturday, however, the Saints won 3 to 2, they made it three straight by winning yesterday 3 to 1 and won out today with three straight. It was the first series in three post-season clashes wiht Baltimore in the past five years that the Saints have won the championship. The score:

PEERLESS TAKES TWO FROM LAWRENCE FIVE

New London, Oct. 13.—Before a large crowd of local bowling enthusiasts the Peerless Five battled the Lawrence Five on the Peerless alleys here tonight. Besides being a regular scheduled match of the Eastern Connecticut league the local five men teams of bowling fame were also involved and as the first match of the two that are scheduled this week between these teams the Peerless took two strings out of three.

Hitting the maples hard in the first string the Peerless hung a 564 total and easily gained a temporary advantage. The Lawrence Five with malicious intentions gave their contingent something to cheer about by taking the second string, 522 being hit by the Lawrence in this string but they lost the third and deciding string by 15 pins.

Every one of the Peerless Five hit the century mark in the first string. Captain Bill Belcher hit 123, which also was high for the evening. Frank Smith continued his sensational bowling and piled up a grand total of 323. He carried off high three honors of the evening. R. Sistare, who substituted for Ryan, after the first string, hit 221 in two strings. The scores:

RANGERS LOSE FOURTH STRAIGHT AT HARTFORD

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, Oct. 13. — It seems as though the New London Ranger Soccer eleven will continue to occupy the cellar position in the Connecticut league standing for some time to come, as Sunday afternoon found this team losing its fourth straight contest and all to the Hartford Thistles. All the scoring possibilities seemed to present themselves to the locals and the visitors were offered little or no opportunities for a score in the game. The final accounting was 4 goals to 2 in favor of the Capitol City players.

The victory, the second for the Thistles gives that team a clean slate for the present season thus far. If the good playing had been figured to declare the final winner and not the goals made by each team, no doubt the visitors would come in for their share of honors. The play as far as could be seen throughout was divided, and at times it showed the Whaling City athletes superior both in attack and defense. The ball when leaving the foot of the Rangers would ward off just outside of the goal posts, an din this manner several chances for a score, which was really deserving of the visitors had to be abandoned. And then the goal work of Black was good.

What the New London aggregation lacked was two Cruickshanks, for with two players of this player's ability and the goal that he hung up during the afternoon would have seen the teams end the fracas in a deadlock at four goals each. But as it was the contest had to end into a Thistle victory, even though Cruickshank did include two goals as his contribution towards a visitors victory.

The Thistles divided their scoring and broke through the visitors defense for 2 goals. The 1st score was made by the locals after four minutes of playing but the second goal was not made until nearly 20 minutes later. The local forward line snatched the ball away from the visitors, near mid field and several accurate passes brought the ball between the goal posts.

The second half found the Rangers going into the contest with a determination to win and they succeeded to the extent of tying the score in a round knot of two scores each. After Cruickshank had tied up the score, the locals rose in a body and immediately took the game into their own hands scoring twice. It was their victory and they made sure of it by piling up two more goals in a comparatively short time before the game ended.

DUGAS HANGS UP NEW BOWLING LEAGUE MARK

Chip Dugas, anchor man for the Taftville team, hung up a new high three total mark Monday evening in the match at the Aetna alleys in which the Taftville team won two games. Dugas' mark was 362, ten pins beyond the high mark set by Roy Fillmore last week. The battle of the evening was between Dugas and Fillmore, the latter rolling 332. The match should have been won by the Aetna if the team had been in form. The scores:

WOOSTROFF WINS NATIONAL A. A. U. PENTATHLON TITLE

New York, Oct. 13.—Anthony Woostroff of the Newark Athletic club today won the National A. A. U. pentathlon championship, held under the auspices of the New York A. C. at Travers Island. Woostroff won the broad jump, javelin throw, 200-metre dash and 1,500 -metre run and finished third in the discus throw for his winning total of seven points. Bob Legendre of the Newark A. C., who broke the world's broad jump record in the Olympics, did not defent his title.

Charles Ashton of the New York A. C. was second with fifteen points, winning the discus and being placed third in three events and fifth in the other. Other contestants finished in the following order: J. A. Miseach, Paulist A. C., 18 points; Bernard Lichtman, Pastime A. C., 22 points; Frank Duley, Stamford, Conn., A. A., 24 points; Louis [illegible], Providence Y. M. C. A. and Edward Ostendorf [illegible] Y. M. C. A. failed to complete the tests.

EPINARD MAY MAKE ONE MORE TRY ON AMERICAN TURF

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Epinard, pride of the French turf, beaten in his three American starts, may meet Sarazen or Wise Counsellor in a match at a mile and a quarter during the Church-Hill Downs meeting, which opens at Louisville, Oct. 23.

Frederick Burton of Chicago, owner of Wise Counsellor reported from Latonia tonight that his colt, prevented from engaging Epinard last Saturday, would be ready to race again by next Saturday. The colt spread a hoof while in training for the International race.

GREB IS GIVEN DECISION OVER LOUGHRAN

Philadelphia, Oct. 13.—Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, middleweight champion of the world, and Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, tonight fought ten rounds to a draw, the decision being given by the referee after the judges had disagreed. The weight of each man was announced as 168 pounds. Both men tried hard for a knockout, but they appeared to lack the necessary punching power. Greb's title was not at stake.

In the semi-windup Joe Libby knocked out Jack Palmer, in the second round with a right to the jaw. Palmer's jaw was reported to have been broken by the blow. Both are Philadelphians.

TWO LOCAL BOXERS ARE ON DANIELSON CARD

Baltimore Joe Gans and Frankie Busch, of Norwich are booked to perform in the two star bouts at the Danielson Casino next Thursday night. Busch meets Young Pelky of Worcester and Gans is slated to met Joe Gill of Rockville. Both bouts are eight rounds at the light heavyweight class.

This is the first bout that Baltimore has fought since early in the spring when he met Silas Greene, ex-Canadian heavyweight champ, at Claremont, N. H., Gans smashed his right hand in the first round of the bout against the champion but continued to fight for three more rounds and then forced to give up the battle. Two bones in the hand were broken and Gans cancelled his engagements while his injured member recovered. His hand is in nice shape now and barring another accident he will be in great demand this winter. He has been faithfully working to keep in condition during the summer and is down to 168 pounds, his best fighting weight.

Busch is in the best of shape after a layoff of several months and expects to enter the ring Thursday night in the best form of his career.

BOSTON COLLEGE WALKS THROUGH FORDHAM TEAM

Boston, Oct. 13. — Boston College won its first battle in the Jesuit college championship race by defeating the Fordham football eleven 28 to 0, here today. The punting and running of Darling, eagle quarterback, featured. Jack and Bill Cronin, brothers, each scoed a touchdown. O'Brien, veteran tackle, suffered a leg injury and will not play against Syracuse Saturday.

GENERAL SHAKE-UP IN YALE LINE BEFORE THE GAME WITH DARTMOUTH

New Haven, Oct. 13.—That the Yale eleven is due for a shake-up as the result of its game with Georgia Saturday when the Eli team squeezed through with a 7-6 victory, became apparent today when the squad appeared for practice. The guard and tackle posts appear to be the weaker holes in the Yale line, the principal gains by Georgia Saturday being through these positions.

Joss, a veteran of two years ago, and Root appear to be the most likely candidates for the tackle posts. The latter replaced Butterworth in the game Saturday and gave a good account for himself.

In the guard position, Sturhahn, an inexperienced man, showed up well considering that he has been holding down that place but a week. On the other side of the line, there is a possibility that Richards may be moved in. He has been playing tackle on the varsity but did not seem fast enough for that place Saturday. He may be given a tryout at guard as the veteran, Eckart, had a bad day Saturday. There is no doubt about the ability of Captain Lovejoy at center and Bingham and Lyman, the two ends.

While the coaches are far from satisfied with the back field, Eddie Bench is sure to continue at quarterback through the Dartmouth game. He is by far the best quarterback at Yale this fall. He will have as his first substitute Bunnell, the freshman quarterback of last year.

Two other positions in the back field that are definitely settled for the present are Pond and Allen, with the third position up in the air. After Cottle went in Saturday he showed up very well. Failing, however, has the advantage in punting of last year's freshman team, will be in shape to take part in the scrimmage this week, though the coaches may save him until after the Dartmouth game.

SPORTING NOTES

Ireland has never won a British gold championship.

The Tailteann games will be held in Dublin again in 1928.

The rubber-cored golf ball was used in America some five years before its adoption by British players.

The annual fall meeting of the United States Amateur Hockey Association will be held in Boston on October 25.

The highest batting average in the records of the major leagues is .438 and was made by Hugh Duffy of the Boston National league team in the season of 1894

Champion Mickey Walker and Jock Malone have entered upon active training for their 12-round setto, which is to be pulled off at Newark on the night of October 29.

Having won five Texas league pennants in a row and four out of five Southern championship titles, the Fort Worth Panthers certainly are some critters in the minor league menagerie.

The latest baseball scandal recalls the close of the National league season of 1891, which aroused adverse criticism on the part of the Chicago club. A week before the season's end, the Chicagos were in the lead. The Bostons won five straight games from the New Yorks, thereby passing the Chicago team, and winning the pennant. President Hart of the Chicago club made formal charges against the New York management, hinting that the latter had tarown the games to Boston. These charges were subsequently investigated by the New York club directors and later by the directors of the National league. A complete vindication of the New York players and management resulted.

An innovation in the great stadium just dedicated by the Catholic University at Washington is the use of wooden seats and foot rests, to avoid the common objection to most football stadia of cold seats and cold floors.

Jim Jeffries, former world's heavyweight champion, has gone into the movies, enacting the role of the village blacksmith in a film comedy. The part should come natural to Jim as he learned how to swing the big hammer in his days as a boilermaker.

A total of 126 soccer teams throughout the United States will enter the 1924-25 competitions for the National Challenge Cup. The cup, which is emblematic of the championship of the United States Football Association, is now held by the Fall River (Mass.,) Football Club.

During his 19 years with the Detroit club Ty Cobb has played in 2,604 games, but he is still far short of the mark set up by Hans Wagner, who established the major league record. As a member of the Louisville and Pittsburgh teams, from 1897 to 1907, the great Honus participated in 2,785 championship games.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE ON EUROPEAN RELATIONS

Washington, Oct. 13—Foreign affairs, particularly the relations between this country and Europe and the Dawes reparations plan, received the attention of President Coolidge at conferences today.

Europe is rapidly gaining ground and this will become more noticeable as the reparations plan gets under way, especially in Germany, the president was told by Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, and oJhn Hays Hammond, who have just returned from visits in Europe.

While prosperity appears to abound in France, Mr. Hammond said England was bothered still by unemployment in which there seems no probability of an immediate improvement. Germany, he predicted, would make rapid recovery under the operation of the reparations arrangement.

Two of America's representatives of the reparations boards, J. E. Sterrett and Gates W. McGarrah, both of New York, conferred with Mr. Coolidge today before leaving for their new posts.

NEW PERUVIAN CABINET APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED

Lima, Peru, Ont. 13—The new Peruvian cabinet appointments were announced today. They were, minister of justice and president of the council of ministers, Alejandrino Maguina, foreign relations, Prof. Alberto Salomon; government, Jesus M. Salagar; war, Alfredo Piedra; treasury, Enrique Dela Piedra; public works, Manuel G. Masias, and marine, Fermin Malaga Santolalla.

The government stressed its intention of maintaining friendly relations with world governments, its confidence in the impartial decision on the Tacna-Aricna controversy, and the equitable arbitration of the Ecuador boundary dispute. The Colombian boundary treaty will be submitted in the near future and it is expected to establish American harmony. Relations with Brazil and Bolivia was said to be extremely cordial and Peru, it was declared, is sympathetic with the Bolivian negotiations to obtain a revision of the treaty of 19044.

STATE ISSUES BASIS OF ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGN

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Speaking in the arena here tonight, Theodore Roosevelt, republican nominee for governor said:

"I am making the main part of my campaign on state issues. But the national issues are also important and the state democracy must accept their full responsibility for the national democracy and discuss national issues also.

"Only a few weeks ago the democratic party was unalterably pledged to Mr. Davis. Nevertheless, at this time many democrats are pretending that they have only a bowing acquaintance with Mr. Davis and Mr. Bryan, but in state and nation they are tarred with the same brush."

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

The Courier of 1849 carried news of local men in the gold fields of California, also of those who had entered business in San Francisco. Among the best known was Col. Joan L. Devotion who had opened a drug store in the Californian city.

Other items of interest in those days are in part as follows:

Tuesday, October 9, 1849—The increased receipts on the Norwich and Worcester road continue. There was a gain of $1,000 for the week ending the 22d ult, on the local business alone. The daily number of through passengers to the boats from the Boston and Worcester and the Nashua connection is sometimes as high as 30 and the freight trains are very large from both lines. There is now a good promise of dividends to its stockholders.

When the new road is completed on the Worcester and Norwich road people wishing to go from Boston to New York will be able to enjoy a boat ride from New London on the Steamer Alice of the Thames Steamboat line. This will be a popular route as people would rather take half the trip by boat rather than go by way of Hartford.

The engine house question is still uppermost in the minds of many citizens. It is hoped that the court of common council will take action and not allow it to be located on Union street without first considering its bearing upon the proposed change in Bath.

Thursday Oct. 11, 1849—The many friends of Thomas M. Frazier will be pleased to learn that he has opened a new market in the front of Eaton's block, Franklin square. He will carry all lines of pork, fresh meats and poultry.

The "Trescott" in which Mr. Faulkner, Col. John L. Devotion, John Prentice and others from Norwich took passage, has at last reached San Francisco. She arrived on the 7th of August after a passage of 195 days from Mystic. The schooner Mary Taylor 203 days from New London arrived August 3d.

Reports from the gold fields tell of men making from $45 to $1000 a day at the diggings with new mines coming in fast. At Middle Fork, a man writes, a party operating a mine are taking out $10,000 daily.

One item of interest in the first issue of the Pacific Weekly News of Sept. 1st is the following advertisement: John L. Devotion, Wholesale and Retail Druggist and Apothecary, Pacific News Building, Kearney street, San Francisco.

Along with the Norwich letters from the gold fields were samples of gold and news that Mr. Faulkner had sold out his half of the press for $1500.

Over three inches of rain fell during the storm that began Thursday and continued until Sunday evening.

President Taylor will be unable to go to Boston this year owing to the absence of Secretary Clayton.

Assessors A. F. Gilman, Benjamin Huntington and Nathan Schofield have warned taxpayers to file their lists on or before the 20th day of October.

J. G. Cooley is continuing in the printing business at 95 Main street adjoining the Norwich bank and has published a catalogue showing the type of work he is doing.

Saturday, October 13, 1849—News seven days later from Europe is published today in the Courier and readers will find much of interest in the various articles. In Spain the manner in which the future annexation of Cuba is talked about in the United States is causing much anxiety to the ministry. Spain realizes that if she is to keep her rich colonies she must cut down the tax burdens and the big salaries of officials have therefore been cut down.

Reuben Langdon of Hartford for many years treasurer of the Savings bank of that city, died on the 9th inst. He was a printer by trade and worked upon the first printing press that was introduced into the United States.

Race riots have broken out in Philadelphia and the military has been called out. Thus far seven have been killed and over 50 injured, a great number being colored residents.

Joseph Trumbull, governor of the state of Connecticut, has issued a proclamation setting aside November 29, 1849 as a day of Thanksgiving, notice of the same being published in the Courier today.

Latest news from the gold fields of California brings information of a sorrowful nature to residents of this section of the state, since a number of men who have gone out from here having died there during the past few months.

COUNSEL ASKS DISCHARGE OF SIR RICHARD SQUIRES

St. John's N. F., Oct. 13.—The discharge of Sir Richard Squires, charged with larceny of public monies while he was premier, was asked by the counsel today after the full bench of the supreme court of the colony had handed down an unanimous decision that the grand jury which reported a true bill in his case acted with unconstitutional observance of all the requirements of law.

The motion was taken under consideration until tomorrow to permit the crown to make answer.

It was the contention of the prosecution that the grand jury was not properly drawn or summoned

CITY OF MECCA MENACED BY INVADING WAHABI FORCES

Jeddah, Arabia, Oct. 13.—The invading Wahabi forces which have been threatening the city of Mecca, chief shrine of the Islamic world, have advanced from their position some distance from the city and have taken up a position astride the route from Jeddah, the fort of Mecca, to Mecca itself, it was announced today by the president of the council of notables here.

TUG UNDERWRITER TAKEN; MASTER UNDER BONDS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 14—The tug Underwriter, which has been in the clutches of the law for carrying liquor, is again in the custody of the coast service and for the same offense—conveying liquor. The tug was captured Sunday night when ground near Rum Rev. off Hicks Island, with 1600 cases of liquor aboard. The capture was made by the steamer Tampa and the Jewett 18. Last night, as beautiful a night as ever favored the people of this county with a full moon and a cloudless sky, the coast guard vessels were lying off Rum Rev waiting forthings to develop. They saw four small power boats hovering around the bigger craft that were lying in the "row" and then sent a boat off to intercept the alleged liquor carriers. Five small boat got away, but three others were apprehended as violators of the navigation laws. All the craft were brought to this port, where the crews and the masters were arraigned before Commissioner Earl Matthewson of Norwich late this afternoon. The master of the Underwriter was held in a bond of $1600 for appearance in the district court, but the other men were released, as no liquor was found in their possession. The boat that left the "row" and got away is supposed to have had all the liquor she could carry, for she was laden deeply in the water. The Underwriter is at present held in $10,000 bail for her experience a fortnight ago. Her master is Capt. John O'Brien. Her master when she was held a couple of weeks ago was B. D. Carroll.

The custom house will forward the liquors seized on the Underwriter to Bridgeport and they will be held there until the treasury department makes disposition of them. There is no reason for more liquors in the custom house here, for more than 2000 cases are now in storage there. The customs authorities give a receipt for the liquors taken from vessels and the liquors are disposed of by receiving a receipt from the parties to whom it is delivered as representatives of the department at New York or Bridgeport.

Columbus day was observed here by the suspension of business by the banks. The schools were in session and government offices generally were doing business. The number of flags displayed was small, but there were some in almost all the streets of the city.

An automobile, the owner's identity not ascertained, collided with a traffic signal, of the blinker type, at the corner of Green and Glenwood avenues this afternoon, forced the signal out of position.

Thomas Keane, 654 Bank street, received two stab wounds tonight when attacked by one of two Italians, who had insulted his sister and when Rowe remonstrated with the Italians for their utterances. The stab wounds are now serious, it is believed, but one of them will incapacitate Rowe for several days, at least.

Rowe's sister was standing near the fracas when the two Italians came along and applied a vile remark to the young woman. The remark was overheard by Rowe, and going to the sidewalk he upbraided the Italians for their conduct. One of the insulters displayed fight and returned to Rowe to strike him. The other Italian drew and in an instant pulled a knife from his pocket and attacked Rowe. The blade finding its mark in the right shoulder and on the left cheek, while another blow with the knife just grazed Rowe's face. The police were informed of the assault and Sergeants Samuel Hick and Braxton Hill attempted to locate the Italians, but without success. The assailters were described as being about 35 or 40, about five feet, four inches in height, both wearing brown suits and soft hats. One had a dark moustache.

A fire occured Saturday night when a North Bank street house was threatened. An alarm was sent in from Box 23 to which the department responded. The fire, which was confined to one of the living rooms was quickly extinguished with chemicals.

At Sesbury Church in Groton Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, Miss Dorothy Lovett, the organist of the church became the wife of Harry J. Remmert, an employe in the dafting department of the New London Ship and Engine Company. Miss Lovett entered the church walking with her father, Henry D. Lovett of Ramsdell street, Groton, while Miss Oril Hymon played the wedding march from the Lohengrin. Miss Rose Remmert was bridesmaid and Charles Rammage of Uncasville was best man. Rev. Frederick Haist, the rector of the church performed the ceremony. Mr. Lovett gave his daughter in marriage. The church was decorated at the chancel rail and about the altar with dahlias and other blooms and a quantity of greens. Miss Lovett has been a bookkeeper at the Hislop store. Mr. and Mrs. Remmert are on a brief honeymoon trip.

Thames Hose company is in better financial condition than it has ever been. The fair the company recently held netted $471 which was added to the treasury balance and which boosted it to nearly $5000. The prosperity of the company is a stimulant for the members to add to the sum it has in the treasury. The company has been operating an old Pop apparatus but it has the assurance of the city council that better equipment will soon be provided.

All the young men attending Harvard college are at home for five days' vacation which will end next Wednesday.

Brainard lodge will ballot on several candidates for membership Tuesday evening.

The work of relaying sidewalks on the west side of Bank street has commenced at Howard street.

Lyman B. Pendleton has returned after two weeks' stay in New York.

John Eno is at Saratoga Springs on his vacation.

The funeral of Betsey K., widow of James L. Woodworth, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her son, James L. Woodworth, 33 Norwood avenue. The services were conducted by Rev. Philip M. Karridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Frank Greenman, 33 Winthrop street, was discovered by neighbors ill at his home Sunday afternoon and Patrolman Clarence Martin was summoned. The officer had City Physician George P. Cheney notified and when the physician examined Greenman he had the patient transfered to Lawrence hospital. Today Greenman's condition was so far improved that he was able to return to his home.

Juvenal Noble was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Frank Linehan, charged by Mrs. Noble with breach of the peace. In default of a surety bond of $250, Noble was locked up, pending his trial in the police court tomorrow morning.

Noble and his wife have been estranged for some time and Mrs. Noble has instituted proceedings to secure a divorce. It is alleged that last evening and again this forenoon Noble went to the residence of his wife, 16 Mercer street, where, it is claimed, he beat her. Mrs. Noble communicated with her attorney, G. Curtis Morgan and the latter sought to have Noble taken into custody. Acting Sergeant Edward Daniels, going to the home of Mrs. Noble found her in bed and suffering from shock and nervousness as a result of the ill treatment she alleged she received from her husband. Mrs. Noble declared that she wanted her husband arrested and a short time later Noble was found on State street by Officer Linehan.

The Highland apartments, Granite street, were sold at public auction this morning at 11 o'clock by Thomas S. McGinley, upon an order from the superior court. The apartments, the most fashionable in the city, were sold to Attorney Edward W. Broder, of Hartford, who represented interests in that city. The price Mr. Broder paid was $45,000 in excess of present incumbrances amounting to approximately $32,000. The incumbrances included first mortgage, taxes and interest.

James F. Murphy, 23 Walden avenue, former freight brakeman in the employ of the New Haven railroad, who was arrested at Saybrook Saturday afternoon having fled from the city, was in the police court this forenoon on the charge of assault with intent to rob John Rooney, 66, of Church street. The case did not come to trial, however, for because the condition of Rooney, who is under treatment at Lawrence hospital suffering from a bruised and battered face and head, also knife wounds in the shoulder and hip, was such as to prevent Rooney's appearance in court, the case was continued to next Thursday and Murphy was remanded to jail, as he could not secure a surety.

The police have discovered a witness to Murphy's attack upon Rooney in Lane A. Charles Kirby while he did not witness the entire battle, saw enough of the attack to be a strong witness for the state. Kirby has stated that while he witnessed Murphy beat Rooney he did not see Murphy use a knife. However, Rooney's body bears the evidence of the knife being used and the cuts are fresh ones.

Mrs. Peter Seros died at her home in Fall River, Mass., Saturday, death following childbirth. Mr. Seros formerly resided in New London a number of years, moving to Fall River about four years ago. During his residence in New London Mr. Seros was proprietor of a restaurant and a cafe. Mrs. Seros is survived by a sister, Mrs. Peter Wovlotis, of Lane A.

Doris Stewart, of Groton, and Mrs. Arthur Paine, Mystic, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Edgar L. Parker took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, Phillips street, Waterford. The services were conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Elder, pastor of Huntington street Baptist church. Burial was in the family plot in Jordan cemetery.

William, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gilliogly, of 30 Ramsdell street, Groton, underwent an operation for appendicitis at a local private hospital this morning. The boy's condition is reported this evening as being favorable.

There was no session of the Groton town court this forenoon, all the cases being continued until next Monday. Two of the cases will be for automobile violation, the specific charge being reckless driving. One of the offenders is Francis Gray, of Gales Ferry, arrested by State Police Officer Henry J. Albright, of Groton barracks, Sunday, on Fort Hill.

Attea Cammesiluzzo, 29 Nameaug street, was arrested at Montville Saturday afternoon by State Police Officer Robert Anderson, charged with reckless driving. Cammesiluzzo will be presented before Justice of the Peace William Smiddy tomorrow evening.

Thomas H. Latimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Latimer, of Groton, and Miss Catherine Merrill Hardwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Hardwick, of Quaker Hill, Waterford, were married Saturday evening at the Quaker Hill Baptist church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, this city, in the presence of a large assemblage. Frederick P. Latimer Jr., brother of the groom, was best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Elizabeth and Helen Latimer, the groom's sisters.

The Title Guarantee & Trust Co., New York, executors and trustees of the will of James D. Lynch, has sold a building lot on Crocker street to James V. McNamara.

Miss Ella Howard, secretary to City Manager William A. Holt, and Miss Isabel Austin, clerk in the office of Director of Finance Carey Congdon, resumed their duties at the municipal building today after having enjoyed their annual vacations.

Manuel Silveria, of Stony Hill, Mrs. Alois Pfannenfeld and infant son, Connecticut avenue, Mrs. James Scanlan and infant son Crystal avenue, Miss Afra St. John, Montauk avenue; Mrs. George Beebe, East Lyme; Mrs. Francis Beebe and infant son, Niantic; Moses Keosian, Jefferson avenue, James McCabe, Old Lyme; Mrs. George Dana, Williams street, and Mrs. Hilda Kallstrom, Groton street, the last named having suffered a fractured hip several weeks ago, by being struck by an automobile, were patients dismissed at Lawrence hospital Sunday and today.

Israel Norcum, was fined $50 and sent to jail for a term of ten days, by Judge Prince, in the police court this morning. Israel was what the woman he assaulted called a "bad nigger." She said he had been stopping at her home at 38 1-2 Hill street the past two months. He was there Sunday night, she declared, half drunk, and there he abused and beat her so that she raised a cry that brought assistance in Clark Brown, who leases the premises. The woman is Florence Penister. She said that Norcum pulled her shirt waist from her back and struck and beat her because she would not give him $2. Police called there took Norcum into custody at 6 o'clock this morning. He made a silly defense in saying that he was not drunk and refuted the testimony of the Penister woman and of Clark Brown, who was a witness of some two or three blows administered by Israel.

William Laise was fined $5 for parking an automobile on Main street, opposite Masonic when the curbing is painted white to warn autoists not to leave their cars.

JEWETT CITY

Sunday evening in the legion rooms, the local council of the K. of C., held a Columbus day meeting. The rooms were filled when Grand Knight Dudkowski opened the meeting. The program of the evening was carried out, Rev. J. J. Tyler, the lecturer of the council, introducing the speakers in his apt and felicitous manner. The first speaker was Rev. Father R. A. Hartnett, head of the Holy Ghost missionary fathers. His talk on the missions in Central Africa was most interesting and entertaining. State Deputy Wm. J. Mulligan of Hartford was the next speaker. His record in the overseas work of the K. of C. has made him well known throughout the entire country. He has served long terms as a supreme director and state deputy in the order. His theme was Progressiveness and Columbianism. Mr. Mulligan is one of the most able orators in the state.

Other state officers present were State Advocate Jerome Collins of New London, and State Secretary John Collins of Hartford.

District deputies attending were, T. Frank Cunningham of Willimantic, James Sullivan of New London, John F. Hennon of the local council, with District Warden Wm. Martin of Willimantic.

Grand knights and past grand knights at the celebration were Frank T. Diggins and Frank Leonard of Norwich; Thomas O'Brien and Wm. Grady of Willimantic and John Govern of Wauregan.

The officers of the local council have been installed.

A man who read in Monday's Bulletin that a ten year old Polish girl found plenty of fringed gentians, after wise flower hunters had utterly failed in their search, remarked: "It is not always the high priced line that lands the fish."

A man in town, some few years ago received from a southern geranium grower, four cuttings from a plan, as rare as the blossoms were said to be beautiful. Two of the slips he attempted to grow himself, under the most favorable conditions, with all the facilities, fertilized soil and carefully regulated temperatures. He reported his absolute failure to produce a blossom on either plant, they acted badly, couldn't stand the forcing, and died. The two other slips he gave to the late Mrs. Sarah A. Cheney. Planted in two old tomato cans, filled with soil from the garden and sand from the nearby street, the slips were placed in a southern window. Both plants began to grow, new branches put forth and fine green leaves appeared. That fall people came for miles to see the two wonderful southern exotics. One brought forth in gorgeous profusion over a hundred blossoms in softest shades of pink, and of beauty unsurpassed. A woman and neighbor were overheard to say, "Flowers would bloom for Mrs. Cheney anywhere."

Alexander P. Culver of Griswold and Miss Fannie E. Coon of Stonington were married at the Congregational parsonage in Pachaug Sunday afternoon by Rev. J. P. Richardson, pastor of the church. The attendants were Elmer Culver and Miss Daisy Culver.

Dr. and Mrs. Allan Greenwood of Wellesley Hills, Mass., were week end guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Jennings on the East Main street highlands. Dr. Greenwood is Mrs Jenning's brother.

Monday the mercury dropped to 31, with a resultant frost all through this section that was nearly a freeze. No warning was visible Sunday evening of such a change in temperature. Flowers all about the borough were ruined, except such as were close up against houses. Dahlias suffered most.

A Jewett City fan, thinking of the comeback of Johnson, pitcher for the Washington team said. It is a great year for comebacks, when the young old timer from Jewett City stood off the Peerless Riverview team Saturday, in a 16-inning game to a scoreless tie.

The following scores were shot on the Voluntown Rifle club range. Fred Stebbins of Jewett City put up a fine 50 score on the N. R. A. target 479 out of a possible 500. Jim Hopkins also made one of his best scores, 50 shots all in a four inch circle at 50 yards, offhand.

50 shots at 50 yards on the N. R. A. target:

Fred Stebbins, 95, 97, 96, 97, 94—479.

Warden Matthew Geary, Officer Henry Viegard, John and Dennis Barnett visited George Leyden in Hollis, N. H., Sunday.

Sheriff William McCarthy of Central Falls was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davis and son and daughter of Boston were week end visitors at Martin Davis.

Miss Doris Myott is visiting relatives and friends in Boston for a week.

A number of radio fans heard the fine concert broadcasted by James Olson from the Outlet in Providence Monday from one to two o'clock. He was to have played a week ago but on account of the World series was postponed until Monday. Those who listened in said his numbers were of the best. Mr. Olson was a pupil first of Mrs. Annie Frost and then of Prof. Frank L. Farrell of Norwich. Both teach the same method. He is the organist at St. Mary's church in Jewett City and is very talented for so young a man.

John G. Goode, evangelistic representative of the Bowery Mission, conducted under the auspices of the Christian Herald, gave an address at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Deputy Sheriff John T. Dolan arrested three young men at Aspinock gate Monday when they had set up a table and were engaged in a flam flam game. He made a purchase and then arrested them as they had no license to peddle in this town. They came in a Ford touring car, No. 90844. The men are Henry Yessian, 24, Hartford avenue, New Britain; Joseph Wornik, 21 years old, Hotel Brand, New Britain; Henry Odell, 18, 193 West Main St., New Britain. They were put in the lockup under $75 bonds, which they later secured. Wornik later in the afternoon procured a license. On trial at 7 p. m. in the Griswold town court Yessian substantiated his plea of not guilty in proving that he had simply brought the other two here in his machine. Wornik and Odell pleaded guilty to peddling without a license and were fined $5 each and costs by Judge John T. Barry.

The Jewett City Speedboys defeated the Falls Rovers in football on Sunday at the Falls. The score was 21 to 0 in the Speedboys favor at the end of the first quarter, and then the game was called for the Rovers could not stand the Speedboys hard attacks through their line, and so they quit.

PENDLETON HILL

Roy Nash, the well known historian of Brazil, who has made his home at the Rae's summer residence here for the last two years, left last Monday for Detroit, Mich., where he will spend some time. Mr. Nash spent the spring and summer in Portugal, returning to this place in August, where he remained for September.

Mrs. James M. Cook and daughter, Mrs. Byron Dawley returned home Sunday the 5th. Mrs. Dawley has been unexpectedly called to her winter home in Pensacola, Florida, and left at noon Wednesday.

Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Dawley entertained Tuesday night, a farewell party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Cook and two children of Stonington; and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cook and daughter.

Charles A. Cottrell has his silo nearly completed. Frank Babcock and John Sleadman have been working for Mr. Cottrell.

J. Culbert Palmer and Mrs. Palmer of Stonington were guests Saturday afternoon at the Palmer homestead. Mr. Palmer has dissolved partnership with the law firm of Kalish, Palmer and Kalish, and retired to his summer home in Stonington, where he contemplates spending the larger part of his time from now on.

The Ladies' Aid Society met Wednesday at the parsonage.

Dwival Holloran of New York has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ozra Hoestenen for some time. Mr. Holloran's little daughter, Circa has boarded with Mrs. Hoestenen for several years. She does not enjoy city life, consequently her father and mother must visit her in the country.

Miss Carrie A. Ryder entertained at dinner Sunday, Mrs. Maud Thompson Brown and daughter Betty of Ashaway, and Mr. and Mrs. Malcom Thompson, and son James of Shunoc.

Mrs. C. Dwight Thompson, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fillard and granddaughter, Lucile Wheeler were callers Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. Redsey J. Palmer, and at the Palmer homestead. Mrs. Thompson has made a remarkable recovery from a severe fall which disabled her completely for some time.

Mrs. Carrie A. Ryder, Mrs. James M. Cook, Mrs. Byron Dawley, and Mrs. Sarah Ryder, called on friends in North Stonington and Shunoc Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Congdon are at home in Moosup. Mrs. Fedelia Chapman Gallup, and Mrs. Amy Gallup have gone to live with them.

Mrs. Gallup has lived nearly ninety-five years in this vicinity, and has been closely identified with all its interests, especially with those of the church. She will be greatly missed by church, neighborhood and friends.

The waysides are wonderful with woodbine, sumac and purple asters.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rae and sons, Walter Jack and Robbin, were supper guests at Ferndale Tuesday evening.

A large class from this vicinity is soon to be admitted to the Grange.

LISBON

Miss Florence Rosebrooks of Webster, Mass., spent the week end recently at the parsonage visiting her sister Miss Elizabeth Rosebrooks.

Fred Church and family are to move soon from the Fred Kinne place in Newent to a tenement at G. A. Kennedy's.

Mr. and Mrs. Marry Hull entertained Sunday the 5th, John Hull of Scotland Road, Norwich, with his son-in-law, Mr. Murray of New Heven.

Mr. and Mrs. George Severance and son, Palmer of Boston, called on friends in town Sunday.

A Real Remedy For Falling Hair

Found at Last—Parisian Sage Shows Results at Once or Nothing to Pay.

If your hair is falling out, prematurely gray, brittle, lifeless, full of dandruff and your head itches like mad, quick action must be taken to save your hair.

Don't wait until the hair root is dead, for then nothing can prevent baldness.

Get from Lee & Osgood Co. or any good druggist today a bottle of Parisian Sage—it's inexpensive, and there's nothing else you could use that's so simple, safe and effective.

You will surely be delighted with the first application. Your hair will seem much more abundant and radiant with life and beauty—all itching ceases and your scalp feels cool and comfortable. Parisian Sage is in great demand by discriminating women because it is daintily perfumed, does not color or streak the hair, and keeps it lustrous, soft and fluffy.

Lose Your Fat, Keep Your Health

Superfluous flesh is not healthy, neither is it healthy to diet or exercise too much. The simplest method known for reducing the overfat body easily and steadily is the Marmola Method, tried and endorsed by thousands. Marmola Prescription Tablets contain an exact dose of the famous Marmola Prescription, and are sold by druggists the world over at one dollar for a box. They are harmless and leave no wrinkles or flabbiness. They are popular because effective and convenient. Ask your druggist for them or send price direct to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and procure a box.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" in the vicinity of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not contrain the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

STAFFORD SPRINGS FAIR HAS 10,000 ATTENDANCE ON FIRST DAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

Stafford Springs, Oct. 13—The 55th annual fair of the Stafford Springs Agricultural society had an attendance of 10,000 for its opening day here this afternoon. Stafford Springs once again has upheld its reputation of having one of the largest and best fairs in the eastern part of the state. Track enthusiasts from New London county towns, Windham and Tolland counties and even from Springfield, Mass., were numbered in the large crowd gathered to witness the three horse races on this afternoon's card. The three events were a 2.08 pace, purse $1,000; 2.15 trot, purse $500 and a 2.20 pace, purse $500.

There were four starters in the 2.08 pace and the race went four heats. Charles Direct, owned by B. Tucker, Suffield, took first money, second money going to Jennie H., owned by A. Rodney of Springfield. The summary:

A half dozen [illegible] vaudeville events on the [illegible] stage in front of the grand [illegible] and concert numbers by the [illegible] band served to amuse and entertain [illegible] crowd between the race heats.

The vaudeville numbers included the [illegible] Sutcliffe Family, an English [illegible] and combination acrobatic [illegible] attraction; Packard's [illegible] performed a number of [illegible] feats of juggling; the Valentines, [illegible] aerial sensation in which [illegible] were performed inside circles [illegible] rapidly revolving; the Winifred [illegible] dancing sextette, five girls and a man in an old fashioned polka, old fashioned southern cake walk, pony tot, ballet toe dancing, etc; a clown and midget act, Chico and Chiquilio, a comedy acrobatic skit.

The midway is larger and more lively than ever before. There are dining stands, hot dog stands, peanut and pop corn stands, doll booths, blanket booths, soft drink stands, etc., galore and these did a rushing business all afternoon. The usual fakirs and fortune telling experts are to be seen on the grounds.

Exhibition Hall

The large exhibition hall is well filled with exhibits of all kinds from the products of Stafford manufacturers to the fruit and vegetables grown on farms in Stafford and vicinity. The Gardner Hall, Jr., thread mill of South Willington has a large and varied display of the mill products. Thread is shown in all colors, on 200 yard spools and large cones. This exhibit is in charge of A. L. Spicer and Fred Service.

Andrew Knapp has charge of the handsome display shown by B. Schwanda & Sons, pearl button manufacturers. They are showing samples of shells from the Hawaiian Islands, Panama Canal Zone, Red Sea, Australia, etc., from which they manufacture pearl buttons.

Cable & Sons are showing pianos and the United Music Co., have on display pianos and victrolas. The State Board of Education for the Blind is showing samples of fancy work, baskets, trays, etc., made by blind people. These articles are on sale and the entire proceeds go to the blind makers.

Rings and beads, novelties of various kinds, honey, ice cream, and candy are on sale are booths located in the hall.

Wagner and Ide, distributors of Westinghouse Batteries, are showing batteries and electric water pumping systems for homes. There is also a large display of fancy work entered in competition by individuals.

Fruits and Vegetables

This year's exhibit of fruits and vegetables is large and most attractive. Among the exhibitors are Stafford Mountain Notch Stock Farm, C. NORWICH TOWN

In connection with the Rally Day service at the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, those promoted from the junior class to the Intermediate room include—Edna Judson, Isabel Gimball, Doris Rose, Muriel Rose, and Arthur Bennett. Miss Theodora Brown is to be teacher of the class. Mrs. Lewis Irish who previously was the teacher, is remaining in the Primary room as assistant to her sister, Mrs. Richard Carter.

In his Sunday morning sermon the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich preached from John 17:3, And this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only True God and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.

Adelbert Rudd was the leader of the Young Peoples Christian Endeavor service, treating the topic, My Denomination: Its History and Teachings. Acts 2:1-21. This was followed by a preaching service by Rev. Mr. Aldrich, who spoke briefly on the General Work of the Methodist church.

Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Methodist church, is to hold the postponed meeting, Thursday afternoon, in the vestry, when members are to tie quilts. The president, Mrs. James B. Aldrich will preside at the meeting.

At the First Congregational church during the morning worship, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey used for his sermon theme, The Church as a Witness. The text was Luke 24:48, And ye are witnesses of these things. Rev. Mr. Bailey also presided at the meeting of the Young People's Christian Endeavor society, in the evening when the topic was My Denomination: Its History and Teachings.

During the meeting, Ralph H. Marsh representing the nominating committee, read the names of the new officers and committees for the coming year.

Ronald Nelson of Brooklyn, N. Y., was a guest over the week end at the home of Mrs. Woodbury O. Rogers of Upper Washington street. Mrs. Nelson who has been at her mothers home for the past three years, and her little son Lloyd Steadman Nelson, returned with Mr. Nelson Monday morning to spend the winter in Brooklyn. Mr. Nelson who is first assistant electrical engineer on the Guinevere, a private yacht, has been on several cruises with its owner and during the time his wife remained at her former home. The Guinevere is tied up in Brooklyn for the winter thereby enabling Mr. Nelson to be with his family.

Allison Rogers of Boston was a guest over the week end and Columbus day at the home of his mother, Mrs. Woodbury O. Rogers of Washington street.

Roswell J. P. Brown and son Kenneth of Oneco street, spent the week end in Mystic at the home of Mr. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Brown.

Miss Mildred Chesbro of Mystic, was the guest Saturday remaining over night at the home of her cousin, Miss Catherine Brown.

"Rewards of Prayer," will be the theme at the Congregational mid-week prayer service, Thursday evening in the chapel.

The Imperial Male Quartet of Willimantic gave a very enjoyable concert Friday evening before a large audience in the chapel of the Norwich Town Congregational church. The entertainment was for the benefit of the Christian Endeavor society of the Methodist church. The program included, A Little Close Harmony, quartet; baritone solo, Judge Me, O God, Mr. Cross; reading, St Peter at the Gate, Mrs. Beebe; claronet solo, Spring Awakening, Mr. Ide; absent, quartet; tenor solo, Dear Land of Home, Mr. Clark; reading, Peck's Bad Boy, Mrs. Beebe; tenor solo, Only You, Mr. Fallman; Close Thine Eyes, quartet.

Mrs. Beebe was the accompanist.

During a short intermission, the social committee of the C. E. Society of the Methodist church sold home made candy. About $22 was added to the treasury of the society. Lewis Aldrich was in charge of the arrangements.

Rally day was observed Sunday in the Methodist Sunday school. The church and Sunday school room were beautifully decorated with dahlias furnished by Mrs. Fremont Vergason, and roses by Mrs. George Manning.

The program follows.

Song by school, Win Them One by One; prayer by pastor; song by school, We're Marching to Zion; recitation, Welcome to All, Claude Stanton; recitation, Each Day a Rally Day, Dorothy Miller; exercise, Our Father's Love, Dorothy Miller, Muriel Rose, Isabel Gimbel; recitation, Forward to His Service, Edward Myers; song by school, The Victory May Depend on You; exercise, Rally Day Girls, Virginia Wara, Mildred Carter, Ruth Miller; reading, Through Another Year, Grace Mitchell; exercise, Rally Day Boys, Arthur Bennett, Mark Aldrick, Clayton Rose, Calvin Edminston, Linwood Aldrich, John Carter; solo, Take Time to be Holy, Edna Judson; recitation, Thank You, to God, Mildred Carter; recitation, We're Not Very Big, Blossom Ward, Marion Miller; flag drill by primary department accompanied by recitations, Doris Rose, Edna Judson, Mark Aldrich; reading, Address of Welcome, Effie Ladd; promotion, exercise, by Supt. F. H. Bushnell; offering; closing song, Loyalty to Christ, by the school.

At the Court of Honor Friday evening in the city court room, two of the scouts to receive merit badges were from Norwich Town, Reginald Avery and Walter Haun, from Troop, No. 20.

Callers Friday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, included Mrs. Lamb's aunt, Mrs. Edward A. Sims, also her cousin, Mrs. Henry Miller (Ada Capron,) of Central Park, Long Island, who returned home Saturday, after passing nearly a week with friends here.

The leader, Miss Jennie L. Congdon, is to be hostess Wednesday evening when Ever Ready Circle of the King's Daughters, is to meet at her home on Mediterranean Lane.

The Thank Offering meeting of the Lathrop Memorial Foreign Missionary society is to be held Wednesday afternoon in the First Congregational chapel. Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro, will be the speaker, who will have an interesting message about India, where for several years Mrs. Zumbro was engaged in missionary work, with her husband, the late Rev. William Zumbro. The meeting is open to all women interested.

Additional arrests were made in New Britain following an attack on Anthony Gruznis, a police officer, during a dance at the Lithuanian hall.

Dr. Howard always recommended

Oxidaze for Coughs Colds, Br. Asthma

Years of study and observation convinced him it would safely, quickly and surely stop a bad cough and give instant relief in Bronchial Asthma. Money back if it fails. Guaranteed harmless.

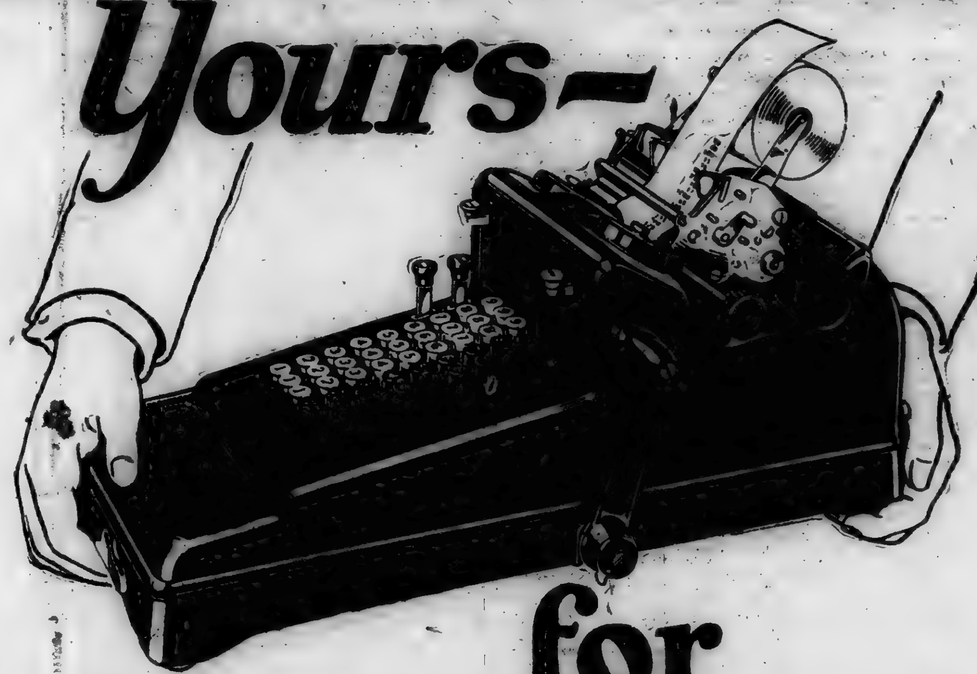
Douglas-Elliott Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Elliott of Thompson, Conn., announces the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Elliott, to Malcolm Kenneth Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Douglas of Castine, Me.

Miss Elliott is a graduate of Westover School. Mr. Douglas was graduated from Yale with the class of 1924 and is a member of the St. Anthony and Yale clubs. During the World war, he served for two years overseas with the Second Division, United States Marines, and twice was awarded the Croix de Guerre.

The wedding will take place the latter part of November and will be followed by a small reception for relatives and intimate friends.

Yours— for 15 days—FREE



This Burroughs will give you more time to run your business and make money

Do you, like tens of thousands of other business men, find it a hard job to keep your records and figures up to date without neglecting any of the all-important work of buying and selling? Do you have to postpone your figure work until it piles up and takes several nights or a holiday to clean it up? Maybe you have such an accumulation of figures on hand right now.

Here is your opportunity to see how much this Burroughs Adding Machine will help you. Take advantage of this 15-day free trial and try it on your own work. Nearly 10,000 business men accepted this offer last month. Many more thousands profit by it every year. There is no cost to it—no strings—no obligation whatever. At the end of the 15 days, if you decide that a Burroughs is a real economy and a money-maker in your business, just make the small down payment —$12.50. Easy payments will take care of the balance. The price is only $125.

Burroughs machines are made in more than 100 models to fit any figure job in any business, and all are sold on equally advantageous terms. All you need to do is—mail the coupon or telephone.

FOLEY PILLS REACHED THE SORE SPOT

Mrs. Ellen Reighard, South Fork, Pa., writes: 'I had been suffering with my kidneys and nothing seemed to touch the aching spot until I procured Foley Pills, with wonderful results." Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, gently and thoroughly flush and cleanse the kidneys and help to eliminate poisonous waste matter. Try a bottle today and you will be well pleased with the relief obtained. The use of Foley Pills increases kidney activity. Lee & Osgood Co.

WILL SELL LOTS OF GROTON IRON WORKS

On the petition of P. Leroy Harwood of New London, trustee of the Groton Iron Works, which came up before bankruptcy referee Thomas M Shields at his office here Monday, the referee passed an order for private sale of two lots of land belonging to the bankrupt estate of the Iron Works Co. Judge Charles A. Gallup appeared for the trustees and there was no adverse appearance.

The lots in question are located in the village of Noank, one being situated on Elm street and the other is situated on a right of way and adjoins land of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co., and the Eleventh school district. These two lots were separated from the main real estate holdings of the Groton Iron Works which were foreclosed some few months ago by the mortgagee, The United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet corporation. The two small tracts that were ordered sold were not included in the said mortgage and constitute all of the remaining land of the Groton Iron Works. The only other assets remaining in the estate is the claim of the Groton Iron Works for $18,000,000 against the United States Shipping Emergency Fleet corporation upon which suit has been brought and is now pending in the United States District court.

Monday Police Court Cases.

Judgment was passed in several cases that came before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Monday morning. The case of state vs. Stella Kozlowski of Jewett City, was heard in chambers. The girl, 17 years of age, was charged with breach of the peace. After hearing the evidence Judge Libby ordered the girl to remain away from Norwich and then continued the case for six months.

Three automobile drivers paid $5 for driving to the left of flashing beacons, one breach of the peace case was continued until today (Tuesday) and a local man charged with parking his car too far from the curb had his case continued one day to secure witnesses.

A bond of $25 was called and forfeited in the case of state vs. James McGeonell of Hartford, charged with intoxication, while a Phoenix, R. I., man went to jail, not having funds with which to pay his bill for becoming intoxicated.

REPUBLICANS WILL HOLD THEIR TOWN CAUCAUS

Republican caucuses will be held in all towns of the state today (Tuesday) at which the party candidates for representatives to the legislature, for justice of probate will be named, except in cases where probate conventions have already been held.

The date is set by the republican state committee for all towns.

The wisdom of woman who is vain of her beauty is equal to that of a man who is vain of his brains.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The past week of fair weather saw much accomplished along building lines in Norwich and vicinity. Several new projects were started and a number of buildings were completed. There has been a noticeable amount of building going on during the summer in the Norwich Town section of the city, three new houses being erected on the Canterbury turnpike near Peck's corners, two on West Town street and a number of others in various sections of that locality. In the East Great Plain section there has been much activity in the building line during the summer. Three new houses have been erected on Dunham street just outside the city, and several more in the neighborhood of the fair grounds.

In the city property there has been a total of 25 new houses erected so far this year and plans are being figured for at least ten more. About twenty houses in the city that were formerly one-tenement places have been remodeled and made into two and three-tenement houses. There have been several houses erected in the Boswell avenue section and one on the East Side.

At the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton there were several permits granted during the past week none of them for large buildings but mostly for small buildings such as garages.

New London

The permit has been issued to K. H. Holmes for a dwelling and garage on Thames street, extention. The dwelling will be 28x32 feet, and the garage, 18x18 feet. Both will be of frame construction. The combined cost will be about $6,500. Mr. Holmes will also built a garage at 29 Ann street.

Plans have been completed and are ready to be figured for the store and tenement building on Main street, opposit from Church street for Alex Moutran. The building will be three stories high, 58x66 feet, of brick and steel construction. There will be two stores on the first floor and two apartments of six rooms each on the upper floors. There will be a modern heating system, plate glass and copper fronts for the stores, and other improvements.

Plans have been prepared for a store for Arthur G. Burr, 783 Bank street, on Willetts avenue. The proposed building will be of frame construction, 32x32 feet. It will be one story high, with basement, arranged for one store. There will be a plate glass and copper store front, hot air heat, shingled exterior and other improvements. The owner is receiving bids for the work.

Applications for Building Permits

William A. Murray, garage, corner Bank and Spring streets, $20,000.

M. J. Sullivan, garage, 6 Steward street, $1,000.

Alice and Edward Parker, dwelling, Vauxhall street, $2,000.

Number of permits issued for the week, 9; estimated cost of buildings, $22,230.

Groton

The Texas Company has awarded the contract for a dock to be erected in the form of a suspension bridge at their Groton plant, now under development. The company's business is being moved from the New London to the Groton location. Future plans contemplate further construction at the plant.

Mystic

Plans being prepared by Dudley St. C. Donnelly for a garage building in Mystic for W. E. Brown, Mystic, will be given out for figures next week. The building will be of hollow tile and stucco construction. It will be arranged for a showroom with plate glass show windows in the front and for a work shop and garage in the rear. There will also be two office rest rooms, etc. Steam heat and other conveniences will be provided.

Building operations are on the increase in this town, several new projects being under contemplation. A residence is being built on Bank street by Orrin H. Sanford, who has several additional dwellings being planned. Another indication of the increased building construction is that building lots have increased in price. The Gilbert block is also being remodeled at a cost of about $25,000.

Essex

Architects have completed the plans for the store building to be erected at this place by the Jacob Arkin estate. The building will be of brick, containing four stores. The owners will receive bids.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 31 sales of real estate as compared to 14 sales for the corresponding week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $94,623 and $12,850.

There were 9 sales of real estate in New London as compared to 16 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans were $63,677 and $34,600 for the respective weeks.

State Building

A considerable gain is noted in the number of permits issued this past week for new construction, when compared with the first week of October in the two previous years. Permits for new structures were granted this week in the several cities of the state to the number of 430 for new construction work to cost $1,467,462. A year ago 332 permits were issued for new buildings to cost $1,083,646 while in the like week in 1922, but 321 permits were issued and the total cost of new work stated amounted to but $561,220.

TRACKED DIPHTHERIA CARRIER BY TRAILING GERMS

The clue was a report that three families in one Connecticut town were under quarantine for diphtheria three after visiting a certain family in another Connecticut town. The problem was to find the source of infection.

With our present knowledge of the cause of such diseases, and the methods by which they spread, search for the source of infection becomes a search for a carrier or a case for a carrier or a case. When one person has diphtheria it is certain that he has obtained the infection either directly or indirectly from another person ill with the disease or a carrier of the germs.

Thus after receiving information that 3 families were under quarantine for diphtheria after visiting together in another town inquiry brought the information that members of the family visited had been ill with a sore throat which was thought to be merely tonsilitis and had not fully recovered at the time of the visit by the 3 families. Subsequent cultures examined in the laboratory showed that one member of the family is still a carrier. Thus there could be little doubt as to the source of infection in the case of the 3 families quarantined for diphtheria in another town. Likewise it appears that the family visited had mild diphtheria instead of ordinary tonsilitis. Such "missed cases" often serve to spread the disease.

In another case a Connecticut child living in a remote country district came down with diphtheria. As there was no diphtheria in the community and the child had not been away for a long time, the family could not understand where it got the disease. Cultures were taken from the noses and throats of all members of the family and it was found that both the father and the mother were carriers in the nose. Then the father remembered that he had had a little annoyance with his nose for a couple of months. Thus it appears that the father had been infected somewhere in his travels, and brought the disease home to his family.

In another instance a healthy robust Connecticut child had "snuffles" which continued for several weeks. There were no other symptoms except a little snuffling in the nose. A culture showed the germ present to be the diphtheria bacillus. A dose of antitoxin cleared it up within 24 hours.

In all three of the foregoing instances the solution of the problems involved was accomplished by laboratory tests. Whether it be a search for the source of infection to prevent other cases from the same source or an examination to determine the cause of symptoms present, the laboratory is capable of rendering invaluable service in connection with the control of diphtheria.

The laboratory service furnished free to all physicians and health officers by the Bureau of Laboratories of the State Department of Health is designed to accomplish two purposes: first, to assist in confirming suspected diagnosis of cases, and second to detect carriers that may spread the disease to others if undetected. It is believed that the service thus rendered could be of more value to the state in protecting the health of its people if it were used more extensively, and systematic search for carriers more generally made when cases of diphtheria occur.

Bolton Road Route Changed

At the most largely attended town meeting in recent years, Bolton rescinded the vote passed at a special town meeting held last May and decided by a large majority that the course of the proposed state aid highway should be changed so that instead of going by the "Camp-Meeting Woods" route it will now run north from the Hebron line through West street until it intersects the old Hartford-Norwich road. Then it will follow this road until it joins the state trunk line about a mile west of Bolton Notch. The entire distance is about four and a half miles.

The arguments made in favor of the change were that it would give to South Bolton a state road, which it has greatly needed, to the east as well as the west, it would also pass within about a third of a mile of Bolton Center and would also be beneficial to North Bolton.

The vote was taken by check-list and the motion was passed 67 to 40.

Evening Schools to Open

The evening schools which are conducted under the town school board are to open this (Tuesday) evening at Broadway and Greeneville school. There will be one grade at the Greeneville and three grades at Broadway.

GAS & ELECTRIC DEPARTMENT NET EARNINGS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Net earnings of the Norwich gas and electric department for the three months of May, June and July, this year, showed a 41 per cent increase over net earnings for the same months a year ago. For the three months named the net earnings this year were $36,476.84. Last year they were $25,810.14, an increase of $10,666.70, which figures 41 per cent.

The gross revenue this year for the period named was *$154,013.34 and operating expenses $107,447.37, leaving net revenue of $46,565.47. To this is to be added miscellaneous revenue of $1,168.89, making $47,734.36 for the total revenue.

When interest deductions of $11,257.52 are made from total revenue, the net revenue is shown at $36,476.84.

This big gain over a year ago indicates the way the business of the city gas and electric department has been increasing in the past year.

NEW ENGLANDERS WILL BE VIRGINIAS GUESTS

Waldo E. Clarke, resident engineer of the Connecticut rivers, bridges and harbors commission, mayor of New London, and manager of the Connecticut state pier, and Ward T. Alling, president of the New London Chamber of Commerce, will represent New London on the committee of New Englanders which will tour Virginia as the guests of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce the week of October 27. Both have sent the Virginia body acceptances of the invitation, and these will be two of the twenty New England Commerce and port bodies to be represented on the tour.

The Connecticut State Chamber of Commerce, the Bridgeport, Norwich and New Haven Chambers of Commerce, are expected to have representatives on the committee from Connecticut. All will be guests of the Virginia chamber during the entire trip. It is expected that Lucius Briggs may be the representative from the Norwich Chamber of Commerce.

Similar delegations are being formed in Massachusetts, Maine, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Vermont. They will meet the Connecticut delegation at Norfolk, Va., on Oct. 27. The party will disband later in the week in Washington, D. C.

NORTH STONINGTON HAS NO GRAND JUROR

A hearing for Richard Morris, of 107 Washington street on the charge of reckless driving which was to have been held last Tuesday night before a North Stonington justice of the peace is hanging fire because there is no grand juror in North Stonington to prosecute the case.

The machine driven by Morris was in collision a week ago Saturday night on the Norwich-Westerly road, in the Lantern Hill section, with a car driven by Charles Larkin of Westerly and owned by his aunt, Mrs. Peabody. State policeman Albright from the Groton barracks summoned Morris to appear before a North Stonington justice of the peace last Tuesday night but the hearing has not yet been held.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

BAPTISTS OF STATE GATHER IN CONVENTION

The Baptists of Connecticut gathered Monday in New Haven at the Calvary Baptist church for the 101st annual meeting of the Connecticut Baptist Convention and its allied societies. A new feature this year was an evangelistic conference for ministers and missionaries which was held October 13, with an address by the Rev. H. F. Stillwell, D. D., of New York and an explanation of the proposed program on evangelism by the Rev. James McGee, D. D., of New Haven.

The forty-third annual conference of Baptist ministers of Connecticut was held in the afternoon with the Rev. B. N. Timbie of Meriden presiding and papers by the Rev. Chester H. Howe of New London and the Rev. Ellis Gilbert of Danbury.

In the evening the Connecticut Baptist Education Society, the oldest Baptist organization of statewide influence in Connecticut, held its 108th annual session with the Rev. Herbert J. White, D. D., of Hartford presiding. The Rev. George Barton Cutten, L. L. D., president of Colgate university, spoke on "The Destiny of Intelligence."

Tuesday morning, October 14, at 10 o'clock, The Connecticut Baptist Convention will open its 101st annual meeting with the Rev. John N. Lackey, D. D., of Hartford presiding. The Rev. E. E. Gates of Hartford, secretary of the convention, will read the report of the board of trustees, and Charles E. Prior of Hartford will read the treasurer's report. The annual sermon will be preached by the Rev. Charles A. Decker of Bridgeport, his subject being "The One Thing Needed."

The second session of the convention will be held Tuesday afternoon at which the speakers will be the Rev. Morris E. Alling, executive secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Churches, the Rev. Howard B. Gross, D. D., of New York, Miss Mary L. Howard of Hartford, Mrs. Nathan R. Wood of Boston, and Mrs. George W. Coleman of Boston.

At 5:30 p. m. there will be a banquet for women at the First Methodist church and one for men at the Dwight Place Congregational church.

At 8 p. m. there will be a report by the Rev. Horace B. Sloat of Hartford, secretary of promotion for the convention, and an address by the Rev. Hugh A. Heath, D. D., of Boston, whose subject will be "Baptists in Cooperation."

Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock the sessions of the convention will be resumed, with reports of various committees to be made by the Rev. E. E. Gates of Hartford, the Rev. H. B. Hutchins of Hartford, the Rev. J. G. Ward of Plainville, the Rev. C. S. Nightingale of Moosup, the Rev. George R. Atha of Groton, the Rev. Manford W. Schuh of Hartford, the Rev. James McGee, D. D. of New Haven. There will be an address on "Our Emphasis" by Prof. Kenneth S. Latourette, Ph. D., of the Yale School of Missions.

At 2 p. m. there will be a report of the committee on revision of the constitution, with a discussion to be led by the Rev. D. P. Gaines of Watterbury.

At 6 p. m. there will be a young people's banquet at Trinity Methodist church, the speaker being the Rev. John L. Davis of New Britain.

At 8 p. m. there will be a report of the secretary of religious education, the Rev. O. P. Campbell of Hartford. This will be followed by an address by the Rev. William H. Main, D. D., of New York, on "Spiritualizing Education."

LABOR DEMAND SHOWS BETTER IN SEPTEMBER

An increased demand for help was apparent in September, according to the monthly report of the results of operation of the five free state employment bureaus. Of male applicants for employment 61.7 per cent. were supplied with situations against 53.6 per cent. during the month of August, while of the female applicants 78.7 per cent. were supplied with situations against 72.9 per cent. during August. Of all applicants 69.9 per cent. were furnished employment during the month as against 63.5 per cent. the previous month. Of the total number applying for help 91.5 per cent. were supplied as against 90.7 per cent. during August.

The figures for the five bureaus show a total of 4244 applications for employment, 3222 applications for help and 2950 situations secured during the month. Figures for the five bureaus show:

Bridgeport: Applications for employment, 743; applications for help 601; situations secured 572.

Waterbury: Aplications for employment, 897; applications for help, 652; situations secured 587.

MONTVILLE SCHOOL BUDGET IS TO BE $48,000

At the Montville town meeting held last week in the town hall, it was voted to expend $41,000 for the maintenance and repair of roads, etc and $48,000 to be the budget for the maintenance of schools. One thousand dollars was appropriated to the Visiting Nurse association for the coming year. It was also voted to empower the school board to enter into an agreement with the Uncasville-Shelton company for the use of the old school house at Uncasville to be used as a community house.

OVER 5,000 ARE TO MANUFACTURE FRUIT JUICES

More than 5,000 notices of intention to manufacture non-intoxicating fruit juices other than cider have been received at the Hartford office of the United States Internal Revenue department, H. F. Fletcher announced last week. The notices from 200 to 300 per day, he said, and this rapid rate indicates that many more notices will be filed this year than last year. These notices are made out in triplicate by the person intending to manufacture the juices, one copy to be retained by him, one copy to be sent to the federal prohibition director in Hartford, and the third to be sent to the local office of the internal revenue collector at No. 75 Main street, Hartford.

Under the national prohibition act of 1919, the manufacture of non-intoxicating cider and fruit juices for use in the home only is permitted, provided the juices are not sold or transported. Giving the juices to boarders is considered an act of selling, and is therefore forbidden.

At present there is no law by which a man's cider and fruit juices can be seized if after manufacture they become more alcoholic, provided notice of intention to manufacture them was filed, and provided they were not when manufactured intoxicating and have been used expressly in the family and provided the manufacturer has complied with the terms as set forth in the notice which he filed.

No tax is required on cider, which enables the manufacturers of that juice to sell it under the regulations set forth in the prohibition act in regard to the kinds of containers and other details. This may be manufactured without filing notice with the internal revenue office.

Under the internal revenue act of 1918, a tax of 16 cents per gallon was placed on juices other than cider and containing more than 14 percent of absolute alcohol, but by section 619, of that act anyone manufacturing less than 200 gallons of those juices need not pay the tax. Part of Section 619, as also embodied in the national prohibition act, reads as follows: "Nor, subject to the regulations prescribed by the commissioner, with the approval of the secretary, shall the tax apply to wines produced for the family use of the duly registered producer thereof and not sold or otherwise removed from the place of manufacture and not exceeding in any case 200 gallons per year."

Anyone not the head of the family and desiring to manufacture juices must pay the tax whether or not the amount to be produced exceeds 200 gallons. Heads of families may manufacture up to 200 gallons without paying a tax. Beyond that count they must pay the tax of 6 cents per gallon.

A heavy penalty awaits those attempting to evade the tax. Anyone caught manufacturing over 200 gallons of juices without having filed notices of the production beyond the tax exempt limit is subject to prosecution; a maximum fine of $5,000, imprisonment of not more than five years, or both; as well as forfeiture of his juices and the payment of double the evaded tax.

The greatest number of violators of the law regarding the manufacture of juices, Mr. Fletcher pointed out, are discovered when they come to move. Nearly all moving firms demand the permit to move jjuices which maybe among the property of the person changing his address. A permit to move these juices cannot be secured unless notice of their manufacture has been properly filed with the internal revenue office.

The manufacture of wines or juices from dried fruits, dandelions, rhubarb, etc., is forbidden by the national prohibition act, and anyone producing such wines or juices is subject to the penalty and prosecution of violating the national prohibition act.

PHYSICIANS OF SOULS PREACHING TO MEN

The first day of the men's week of St. Patrick's mission passed with good crowds at the mission masses at 5 and 8 o'clock, Monday morning, while a big congregation assembled Monday evening. The three Holy Ghost Fathers from Philadelphia, Fathers Hartnett, O'Brien and O'Loughlin, who are giving the mission, are trained experts in questions psiritual—true physicians of souls, understanding the needs and ailments of the erring and taught by experience in the duties of the mission field, in hospitals and elsewhere just how to meet the returning penitent.

One of the most beautiful and practical of the mission sermons during the past week was that given by Father O'Loughlin to the parish children, who were finishing their mission Saturday morning. Father O'Loughlin repeated for his young auditors the conclusion of the gospel for the Sunday in Christmas week, Luke II. 33-40, narrating the visit to the temple of Mary, the Mother of Jesus, with St. Joseph, foster-father of the Holy Child, Simeon's blessing, and then the concluding verses of the Scriptural passage, "In their city, Nazareth, the Child grew, in age and wisdom, and favor with God and man."

The preacher urged the children to take this Holy Child as their Divine Model, to seek above all things to grow up a child of God. Jesus set the example of obedience to the parents whom His Father had placed over Him during His childhood on earth. The Model Child, innocent, tractable, loving, respectful, was held up as the exemplar for the young listeners, who were warned against those faults of disobedience, insubordination, lawlessness, which cause so many children to end as pitiable human wrecks.

Chestnut trees were first discovered in the Mediterranean region.

BEGIN THOSE CHRISTMAS GIFTS NOW!

BEGINS SEASON TALKS AT RICHMOND RADIATOR

He used the subject, Strongholds in Human Life, as an illustration of God's goodness to his creatures. A stronghold is the strong hold we get on the best that is in us as a protection in times of danger. 1. The bestowment of these strongholds is a part of God's creative plan. God has created no form of life however humble, without some means of protection. Reference was made to the lower animals in proof of this statement. Strangely enough man's strongholds differ from these. His stronghold lies in his mastery of all the other forms of life and his greatest triumph is the mastery of himself.

2. We must cultivate and use these strongholds. By using our physical being to the best advantage we can make our bodies strongholds against disease. By cultivating our minds we build up a fortress that protects from ignorance, prejudice and superstition. But most of all we can construct in our own lives a mighty fortress against sin and temptation by using the grace of God that has been freely shed abroad in our hearts. When we are protected ourselves we shall wont others protected likewise. We shall go into workshops and protect men from belts, shafting, pulleys, gears and other rapidly revolving machinery.

Men conscious of their strongholds have gone out facing diseases until they have found anti-toxins that have taken the sting out of smallpox, hydrophobia, lockjaw, tropical fever, tuberculosis, and at last cancer. These discoveries are so many peaks behind which humanity can hide from the storm.

3. We need the stronghold in the day of trouble. These strongholds cannot take troubles out of our path but they can keep us from being crushed by them. When death comes into your home you need something more than a bunch of flowers and a letter of condolence. The 23rd psalm is better than a wreath of roses because it says "though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, etc." You want Him who conquered death to stand by your side when passing through the "burning, fiery furnace." If these human instruments are properly set we shall get from some broadcasting station in Palestine this message, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

DEMOCRATS OF STERLING NOMINATE IN CAUCUS

Sterling, Oct. 13.—The democrats of Sterling, about 100 in number, met in the town hall Saturday night and had an old time caucus. Jason Mowry called the meeting to order. When C. B. Montgomery and Fred Wilcox were placed in nomination for chairman, as a ballot was about to be taken, Montgomery withdrew his name, Wilcox being the unanimous choice.

A question arose about the clerk, Thomas Brown, being a non-registered voter. The law distinctly says no person not registered shall take action in a caucus, but the vote for him was unanimous and Chairman Wilcox ruled that "if a convention could do business with non-delegates as they did in Plainfield earlier in the day, then this caucus could."

A roll call was then read and it was found several present were not legal voters and could not vote.

C. B. Montgomery then made a short speech nominating Herman E. Frink for representative. Mrs. Mowry nominated Aden O. Mowry, and Mary Bailey nominated Charles E. Montgomery, who said he was in no manner a candidate for any office whatever.

Frink won out by a big vote. He is the third generation of Frinks to represent the town if elected.

Three justices of the peace, Fred Wilcox, John Tanner and John Griffith, had no opposition and A. O. Mowry was renominated for judge of probate.

The grange is making a big fight all over America against the child labor amendment and that oranization was strongly represented in the caucus. While of course nothing definite is known as far as reported all the republicans mentioned are also grangers.

EAGLES WILL PUSH OLD AGE PENSIONS

The quarterly meeting of the State Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held in Waterbury Sunday afternoon with State President Louis Foote of New Britain presiding. The main topic of discussion was forming plans for an extensive campaign in the interests of old age pension.

The committee in charge of this work in Connecticut was enlarged from four to seven members. Henry Follenius of Norwich Aerie No. 367, was named on this committee to represent New London County members.

To encourage further interest in this great work it was voted to have the different officers of the State Aerie make official visitations to the subordinate aeries in the near future. State Treasurer W. R. Hastedt of Norwich was delegated to visit the following aeries; New London, Oct. 14, Putnam, Oct. 16 and Middletown, Oct. 28, the regular meeting nights of these aeries.

As Norwich Aerie is holding a class initiation on Sunday, Oct. 19, the following visiting brothers will be present; State President Foote of New Britain, William Kelley, Naugatuck, who is Grand Inside Guard of the Grand Aerie and John Keavney of Waterbury, who is chairman of the State Old Age Pension committee.

The trip to Waterbury was made by auto and the Norwich party comprised W. R. Hastedt, R. A. Krohn, C. O. Wright and E. J. Mullins.

BORDEN GIRL INJURED WORKING IN FACTORY

Benjamin Saunders, of this city, who is held in Cleveland, Ohio, for the federal authorities pending proceedings which will return him to Connecticut for hearing on a charge of violation of the Mann act, is anxious to marry Marion Borden, Plainfield school girl, with whom he eloped Sept. 21, 1921. Saunders made this declaration as he sobbed after having been informed of the death of his wife at Norwich two years ago.

Saunders, who is 29 years old, was arrested at Madison, Ohio, following a search of three years by the parents of Miss Borden. When Saunders deserted his wife in Montreal and filed with the Borden girl they went to Quebec.

From Quebec Saunders and the girl succeeded in getting to Niagara Falls, having been given a ride by a Cleveland tourist. Later Saunders renewed acquaintanceship with the tourist, when he brought the girl to his Cleveland home. From Cleveland Saunders went to Madison, Ohio, and secured employment in a canning factory, his young companion also working there. The girl was quite badly injured while at work, and was in a serious condition when Saunders was arrested.

Saunders was taken to the jail at Painesville, Ohio, and it was there Detective Conroy found him and brought him to Cleveland where was turned over to the federal authorities. Saunders will not discuss the details of his wanderings with the girl, but expressed satisfaction that he is now in position to marry her and would do so just as soon as she recovers from her injuries.

Detective Conroy declares the girl who is now at the home of friends in Madison, is in such condition she may not be able to be moved several weeks.

NEWS OF SUICIDE OF SENATOR BRANDEGEE ELICITS PRAISE OF HIS PUBLIC LIFE

Worry Over Financial Difficulties, Resulting From Real Estate Transactions, Combined With Ill Health, is Assigned as Cause of the Tragic Act of Eminent Connecticut Statesman—Tube Attached to an Open Gas Jet Was Found in the Hand of Mr. Brandegee—Deed Was Committed in His Residence in Washington—Had Lived Alone Except For Two Negro Servants.

Washington, October 14.—Worry over financial difficulties involving real estate transactions, combined with ill health, is assigned by friends as the cause for Senator Frank Brandegee, of Connecticut, who committed suicide here early today. The body of the 60 year old senator was found in an unused room in the upper floor of his spacious residence this morning by his secretary, W. Don Ross, and chauffeur, George Jones. They were directed to the room by a note on his bed which gave no explanation, however, for the act.

A tube attached to an open gas jet, was in the hand of Mr. Brandegee, who was fully dressed on the floor. Coroner Ransay Nevitt, after an autopsy, issued a certificate of death in which he said resulted from asphyxiation by inhaling illuminating gas.

Mr. Brandegee, a bachelor, lived alone for two negro servants. Shortly after noon yesterday by his valet and chauffer, they said he was in the best of spirits and that he was at home alone last night.

Senator Brandegee was the senior member of the senate from his state, and had completed seven years of service there before he took an active part in the leadership of the republican party. He was chairman of the judiciary committee and one of the leaders on the foreign relations committee.

His death, coupled with that of Senator Colt, of Rhode Island, recently cuts the republican membership in the senate to 49, a bare majority. It is expected, however, both seats will be filled before congress meets again in December for the short term.

News of the death of the senator spread rapidly over the city and many prominent persons connected with him in official and private life called at the residence. President Coolidge sent a message of sympathy to Col. M. G. Zalanski, of Atlanta, Georgia, a brother-in-law of Mr. Brandegee.

The senator has not immediate blood relatives and arrangements for the funeral were taken in charge by the secretary and officers of the senate. These call for services at Mr. Brandegee's home here Thursday afternoon with the Reverend J. J. Muir, senate chaplin, officiating. The body will be taken to New London, where his former home and birthplace, where service will be held Friday afternoon in St. James Episcopal church, of which he was a member.

SKETCH OF POLITICAL CAREER OF BRANDEGEE.

Frank Bosworth Brandegee of New London had been a United States senator from Connecticut since May 9, 1924, when he was elected by the general assembly to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Orville H. Platt.

He was born in New London on July 6, 1864, was graduated from Yale in 1886, admitted to the bar in 1888, elected as a member of the house to the general assembly in 1888; a delegate to the republican national conventions in 1892, 1900 and 1904, was speaker of the house in 1895 and a first elected to congress in 1904. He was re-elected in 1904.

Upon the death of United States Senator Platt, who had looked upon Senator Brandegee with great affection and had even hoped that the latter some time would be his successor, the general assembly proceeded to fill the vacancy.

Lorrin A. Holcomb was speaker of the house and John Q. Tilson was a member and chairman of tellers, who counted the vote. The balloting began in the early afternoon and was not over until about 3 a. m. and Mr. Brandegee was chosen. He was re-elected senator by the general assembly of 1909 and was elected by the state on November 31, 1914, and in November, 1920. His term would have expired on March 3, 1927.

At the time of his death Senator Brandegee was chairman of the senate judiciary committee and one of the leaders of the senate committees on foreign relations, library and patents.

It is probable that among all the men in public life of the state of republican persuasion none held for years so strongly and consistently the affection of his friends, political and social as Frank B. Brandegee. As speaker of the state house of representatives in 1889 he acquired a circle of friends which was said to have been as extensive and as loyal as any man in public life in this state ever had.

For many years afterwards as congressman and as senator, he was greeted wherever he went, at the legislative sessions, at political conventions and at gatherings of his party associates with a warmth that could hardly be described in words.

When starting his political career in the state capital which was to lead him to a place of high influence in the national capital he inherited from the older men much of the love and affected they had for his father, Augustus Brandegee, speaker of the house in 1861, and who for many years was a political power in eastern Connecticut.

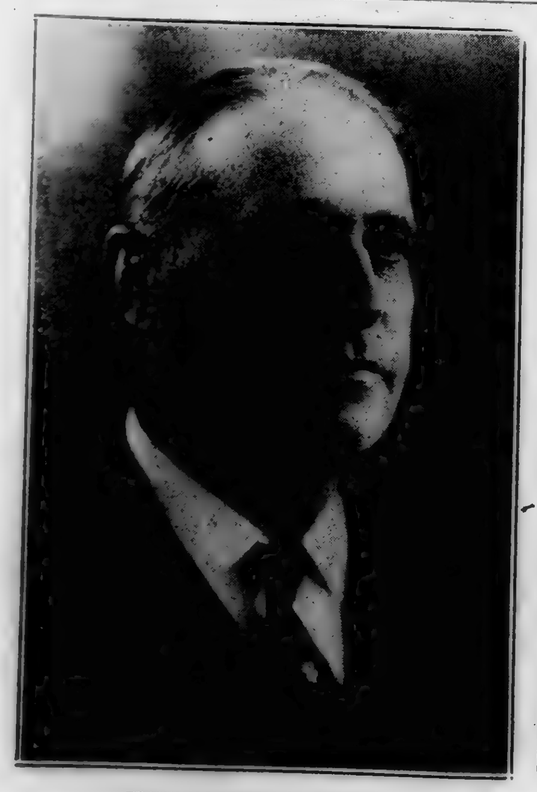
It is recalled that when Frank Brandegee was elected speaker and had ascended the rostrum to be sworn his father former Congressman Augustus Brandegee, quietly made his way through the crowd which was extending congratulations to the son, and silently extended his hand to Frank and in a fatherly way, with tears of joy in his eyes, embraced him. It was said by many who witnessed it that the scene was a touching one, and it exemplified to all the bonds of affection between father and son and between the Brandegees and their mutual friends.

Not alone among the republicans was Senator Brandegee beloved but his friends of other political faiths, in spite of the heat of political battle which often raged in the days when Brandegee was active in the state, always like to meet and be with him.

In recent years with his duties at Washington holding him almost constantly there he did not meet his friends very often. Four years ago when he was candidate for reelection he spoke at many places in the state but since then had probably not visited about Connecticut to any extent.

The most conspicuous part played by Mr. Brandegee in recent years was in the league of nations fight. Taking a position from the start with the irreconcilable opponents of the Versailles treaty, he threw the powerful weight of his forensic ability against the treaty and the league covenant during the long senate debate and later at the Chicago republican convention in 1920, was one of those irreconcilables who laid down before leaders a virtual threat to leave the ranks of republicanism unless the national platform contained a provision which would uphold the republican senators opposed to ratification.

During the last session of congress the Connecticut senator was not active on the floor. His health had begun to show the effects of his years, but he remained until the last a trusted confrere of republican congressional leaders on all important questions of policy.



FRANK BOSWORTH BRANDEGEE

PRESIDENTAL SYMPATHY OVER BRANDEGEE DEATH

Washington, Oct. 14.—President Coolidge expressed his sympathy over the death of Senator Brandegee in a message to Colonel M. G. Zalinski, of Atlanta, Ga., a brother-in-law of the senator.

"The loss of Senator Brandegee" the President said, "is a deep grief to all of us who have been associated with him. He had been one of the active and energetic leaders of the senate for years and one of the prominent men of Connecticut for a long time. He had a high appreciation of the requirements of public service. He was a faithful friend and a most industrious and painstaking legislator. I wish to express to you my sincere sympathy."

MCLEAN'S TRIBUTE TO HIS FORMER COLLEAGUE

Hartford, Oct 14.—Senator George P. McLean, of Simsbuhy, Senator Brandegee's colleague in Washington in the upper house, said:

'Senator Brandegee's tragic death is inexpressibly sad. Two years ago or more his health was greatly impaired by an obscure disease following an attack of influenza. For months his temperature was above normal and his physicians were unable to locate the cause. At that time he wanted to resign and it was only at the earnest solicitation of his friends that he remained in the senate. He was somewhat better in the summer of 1923 but last winter the old trouble returned with renewed vigor. I met him in New York about the middle of August last and I was startled at his appearance. He told me then that he was fast losing courage. If he laid his burdens down voluntarily, his fellow citizens may rest assured that disease and misfortune had driven reason from one of the brightest and bravest minds in the senate."

TRIBUTE TO BRANDEGEE BY PRESIDENT OF SENATE

DesMoines, Iowa, Oct. 14.—Senator A. B. Cummins, president of the senate, on learning of the death of Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, today, issued this statement:

"Senator Brandegee was, at the time of his death, the chairman of the judiciary committee of the senate, the most important committee of that body and was one of the leaders of that great tribunal. He was an accomplished lawyer. He had a keen analytical mind and although not noted for his oratory, was powerful in debate. It is hard for me to accept the story of his death as given in the dispatches for he always seemed to have complete control of himself. We shall miss him sadly when we meet again."

GOVERNOR TEMPLETON SHOCKED BY THE NEWS

Waterbury, Oct. 14—Governor Templeton, upon learning of the death of Senator Frank B. Brandegee, at Washingtn today, said: "I am deeply shocked at the sad news of the death of Senator Brandegee. The state and nation have ost a valuable statesman and a faithful servant."

MAY REPRESENT STATE AT SERVICES FOR DEAD SENATOR

Hartford, Oct. 14.—Governor Templeton decided tonight to appoint a committee to represent the state at the funeral services to be held over Senator Brandegee's body in Washington and New London. He was undecided as to the membership but had under consideration Lucius F. Robinson, of this city, a college mate of the senator at Yale, Benedict M. Holden, and others.

The names of Republican State Chairman J. Henry Roraback, Congressman Schuyler Merritt, Congressman John Q. Tilson and Stste's Attorney Alcorn, were mentioned yesterday for the republican nomination, but without the consent of any of those mentioned. Chairman Roraback was indignant when he learned that his name had been proposed. He also denied a story that was in circulation that he had been with Senator Brandegee in Washington last Sunday, saying that the last time he saw the senator was at the exercises at which President Coolidge was formally notified of his nomination. Prior to that he saw him in June when both were guests of the president aboard the Mayflower.

Mentioned on the democratic side for the senatorial nomination were Judge Henry Wade Rogers, of New Haven, ex-Congressman Augustine Lonergan, Brandegee's unsuccessful opponent in 1920; Thomas J. Spellacy, who opposed Senator McLean two years ago, and National Committeeman Homer S. Cummings, of Stamford, who opposed McLean in 1918.

BRANDEGEE'S DEATH WILL REQUIRE SPECIAL ELECTION

New Haven, Nov. 14.—The news of the death of United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee came with such suddenness today that for the time being no one in official position in the state could say what procedure would be taken to fill the vacancy. It was evident, however, that an election cannot be held on Nov. 4. The Constitution of the United States provides for popular election of senators and the statutes of Connecticut provide that all nominations for November elections must be filed not later than three weeks before election day. Under the statutes today is the last day for filing nominations with the secretary of state for the November election.

It is stated, with authority, that it would be impossible to file nominations for United States senator today and therefore the procedure would be for the governor, at some later date to call a special election. After this call is issued the political parties would have to hold special convention to each make a nomination for senator, or follow their party procedure in making nominations.

Inquiry among those well informed in constitutional matters brought unanimous opinion that under the statutes the governor may not make a temporary appointment and can only issue the call for a special election to fill the vacancy.

MATTER REFERRED TO ATTORNEY GENERAL

Waterbury, Oct. 14.—Governor Charles A. Templeton, upon learning of the death of Senator Frank Brandegee, stated that he had not as yet had an opportunity to look up as to who had the power to appoint a successor to the dead senator, but that he had referred the matter to Attorney General Frank Healy. The governor said that even in the event the attorney general gave a ruling that the chief executive had the power to appoint a successor, he would not make such appointment until after the senator's funeral.

State Trooper Slain By a Bank Robber

Danbury, Oct. 14.—Hiram Bingham, republican candidate for governor, delivered the first speech of his campaign here tonight before a large crowd in the city hall. He devoted his address almost wholly to national issues, attacking for the most part the La Follette-Wheeler ticket. He made but few references to the democratic candidates.

Congressman Schuyler Merritt, also was a speaker and both he and Mr. Bingham referred to the death of Senator Brandegee in Washington today. Congressman Merritt spoke of Senator Brandegee as being his close personal friend in Washington and said that Senator Brandegee was a man who always stood for those things he believed to be right regrdless of public opinion. This was true, he declared, even when the senator's attitude proved unpopular.

Mr. Bingham expressed deep regret over the death of Senator Brendegee and spoke of the service the senator had given to his state and his nation.

OVER $500,000,000 SUBSCRIBED FOR $110,000,000 GERMAN BONDS

New York, Oct. 14.—Total subscriptions for the $200,000,000 German loan in the United States exceeded $500,000,000 or more than 4 1-2 times America's share of $110,000,000, it was officially announced tonight. Subscription books were closed 12 minutes after they were opened today with thousands of orders unfilled.

Swamped with the flood of orders which poured in from all parts of the country, bankers were unable to ascertain the exact amount of the oversubscription, but were certain that orders ran well above the half billion dollar mark. Houses which participated in the offering estimated that on the basis of their individual orders more than a billion dollars worth of the bonds could have been sold. Allotments will be made tomorrow by J. P. Morgan & company.

The largest corporation subscription was that of the American Tobacco company, which placed an order for 10,000,000; many other applications for the bonds were made by large companies through dealers, although the offering syndicate, preferring to distribute the loan as widely as possible among small investors, pointed out that it did not encourage corporation subscriptions and received none of them directly.

Unable to supply customers' demands through regular subscription channels, many investment houses engaged in active bidding for the bonds as soon as they were listed on the New York stock exchange on a "when issued" basis.

SHANGHAI IS OVERRUN WITH ARMED SOLDIERS

Shanghai, Oct. 14—(By the A. P.)—Chinese sections of Shanghai tonight were overrun with armed soldiers, raising new concern in the minds of authorities of the foreign settlements lest some serious disorder occur arriving trains on the Shanghai-Nanking railroad tonight brought 1700 additional northern Hupeh Province troops to reinforce those brought here to hold the city for the Central Chinese government. In addition, the Chekiang troops who had retreated into the city after their unsuccessful struggle to defend it, were said at 8 p. m. to total 5,500. Most of the soldiers are armed, and all of the Chekiang men are without leaders or fixed discipline.

Estimates were made tonight that 10,000 men who fought for the Chekiang cause have withdrawn into Shanghai and the districts around the city. Several companies, arriving in groups, brought with them from the fighting lines field and mountain artillery and their machine-guns and automatic pistols.

A number of wounded arriving late today from the recent battleground to the west reported that renewed clashes had broken out this afternoon between the armed forces near Nensiang, the old concentration point for the Chekiang armies. There was considerable firing they said.

CHINESE IN NEW YORK TO HOLD PEACE CONFERENCES

New York, Oct. 14.—An agreement is said to have been reached tonight by influential members of the On Leong and Hip Sing Tongs for a meeting Thursday afternoon to end hostilities between the two organizations. The meeting is believed to be the culmination of a series of conferences between influential Chinese held during the past few days in Chinatown.

Three meetings were held today by New York Chinese who are not affiliated with either tong. Representatives of social and mercantile organizations selected as intermediaries called on tong leaders today to urge that difficulties confronting their organizations be settled by arbitration and declaring that influential Chinese throughout the United States wish to end feud fighting.

Bingham Opens His Campaign in Danbury

Gettysburg, Pa, Oct. 14.—A lone masked bandit robbed the Abbottstown state bank of more than one thousand dollars today, and shot and killed a state policeman who was pursuing him, 25 miles west of Abbottstown. The bandit escaped, going west on the Lincoln Highway. He was driving a mud-spattered red touring car, bearing New York license plates.

The dead state trooper was F. L. Haley, about 29 years old.

The bandit entered the Abbottstown bank a half hour before closing time and at the point of pistol ordered the cashier to hand over all the cash in the drawer, and then commanded him to go into the vault. As he reached the safe the cashier heard the front door of the bank slam and turning saw the bandit through a window jump into the touring car and drive west in the direction of Gettysburg.

Nothing further was heard of the bandit until the report of the shooting was received. According to the guests at the nearby Graffenburg inn, Haley drew up beside the car on his motorcycle and raised his hand as a signal to stop. The car started to slow down and then a shot rang out and Haley dropped to the road with a bullet through the right breast. The lone occupant of the motor then speeded up and disappeared.

Believed to Be Chapman.

The police said the description of the bandit furnished by H. F. Stambaugh, the cashier, was similar to that of Gerald Chapman, who escaped from the federal prison in Atlanta and who is now sought in connection with the killing of a policeman at New Britain, Conn., during an attempted robbery of a store there several days ago. The man was described as youthful, slender and possessing a cultured voice. He wore a stylish suit of gray that "fitted him swell." and a soft hat. His nose and chin were hidden by a handkerchief which he used as a mask, Stambaugh said.

INTENSIVE ELECTION CAMPAIGN IN BRITAIN

London, Oct. 14.—(By the A. P.)—The fur has begun to fly in the British election campaign, which is sure to be short and almost certain to be snappy. It may have been the dropping of the case against Editor Campbell of the Workers' Weekly on which the government decided to accept defeat and go to the country, but it has already become plain that the thing the voters are going to hear most about from all sides in this campaign is the Angol-Russian treaty.

The Tories are playing anti-Bolshevism for all it is worth. In two days they have pacard the country with posters depicting bewhiskered bolsheviki, greedy for the money of the good old British voter; but Premier Macdonald apparently has realized as keenly as his opponents that the way to gain the interest of the British voter is to mention their pocketbook, and he therefore has been busy explaining that the contemplated loan of 40,000,000 pounds to Russia would be spent largely in purchasing machinery made in England.

An unshaven Russian is the subject of most of the conservative party's placards. One little campaign poem, however, read:

"Bolshevik, bolshevik, where have you been?
"Over to England where Reds are still green."

Counter-cartoons already are springing up mocking those who would have a serious bolshevik scare. "The weather will be dreadful under communism," says one of them, while will stab poor grandpa."

GIRL HAD BEEN HELD CAPTIVE BY DRUG ADDICTS

New York, Oct. 14—Elizabeth LaPlante, 19-year-old nurse of Fall River, Mass., was rescued by police today in a Ludlow street apartment where she said she had been kept prisoner by a number of drug addicts for the past ten days.

Three men and a woman, found in the apartment by the police, were arrested on charges of abduction. They her husband, John Arnold, 19, of Fall said they were Mrs. Eva Arnold and River; William Katz, 40, tenant of the apartment in which Miss La Plante, was found and Albert Visconi, 20 of the Bronx.

Miss LaPlante was found when police went to the Ludlow Street house in answer to a telegram from the girl's mother in Fall River. This was dispatched by Mrs. LaPlante when she received a telegram from her daughter asking that she send money to the Ludlow street address. The girl later said she had been compelled to go with her abductors to a telegraph office where she was compelled under threat of death to forward the message.

The girl said she had met the Arnolds in Fall River last October 4th and that they had engaged her as a nurse, bringing her to New York in an automobile and taking her to the Katz apartment where she was kept under constant guard until today's police raid. The police said they found several opium pipes, a quantity of opium and other drugs in the apartment.

BECOMING ANXIOUS ABOUT THEIR SAILOR HUSBANDS

Milford, Oct. 14.—The wives of William W. Nutting, former editor of "Motor Boat" and John Olaf Todahl, widely known marine illustrator and painter, both members of the crew of the 40-foot sloop, Lief Erickson, a month overdue on her voyage from Norway to America, are at the point of collapse from anxiety at their Laurel Beach homes as they await some message from their sailor-husbands. The vessel left Christiania, Norway, on July 10, and the party last was heard from at Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 9.

SPEED OF AIR CRUISER ZR-3 IMPEDED BY HEAD WINDS

Message Received Told That at One Time Strong Southwest Winds Had Reduced Her Speed to 25 Miles An Hour—Later Message Said a Speed of 57 Miles Had Been Developed and That the Airship Should Arrive at Lakehurst This Morning—ZR-3 Reported by Radio That She Was Off Coast of Nova Scotia at 11:25 Last Night.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Although thrown somewhat off his course by quartering winds and then compelled to trun northwestward to find good weather until in the lattitude of Cape Sable, N. S., the aircruiser ZR-3 tonight was steadily reducing the mileage which seperated her from her future home at Lakehurst, N. J., where she is expected to arrive tomorrow.

After nearly three days in the air, the huge craft which left Fredrichshafen Sunday morning was delayed during the day first by head winds, and then by a thick blanket of fog which caused her at times to run at reduced speed and send out queries to surface craft and land stations for her bearings Later, however, upon encountering good weather and a favorable breeze she was enabled to increase her speed as high as 70 knots an hour in the direction of the American coast

Messages received at the navy department and at radio stations along the coast told the story of the Zeppelin's flight. One received direct from the ZR-3, timed 10:45 a. m., declared the ship was fighting strong southwest winds and had reduced her speed to 25 miles an hour. The position given in this dispatch indicated a progress of only sixty miles from the position given nearly two hours earlier.

Word that the Zeppelin had escaped from the unfavorable weather conditions was conveyed to the navy department in a message received late in the day from Captain Steele aboard the craft who will be its commanding officer when it is formally taken over by the United States.

Forwarded through the Radio Corporation of America, this message gave the ZR-3's position as about 1,000 miles east of Cape Sable, at 4:15 p. m. eastern standard time, and said all engines were running at cruising speed with a following breeze, and at craft should reach Lakehurst tomorrow forenoon.

Almost immediately another message was received through the same channels from Captain Steele giving details of the flight since Monday night. The longest message to be received here since the [illegible] left Germany, it told of good fortune [illegible] of passing steamers, and [illegible] above the lower clouds. This message said:

"ZR-3 continued during the night under four engines making 57 knots air speed but held back by [illegible] westerly winds to 39 knots or less over the ground of course 290 degrees) true. (On account of [illegible] able local conditions and reports indicating better conditions to northward changes course at 5 a. m. [illegible] three time (6 a. m.) eastern standard time, to northwest, weather clearing on this course

"Passed above British steamer Robert Dollar at 9:20 [illegible] colors and number. Steamer President Harding radioed [illegible] tendering assistance. [illegible] captain we don't need help yet. We have fuel left for about 56 hours half of original supply.

"Rose to 8,000 feet height at 9 and blew safety valve until gas contained about 30 per cent full hydrogen. This highest took us above the lower clouds. Glad to go up where its cooler. So hot last night hardly slept, temperature 78 outside 87 inside cabinet. Back to 1,000 altitude at 10:30, this airship steadiest ever been."

That the air cruiser would run into serious fog conditions was predicted by naval observers here as soon as her drift northward was indicated. As the ship lane she was following from Fayal in the Azores, would have carried her under normal [illegible] within one hundred miles [illegible] marked in red on all [illegible] as "affected by fog 30 to 35 per cent of each year." It was regarded probable that if the commander of the ZR-3 would elect to drive the ship to higher levels in an effort to escape these fogs and perhaps continue at reduced speed until good weather encountered.

IMPORTANT GATHERING OF NEW ENGLAND PUBLISHERS

Boston, Oct. 14.—Publishers of New England and some of their employes are preparing for important gatherings to be held here early next week. The operators of The Associated Press who have a good fellowship club that has been active for two years will have a meeting and dinner at the Boston Yacht club, October 19; on the following day the New England members of the Associated Press will assemble at the Copley Plaza hotel with George A. Hough, managing editor of the New Bedford Standard, as chairman; and on October 21, the New England Daily Newspaper association will have a meeting and luncheon at the same hotel and work out some business problems. Samuel E. Hudson, publisher of the Woonsocket Call is president of the Daily Newspaper association. In addition to his message to the members, there will be an address by George B. Hendricks, general sales manager of the W. L. Douglas Shoe company of Brockton. While the membership of the Newspaper Association and of the New England organization of the Associated Press is largely the same, they are distinct bodies in practical operation.

In addition to telegraph operators, there will be managing editors, city editors, and telegraph operators at the dinner of the Associated Press Operators Goodfellowship club on Sunday. One of the aims of this club is to foster a spirit of cooperation between employes of the Press Association and the newspapers and they have therefore invited some representatives of the newspapers to dine with them.

PLANNING TO CUT DOWN FIRE WASTE OF NATION

Boston, Oct. 14—The task of cutting down the fire waste of the nation, which last year aggregated $508,000,000 has been undertaken by a joint committee of the American Water Works, association and the International Association of Fire Engineers and the National Fire Protection Association, it was announced here today by the lastnamed body. Plans laid at the annual meetings of the three organizations this year for creating the joint committee have been completed, it was said.

In addition to bringing about closer relations between city fire and water departments, the announcement said, the program of the joint committee, which will have five members for each large American city of the local fire hazards, the building code, the fire prevention ordinances and the fire fighting facilities. It also is planned to further all effective forms of fire fighting by creating about the fire chief a body of influential citizens who shall act as his "cabinet" and assist in plans for making the city fire-safe.

IMPORVEMENTIN INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS IN NEW ENGLAND

Boston, Oct. 14.—Industrial conditions in New England, as reported to the United States employment service and made public today, improved in September in all states except Vermont. The survey by states follows:

Rhode Island: Industrial employment conditions have shown a slight improvement during the past month as compared with previous months. Practically all textile mills and jewelry factories are operating, some on full time while others are on part time schedule. Overtime is in some of the silk mills. Building is active employing many trades. Shortage of good farm help is reported in some parts of the state.

Connecticut: Marked improvement in industrial employment conditions noted in September. Practically all plants are operating, and the textile and silk mills are now on full time schedules. Some mills that have been closed entirely, have re-opened and are running on part time. Shortage of skilled die makers and die sinkers reported in some sections of the state. Extensive building programs afford work for a larger number of men with a slight shortage of plasterers reported in a few cities. Supply of farm labor adequate for this season.

Vermont: Very little change noted in industrial conditions during the past month. Practically all plants are now operating, with the textile mills, woodworking plants and machine shops on part time schedules. Woolen mills in some sections of the state are working overtime. Railroad repair shops are on a five day per week basis. Road construction and building programs provide employment for a large number of skilled and unskilled laborers. Shortage of desirable farm help reported in some localities.

Massachusetts: Industrial employment showed a decided improvement during September. Many plants resumed full full time operations, some plants which had been closed have re-opened and are running part time. Continued activity in the shoe and textile industries throughout the state was the big feature of the month. Building activities and extensive highway construction afford work for a larger number of men. Farm labor ample for the demand.

FINED FOR WHIPPING GIRL WHO HAD REFUSED TO STUDY

Greenwich, Oct. 14—William P. Wedel was fined $50 and costs today for assaulting 14 year old Frances Wendel, with a stick which he applied to her back because she refused to study her lessons and wipe her greasy hands on her apron after washing the dishes. The child had been adopted into the family by Wendel's parents, having been taken from St. Joseph's home at Peekskill N. Y., when three months old. The authorities have said to be arranging to return the girl to the home.

SHENANDOAH TO PARTICIPATE IN AERIAL DEMONSTRATION

Washington, Oct. 14—The Shenandoah will participate in the aerial demonstration to be held under the auspices of the flying club of Baltimore, October 25, according to an announcement today by the navy department. The pageant at Bay Shore Park, Md., is expected to bring together the largest assembly of naval aircraft ever concentrated in this country. The events schedule will illustrate every use of aircraft in modern navy.

WILLIMANTIC

The annual Rotarian attendance contest of Willimantic club opened Tuesday noon at the weekly meeting of the organization, with Captains Aime J. Martineau and James P. Bath at the head of two teams comprising the entire membership. It is expected that the race in the contest this year will be a lively one, with a marked increase in the weekly attendance. The team-men are out to get a set-up of the forfeit dinner from their rivals. A discussion of business methods took place and the program as planned for the year was outlined in an interesting manner by Louis A. Kingsbury, chairman of the business methods committee. Walter Abbe held the attention of the club in an address on Membership in Craft Association, laying stress on the value of affiliation with such organizations as manufacturers, insurance agents and other craft representatives. It was voted to continue the publishing of the weekly bulletins the first copies of which were issued this week. The next weekly meeting on Tuesday will be held in the evening when an unannounced program will be carried out by the New London Rotarians. Carleton P. Wing was a guest of the club. Adjournment was at 1:30 o'clock.

At St. Joseph's rectory at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Miss Anna Fla[illegible] of 108 Jackson street and Edgar P. Anderson of Boston, Mass., were united in marriage by Rev. Henri Bargeboer. The bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Flaherty of Spring Hill, sister of the bride. Daniel C. Flaherty, of Spring Hill, a brother of the bride, was best man. The bride wore a gown of Lanvin [illegible] model with a black velvet hat. Her bridesmaid was attired in dark blue crepe and wore a black velvet hat. At the home of the bride a breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left on a honeymoon trip.

The Willimantic Welfare Bureau has been sadly neglected as regards moral and financial support by the public it was made known at the October meeting this week. In spite of this lack of assistance the report of the secretary, Miss Elizabeth Anderson, showed that the past month had been a busy one. The secretary secured employment for several, assisted women workers through the Travelers' Aid society in cases of necessity, investigated cases and helped to set wayward girls on the right path, also worked with the society of Hartford in locating people wanted, besides helping diocesan cases where trouble had arisen in families. In one of these cases Miss Anderson brought about the reunion of a husband and wife who had lived under separate roofs for some time. President M. E. Lincoln was in charge of the meeting.

The Vogue Shop conducted successfully for the past seven years by Mrs. C. G. Bartlett, has been disposed of, the lease and the fixtures being taken over by Rufus H. Worden.

Mrs. Josephine Marino, of the Flanders district, four times a defendant and twice a complainant, made her seventh appearance in the Coventry town court Tuesday morning when she charged her husband, Dominick Marino of New York city with assault and battery, alleged to have been committed at the Marino home Monday afternoon. The woman's features were highly discolored in spots as evidence that she had been the target for blows of some nature. Justice of the Peace William B. Hawkins held the court session at the town clerk's office. It was learned that Dominick Marino has been living in New York of late, claiming that he could not stand for the present conditions at his home in Flanders. Mrs. Marino alleges that she was deserted without cause. On Monday, Dominick returned from New York and, making a sudden appearance at his home, he accused his wife of attempting to secure a divorce from him on the grounds of cruelty. After a time the verbal conflict developed to more dangerous activities and Marino admitted that he gave his spouse a "couple of slaps in the face" at close range. Cross-questioned by Grand Juror Robert G. Brooke, he denied using a butcher knife on his wife. State Policemen Harmon and Hardisty of the Stafford Springs, barracks testified to receiving a call by telephone from Mrs. Marino, whom they found in tears. The three children ranging from 7 to 13 were greatly excited. Marino was found in a neighbor's house and placed under arrest. Mrs. Marino said that it was true that she had brought suit for divorce against her husband because he had failed to provide for her and their three children for two years.

Marino was found guilty and fined $5 and costs, amounting to $23.60, which was paid by his wife. Incidentally Mrs. Marino paid a fine and costs imposed on her husband, after she had had him arrested last February on a charge of assault and battery, at which time it was also said that he chased her with a butcher knife. The departure of Joseph Marino and her mother from these parts is imminent as the former informed the court that she was endeavoring to dispose of the Flanders property after which she would return to New York. When reprimanded for his actions Marino also said that he was going back to New York, this time to remain.

At the home of her son, John Upton, 25 Maple avenue, funeral services for Mrs. Mary A. Upton were held at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. T. H. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield Center conducted the services. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were Harry Harrington, Edwin Gilligan, Walter Whitney and Gus Rupprecht. The J. C. Lincoln Co. had charge of the arrangements.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary A. Spencer were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at her home in Scotland. Rev. Herbert H. Deck officiated. Burial was in Windham Center. The bearers were Joseph Hebertstreet, Andrews Moseley, John Spencer and Clarence Spencer. Arrangements were in charge of Avery & VanZandt.

According to the plans of Herbert T. Clark, the town of Mansfield has voted acceptance of Buckingham road, Old Kent road and Thornbush road at The Ridges and in the future that town will maintain the roads mentioned.

William H. Earle of Providence will be before the police court here this (Wednesday) morning to answer to a charge of speeding. Earle passed State Policeman Keith of the Danielson barracks on the North Windham road Tuesday, traveling 50 miles an hour. Officer Keith made the arrest. Earle was released under a $50 cash bond.

The speaker at the first fall meeting of the executive committee of the Windham Teachers' club in the Windham High school auditorium will be Dr. A. B. Meredith, state commissioner of education. The meeting is to be held next Monday evening.

At the South Parish, South Coventry caucus, held in that town Monday evening, Ernest H. Woodworth was the choice for the democratic representative. Justices of the peace nominated are: Fred Potter, William E. Cleveland, Mrs. Ethel Robinson and Richard Reynolds. At the democratic North Parish caucus in Coventry Perkins L. Lathrop was chosen representative candidate and justices of the peace, H. C. Perry, James Skilton, Arthur Potter and Byron Hall. George H. Robertson was nominated by the democrats for the office of judge of the Coventry probate district.

A continuance until Saturday of this week was granted in a juvenile court case which came up Tuesday morning. The case involves two boys under 16, members of Ash street families. A month ago one boy threw a piece of ice at the other and inflicted a cut on the side of the head. The surgeon's bill was for $9 and the parents of the first boy refused to pay. The case will probably be settled out of court.

Minor Mention.

Miss Corinne Reeves, of Norwich, with Mrs. M. Durocher and Mrs. L. Demers of this city attended Stafford fair Tuesday.

JEWETT CITY

Postmaster William T. Crumb received Tuesday the following advices from the department in reference to voting in the postal service, regardless of political affiliation:

All clerks are urged to cast their ballots. The privilege of expressing our preference of the presidency, the congress and for state and local officials, is our leadership in our great republic and should not be lightly disregarded.

Officer Harvey Maynard, who with other local police, is determined to cut down the drunken automobile driving in this section, arrested Michael Olinski, of Old Mystic, Tuesday. In the Griswold town court, Judge John T. Barry handed him a fine and costs amounting to $14b.57.

The Masonic fraternity in town is interested in a clipping sent by Charles Edward Prior of Hartford to Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. & M., which tells of an installation which took place there Jan. 5, 1875. Worshipful Joseph J. Watt of St. James and W. M. Bradford H. Rogers of Somerset, assisted by a dozen other Norwich Masons, performed the ceremonies.

The following officers, all dead, with the exception of the tyler and marshal, were installed:

There were many visitors from neighboring lodges and much fraternal activity.

Few men equalled the late William G. Duce for fluency as a public speaker, for he was able to address an audience, presenting his subject in verse. On this occasion he responded to the sentiment Mount Vernon No. 75.

Our record is honorable,
Our past successful,
Our present prosperous,
Our future encouraging.

The names of Rev. J. J. McCabe and Rev. J. J. Tyler of Jewett City, Rev. H. P. Morrissey of Plainfield, District Deputies T. Frank Cunningnam of Willimantic and John F. Heanor of Jewett City were omitted from the list of speakers at the K. of C. celebration Sunday evening.

Someone asked the other day, what ever became of the one time Club Rock culvert that used to pass under the railroad at that point. The boys of that time thought it great fun to put into it and hear the trains rumble overhead. One man thinks it must have been a Volstead culvert, for it was always dry.

Presidential Qualification

There is nothing in the federal Constitution fixing the qualifications of candidates for the Presidency. A man of any age might be nominated, if his party decided to nominate him, and he might be elected, if he secured the requisite number of votes, but no one can qualify and be inaugurated President unless he be a natural born citizen of the United States at least 35 years of age.

Popular Proverb

The expression, "Out of the frying pan into the fire," means that in trying to extricate yourself from one evil, you fell into a greater. The ancient Greeks used to say, "Out of the smoke, into the flame," and the French say, "Tombre de la poele dans la braise," that is, to fall from the stove into the hot coals.

Wide Diversity in Diet

The American eats 150 eggs a year, many more than any other national, but he consumes only four pounds of rice a year, as compared with 550 pounds for the average native of the province of Bombay, India, who seems to have few other articles of food.

Five Minutes to Live

If one were given five minutes warning before sudden death, five minutes to say what it had all meant to us, every telephone booth would be occupied by people trying to call up other people to stammer that they loved them. You would want to tell a whole lot of people that you love them, but had been too clumsy and too shy to admit it.—Christopher Morley in Century Magazine.

Linoleum Polish

An excellent polish and preservative for linoleum can be made as follows: Dissolve one ounce of shellac in one pint of methylated spirits and apply with a soft cloth. The shellac must be thoroughly dissolved by allowing the mixture to stand covered up for a few hours. Linoleum thus treated will preserve its color for many years.

To Wipe Out Myopia

The chief cause of nearsightedness is not near work, as is generally supposed, but mental strain. If all lessons could be made interesting and teachers and parents were paragons of love and patience, then myopia would be wiped out of the world's defects.—Dr. Clement Jeffery.

Crow Eats Insects

Birds are chiefly valuable to us because they kill insects, says Nature Magazine. The crow is an exception to this rule. About a fifth of the adult crow's annual food is taken from the insect world, its share of insects being made up largely of species found on or near the ground.

My Beauty

Is all due to beauty helps

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I was a plain girl with little distinction. I made myself a famous beauty. Now, after 3 years as a stage star, I remain a beauty still. The thousands who owe me daisy on the stage know what I did.

When I was a girl, my rich mother took me on a world search for the supreme beauty helps. Those helps made me famous. Since then I have kept in touch with every new discovery. I have made many trips to France. So what I was and what I am are due to scientific help.

Now women have convinced me that I should share these helps with others. Millions of girls and women want what I have gained. So I have combined all the helps I have discovered in four preparations, with 32 ingredients. And I have arranged so that all druggists and toilet counters offer them to all who wish.

One is a liquid cleanser which I call my Facial Youth. Lucie Lantelme, the famous Parisian beauty, first told me what it did. Now great experts the world over are advising this formula. No other cleanser which man has discovered does what this cleanser does.

My Facial Youth contains no animal, vegetable fat. It cannot in any way imitate with the skin. It simply is to the depth, then departs. All prime, dead skin and clogging matter comes out with it.

That is the first beauty essential — utterly clean skin. But I never dreamed what a clean skin meant until I found this Facial Youth.

Now Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. The cost is 75c.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

When the Crystal Water company completes this fall the work of installing new mains between Judd avenue and the trolley station at Elmville, the state highway between the northern line of the borough of Danielson and points north to Attawaugan will be ready for the state highway department to replace the present macadam highway with the concrete roadway that is to be part of the trunk line running between Putnam and New Haven, a distance of over 100 miles. The road already is built out of Putnam as far south as a short distance north of Attawaugan, a distance of about 4 miles, and there are many other completed sections en route to New Haven. A section nearly four miles in length is now being built in the town of Plainfield.

With nominations from both his own party, the republican, and the democratic party of Killingly, Judge Sabin S. Russell is assured in advance of the election in November that he will succeed himself as judge of the probate court in Killingly, an office he has successfully filled for years. The democrats have previously endorsed Judge Russell for the office. In doing it this year they have reciprocated the action of the republicans in endorsing James R. Walsh for tax collector last month. Such procedure represents Killingly's program of retaining in office efficient officials, that the best interests of the town may be served.

From owners of woodland territory and fields over which hunters roam, these wonderful October days, complaints already are coming in of barways left down and walls toppled over. No amount of entreaty or warning seems to have any effort on the small percentage of hunters who do things that react against all hunters and results, for one thing, in constant expansion of areas on which no hunting and no fishing signs appear. Here is an example of the careless and reckless doing things that react against many thorough going sportsmen who are always careful of everyone's property rights.

Holders of Goodyear stock on which no dividends have been paid since 1920 are in happy mood over the practical assurance that a dividend is coming to them before long, and that the big corporation has a plan, by which the stockholders will get all the dividends due them. The concern, one of the largest tire manufacturers in the world, is doing a splendid business just now. This is reflected in the activity at the corporations' fabric plant in this town.

Early plans for the annual senior play of Killingly High school, are getting attention. The Webster coach who has directed the preparation of the class for several years past has been here for conferences relative to this season's play, to be selected from a choice list. Each school year the senior play is an event in the history of the high school. It always draws a capacity attendance at the [illegible] and provides generously toward the fund the class requires to defray expenses at graduation time.

No political rallies are scheduled in Danielson until late this month, just before election. In the meantime the workers will make a careful canvass of the electorate of Killingly with a view to getting out as large a vote as may be possible on election day.

Lists of taxable property are already coming into the hands of the assessors of the town of Killingly. At Goodyear this week numbers of lists were received. The assessors also have dates appointed for receiving lists at specified places in other villages of Killingly.

Motorists, many of them non-residents, continue to take a chance of being prosecuted by parking automobiles on railroad property about the passenger station here, contrary to regulations recently put in force by the railroad company. Despite the warning of local police that they have no authority to grant parking rights there, drivers continue to take a chance by leaving their machines.

Evidence that there continues to be a field for sales of certain goods among people who have not become reconciled to getting along without a nip is found here in a window display of cider and grape presses, kegs, barrels, capping machines, etc.

Ice formed here Tuesday morning when the mercury dropped to 28 degrees. The cold killed much of the vegetation that has heretofore escaped the frost this fall.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich came here Tuesday to hold a clinic at the health station in the town hall building.

At Moosup, Omer Paul has a seven months old red fox that he is putting through a course of training. Mr. Paul has owned the fox about six weeks and in the meantime has taught the little animal to sit up, as a dog does, to give his paw for a handshake and to do other little tricks that dogs often are able to do. The fox apparently enjoys an automobile ride with his owner, sitting with dignity beside his master and peering over the side of the car as it rolls along. This is the second fox that Mr. Paul has trained.

The chorus of mill whistles that one hears mornings this fall in Danielson and surrounding villages in Killingly, is sweet music in a general period of depression even to those who in the past have found a bit of fault about such noise disturbing their sleep.

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Keech on Reynolds street, Saturday afternoon, Miss Alma Keech and Sabin L. Sayles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sayles of Dayville, were united in marriage by Rev. Walter B. Williams, Westfield congregational church. Mr. and Mrs. Sayles are now motoring through Canada. Upon their return from their wedding trip they will make their home at Dayville, occupying a new bungalow on Sayles hill. The bride formerly was a teacher in Killingly. Mr. Sayles has for year been employed at the plant of the Assawaga Woolen company at Dayville in the mechanical department.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bill and Mr. and Mrs. William P. Perkins have been visitors in New Bedford recently.

Miss Elizabeth Dunn was at New London Tuesday attending a conference of business office representatives of the S. N. E. Telephone company.

Miss Bertha Francis of Newington is visiting here with her mother, Mrs. Francis. Albert and Francis have returned to their home in Newington after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Francis.

Frank Dunn of Worcester has been a visitor here with hismother, Mrs. James J. Dunn of North Main street.

William H. Burnham, whose funeral was held at Hampton Monday, was an official of the Brooklyn Savings bank of this place for a period of 31 years, having been elected a corporator and a trustee in 1893. He was elected vice-president of the bank in 1911, and continued to hold the office until the time of his death. The bank was represented officially at his funeral by President V. Arthur Atwood, by Treasurer Sidney W. Bard and by three members of the board of trustees.

PUTNAM

The plaintiff, Lea Smith, was the first witness called in the case against four Putnam policemen, Captain William Jarvis, Sergeant George Laird, Patrolman John Ryan and Patrolman Alferie Sponcey, begun before Judge William M. Maltbie in the superior court at Putnam, Tuesday morning. The plaintiff, who is seeking to recover $2,000 for false imprisonment April 5th last, testified that she is the wife of Samuel Smith, proprietor of the City Hotel, South Main street. On the day of the alleged false imprisonment she with her daughter, Celia Smith, and Mollie Smith, Mrs. Bravo and daughter Miss Celia Aframe, went to Providence in Mr. Smith's automobile, Miss Celia Smith driving the car.

Witness testified that about four o'clock in the afternoon, while on their way home and near the Children's home, about two miles from Putnam Center, their automobile was stopped by Sergeant Laird and Patrolman Ryan who said they wanted to search the car for liquor. The officers told the occupants of the car that they had a warrant to search the car and showed it. Witness asked the officers if they wanted them to get out of the car and the officers replied that they did, as they wished to make a thorough job of it. The officers found nothing in the car and all got back in.

One of the officers then told them to drive to the Putnam police station and to follow the officers' car. Asked why, the officers said that they had been speeding.

Arriving at the police station, witness testified, Laird got out of the police car and Ryan drove away. Witness said she asked the sergeant to use the telephone, as she wished to notify her husband where she was, but the sergeant refused to let her use it. She asked him several times, but he always refused and said that they would have to wait there until the captain came.

Ryan returned with Patrolman Sponcey and she asked Sponcey to use the telephone. He also refused, saying, "You can't. I've got orders to keep you here." She asked if she had done anything and the officer said he didn't know, but that he had orders to keep them there. She said she went in the police station for five minutes, but it was so warm in there she came out again. Mrs. Bravo started to go home, witness said, and Sponcey told Mollie Smith to go after her and bring her back, saying that if he had to go she would be sorry. With that remark, witness said, Sponcey threw back the tail of his coat and showed a pistol. Mollie went and brought Mrs. Bravo back.

When Captain Jarvis arrived, he told them they could go home but told Celia Smith that she would have to appear in court the following Monday morning to answer a charge of reckless driving.

Witness said they were kept at the station for an hour and a half. As the result she felt "awful bad" and had to call the doctor. She said she had him four times.

On cross-examination witness said that no one touched her or used abusive language. When asked if the reason she wanted to telephone was to tell her husband that the car had been searched she denied this was so. She also denied that at the time she knew that the City Hotel was being raided.

Dr. Bernard F. Murphy testified to treating Mrs. Smith who, he said, was worried and excited. Asked if there wasn't quite a good deal of excitement in the hotel that evening, he said there was.

Celia Smith corroborated her mother's testimony. She admitted that she was told at the Children's home that she was being held for speeding. She said that she at first took the whole affair as a joke. She first saw what turned out to be the police car parked by the roadside when they passed. She saw it was following and slowed down to let it go by. It was then that she was ordered to stop and the car was searched. She admitted on cross-examination that she knew at the Children's home that she had been arrested for speeding. She also admitted that Mrs. Bravo asked to go to a toilet and that when Officer Sponcey sent to bring Mrs. Bravo back, he told her sister t otell her that there was a toilet in the building.

Miss Mollie Smith and Mrs. Bravo testified in corroboration of some of the testimony of the former witnesses.

Sergeant Laird, the first witness for the defense testified to stopping the automobile. He said the first thing he did was to tell the driver she was under arrest for speeding and asked to see her license and registration. While he was jotting these in his note book he told her he had a warrant to search the car and showed it to her. When the search was over he told her to drive to the police station. He said that Mrs. Smith did not ask if she could go away. Her daughter asked to use the telephone to call her father and he refused the request. While at the station house the younger women were talking and laughing. He said he refused to allow them to telephone because he had a warrant in his pocket at the time to search the City Hotel, that later it was searched, liquor was found and Thomas Culley was arrested. He booked the Smith girl for speeding at 5 p. m. and Culley at 5:40. He denied that he prevented anyone from leaving the police station except Celia, but he admitted they were kept at the police station so they could not warn the City Hotel. He said that they could have gone if they had wanted to.

Patrolman Ryan told a similar story. Captain Jarvis told him to take Patrolman Sponcey to the police station and keep Miss Smith there until he, the captain, got back. He said he knew of no orders to hold all the women.

Captain Jarvis told of giving Ryan the order and of telling Miss Smith she would have to appear in court. He admitted he had in mind to make a proper search of the City Hotel and did not want any of the party to talk with Mr. Smith. When Mr. Torrey asked the witness if it was his intention not to allow any member of the party to telephone from the police station or anywhere else, the court intervened, saying that it was very obvious that this was the intent of the police and that they were frank about it, that they had raided the car for liquor and that they held a warrant for the hotel and that they did not intend that the party should use the police station telephone or any other.

Officer Sponcey, the last witness, said he did not prevent any of the women from leaving the station. Asked about showing his revolver he said that if he did it, he didn't know it and it must have been accidental as it was a warm day and he had his coat unbuttoned. He said that Mrs. Smith, the plainiff, appeared to him to be more mad than nervous.

There were no arguments it being agreed to submit briefs in two weeks.

SAMUEL RICH AND WM. PECHIE REPUBLICAN NOMINEES

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, Oct. 14.—At the largest republican caucus held in Putnam in many years, Samuel Rich and William Pechie were nominated tonight for representatives in the general assembly. Four candidates were put in nomination and the motion was made to take an informal ballot. There were 491 votes cast, of which number Samuel Rich received 189, Mayor VIVctor Chapdelaine 142, Clare Larned 107 and Grace Nikoloff 53. It was voted by unanimous consent that Samuel Rich be declared the nominee by acclamation. The name of William Pechie was added to the list of the three remaining former nominees and the second informal ballot was taken. The total number of votes cast was 467. Pechie received 165, Clara Larned 125, Mayor Victor Chapdelaine 90 and Grace Nikoloff 87. It was again voted by common consent that Pechie be declared the second nominee by acclamation. David Flagg was nominated by acclamation for judge of probate and Howard C. Bradford, Joseph Duprey, Irving H. Miron, M. H. Geissler, Archibald MacDonald Jr., A. F. MacDonald, E. H. Johnson and Ernest C. Morse were nominated for justices of the peace. Judge M. H. Geissler was chairman of the caucus and Whitman Danielson was the clerk.

Its Value Proved in Thousands of Cars

The annals of the automotive industry do not record a quicker and more consistent success than that of the Traffic Transmission

(Campbell Patent)

Announced in September, 1923, it is now in use on thousands of Chandler cars.

That fact is important to all who are contemplating the purchase of an automobile; for any man who invests $1600 or more in a car is entitled to enjoy the many advantages in driving that the Traffic Transmission makes possible.

Because it is the only car with the Traffic Transmission, the Chandler is the only car in which the gears cannot be clashed

—the only car in which any driver cannot fail—or even falter—in changing from high to second or low and from low to second or high

—the only car in which it is always possible to make a split-second snap to a lower gear, and brake the car sharply on hills and in traffic

—the only car which solves the difficulties of the old-fashioned transmission without changing the use of the shift lever or the clutch.

That is why the Traffic Transmission will always rank as one of the great steps forward in automotive design. That is why you should see and drive a Chandler today!

Pikes Peak Motor

4-Wheel Brakes

Specially designed for the Chandler chassis. Offered as optional equipment at a slight extra charge.

Fisher Bodies

Ten richly beautiful types for every closed and open car requirement.

Balloon Tires

Super-size, low-pressure cords on all models as standard equipment.

A Ride Will Prove All The Amazing Facts About The Chrysler Six

The fact that the Chrysler Six is not only different from conventional cars, but is vastly superior has created a demand that has taxed the resources of a great organization.

The whole country is talking about this car. You yourself have undoubtedly heard much about its performance, its economy and its other unusual characteristics.

But if you have not examined it, ridden in it, driven it, you have no real appreciation of the contribution it has made to the advancement of motoring.

There are many other things that will arouse your enthusiasm when you ride in the car. You will be especially impressed with the way space has been engineered. Chrysler cars are not excessive in size. Yet they offer the spacious comfort ordinarily associated with heavier cars.

A demonstration awaits you at any time that suits your convenience.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan. Dealers everywhere.

SENATOR BRANDEGEE.

Not only were the people of Connecticut shocked by the news from Washington disclosing the death of Senator Frank B. Brandegee, but far beyond the borders of the Nutmeg state did the report cause surprise and regret.

Both in state and national politics Senator Brandegee had been particularly active almost from the time he left college. He possessed a leadership that was far reaching and for years had been recognized in the United States senate as one of its most influential members. Time had shown that he was a statesman, a man who wasted no words and who was not continually occupying the time of congress in delivering long speeches. What he had to say was to the point. He made himself clear without repetitions and when it came to untying some of the knots into which congress sometimes becomes entangled Senator Brandegee invariably showed the quickest way. None better than his political opponents appreciated his merits as a statesman and parliamentarian.

Senator Brandegee was a man of strong convictions and he had the courage to defend them. Considering his entire congressional career there has probably been no one who has rendered a greater service for the state in that particular office He was a man of tact and good judgment. He was alert to the welfare of the state and the nation, and the high regard in which he was held could not better be displayed than by the committee appointments which he received and the attention paid to his words on the senate floor. His loss therefore means much both to the state and the nation. The pluralities by which he was repeatedly returned to congress show what reliance was placed upon his ability by the people of this state.

Senator Brandegee was a man without ostentation. He was a capable lawyer, a brilliant speaker, a strong party leader and a good fellow. Despite his prominence in public life, he was naturally of a retiring disposition.

Connecticut knows how well he has served its interests and Connecticut knows well the loss that has been experienced by his untimely death.

BILLIONS FOR GOVERNMENTS.

As a result of an investigation which has been conducted by the National Industrial Conference board it has been found that $10,045,000,000 of the people's money goes to governments, which means that out of every $100 of the American national income $15 goes to governments. Of this the city, town and county governments got and spent last year over $5,000,000,000, the state governments disposed of $1,450,000,000 and the federal government $3,459,000,000. If a per capita tax had been laid to raise that sum it would have called for $91 from every man, woman and child in the country.

During the period of the World war there was a tremendous advance along all lines. The need of getting away from that and replacing the waste and extravagance with economy has been fully appreciated and to a large degree practiced by the federal government. But that doesn't decrease the demands for new federal activities, new bureaus, new responsibilities along lines which the government should keep out of.

President Coolidge is urging more business in government and less government in business. He says, "I want the American people to be able to work less for the government and more for themselves."

There is ground for the cutting of government expenditures. There is reason for keeping down the government activities. But despite the billions that are going into government each year there is La Follette who wants to saddle the country with the additional huge expense of having the government own and operate the railroads.

The tremendous sum going to governments from the pockets of the American people is caused by the constant addition of more and more government agencies, more and more bureaus and the growing dependence upon the government to meet this situation or that one instead of the people actually meeting it themselves. This dependence is costly. The government expenditures make that clear. But the government expenditures make it evident that if this dependence is going to increase it must be expected that more money must be collected by the government for providing what is required of it. Instead of increasing public expenditures there has been a well emphasized demand on the part of the president for checking them, and to his insistence and courageous stand the country today owes much for the retrenchment that has been accomplished.

THE GREAT FIRE WASTE.

With the announcement that three such important organizations as the American Waterworks association, the International Association of Fire Engineers and the National Fire Protection association have joined hands for the purpose of reducing the great fire waste through the nation, it is to be realized that influential agencies at work in a good cause. If unity means strength it certainly should be imparted by this combination.

It is none too soon for the people of this country to realise that the fire losses have grown to staggering figures. It is likewise time to realise that there is no need of it. The unfortunate position is taken by too many that fires must be expected and that as long as there is a fire department no one else need worry about such a danger. The fact is that there is too great a dependence placed upon the work of fire fighters instead of displaying that small but much needed cooperation on the part of the entire population that will result in the prevention of fires. It is well enough to provide for efficient means of fighting fires but it is far better that there should be no fires. That is where fire prevention has its opportunity and there's no danger that any too much attention will be given to it.

It is the well devised plan of the joint committee of the three organizations to work with city fire and water departments in making a study of the fire hazards, the building codes, the fire prevention ordinances and the fire fighting facilities in all cities, and to urge a "cabinet" from among the citizens for the fire chief.

Conditions which are revealed following fires makes it evident that there are sure to be excellent results obtained from such efforts. There's no possibility of too much interest being created in these directions. Every community can probably profit from such activity, and when it comes to naming a cabinet it might be well if every resident assumed the responsibility that rests upon him of doing his part to keep down the fire losses. While it might hardly seem necessary, since most anyone ought to understand what constitutes a fire hazard, yet fire after fire, as well as fire prevention investigations, shows the great need of constant education along these lines.

A half billion dollar fire waste a year is too great. Europe has no such losses. This country has no good excuse for it. The needed reduction is long overdue.

THE GERMAN LOAN.

In connection with the restoration of better conditions in Europe, the Dawes recommendations have been most heartily endorsed. This is due to the fact that they were based upon a thorough investigation of conditions and the employment of the necessary measures to meet the facts as they existed.

It was necessary to stabilize conditions in Germany in order that Germany might be able to meet its obligations, and through meeting its obligations bring about a better relationship between the nations. The Dawes recommendations meant a general getting together to meet the conditions that existed. Coming from experts in whom confidence was placed it has received strong endorsement.

One of the necessary provisions in connection with the Dawes recommendations was the international loan to Germany. How well that loan is thought of and how much confidence prevails here that it is fully safeguarded is reflected in the fact that that portion allotted to this country was oversubscribed four and a half times.

That means that the people of this country have faith in the working out of the Dawes provisions, that they believe Germany will do its part and that they are anxious to participate in such an investment as well as make whatever contribution is involved to the making of peace in Europe more secure. Neither sentiment against Germany nor lack of faith in the security operated in any way to handicap the loan. It disclosed the changed conditions, but above all it was the finest kind of an endorsement for the Dawes report.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The way is now entirely clear for the gridiron contests.

The man on the corner says: Jack Frost was late but that didn't make his visit any more welcome.

The chances to be made a voter this year are rapidly disappearing. Today is the second day for "making."

Very little has been said this year of the chestnut crop due in all probability to the large number of the political variety.

La Follette claims to know a lot about campaign funds but unless Chairman Butler is wrong it's a lot of talk that isn't so.

A few days now and it will be necessary to perform with the rake where so much energy has been spent with the lawn mower.

It is denied in Germany that Bergdoll has returned to this country. He must realize there is a big reception committee waiting for him in case of a return.

The Shenandoah is making such excellent progress on its western trip speculation will be encouraged on how long it would require to circle the globe.

IMPOSSIBLE JOYS

"Here's a good book that's just come," proffered the anxious hostess to the week end guest who gave signs of being restless. "You'll just have time to begin it before luncheon."

"Oh, my goodness, no!" refused the restless guest with a deep sad sigh. "I tell you there aren't any good books any more! There are sensations and best sellers, but I've hunted high and low and I cannot find any more books written of the kind I formed the habit of enjoying in my earlier days. I expect this explains why the reading habit is dying out among so many people.

"The reason there are no books of that kind is that there is nobody on earth any more for the hardworking novelist to copy as his heroine. I want the sweet, gentle sort whose troubles bring tears to my eyes and a lump in my throat and I demand a noble hero who keeps his eye on a star and grits his teeth and bears what comes.

"And I want to know that the villain is a sure-enough villian when he first appears on page ten, instead of worrying back and forth in my mind about him until the last chapter before I can be certain he really is the villian. Even then he is a poor stick at the job, all because of this popular fad about there being some good in the worst of us. The kind of villain I like hasn't enough good in him to go through the eye of a needle and I prefer them dark and craven. I ask you, when have you run across a villain of this description in recent works?

"Nobody can get up even a glycerin tear over any of these modern heroines. They look you straight in the eye and coldly at that, which is confusing. And they say, 'Oh, damn' on the slightest provocation. This may be inspiriting and peppy, but it doesn't make the reader feel like gathering the young creature to his heart. She'd probably land you a left uppercut and then step on you while she lit a contemplative cigarette.

"I like 'em when they wear ruffly, white fluffy things and curl their hair and droop their eyes and sort of shy away, if you get "His Heroine," what I mean. I want them to look up at the hero with adoration in their eyes and make him feel dead certain that here is a woman he can lead along the path of life and who will depend upn his superior strength, and all that.

"You can't tell me that the modern hero, for all his brazen flippancy and so-called lack of illusions, really likes the kind of girl chucked at him by the busy novelist. He takes her because he can't get any other kind He can't even kiss her because she has just taken out a cigarette case and anyhow she says she doesn't go in much for petting parties, especially with husbands or near-husbands. 'For heaven's sake,' she says, 'let's have some sense in our family at least, Reginald!' in much for petting parties, especfrom anything, because she is so eminently able to look out for herself. There doesn't seem much of anything for the hero to do, in fact, but stand around cynically and get off glittering epigrams, none of which anybody is going to frame and hang up on the wall. He isn't one bit more satisfactory in his part than in the girl. He spends his life in a low-hung longish racing car dashing about from the country club to the roof garden and I don't believe he is good to his mother. If Berenice turns him down he picks up the telephone and calls up Ethel and never misses a meal or tears out a hair.

"The plots are no better. I like a plot that you recognize as a plot from the very beginning and that has a middle and an end instead of these impressionistic things which begin right in the center of things and don't say a solitary word about it being a dark and stormy night and the household of Ephraim K. Bangle, the prominent banker of Three Oaks, is hovering about the upstairs room where the prominent man lies gasping his last, while across the street a pale woman wrapped in a dark cape stands in the shadows of the lilacs with her hand to her throat, watching the shadows on the drawn shades in the death chamber—something of that sort, you know! Now if this book is anything at all of that stamp I'd love to read it—"

"I really don't think you'd have time," said the anxious hostess hurriedly dropping the volume into the waste basket although it was still sizzling from the press. "I think I just heard the luncheon gong! Come on!"

Wedgwood, Disfigured and Crippled

"I have my trade, a lame leg, and the mark of smallpox, and I never was good looking, anyway."

Thus wrote Josiah Wedgwood when he completed his apprenticeship at 19 without health, money or parents and felt that he was a burden to his brothers and sisters.

Youngest of 13 children of a potter of Burslem, England, he was still a baby when left disfigured by an attack of smallpox. He was nine when his father died and he had to work at the potter's wheel while other children play ed. At fourteen he was apprenticed for five years in his brother's pottery spending his spare time in study.

An inflammation in his right knee was aggravated by the hard work of turning the potter's wheel and the limb was amputated at the knee, leaving him, at 19, sick, lame and penniless, a year after his mother's death.

Back in the pottery making jugs and crocks, he experimented in glazes. Fashioning a little workbox decorated with a "porcelain" in a semi-transparent green color that he made himself, he sent it to Sarah Wedgwood, a distant relation. The gift was broken in the post, but the girl's father saw its beauty and wrote for more. A Sheffield cutler admired the work and offered the boy a position but Josiah's brother refused to let him go.

At 21 Josiah started a small pottery at Stoke-in-Trent, later forming a partnership with Whieldon. In a year he saved a hundred pounds, and proposed marriage to Sarah, but her father objected strenuously to the marriage of his daughter, heiress-to-be of a ten thousand pound estate, with a poor potter.

After working five years for Sheffield cutlers Wedgwood returned, at 29, to Burslem and with the thousand pounds he had saved started in business for himself. He developed the ware for which he became famous. At 34 he was able to match Sarah's dowry and thus gain consent of her father to their marriage. At 41 he established Etruria, a model village, for his potteries and the workers. His "Jasper" ware won fame he became the richest man in England who had made his own fortune and was honored as one of the greatest men of his time.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Palmer C. Ricketts, whom the King of Italy has created a Knight Commander of the Crown, is president of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., which institution has just hold a not able celebration in honor of its centennial. Dr. Ricketts has long had an international reputation as an engineer and educator. Throughout his entire professional career, covering a period of more than half a century, he has been associated with Rensselaer. After receiving his degree in civil engineering at that institution in 1878 he became an instructor there and in the course of time was made an assistant professor, a professor, and finally, in 1901, attained the presidency of the institution. In addition to his activities as an educator Dr. Ricketts has served as consulting engineer for numerous railroads and other large corporations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Child Labor Amendment

Mr. Editor: Is the public generally aware of the menace of the "Child Labor Amendment?" It's time the voters were awakened to an understanding of the proposed amendment. They may well awake. It has passed congress and unless we bestir ourselves, will soon be ratified by the states. To every overworked child benefited by its ratification, a score would be injured by habits of laziness and idleness. "As a twig is bent so the tree is inclined" applies to children as well as trees.

Are we parents ready to have the government take over the control of our youths? Were such a law enacted, you, Mr. City Dweller, could not set your boy to tend the furnace or sweep the snow from your walk. Mother could not exact that Jennie help with the weekly sweeping. You, farmers, could drive the cows to pasture, gather the eggs and bring the wood. Why? Because the law says John or Mary shall not work until 18 years of age. But remonstrates the advocates of the amendment, there will be provisos to fit the home, don't be deceived. The text is plainly worded and carries no such provision.

The public has just been through the nauseating experience of hearing through the press the trial of two degenerate youths the product of too much money and idleness.

Do we want 25 per cent, yea, more, of our coming generation of that stamp?

The child labor amendment will create idleness, and idleness at certain ages creates wanton youth.

Work and responsibility (to a certain extent) is necessary to the formation of the character of our children.

Where would we as a nation be today if any such law had been in effect in our forefathers' day? You of middle age check up on families you know or have known, note the difference between those that had daily work and those who spend or spent time in idleness. What is their standing in life?

We realize some sane measure is needed to safeguard our boys and girls from unjust parents, and unscrupulous employes. Investigate this 20th amendment and realize the fallacy of thinking this the remedy. Far from it. It's an unjust measure.

A MOTHER.

Mrs. X had been down town to have two teeth pulled and that night she was not feeling the best in the world. Getting ready to retire she turned out the electric light as she always did and raised the window. Something distracted her attention for a moment after she had switched off the light. Her husband who had previously retired, was surprised to hear her exclaim, "Oh, John, my tooth hurts me and I believe I'm going to faint. Everything has turned black."

"Turn the switch and I think everything will be light again," John replied.

One of the quietest functions of the season was noticed on Boston streets, says the Globe of that city. A sight seeing bus was packed full of deaf and dumb people, who followed with close attention the finger movements of a silent lecturer at the front of the car who was describing points of interest along the route.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Yarn for the Orioles Nest

Now let me think a minute or three,
Where did we leave off, you and me?
Won't somebody hand me my Memory Hat
To help me remember where I was at?

Goodness me! No sooner had I repeated this verse than Little Miss Mousie called me up on the telephone and reminded me that the last

"Thank you, Little Miss Mousie," I answered. "Now I'll sit right down and tell all the little boys and girls what happened after the two little rabbits had said goodbye to the old frog gentleman. So, here we go, clipperty clip on the typewriter. All of a sudden, just like that, across the Sunny Meadow came the Honk, honk! of Uncle Lucky's horn, and the next minute the old gentleman bunny stopped the Luckymobile beside the two little rabbits.

"Hop in," he said, with a bow and a smile.
I'll take you home in a bumperty mile."

"You're very kind," said little Mrs. Cottontail, seating herself on the green cushion in the back seat, while the bunny boy settled himself comfortably beside his dear Uncle Lucky. Then away they went to the Old Brush Heap, where Cousin Cottontail hopped out and said goodbye and a thank you.

"Now where shall we go?" asked the old gentleman bunny smiling at his small nephew. "Any place in particular?"

As if in answer there came a loud, bold whistle and a flash of orange and black gleamed in a near-by elm tree.

"Uncle Lucky!" called Cousin Cottontail. "Mr. Oriole has taken some of my bright-colored knitting yarn. I left a skein on the window-sill."

"Hoity toity!" exclaimed the old gentleman rabbit, hopping quickly out of the Luckymobile. Sure enough, hanging from a slender branch swung a bag-shaped nest about seven inches deep into which Mrs. Oriole was busily weaving a long red piece of yarn.

As dear Uncle Lucky stopped beneath the tree to look up into the branches, Mrs. Oriole whispered to her mate, "Bring me another string."

But dear me, before Cousin Cottontail could pick up the tangled skein and put it away in her work basket, Mr Oriole had alighted on the windowsill and seized hold of a loose end.

"Help, help!" screamed the little lady rabbit as Mr. Oriole, with a tug and a pull a broke off a long piece. Then, with a whistle of delight, flew away to his mate in the tall elm tree.

"Don't worry about a bit of yarn," advised dear Uncle Lucky smiling at the anxious bunny lady. "I'll buy you some at the Three-in-One-Cent store," and off he drove in the Luckymobile with Little Jack Rabbit. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

KEEP YOUR SCALP Clean and Healthy WITH CUTICURA

Mother!
"Guard the child's teeth"

Those tiny teeth are a priceless gift — guard them well!

WRIGLEY'S is a wonderful help to keep teeth clean and sound, for it clears out the crevices, makes the mouth sweet and removes acid conditions from which most people suffer.

A prominent physician says: "It is surprising how free from decay the teeth can be kept by using gum after each meal."

The whole family should use

WRIGLEY'S

THE HOUR ALONE

The flower-fragrant Garden seemed asleep,
Its paths o'-weary with th' incessant tread
That passed, since Friday's setting sun died red;
So lay Gethsemane, in silence deep.

Through the dim dusk lily-petals shone
Bruised and half-broken, by the shadowed wall;
Dawn slowly lingered loth to come at all,
When entered someone, through the grove, alone.

A saddened, weeping Mary, trailing slow
Dark garments through the Garden's gloom;
She pauses, as she nears the empty tomb—
"Your Lord is Risen . . ." a voice class low.

And suddenly the dawning glows more fair,
In tender accents Some One speaks her name,
"Mary!" as past the olive came
Her Risen Lord! Her Christ stood near her there!

Ah, joyous Mary! wonderful to know
Your Lord, before aught others might appear;
Your heart alone His loving voice to hear
On that white Easter morn, long years ago!

—Agnes Choate Wonson in Boston Transcript.

The Heir

Now all his careful plans are buried deep,
And his affairs are in unskilful hands
Of one who greedily seeks love and sleep,
Who eats and rides, but never understands
Why this thing should go well or that go ill;
But thinks the wind should gather in the crop,
And only lifts a brimming cup to spill
What some one else collected drop by drop.
Now, power buried with him, this man lies
Unable to control the destiny
Of anything he planned and brought to be,
While one with no intelligence denies
The worth of all he loved, and wastes what he Wrested from pain and watched with tired eyes.
—Louise Driscoll in the Freeman

HUMOR OF THE DAY

He gets 'em going and coming.
Who is that?
The man who drives the bus from the hotel to the train.

He (fervently)—And when are you going to allow me to kill you?
She—Come around Friday. That's amateur night.—The Progressive Grocer.

Professor—As a success you have been a failure.
Student—Yes: but as a failure, I've been a success! —Answers, London.

Tramp—Very well, I'll come inside mum!—Dorfgarbler, Berlin.

The absent-minded professor surveyed himself in the hairbrush, instead of the mirror. "Gracious, but I need a shave!" he mused.—Sun Dodger.

Man from Christiania—Did the offer come from America or Norway?—Karikaturen, Christiania.

Mildred—Have you really found that absence makes the heart grow fonder?
Mary—Rather. Since Jack went away I have learned to love Reginald ever so much more.—Answers, London.

"It doesn't seem right," said the fair minded man, "that the District of Columbia should have only six votes in this great convention."
"But think," rejoined Senator Sorghum, "of how many times we let you cast 'em."—Washington Star.

Hydroelectric power in Scotland and England is engaging the attention of engineers who have been studying Great Britain's industrial problems. The latest project is a state-aided scheme which will provide employment for thousands of men for a period of five or six years. It is called the Lochaber hydroelectric undertaking," and the first contract has already been placed. It is to cost about $15,000,000. Watersheds will be harnessed in an area of more than 300 square miles, and the energy will be concentrated at Fort William, where equipment necessary to generate 100,000-horse power will be placed. Aqueduct carried for twenty miles through the solid rock of Ben Nevis will involve tunneling on the biggest scale ever attempted in Great Britain. Immense dams, spillways and intake works in concrete will be constructed, damming the waters of Loch Trieg and Laggan and the Rivers Spean, Treig and Spey. Thus the streams and waters of the highlands will be made to turn the wheels of lowland factories hundreds of miles away.

THE ERRING WIFE AND MOTHER

is the woman who sacrifices her health and consequent happiness to her ambition. We all know such women—anxious that their homes shall be kept immaculately neat and attractive and their children well dressed they overdo and soon bring on some feminine ailment which is evidenced by nervousness, irritability, headaches, backache and other aches and pains attending such ills. Every woman should remember that the most successful remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which for fifty years has been restoring women to health, strength and happiness.

ADDRESS BY LA FOLLETTE ON FOREIGN RELATIONS

St. Louis, Oct. 14.—Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent candidate for president, discussing foreign relations in a campaign speech here tonight, declared that "the complete abandonment of the true American foreign policy came under the administration of Woodrow Wilson and has been continued and expanded under the present Harding-Coolidge administration."

"It is true," the Wisconsin senator said, "that our departure from the traditional American policy began with the development of imperialism under William McKinley, following the Spanish-American war. The breach was broadened under Roosevelt and Taft."

Speaking in the coliseum, where Woodrow Wilson was renominated for the presidency in 1916, Senator La Follette told his audience that "Wilson was elected as an anti-imperialist and did, in fact, do much during the first two years of his administration to check the tendency towards imperialism by using his influence for Philippine independence, by causing the extension of the dollar diplomacy and by his attitude toward the Mexican revolution."

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Cynthia Allen

Cynthia Dart, 92, widow of John H. Allen, died early Tuesday morning at the home of her son, Dr. Jonathan H. Allen, 76 Church street, Norwich. Death was due to no particular ailment, but followed a general breaking down resulting from age.

She was born in Groton, Oct. 9th, 1832, the daughter of Ezra and Eunice Newberry Dart. Following her marriage Nov. 20th, 1854, with John H. Allen, a prosperous and prominent Montville farmer she went to that town to reside, remaining there until the death of her husband in 1897. Since that time she has made her home with her sons.

Of her six children, three survive, Dr. J. H. Allen, of Norwich, Warren N. Allen of Ledyard and Walter L. Allen, of Brooklyn, N. Y. She leaves six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. A son, Fitch Lewis Allen, died at Norwich Town in 1917. One daughter, Alma Jane, died in 1875, at the age of 15, and a younger daughter, Anna Cynthia, wife of Walter Miner, died at Hanover in December, 1899. Mrs. Allen leaves a brother, Fitzalund Dart, of Montville, who will be 96 in December. Another brother, Robert Dart, died several weeks ago in New London at the age of 87. She was a member of the Congregational church at Montville Center.

Until she was past ninety, Mrs. Allen was remarkable for the perseverance with which she kept up the diligent ways of her early life, her needlework being the wonder of all who saw it. She read and re-read her Bible and other religious books, as the great solace of her leisure hours, after a busy life.

WEDDINGS.

Utterstaedt-Phillips

At St. Mary's church rectory Monday evening at 7 o'clock Rev. Frederick F. Coholan, assistant pastor of the church, united in marriage George Utterstaedt of No. 134 Talman street and Miss Gladys Phillips of Montville. The bride was charming in a gown of brown crepe de chine and carried an arm bouquet of flowers. Mrs. Guilford, her sister, was the matron of honor and John Utterstaedt, brother of the groom, was the best man.

Mr. Utterstaedt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Utterstaedt and is employed as a traveling salesman for the Eldredge Hardware Co., of this city. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Phillips and has made her home with her parents in Montville.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of the groom, covers being laid for 35 guests. The house was attractively decorated in dahlias and a musical programme was given during the evening. The bride's gift to the matron of honor was a gold bar pin and the groom's gift to his best man was a pair of gold cuff links. The bride received many beautiful gifts of cut glass, linen, checks, gold and silverware. Following their honeymoon trip the bride and groom will make their home in this city.

At the several assembly points, officers will be present to whom the units will report and receive instructions when to move into the column. The relative position of units in column will be as follows:

Detachment of chief petty officers, U. S. N., Sir Harold E. Rosecrans, commanding; grand marshal; staff; aides.

First Division: Chief of division, E. Sir Jesse B. Stinson. Aides: Sir Percy H. Morgan, Sir Henry J. Latham, Sir Ross E. Black, Sir Ernest A. Phillips. Palestine Commandery No. 6, E. Sir George Paton, commanding; Palestine Commandery escort, Sir Everett W. Eagles, commanding; massed colors.

Second Division: Chief of division, E. Sir Nelson J. Ayling. Aides: E. Sir George E. Watters, Sir Avery W. Gallup, Sir Arthur E. Story, Sir John E. Ferguson. Columbian Commandery, No. 4, E. Sir Harry B. Ford, commanding.

Third Division: Chief of division, E. Sir Arthur N. Nash; aides: E. Sir Henry E. Wagner, Sir William C. Smith, Sir John O. Mills, Sir William H. Goodgeon. Narragansett Commandery No. 27, E. Sir Charles M. Kebbe, commanding.

The line of march will be as follows:

From Huntington Street to Tilley, to Bank, to State, to Huntington, to Broad, to Hempstead, to Granite, to Channing, to Broad, to Hempstead, to Franklin to Jay, to Coit, to Washington street, entrance, state armory, where the parade will be dismissed.

Units will march in single rank column of three file front according to Knights Templar tactics.

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY NAMES COMMITTEES FOR YEAR

The women's auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian association held its first meeting of the season Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Miss Marion Bishop, 189 Broadway, with an attendance that was the largest in years. Committees were organized for the work this season.

Mrs. Allyn L. Brown gave an interesting talk upon her trip to Europe this summer and Mrs. Clayton Burgy was heard in pleasing solos. Tea was served.

REPUBLICAN RALLY HELD BY COLORED WOMEN

With three speakers on the program at Mt. Calvary Baptist church, a republican rally was held Tuesday evening by the colored women. There were about 50 men and women present. Mrs. Ella King called the meeting to order, acting as chairman of the evening and Mrs. Charles Hall was the secretary.

Mrs. King introduced as the speakers Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell of this city, James Kefford of Waterbury and Mrs. Mary Johnson of Hartford. All three speakers presented their views in an able manner. They spoke of the issues of the presidential campaign urging the election of the republican candidates on the national and state tickets.

Mrs. Johnson, the first speaker of the evening, addressed herself largely to the women at the meeting, urging them to exercise their privilege of the ballot and telling of some of the accomplishments of the republican party. The rally closed about 10 o'clock.

FOR SUPERIOR COURT ON HOLDUP ACCUSATION

Eugene Bunnell, 41, caught Monday night in the act of staging a hold-up at the Polish Corporation grocery store, No. 1 Thames street, was bound over to the criminal term of the superior court in January under bonds of $5,000 when presented before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Tuesday morning. A large crowd of spectators was on hand to watch the court proceedings.

It is understood that Bunnell confessed to Chief Linton that he was also responsible for the highway robbery in Greeneville near the Point saloon Monday afternoon. The complaint against Bunnell charged him with robbing Stanley Osiewski of between $60 and $70 and attempting to rob Stanley Zawlislinsky, clerk at the Polish Corporation grocery store. Bunnell entered pleas of guilty to both charges. Probable cause was found and he was bound over to the criminal court under bonds of $5,000 which he was unable to furnish. He was taken to jail to await trial.

Bunnell lives at No. 7 Hill street, and is married and has several children. He has been employed as a carpenter by a local contractor.

FOUND HIS WIFE WAS ALREADY MARRIED

Suit to have his marriage to Mary Hadge Evergitis of Norwich declared void has been brought by Charles Evergitis of the same place. They were married Sept. 29, 1924, but the plaintiff declares that on Oct. 11, 1924 he discovered that his wife, who had represented to him that she was a single woman, had been married on May 21, 1922 in Norwich by a minister of the Greek church to Peter Apostolou who is still living and is the woman's lawful husband.

WILL MAKE PLANS FOR ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

A meeting of the general committee of the Armistice Day celebration will be held this (Wednesday) afternoon at 5 o'clock at the rooms of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce. Preparations and plans for the celebration which will be featured by the dedication of the soldiers and sailors' memorial tablet and a street parade, are well underway and the event promises to be one of the most successful of its kind ever held in Norwich.

Gets Big Coon In Oneco

Oneco, Oct. 14.—Jim Sweet, coon expert, "Bobby Dick" Dixon and Francis Carpenter with the famous Tennesse coon dog "Red" owned by Dixon made a raid on the lair of ring tails over Bailey Pond way Saturday night and after a short sharp and decisive chase located the object of their hunt in the top of an old pine tree. Jim who knows all the P's and Q's of coon lore "climbed" the tree and after a few bombs of German or some other kind of gas had been exploded landed a 5 lb. ring tail, fat as butter and eager to reach the roasting pan. It was a big coon hunt but Sweet says before the season is over "Red" will be the champion coon dog of eastern Connecticut.

Missing From State Hospital

Search is being made for Miss Josephine Murphy of this city, a patient at the Norwich State hospital, who has been missing since Monday afternoon. Her sister, who was visiting her, left her for a few moments on a hill near the hospital grounds and nothing has been seen of her since. Her relatives are greatly alarmed over her absence and are in hopes of getting reports from some one who may have seen her.

She is about 30, has bobbed hair, was bare headed and was wearing a long blue cape with brass buttons, and a light colored dress.

Hiked To Camp Up-E-Nuf

Troop No. 4, Boy Scouts, of Sacred Heart church, Taftville, hiked to Camp Up-E-Nuf, the headquarters of Troop No. 20 recently.

The troop was under the leadership of Rosario Quertin, patrol leader. The scouts hiked through Mohegan park and up to Mediterranean Lane, where a detail from Troop 20 met them and showed them around. After climbing the signal tower and playing the various games provided, the troop returned through the picturesque trail through the park. All reported a most enjoyable time.

There are a number of two-faced women outside the freak museums.

ST. PATRICK'S MEN HAVING BIG MISSION

The good sized congregation of men who got out Tuesday morning for their mission mass at 5 o'clock heard a rousing instruction by the mission father, Rev. David O'Brien, on the Second Commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Take the name of the Lord, thy God in vain."

Father O'Brien's topic was the sin of profanity. At the 8 o'clock mass, a second big congregation heard Father Richard A. Hartnett continue on the subject of Clean Speech, also the veneration with which Catholics should pronounce the holy name of Jesus.

Tuesday evening a big assemblage of men united in congregational singing led by a men's chorus directed by Organist Frank L. Farrell. Recitation of the Rosary was led by Rev. Father Nicholas O'Loughlin, whose instruction dealt with the vulgarity as well as the sin of cursing, swearing and similar evils among those professing to be Christians. Father O'Brien delivered the impressive sermon on Death. Announcement was made that the missionaries would begin hearing confessions today (Wednesday.) Each day now they are meeting the many who come to them for advice and guidance in matters of doubt, or other spiritual perplexities.

St. Patrick's parish men are outnumbering the women's attendance of last week, in the way they have started in for their special mission exercises. These will continue every morning at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock and evening at 7.30 until the great and solemn climax of Sunday evening next, when the hundreds of men will renew the vows made for them in baptism by their sponsors—to renounce sin—the devil, with all his works and pomps, also promising to persevere in the virtues which have been accentuated during the mission exercises. The three Philadelphia fathers have just come from giving a big mission in Pittsfield—but they admit that even that did not go ahead of the zeal and numbers of the Norwich mission. Nearly every man in the parish is acting as a lay apostle, to spur up the lukewarm and the careless among his friends and acquaintances. The missionaries are noted for doing no urging; they simply warn the erring. Now is the acceptable time! Hundreds may never live to hear God's call again to attend a mission!"

MRS. LAFOLLETTE SPEAKS FOR PROGRESSIVE CANDIDATE

Norwich had the novelty Tuesday evening of hearing the wife of a presidential candidate appear in his support when Mrs. Robert LaFollette spoke at the Community house on Church street before an audience of between 400 and 500 who gave her loud applause at several points in her address.

Mrs. Lafollette was introduced by Albert Boardman who spoke of the principles of the socialists and their endorsement of Senator Lafollette, who, he said, does not go as far in some of his ideas as the socialists do.

Mrs. Lafollette spoke of her husband's rise in Wisconsin politics, his fight in the senate over the railroad freight rates and his advocacy of government ownership of the railroads and the great natural resources. She advocated the child labor amendment and giving congress to pass a constitutional amendment over an adverse ruling by the supreme court also a referendum on war. She charged Coolidge with failing to show an understanding of present day principles and Mellon tax plan and his veto of the criticised him for his advocacy of the railway mail clerks' bill.

A number of the audience left after her address and missed the appeal of Miss Edna M. Purtell of Hartford, state secretary, for funds through the collection which was taken.

Miss Elizabeth Glendower Evans of Brookline, Mass., was the last speaker, devoting her talk to advocacy of Senator Wheeler, vice presidential candidate on the progressive ticket.

Miss Evans came here under happier auspices than in her last public appearance in Norwich when she was arrested several years ago while making a speech at the corner of Ferry and Main streets.

McGRAW ALREADY LAYING PLANS FOR HIS QUEST OF 1925 NATIONAL PENNANT

New York, Oct. 14.—(By The A. P.)—John McGraw veteran manager of the New York Giants, already is figuring upon his 1925 campaign and a bid for his fifth straight National pennant.

Temporarily, the Giant chieftain will take a well-earned vacation in connection with the European tour of the Giants and White Sox, after one of the most strenuous campaigns he has ever had, but upon his return he intends to line up his forces for the coming year. He left tonight for Quebec, where he will join the tourists and sail tomorrow night on the steamer Mount Royal for Liverpool. They expect to return November 25 on the Leviathan from Cherbourg.

Discussing his 1925 prospects today McGraw expressed confidence that his team would be even more formidable than this year, with new talent developing rapidly. The Giants finished the season and went through the world's series with two rookies, Lindstrom and Terry, in the infield, and another, Wilson, in the outfield. In addition, McGraw figures that such newcomers as Dean, Mann an Baldwin in the pitching box will strengthen his hurling corps for 1925.

Dean, obtained from Louisville, was something of a disappointment this year, but McGraw believes he has the stuff and that the year's experience will have benefited him greatly.

"I probably will bolster the catching department before another campaign opens," McGraw continued. "Frank Snyder was of little use during the closing part of the past season and I can't tell what shape he'll be in for 1925. Hank Gowdy stood up nobly this year under the heavy work but you know Hank can't go on forever."

McGraw would not say whether he intends to displace Heinie Groh with Lindstrom at third base regularly as a result of the 19-year-old schoolboy's sensational playing the past part of the season. The condition of Groh's injured knee will be a factor, of course, in his decision, but baseball men generally predict that Lindstrom has demonstrated he has unusual natural ability.

As it played through the world's series, McGraw's infield is one of the youngest combinations that ever participated in the championship. Lindstrom will not be 19 and Tarvis Jackson, shortstop, will not be 21 until November. Frisch, captain and keystone sack guardian, has just passed his 26th birthday anniversary and Bill Terry, who replaced George Kelly most of the time at first base, is only 24.

Pittsburgh, McGraw figures, will be the Giants' principal rival in 1925, for the Pirates have also acquired an unusual array of promising young material, notably Cuyler and Moore, outfield, Wright, star shortstop, and Kremer and Yde, pitchers.

DARTMOUTH WILL HURL STRONG TEAM AT YALE

New Haven, Oct. 14.—The Dartmouth football squad will leave Hanover, N. H., Thursday night for New Haven, arriving here in a special train Friday morning. The delegation, one of the largest ever brought here by a visiting college, will be taken to a hotel in Derby, the headquarters of the visitors until after the game with Yale Saturday.

Coach Jess Hawley is bringing 43 players to New Haven, almost four full elevens. The eleven regulars who will face Yale at the kick-off are: Left end, G. C. Tully; left tackle, A. V. Goldstein; left guard, C. H. Diehl; center, E. H. Whittaker; right guard, A. C. Smith; right tackle, N. K. Parker; right end, Captain H. B. Bjorkman; quarterback, E. B. Dooley left halfback, K. B. Hall; right halfback, A. J. Oberlander; fullback, L. G. Leavitt.

The Dartmouth club of New York, has engaged a block of 1200 seats and will come to New Haven, Saturday morning in a special train. The New England Dartmouth club, with headquarters in Boston, is also coming several hundred strong.

The Yale varsity had a hard scrimmage with the scrubs this afternoon and scored two touchdowns.

CHAPMAN TECH TO PLAY KILLINGLY HIGH SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 14.—Just what chance Chapman Tech has in its quest for Eastern Connecticut honors, will be decided when Westerly comes here for a game with the Red and Black in two weeks. Thus far a clean slate in the league standing has been Tech's, but will Westerly prove the stumbling block on two weeks hence seems to have Tech students more interested than the coming game with Killingly High at Killingly this Saturday. In fact the consideration is not being given the coming contest with Killingly as it should. And Killingly may give the Red and Black their first defeat this team will receive at the hands of a high school team of the present season.

The strength of the up staters is unknown, and that does in a way mean that the Killingly outfit has not engaged in many contests this year. But judging purely from the spectator's point of view, and prognosticating the outcome of this game, Chapman Tech with three games already played would easily be considered the best of the two. Tech showed up exceptionally well with a green backfield in the recent contest with Norwich Free Academy and with the returning of Kannenberg back to the fold, and a possibility that Courbois may also be on hand for this game, the Red and Black have no fear of the consequences. For they are confident that they will be able to hold their own with any team in this section of the state with the regular team entered in the fray.

Chapman Tech demonstrated several things in its last game, and those were the ability to put the ball over the final chalk mark. This is one requisite which ever yteam to be successful must possess, and while it was only one outstanding feature, it was the best. The Tech forwards are beginning to show real good line play, and in time may come up to what is required of them to have their team in the game contnually.

Chapman Tech's goal lies in winning the eastern Connecticut championship and little attention is paid the games which are scheduled outside of the regularly scheduled games in this league. But that does not mean that Tech does not care to come out the winner in its games outside of the league contests, but it simply would indicate that more effort and time is put in preparation for league contests.

MOOSUP WILL PLAY WEBSTER TEAM SUNDAY

Henry Loughran, manager of the Moosup town team has booked one more game before callin off baseball activities for the season. This game will be with the fast St. Joseph's team of Webster, Mass., and will be played next Sunday at the Carpet grounds in Moosup. The Webster team is a strong combination of well known ball players and on last Sunday they easily trimmed the Purple Collegians 11 to 3, the Collegians being mostly Holy Cross college players.

The St. Joseph's team lines up the following men: "Shorty" Faulkner, ss; F. Lonergan, 2b; Couillard, 1b; Daoust, 3b; J. Longeran, cf; Dwyer, rf; Douglass, lf; Ashworth, c; Fagan, p. Faulkner played with the Kacey team here two years ago. Couillard is not Artie Couillard but an equally good player from Pawtucket. Daoust also appeared on the local diamond last season with the Kaceys. Douglas will be remembered as getting a tryout with the Giants this year. Fagan and Ashworth were with the Boston Twilight league during the past season and were rated as one of the best batteries.

Loughran's lineup will be the same as last Sunday when his ball tossers completely smothered the Willimantic Threadmakers for a $200 purse.

Yantic Beats Colchester

The Yantic baseball team defeated Colchester 19-5 Sunday afternoon at the Norwich fair grounds. Yantic defeated Colchester in a series of 3 out of 5 games but Colchester, not satisfied with the series, posted a side bet for an additional game in which Yantic defeated them making it 3 games in a row or 4 out of 6 games. Lamphere had Colchester in check at all stages of the game. Bucko, second base for Yantic, made 5 hits, 4 runs, in 6 times at bat. The game was featured with four home runs, Yantic 3 and Colchester 1. Lamphere allowed but six hits and O'Neil 30 hits, due to bad fielding.

Yantic still has two more dates and would like to hear from Riverview, Baltic, West Ends of Willimantic or South Windham. The score:

Quebec, Oct. 14.—The Chicago White Sox defeated the New York Giants 10 to 8 in an exhibition game here today.

The two teams will meet again tomorrow in their last game before sailing for Europe.

BULKELEY PLUGGING HARD TO BEAT NAUGATUCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 14.—All the enthusiasm which followed the Bulkeley football victory over the much heavier and highly touted Springfield Technical High school eleven on Friday afternoon, is justified the Bulkeley team members and their most intimate followers. The 20 to 0 victory that Bulkeley scored, was really the difference between the two teams. Bulkeley was the aggressor throughout and took the Massachusetts eleven completely off its feet to score the victory which ultimately made scores even in athletic games played between these teams to date. Now with this important intersectional game under the winning column, the entire efforts and diligent work will be extended by Coach Canty to prepare the potent Bulkeley eleven to cope with the play which will be used by the excellently coached Naugatuck High school eleven, which will invade the Whaling city on Saturday.

Bulkeley's football escutcheon which is unbesmirched to date, will give the Bulkeley team an incentive to keep the same immaculate. The game with Naugatuck High and with the remaining schools on the Bulkeley schedule for that matter, are anything but what anyone would term setups. Having been tested with a high school team last Saturday in this state, for Bulkeley has already engaged teams from three states, the Orange and Black are expected to provide the thrill for the present race for top honors in high school circles in this state. Ansonia High, last years high school champions of the state found the Orange and Black anything but to their liking and they were lucky to escape being scored on.

The next two home games, which will have a definite bearing on the locals' chances for the pinnacle position in the state standing, will find two teams of unusually high calibre opposing the Orange and Black. Considering the many handicaps the Bulkeley mentor, W. R. Canty has to overcome, he is making more than a success of his first year at Bulkeley.

The team had a two day lay off and deserved this short vacation and this afternoon for the first time thoughts for the next game with Naugatuck High have entered their care-free minds. It is a big problem to defeat Naugatuck, and Coach Canty is well aware of that fact. Consequently the drive to round the players into their dynamic play of Friday has started this afternoon. But disregarding for the afternoon any way, to point out the defects of Friday's play, the Orange and Black coach spent considerable time with the second team. A number of new formations, ostensibly brought here from Naugatuck's home territory Saturday were given the seconds to practice upon the first team. But if these formations were from Naugatuck and if that team expects to use them against Bulkeley, "Naugy" will be in a predicament, for the plays were not ground producers, failing to make any headway against the strong Bulkeley first team defense.

Surprises were in order all afternoon during practice, and one was the shifting of Collins from the second team berth of quarterback to fullback on the first team. The fullback position which will be left vacant probably all season due to the broken leg injury to Barry, regular fullback, was expected to be filled by Smith a 150 back. Whether Coach Canty expects a punting duel or not Saturday, he apparently intends to have Rice do considerable kicking and this afternoon more than half of the afternoon was devoted to punting. The scrimmage produced the expected results, and the varsity ran rough shod over the "Jayvees" to the extent of three touchdowns in less than ten minutes of actual scrimmage. The overhead game was given more consideration and this kind of football warfare will from outward appearances be used quite frequently throughout the game with "Naugy."

All stands in readiness now for another big Bulkeley day and the attendance was down to what Bulkeley officials call a minimum on Friday due to the World's series, is expected to reach a new record for attendance. Reservations for a crowd of 6,000 people is being made, for the game is expected to draw people from all the outlying towns. It will be an epoch making event in local athletic endeavor indeed, and should a Bulkeley victory result it would make matters more complete.

NOVEL GOLF TOURNEY PLANNED BY U. S. G. A.

New York, Oct. 14.—A novel golf tournament intended primarily to arouse interest in the betterment of golf courses through the work of the green section of the United States golf association, was announced today by W. D. Vanderpool, president of the association.

The tournament will take place on October 25. It will be an 18 hole affair, the winner being the player who, on that day playing his home club handicap makes the best score against par. Every club in the United States and Canada may participate without interferring with local events or regular week end games.

Many clubs are arranging to offer prizes to their local winners and the U. S. G. A. will give a prize to the National winner. In the case of tie scores, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

Golfers who may be playing at another club on the day of the tournament will use their home club handicap against par on the course played.

MARYLAND CLUB PLANS FOURTH INTERNATIONAL RACE

New York, Ont. 14.—The Maryland Jockey club is attempting to arrange a fourth international special race at Laurel on November 1 in which Epinard, Sarazen, Wise Counsellor and Mad Play would meet, Pierre Wertheimer, owner of Epinard said today.

The purse and distance have not been decided upon and the attitude of the owners of the other colts was not known to Mr. Wertheimer, who said, however, that h would enter Epinard in the race if it were run.

Wertheimer will sail for France Saturday, and will probably be accompanied by Everett Haynes, American jockey who has had the mount on the French colt in all of his important starts. Haynes will ride other Wertheimer horses on European tracks and Epinard will have another jockey up in the fourth International race, if it is run, Mr. Wertheimer said.

Rovers Take Notice

The Nutmegs having already challenged you once for a game to be played in the Falls, Sunday, now renew that challenge. It is expected that if the Rovers are not afraid they will accept the challenge and answer through this paper. The Nutmegs would like to hear from the Speedboys manager who can write to Manager of Nutmegs, 143 Water street.

Golf Stars at New Haven

New Haven, Oct. 14.—Glenna Collett, Marion Hollins, Jess Sweetser and Dexter Cummings, will meet in a mixed foursome at the Racebrook Country club October 24. The proceeds will be given to a local charity.

Running away with it!

WHEN the "favorite" really hits his stride, it's all over but the shouting. And in a race for sales it's the same story.

Months ago, Chesterfield hit its stride. And it has set a record-breaking pace ever since—gaining more and more smokers every day.

Chesterfield has won its present position because men know by its taste that here is clean-cut superiority of tobaccos and blend.

MANCHESTER WINS OPENING GAME ON HOME FIELD

Mayor Robert V. Treat with a healthy kick sent the Manchester soccer team off on the warpath Sunday afternoon in the first game at the McKee street stadium, with the result that the locals swamped the fast Ansonia state champions by the score of 4 to 1.

The mayor's kick was not one of the mere perfunctory affairs usually gone through by public officials. It was more on the plan of a punt or a kick-off in a collegiate football game, and the fact that it was a healthy boot may have had something to do with the showing Manchester put up.

Since Noah wore short pants Manchester has not beaten Ansonia so badly and there is hardly a team in the state that can so lay claim to having scored four goals against the holders of the state league pennant. But with a well balanced team that fought every inch of the way, the locals hung the can on the down-staters in the most approved manner.

It was undoubtedly the best game seen at the stadium and it is noticeable that the best crowd of the season was present to give the team a sendoff on its new playing field. The spectators who attended were given the worth of their money from start to finish for the game was crammed full of action all the way through.

Ansonia was unlucky Sunday unlucky in that it found Manchester at its best. Manchester took advantage of the fact that its team was in top form and played every opening that presented itself. There was not a weak spot in the Manchester team.

Billy Hewitt opened the scoring in the first half and came through some time later with another goal. He was followed by Sammy Little with the third tally and this was the end of scoring for the period. In the second half Howard of Ansonia found the net for a score and before the game ended Dowall of Manchester, after a brilliant run from the center of the field, deposited the ball squirely between the uprights.

The lineup.

CHILHOWEE BREAKS AMERICAN RECORD AT LATONIA

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 14.—Chilhowee, from the stables of Galleher Brothers, made turf history at Latonia today when he ran one and one-eighth miles in 1.48 4-5, the fastest time for the distance ever recorded in this country.

The Dullot-Bourbon Lass colt, running in the feature event against four other horses ran the first six furlongs in 1.11 3-5 which was one second slower than he ran it last Saturday in setting the killing pace in the third international special. He covered the mile in 1.36 2-5. After finishing the mile and an eighth Chilhowee was worked an extra three-eighths, completing the mile and a half in the remarkable time of 2.27 3-5.

HARMON AND MARTONE ARE MATCHED FOR OCT. 29

New York, Oct. 14.—Willie Harmon of New York and Harry Martone, Jersey City welterweight will meet in a 10-round semi-final to the Mickey Walker-Jock Malone battle at Newark Oct. 29. The National sportsman club announced tonight.

It was also announced that representatives of the National Sportsman club would meet tomorrow with Paddy Mullins, manager of Mike McTigue, to talk over a match between the light-heavyweight champion and Paul Berlenbach. The bout had been arranged for Madison Square Garden but was cancelled when the New York state boxing commission ordered McTigue to give Gene Tunney the first shot at his title.

TAFTVILLE VILLAGE LEAGUE WILL OPEN THIS EVENING

At the Olympic Alleys in Taftville the Village league will get underway this evening. Eight teams are entered in the league and a winter of great sport is expected as there is strong competition between the teams. The league is in its fourth year but this year there are several new teams and even more interest than before. The teams that are in the league are: Tierney's Stars, Olympics, Cotton Pickers, Lisbon, Army and Navy Club, Ponemah Wheel Club, Fancy Corners and the Indian Wizards.

PRINCETON SQUAD HAS LONG WORKOUT

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 14.—Dusk had settled over University field today before Coach "Bill" Roper of the Princeton football team gave the word that sent members of the squad to the showers.

For several hours, the Orange and Black varsity lineup was shifted back and forth and the staff of coaches promised that it will be a different team that faces Navy eleven in Palmer Stadium Saturday from the one which fought a no-verdict battle with Lehigh last week.

STUDENTS PROTEST AGAINST TREATMENT OF FOOTBALL STAR

Spartansburg, S. C., Oct. 14.—The entire student body of Clemson college has walked out in protest against food conditions and alleged unfair treatment of Hollohan, football player, who is said to have recently been suspended, according to information given to the Spartansburg, Herald, today by students over long distance telephone.

The majority of the boys were leaving for their homes tonight, the students said.

Yalen's All Stars Win

Yalens' All Stars defeated the Young Judeans on Tuesday afternoon 20 to 0 Yalen, Secter, Volowicz and Handleman featured for the All Stars while Hurtz and Shereshevsky were the stars for the Judeans.

SPORTING NOTES

The West point gridders are happy over the fact that they were able to dedicate their new stadium with a victory.

Princeton's 40 to 6 victory over Amherst has doubtless made the Yale and Harvard footballers sit up and take notice.

Leading manufacturers estimate the close to 2,000,000 golf clubs will be manufactured in the United States this year.

Copper Tubing

Copper tubing of small diameter can be readily bent into short curves by melting resin and pouring it into the tube, which can then be bent like a piece of solid copper without fear of breaking. After the desired bend has been obtained, the resin can be run out by heating the tube.

Instinct Failed Them

Forty wood mice, eight young grouse, and an owl were found fast on a roadbed in British Columbia one morning by workmen repairing the roadway. The wild creatures had been trapped in the oiled surface which the sun had warmed to a consistency of thick molasses.

Deer Apt Students

The deer in Glacier National park learn quickly. They are under protection, and the bureau of national parks reports that the youngest as well as the oldest and wildest are quick to understand the immunity given by the government.

Well known to the older Norwich and Westerly visitors to Watch Hill, Horatio Saunders, 87, who for many years was a peanut vendor in Westerl yand at Watch Hill, died Sunday at the Stonington Home in the Road district, where he had lived for the past seven years.

For several years Mr. Saunders sold peanuts and candy from a basket along Bay street at Watch Hill. At that time there were but few stores at the Hill where peanuts could be purchased and he did a flourishing business, selling to the many excursionists who came on the steamer Block Island and the steamer Zilia which ran from Norwich.

W. Lester O'Brien, for the past four years superintendent of the Shore Line Street Railway company with his family will leave today (Wednesday) for Rochester, N. Y., where he has an executive position with the Rochester, Lockport and Buffalo Railroad corporation.

The departure of the family is widely regretted. Supt. O'Brien is a man of splendid character and attainments, the type of citizen who is a big asset in any community. Former business associates, his parish, the K. of C., and the townspeople in general will hope for his success in Rochester and will feel that whatever honors he achieves they will be merited.

THE NEW OCTOBER GARMENTS ARE HERE

Irene Castle's Corticelli Coats and Frocks

IRENE CASTLE CORTICELLI FASHIONS
The RAVISSANTE Model

A refreshingly smart frock of Corticelli Satin Sa-On, giving the effect of a suit in front. The gorgette collar and cuffs are edged with braid. The new wide belt is used, the waistline being low.

IRENE CASTLE CORTICELLI FASHIONS
The CONDE Model

An exotic, romantic vision is this lace dinner or evening dress. The ruffle of pleated net gives an alluring Spanish air. Rhinestones mark the point of juncture between ruffle and lace. The large applique rose breathes of old Madrid. The foundation is of Corticelli Satin Eldora.

IRENE CASTLE CORTICELLI FASHIONS
The FRANCINE Model

Paris decrees tunics, and this interpretation, while following the decree, is something quite different. Black Corticelli Satin Tremaine is the material. The collar and vest effect outlined with French rhinestone buttons is quite new.

IRENE CASTLE CORTICELLI FASHIONS
The FONT ROMEU Model

A new coat in the fashionable tunic effect. Made of Kashmere material with a small collar and new puffed sleeves. Richly trimmed with dyed Russian squirrel and lined with Corticelli Crepe Eldora.

IRENE CASTLE CORTICELLI FASHIONS
The CONFETTI Model

The straight lines and simplicity of this lovely creation are the ideal foundation for the rich embroidery of the tunic-like waist. The material is Corticelli Satin Tremaine, the colors, black and henna.

IRENE CASTLE CORTICELLI FASHIONS
The CONCHITA Model

The flared effect is conservatively treated in this coat of rich suede fabric, trimmed with baby lynx, and lined with Corticelli Crepe Eldora. The smart wrap-around one button effect is enticing.

The Irene Castle-Corticelli Fashions for October are here—Charming new Frocks and Coats for Fall, several of which are illustrated here. What a wealth of designing genius and artistic importation are revealed in the costumes just received from New York.

To the almost uncanny creative genius of Irene Castle herself has been added all that the finest workmanship and materials can add.

We are sure you will enjoy looking over the new costumes. It will be a pleasure to show them to you.

Do You Know Any Other Automobile That Has All of These 18 Features?

We Will Tell You Now That You Do Not—For while one is to be found in one car, one or two in another, all are to be had only in a Rickenbacker "Vertical-8-Superfine"

VERTICAL "8" MOTOR; Dual Ignition System; Dual Carburetion System—Aeroplane Type; Fixed (non adjustable) jets; Dual Intake Manifold; Dual Gasoline Feed; Dual Exhaust Manifold and Dual Muffler; Dual-Reduction Starter; Dual Fly Wheel ("Tandem"); Fuel and Oil Rectifier; Ball Bearing Steering with 13 to 1 ratio—for easy steering with Balloon Tires; Double Depth Frame; Cradle Springs; Dual Car Lock—doubly safe; Hartford Shock Absorbers front and rear; Adjustable Wrist-pin Bearings; Steel Disc (Tuarc) Wheels; 4-Wheel Brakes of the internal, expanding—purely mechanical—type.

SPACE FORBIDS even a brief description of the principles and functions of each of these eighteen features.

BUT IF your curiosity is aroused by this ad, we hope for a chance to prove to you that you cannot now afford to overlook any one of these features in your selection of a car.

"VERTICAL 8" MOTOR!—Observe, this is not a "Straight 8," an "Eight-In-Line," a "Twin Four" nor a "Double Four," and of course it isn't a "V-Eight."

THIS IS IN EFFECT a "four" and a split "four." In the other types, they are arranged as two fours or the entire eight in one plane.

"WHAT DIFFERENCE does it make?" you ask. Just the difference between a poorly balanced and a perfectly balanced, motor.

NATURALLY, SOME RIVALS will try to argue that these features are not vital—but remember they said that about 4-Wheel Brakes, a year ago. And now they are putting them on!

WELL—MARK THIS! They will all have these "Dual" features as soon as they can get round to it—for without them they cannot make a car that will measure up with this Rickenbacker.

THE AMAZING DISCOVERY that "two are better than one," was made by Rickenbacker engineers—and applied to this car.

BY USING "DUAL," instead of single carburetion and ignition, for example, we procure wonderful performance, and simplify everything.

AND THAT AIR CLEANER!—why it is one of the greatest things ever invented. Been proven so, by the U. S. Bureau of Standards, and other scientific bodies.

THIS Rickenbacker Air Cleaner takes all solid particles out of the air, thus greatly lengthening life of the motor. Your next car must have an air cleaner.

NOW CONSIDER that other invention—the Fuel and Oil Rectifier—which prevents crankcase dilution—and makes possible such wonderful economy of oil and gasoline.

AND FINALLY—4-WHEEL BRAKES But we need say no more on that subject—it is now settled. It's unanimous. All cars must have 4-Wheel Brakes—to be safe in present day traffic.

SO NOW IT IS only a question of what kind of 4-Wheel Brakes.

YOU DON'T WANT brakes that grab—for those are the only kind that can "lock."

YOU DON'T WANT brakes that interfere with your steering.

SO YOU DO WANT internal expanding brakes. These do not grab—cannot lock—and do not affect steering in the slightest.

DRIVE THIS CAR yourself—that is the best test—our best salesman.

DO IT TODAY—phone now—and a demonstrator will be at your door.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Regarded, by virtue of its originality and magnitude, as even a better entertainment than the author's well remembered Scaramouche, Rafael Sabatini's The Sea Hawk, as picturized by Frank Lloyd and released as a First National picture, comes to local playgoers Sunday on the screen of the Palace theater.

Resplendent in rich dramatic value and requiring many and massive backgrounds for its many big sequences The Sea Hawk, as transferred to the screen by Mr. Lloyd, is not only one of the outstanding cinema achievements of the past year but one of the singular triumphs of screen history.

At sea the pirate ship on which Oliver is held prisoner as attacked by a Spanish marauder and Oliver becomes a galley slave for several years. When a Moorish galleass attacks the Spaniard Oliver frees himself from his chains, helps the Moors to conquer the ship and is made a commander by the basha. Later, hearing that Rosamund is about to marry Lionel, Oliver goes to England and, aided by his corsairs, takes Lionel and Rosamund from the altar and returns to Algiers with them, bent on making Lionel suffer for his intrigue and convincing Rosamund of his own innocence. In Algiers, however, the fair haired Rosamund) attracts the attention of the basha and some highly interesting encounters between the forces of Oliver and the basha are said to develop.

Palace Theatre

Most romantic stories end with a wedding. Christine of the Hungry Heart, the new Thomas H. Ince picture made for First National, which comes to the Palace tomorrow begins with the wedding of the heroine, Christine, at that.

It is a fascinating story, superbly told, with a fine cast including Miss Florence Vidor, William Baxter, Ian Keith, Clive Brook, the English actor, and Walter Hiers, the rotund comedian. It was directed by George Archainbaud, and adapted from the Kathleen Norris novel of the same name by Bradley King.

Added attractions, New Telephone Girl story, No. 11, Faster Foster, Pathe News and Sport Light.

Palace Theater

Mary Roberts Rhinehart, noted authoress and playwright, wrote the story from which The Silent Watcher, now at the Palace theater, was adapted. The story, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, was entitled The Altar on the Hill.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

There are several reasons why The Enemy Sex which is coming to the Broadway theater, beginning tomorrow is awaited with more than ordinary interest. First of all, it was produced for Paramount by James Cruze who, you recall, directed The Covered Wagon. This fact in itself is a guarantee of its worth from a directorial standpoint. Secondly, the cast headed by irresistible Betty Compson, is nothing short of all-star since it includes such well known favorites as Percy Marmont, Huntly Gordon, Kathlyn Williams, Sheldon Lewis and De Witt Jennings.

Interest in this picture is further heightened by reason of the fact that James Cruze and Betty Compson are head over heels in love with each other, and are to be married shortly. It is safe to assume that both redoubled their efforts to make The Enemy Sex notable. Bearing all this in mind we are willing to wager that this latest James Cruze production will be one of the exceptional photoplays of the coming season.

Feet of Clay, the latest production for Paramount by the man who made The Ten Commandments, will be shown for the first time in Norwich at the Broadway theater next Sunday. The story is one of New York and California and features Rod La Rocque, Vera Reynolds, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Robert Edeson in the principal roles. It is an adaptation by Beuah Marie Dix and Bertram Millhauser of the sensationally successful magazine story of that name by Margaretta Tuttle.

If you're looking for real screen entertainment and that "something new" in motion pictures, we say don't miss Feet of Clay.

Breed Theater

Broken Barriers, Reginald Barker's new special production for Metro, is to play at the Breed theater for a run of 4 days, beginning on today. This picture, a screen version of Meredith Nicholson's novel, has what appears to be the biggest all star cast of the year; fans will find a continual parade of their favorites across the shadow stage.

James Kirkwood appears as Ward Trenton, estranged from his wife (Winifred Bryson,) who will not allow him a divorce to marry the girl he loves (Norma Shearer.) The story hinges on the efforts of this pair to smash the barricades of convention that stand in the way of their happiness, and shows the effect on a wide number of people of their efforts to change old morals for new.

Mae Busch appears as a girl infatuated with a lively man-about-town played by Adolphe Menjou, who was recently so successful in Chaplin's Woman of Paris and Lubitsch's The Marriage Circle. Robert Frazer, remembered as the hero of Barker's Women Who Give, and who played opposite Pola Negri in Men, is the third member of this secondary triangle in the picture.

A Mack Sennett comedy and the Fox news make up the remainder of the bill.

Connecticut College Concert

Willem Van Hoogstraten, conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, who will appear at the New London state armory with the orchestra next Monday evening, has interesting views on the use of the baton. During the past summer, when Mr. Van Hoogstraten conducted the Philharmonic orchestra at the Lewisohn stadium in New York, he frequently discarded the stick and led the orchestra with his hands. In making this departure, he had the precedent of at least one Philharmonic conductor—Wassily Safonoff, who led the Philharmonic some twenty years ago.

"The baton is a human metronome," says Mr. Van Hoogstraten. "It is used chiefly to indicate the rhythm. Now, with so fine an orchestra as the Philharmonic it is not always necessary to beat out the time. The men know the rhythmic emphasis and it is more important to bring out the details of the score."

"The conductor can use his fingers to great advantage in this. He has, as it were, ten batons, at his disposal, and he may conduct several of his choirs or soloists individually. With his bare hands he is able to mold the music to meet his ideas."

Mr. Van Hoogstraten has not abandoned the baton completely, but frequently he conducts "neat," as one New York reviewer has it. In softer or lyrical passages he is likely to drop the baton and direct with only a few gestures.

"The baton also has a tendency to stiffen the wrist," he adds. "However, the use of it is a matter of taste or convenience. There are no hard and fast rules for conducting, and each conductor must discover for himself the methods which obtain for him the most satisfactory results."

Schwartz Bros. Range Offer

Schwartz Bros., of this city are making a great offer for this season of the year in the line of ranges. To every purchaser of a Barstow-Richmond combination range they are offering to give a ton of coal and $10 for the old range that goes in the bargain. Those who are contemplating buying ranges would find it to their advantage to see the ranges at Schwartz Bros. store.

The landslide which has blocked the Corinth canal for several months has been dredged out to a depth that in July allowed vessels of twelve-foot draft to pass, and two weeks later vessels of fifteen-foot draft. The canal shortens the distance from the Adriatic to Athens (Piraeus) to 144 miles, as compared with 366 miles around the Peloponnesus.

LIGHTING THE LAUNDRY

Neither washing clothes nor ironing them is the easiest kind of work. Even when an electric washing machine and an electric ironing machine are used, the weekly wash day is a busy one.

There are little spots of dirt to be washed away—sometimes we have to look twice to be sure that the clothes are quite clean, there are wrinkles and plaits to be ironed carefully. So we need light that will make it easier for us to see what we are doing: lighting that will let us see at a glance whether the clothes are clean and whether the iron has smoothed out all of the wrinkles.

Many homes have a separate room, sometimes in one corner of the basement, where the washing and ironing are done. In other homes the laundry tubs are found in the kitchen and the same room is used both for cooking and for laundry work.

Where the laundry tubs are put in the kitchen the lighting equipment in Lesson No. 3 will be satisfactory, unless the room is a large one. In this case it may be necessary to add a bracket fixture on the wall behind the tubs, with a 50-watt white bulb or a 75-watt daylight or blue bulb. This bulb should be covered with a deep, open bottom, milk-white glass shade. The daylight or blue glass bulb will make it easier to see scorches.

When the laundry tubs are in a separate room, we need a light close up at the ceiling and over the tubs. It should have a 150-watt clear bulb with a metal reflector like this:

If the room is a large one, we may need two or three of these lights at the ceiling. In most laundry rooms, one over the tubs will give good light. When others are used, put them over the ironing board and over the space that is used for hanging the clothes up to dry indoors.

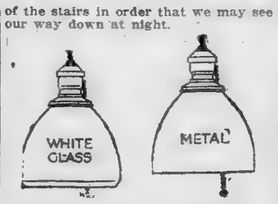
The convenience outlets for the electric appliances should be in the wall not less than 36 inches above the floor, so that the cord with which we connect them will not be on the floor and get wet.

LIGHTING THE BASEMENT

The basement of our homes usually contains the heating equipment and storage space for fuel. At least one light will be needed in front of the furnace or heater. It should have a 50-watt bulb and a metal or glass shade of this shape, long enough to cover the bulbs.

A similar light is needed for the fruit closet, and perhaps for the coal bin.

The stairway to the basement must be lighted by a separate light, unless one of the other lights is very close to it. The light that is used for this purpose should be installed so that it may be turned on and off from the top of the stairs in order that we may see our way down at night.



LIGHTING THE WORKBENCH

Perhaps father or brother has a workbench in the basement where he builds radio sets or takes the smaller parts of the auto to put them in good condition.

This workbench needs two lights over it, one at each end. If only one light is used, the shadows that it will make are very annoying. If two lights are used, each one lights up the shadow made by the other one.

You know when you have a table lamp with only one bulb in it lighted and all of the other lights in the room are turned out, that if you start to make lines with a ruler, the ruler sometimes makes a shadow just where you are trying to put the line. But if you turn on the other lights in the room, this shadow fades out and you can see nicely.

That is why we need two lights at the ceiling over a workbench, and why one of them should be over the center of one end of the bench and one over the other end of the bench and about six inches in front of it.

NEW LONDON MAN OF CLASSIC NAME PENALIZED FOR BEATING WIFE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 14—Juvenal Noble has been so brutal to his wife, according to her story told in the police court today and he has treated her so shamelessly that she refuses to any longer have anything to do with him or even to accept any letters from him. She wishes to cut him out of her recollection and forget that he was ever the object of her affections. Mrs. Noble had her husband arrested and appeared to justify her action when the case was called in the police court. She stepped to the witness chair when her husband said in response to the reading of the complaint that he was not guilty of a breach of the peace, and with tears in her eyes she told the story of his misconduct. She pictured him as an inmate without love for his seven year old daughter and with no desire to support her or the child of which he was the father. Mrs. Noble declared that she preferred to work and be happy rather than to accept any support from her husband and suffer the abuse he heaped upon her.

Noble admitted that he was the owner of an automobile for which he paid $200 giving cash of $110 and notes for the balance. In the next breath he admitted that the money which paid for the machine was deposited in the savings bank and that his wife withdrew it that he might get the car. Then a time came when he sold it and he agreed to give Mrs. Noble half the proceeds of the sale, but he failed to keep his word in this regard. He represented to the court that he laid a "bundle" of money on the table and requested his wife to help herself. She took $50, he said. This was explained when the prosecution brought out the admission that the $50 that Mrs. Noble received was from the sale of the car. Noble now is employed in Hartford, he said, at a salary of $25 a week, and on this he operates a car.

Judge Crandall, who was on the bench today, in imposing a penalty on Noble told him he was a "bad egg." also warned him as to the consequences if he molested his wife in any way. Judge Crandall imposed a fine of $5 and a jail term of 90 days, he suspended the execution of the judgment with the promise of Noble to contribute $3 a week for a period of six months for the support of his child. Judge Crandall told Noble to refrain from writing any letters to his wife and to cease molesting or annoying her in any way, or the probation of today would be revoked and Noble's business would be the county jail.

John Heyden, a sailor, went to the Lyceum theatre to witness a burlesque show and there he took a position in the aisle, which is contrary to the laws of the state, as theatre patrons are not allowed to block exits under any circumstances. The representative of the fire warden, John Lawski, politely requested the sailor to take a seat and notified him that he was an offender against the laws of the city and state, but the sailor was not disposed to take orders of any sort. He resented the request and consequent he landed a blow on the fire warden's nose which caused a flow of blood and started something that was not a pull. There was a hasty gathering and Heyden was on his way to the police station where he could not explain his conduct except in the way of the bulls. He was locked up and today he was fined $15 with the costs of the trial. An officer from the submarine base where Heyden is stationed took charge of him and paid some $20 into the court treasury.

Frank A. Whipple of Walker Hill, Groton, was fined $5 for operating automobile without having the engine muffled. He pleaded guilty when in court and attributed his offense to a boy who was riding with him and who persisted in having the muffler open.

A portion of the staging on the southeast corner of St. Joseph's church on Montauk avenue, erected to permit pointing the stone work, is being removed as the task of placing cement in the joints has been completed. Other sections of the church are now receiving attention.

A girl of 19, residing with her father in the southerly part of the city, was taken into custody this afternoon for theft, but because of her irresponsibility, due to mental affection, she will not be prosecuted. The girl went to a Bank street restaurant, partook of a meal and then watched her opportunity to leave the place without making payment. She then went to a Bank street store and after inspecting some of the stock stole one of the articles that had been displayed on the counter. When she left the place the police were notified and a short time afterward the girl was taken into custody. At the police station it was readily observed that the girl was suffering from mental trouble and she was turned over to the care of Policewoman Jane H. Cassidy, who accompanied the girl to her home, where she will be examined tomorrow to determine whether she will be committed to an institution or allowed her liberty and treated for her trouble at home.

Mrs. Mary A. Bosworth, 90, widow of Henry H. Bosworth, died this morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. A. R. Wilson, 175 Willetts avenue after a brief illness. Her husband was well known and for a score of years followed the water, having been employed on the former Shore Line ferry that transferred trains from New London to Groton before the Thames river bridge was erected, and on Bartlett's Reef Lightship. Mrs. Bosworth is survived by three sons, Joseph and Charles H. Bosworth, Providence, and David Bosworth, Groton. Besides Mrs. Wilson another daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Denison, this city, also survive, as do 19 grandchildren.

Mrs. John Burnett and infant daughter, of Harrison's Landing, Waterford, patients at Home Memorial hospital, returned to their home today.

Mrs. Charles Waters and little son, from Coco Solo, Panama, are at the residence of Mrs. Waters' father, Edward D. Murray on Montauk avenue, where they will remain several weeks.

Steps were taken in the meeting of the city council Monday evening for a shakeup of the police department. This action has been hinted about the streets for several days, and now it has been started in a way that will have results. The proposition was submitted by Councilman Streeter and was accepted by the council with but one objecting voice. That was by Councilor Fox, who declared that he believed the proposal was the result of idle gossip about the streets, and he said, he would oppose the investigation of the police department or any other department unless there was tangible reason for such investigation. Councilor Murray was of the opinion that the city manager had the authority as the head of the police department to order any investigation that he deemed necessary and that he was competent to do that when occasion arose for it.

Councilor Walton declared that the proceeding proposed was entirely in accordance with parliamentary procedure. He had heard the talk that was going about and he had read in the newspapers of things that were discreditable to the police. He wanted the action taken as proposed and the thing sifted to the bottom. He said the city manager had no authority to summon persons and books and papers that were connected with the case. He wanted the gossip mongers to be called up and that they should be made to talk what they claimed to be facts. He favored the action proposed, that the situation might be cleared. He was earnestly in favor of a clearing away of the talk that was heard that the police department might be cleared and a better morale established.

The resolution hinted at infraction of rules and regulations, indeed it contemplates an investigation of the whole situation of the police department. The proposal was accepted and filed and it will be referred to committee for report.

There is talk that the council will eventually bring an experienced man for head of the department and that there will be other changes made as a result of the investigation.

A proposed ordinance for the retirement of any member of the force when he reaches the age of 70 will dispose of Lieutenant Benjamin Beebe, and place him on the retired list. That proposal was introduced at the meeting by Councilor Woodruff. Councilor Whiton introduced a proposed ordinance concerning the employment of a city manager, a director of law and other officials that will shut out all persons who are connected with other business affairs over which they might influence the action of the council in the awarding of contracts, etc.

The action of the council has set the whole police force by the ears and the members are anxious to know where the investigation will end.

The ordinances and resolutions introduced follow:

Whereas: It has been a matter of common rumor in conversation and has been stated in the newspapers that there has been frequent laxity in obedience to orders and rules governing the police department and failure to uniformly enforce law upon all classes of reputed violators, and

Whereas: Section 47 of the charter provides that the council may appoint a committee authorized to inquire into the conduct of any department or office of the city, it is

Resolved: That the mayor be and is hereby instructed to appoint three members of the council, which committee shall have authority to investigate such alleged conditions in the police department. For the purpose of carrying out this investigation the committee so appointed shall have power to employ counsel, stenographers, subpoenas witnesses, administer oaths and compel the production of books and papers, all as provided for in Section 47. Costs incurred shall be charged to administration.

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of New London:

Section 1. Upon the coming into force of this ordinance members of the police force who are more than 70 years of age shall be transferred to the veteran reserve and shall receive compensation at one-half the rate received by them immediately prior to such transfer.

Section 2—No person shall be eligible to serve as member of the police force of the city of New London, except as a member of the veteran reserve, when such person shall be more than 70 years of age. Be it ordained by the Council of the City of New London:

Section 1.—No person shall be appointed or be eligible to serve as city manager, director of law, director of finance or treasurer, who is owner, partner, director or manager of, or profit from any agency or business or corporation or personal service, firm or corporation or from any person doing any business with the city which shall require for its consummation any action by the city council; nor shall any person be so appointed or be eligible to serve as city manager, director of law, director of finance or treasurer, who is an officer or active member of any society or organization which requires or uses for its purpose any apparatus or equipment for the purchase of which appropriation must be authorized by the city council.

Mrs. Margaret Kane Keating died today at the residence of her son, P. J. Kane, 14 Darrow street, death terminating a lingering illness.

Mrs. Frank Smith, of Ashaway, R. I., Mrs. Alfred Johnson and infant daughter, Tenth street, and Mrs. Moses Goulard, Milford, patients at the Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Revenue Cutter Tampa captured another rum-runner late yesterday, when a motor launch manned by Nunzio Benelendo, of Boston, was picked up off Block Island and was brought into port with a cargo of approximately 100 cases of whiskey and alcohol. Benelendo was held for hearing by United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich in bonds of $1500 and being unable to obtain a surety, was remanded to jail. The capture of the craft was the sixth that the Tampa and destroyer Jouett seized during the day off Block Island. Today the launches North Star, Amriald and Aquidneck, captured yesterday, were released upon their owners furnishing a bond of $100 each, for violation of the navigation laws. This morning, Patrick McHugh, owner of the Aquidneck, complained to the police that while his craft was moored at the wharf of the United States Coast Guard academy and while he was in custody, a chief petty officer boarded the boat under pretense of orders to search the craft and that when the officer disappeared there also disappeared a pair of field glasses. Sergeant Nelson Smith was assigned to find some trace of the officer or the glasses.

A fight occurred on Bank street late last night when three sailors from the United States Coast Guard academy attacked a sailor of the crew of the revenue cutter Tampa. The battle ended before the police arrived so that no arrests resulted.

Patrolman Walter Rohn late last night reported at headquarters that the meat market conducted by one Silverberg at Ocean Beach this summer, was in a condition that demanded the attention of the health authorities. The place had been stripped of the greater part of its contents but a quantity of meat and perishable goods had been left there to decay. The foodstuffs had become so far advanced in their state of decay that a nauseating odor issued from the place, which is infested with rats. Today the condition was reported to the health authorities.

DANIEL M. CRONIN NOMINATED AT REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

New London, Oct. 14.—Daniel M. Cronin was nominated for state senator this noon at the republican convention of the 18th senatorial district, at the court house, the nomination being by acclamation. It was believed until today that Howard A. Edgcomb, of Groton, would also be a candidate for the nomination, but at the last minute Mr. Edgcomb decided to withdraw so as to give Mr. Cronin a clear field.

At the convention James G. Hammond presided, with C. P. Lund of Groton, secretary. Mr. Hammond nominated Mr. Cronin and Dr. Allyn of Groton seconded the nomination in behalf of the delegation of that town, which had intended to support the candidacy of Mr. Edgcomb until today. Following the convention the delegates were entertained in the English room of the Hotel Mohican by Mr. Cronin.

Some artists who are wedded to their art evidently married in haste and are repenting at leisure.

GALES FERRY

A large Hallowe'en party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker, in the open on their grounds and garage, Saturday evening. There was an enclosure with a fence of cornstalks and the garage and background were gay with branches of brilliant autumn leaves. Electric lighting artistically arranged gave a pleasing effect. A camp fire, built by Stanley Faford, of the New London Council of Boy Scouts, was a feature of the evening where the frankfurters were roasted. Many grotesque costumes were worn, and Hallowe'en games and sports enjoyed. About sixty five guests were present, including friends of Mr. and Mrs. Parker's from Mystic.

Rev. W. D. Woodward of the M. E. church and C. E. Colver of the M. E. Sunday school, with two teachers of the school, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt and Mrs. Andrew P. Miller attended the County Sunday school convention in the Central Baptist church, Norwich, Friday.

Contributions of home made jellies, preserves and old linen and cotton for the auxiliary of the Backus hospital, Norwich, are to be left with Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, between Oct. 14 and 21 by residents of Gales Ferry and vicinity.

J. Edmund Norman of the firm of Norman and Povey, has returned from a two weeks' vacation, spent with Nelson Parker on a combined business and pleasure motor tour, covering Newark, Terrytown, the Berkshires, Danbury and West Haven.

Miss Mason, will be at the Country club, for a dressmaking class, Oct. 20 and Nov. 13, and all those wishing to join, may leave their names with Mrs. Baxter, Miss Gladys Stratton will instruct in chair caning on the evening of Nov. 7th, at the club house.

Mrs. Latham A. Smith was in Norwich, during the week to spend the day with her cousin, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Allen.

MOHEGAN

Mr. Smith of New London was in this place recently.

Rev. Allen Shay Eyth of Gales Ferry will hold the communion service here Sunday next.

Miss Mable Knight of Boston was the guest of Mrs. John Quidgeon over the week end.

One soap for everything and no more worry

Here is the IVORY family

Laundry IVORY (the big cake for general household use)

IVORY Flakes (tissue-thin flakes ready for instant rich suds)

Bath IVORY (the medium-sized cake that floats in the bath-tub)

THIS is not a new doctrine—in many families it is 45 years old.

But as each new generation takes up its household responsibilities, and makes its experiments with soaps, it must make its own discoveries.

That is why so many young families are constantly discovering the wonderful relief that comes from allowing Ivory to provide for every soap-need.

Why buy one soap for toilet and bath, another for shampooing, another for fine laundry, a fourth for dishes, and a fifth for general laundry, when Ivory will fulfill all these needs?

Ivory passes with highest honors the hardest test of a fine all-purpose soap—

It is safe for your skin
It is safe for fabrics and colors
It makes rich, foamy suds

Yet it costs far less than expensive toilet soaps and very little more than laundry soaps. You save the "little more" very quickly by lengthening the life of your clothes and by protecting your hands.

Has it ever occurred to you that you cannot expect your hands to be soft and white after a day in laundry tub and dishpan with common soaps, even though you spend dollars for special toilet soaps and lotions? Protection for hands begins with the soap that touches them most often—the soap you use for hours, not for a few minutes in the washbowl.

Ivory Soap could be no finer soap if it cost a dollar a cake — but it doesn't. Its small cost enables you to use, for every soap-and-water task, as fine a soap as can be made.

99 44/100% PURE - - - - - IT FLOATS

IVORY Flakes for shampooing

For a wonderful, easy, quick-rinsing shampoo, nothing is finer than Ivory Flakes. Pure, rich suds that remove oil and dust thoroughly, without irritating the scalp, and then rinse out completely, leaving the scalp soothed and the hair light and fluffy.

Here is a fine, simple treatment for your complexion

Wash your face once or twice daily with warm water and Ivory Soap. Rinse in warm water and follow with a dash of cold. Dry thoroughly by patting with a soft towel. If your skin needs it, rub in a little pure cold cream. Guest Ivory, the dainty new cake of Ivory made especially for the face and hands, costs but 5 cents.

SHARP BREAK IN MARKET

New York, Oct. 14—Stock prices broke sharply in today's market despite the overwhelming success attained in the flotation of America's $110,000,000 share of the $200,000,000 German loan, which was approximately four and one half times over-subscribed.

Selling pressure originated with bear traders who took advantage of the widespread disappointment caused by the failure of the market to rally on the success of the German offering and the uneasiness of investigators and speculators over the political situation. So great was the desire of many traders to convert their paper profits into cash that the market was unable to absorb the large volume of offerings except at substantial concessions in quoted values, net losses in the active ranging from 1 to 6 points. Total sales exceeded the million mark for the first time since September 24. The total number of issues dealt in today was 479, or 38 below the record high for all time.

U. S. Steel common opened unchanged at 107 and then slipped steadily to 104 3-4, closing just above that for a net loss of 2 1-8 on the day American Can, which had touched 130 1-4 in the early dealings, broke later to 125 1-2 and then rallied to 124 3-4, off 5. General Electric closed approximately six points lower at 240. Baldwin showed a net loss of 2 7-8 at 116 3-8.

Oil shares showed the best resistance to selling pressure, buying support being forthcoming by the announcement of the Prairie Pipe Line company that it would discontinue pro-rating its crude purchases and would take 100 per cent. production from the wells with which it is connected. Standard Oil of New Jersey and California, Texas company, and Barnsdall "B" were among the relatively few issues to close higher on the day but the net gains were of a fractional nature. Special weakness cropped out, however, in the Pan-American issues, each of which closed about three points lower. Oil shares were helped by the statement of President Beatty of the Texas Company that dividends for the entire year already had been earned, making allowance for inventory adjustments to date.

One of the surprises of the season was the vulnerability of the investment rails to selling pressure, Lackawanna dropping 5 1-2 points to 130 and losses of two to nearly four points taking place in Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson, New York Central, Louisville & Nashville and Reading.

Associated Dry Goods broke more than four points despite the declaration of a dividend of 12 per cent., clearing up all accumulations, on the second preferred stock of Lord & Taylor, a subsidiary.

Other outstanding weak spots were American Water Works, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Goodyear Tire preferred, Mack Trucks, Nash Motors, Sears Roebuck, Punta Alegre Sugar, People's Gas and National Biscuit, all off 3 points or more. Declaration of an extra dividend of $1 on the commonstock of National Biscuit was not announced until after the market had closed.

The heavy demand for funds incidental to increased market operations and the German financing resulted in the call rate being advanced from 2 1-2 to 3 per cent. Firmer tone also was noted in the time money market. Commercial paper raets were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates improved in reflection of the ready sales of the German bonds. Demand sterling ruled about 3-4 cents higher, around $4.49 5-8, and French francs were active around 5 1-4 cents, up about 6 points.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 14—Heavy over-subscription of the $110,000,000 portion of the German Loan offered in the United States today and trading in the bonds at a substantial premium on the New York Stock exchange monopolized interest in today's bond market. Investment houses swept most of their other business aside in working to distribute the issue and aid in establishing the success of the loan.

Active bidding for the German bonds established in initial price of 94 3-8, or 2 3-8 points above the offering figure at the outset of stock exchange trading. Unable to satisfy demands through regular subscriptions, dealers continued to scramble for the issue throughout the day, with blocks of from $50,000 to $200,000 changing hands. The bonds commanded a premium of more than a point most of the day, closing at 93 3-4. Transactions of more than $4,000,000 comprised approximately one fourth the day's total bond sales.

Activity in the new German obligations stimulated trading the foreign list, inducing some switching operations. Prices however held fairly firm, with the Austrian 7s registering decided improvement.

Constructive operations in the domestic list were centered principally in railroad investment liens. Prices generally were mixed, with a noticeable downward trend in the industrial group, Ware Sugar, Oil, Copper and Independent Steel bonds were under pressure.

Offering is being made of a $12,500,000 Detroit Edison Company issue of 5 per cent. bonds at a price of 97 1-2 to yield about 5.18 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 14—Big export business, together with serious crop damage news from Argentine had much to do with bringing about a sharp advance in wheat prices today. On some transactions, the advance amounted to fully five cents a bushel, compared with Saturday's finish. Closing quotations for wheat were unsettled, 2 7-8 to 4 1-4 net higher, December 146 5-8 to 146 7-8 and May 151 3-8 to 151 3-4, with corn 1-4 to 3-4 up, oats showing 1-2 to 3-4 gain and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

Highest prices of the day in the wheat market here were reached right at the opening and were partly in response to upturns which had taken place at Liverpool and Winnipeg during the Columbus holiday in Chicago. Aside, however, from the magnitude of export business, said to aggregate 5,000,000 bushels of wheat and 1,000,000 bushels of rye, the attention of traders was directed mainly to advices telling of drought, frost and unseasonable cold in Argentina, with predictions of smaller Argentine wheat crop than last year.

Scarcity of wheat offerings contrasting with flurried efforts to buy were especially noticeable when today's dealings began and just before the close. Profit taking sales broadened out at other times and tended to hold values down. According to gossip, which was current, talk lately of foreign re-selling was due to difficulty in financing purchases.

It was also asserted that European buyers have been counting on the southern hemisphere for supplies at least equal to last season's quota.

Despite excellent weather to mature the corn crop, advances in the price of corn and oats was said to have taken place.

Provisions averaged lower because of weakness of hog values.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 14—Heavy liquidation of stocks in today's curb market brought about recessions of one to seven points in many popular industrial and public utility shares with even larger breaks in a number of ordinarily inactive specialities.

Oils were mixed. The announcement of the Prairie Pipe Line company that it would discontinue pro-rating its crude purchases resulted in active bidding for Prairie Gas & Oil, which was bid up 7 points to 202. Gulf Oil, Southern Pipe Line and Standard Oil of Ohio preferred each closed a point higher but most of the active oils yielded fractionally.

Suspension of bullish operations in the public utilities resulted in some sensational losses. National Power & Light broke from 163 to 140 and then rallied to 144 for a net loss of 12 1-2 points on the day. Losses of 3 1-2 to 5 points also were recorded by American Light & Traction common, American Power & Light, East Penn Electric Lehigh Power securities and United Light & Power common.

A break of nearly 8 points in United Bakeries Corporation and one of 4¼-4 in Dubilier Radio were the outstanding features of the industrial list. Glen Alden coal was one of the few stocks to show a net gain on the day, moving up about a point.

BOLTON

At the annual town meeting the following officers were elected: Assessors for three years was tied between James Fletcher and Nathan C. Maine; assessors for two years, Frederick D. Finley; board of relief, Paul E. Clement, d; selectmen, Frank H. Strong, d; R. Kneeland Jones, d; Milton Hailing, r; auditors, Ernest F. Strong, Harley B. DeWolf; grand jurors, E. Selma Haley, Julius Strong, Joseph Burns, Nathan C. Maine, Louis D. Eaton, Joseph Haley; collector of taxes, Paul E. Clement; constables, Myron M. Lee, Charles A. Lee, Mrs. J. H. Massey, Samuel Woodward, Clifford Herring, Adolph C. Broll; registrar of voters, F. D. Finley, Mrs. S. R. Woodward; town school committee, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Finley, Wm. R. French.

It was voted to spend $31,000 for care of schools, $4,000 for the care of highways. Caretakers for the highway in the various district are Center district, R. Kneeland Jones; North, Theodore Reichard; south, Frank H. Strong; southwest, Wm. R. French; northwest, Clifford Herring. A special town meeting was held Monday the 13th to vote off the tie between the candidates for assessors.

It was voted by a large majority to rescind the vote of last May to have the state aid highway go from the Manchester town line in camp meeting Woods road through West street to the Hebron town line, and have it start at the point on the state road where the road runs west from the New England hotel to a corner north of J. Wesson Phelps south nearly to Bolton Center then past Victor Morra's to Charles Warner's, through West street to Hebron town line. This new route not only benefits South Bolton people but the Center and North Bolton residents, also. Much of the land on the camp meeting woods road is restricted land being owned by the South Manchester Water Co., and could not be built up.

The school board met Saturday evening and reelected officers as follows: Chairman, Harley B. DeWolf; secretary, Mrs. F. D. Finley; caretakers for the districts, North, H. B. DeWolf; Center, J. W. Phelps; south, F. D. Finley; southwest, W. R. French.

Of a native of Windham a Providence paper says:

Plans for the musical programmes to be given at Rhode Island Teachers' institute on Oct. 30 and 31 have been completed. A change will be made this year, and instead of an orchestra or large chorus performing at the opening meeting, as in previous years, a chorus of 100 children will present an operetta. This will include the selections, "Billy Boy," Simon at the Fair" and "The Alphabet," as a juvenile opera, the music and words of all of which have been written by Dr. Jules Jordan of this city. The singing will be under the direction of Miss Nathalie Southard, with Miss Marion E. Knightly serving as acompanist.

The dancing number will be directed by Miss Eleanor McLeod, instructor in physical education. The children taking part are all from Broad street grammar school and California avenue primary.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

REPUBLICANS NOMINATE FOR REPRESENTATIVES IN LEGISLATURE

George G. Engler and Charles W. Cassidy were selected as candidates for representatives to the state legislature from Norwich by the republican voters of the town in caucus assembled Tuesday evening at the town hall. The caucus was called to order at 8 o'clock by Arthur F. Libby, chairman of the republican town committee and on motion of Webster D. Copp, Albert J. Bailey was chosen as chairman. Josiah Greenstein was named clerk of the caucus.

Following the reading of the call for the caucus Chairman Bailey called for nominations for representatives. Arthur L. Peale named George G. Engler, Mr. Engler is well known to all of us, said Mr. Peale, and I feel sure that if he is elected, and he will be, he will serve as representative with credit. Mr. Engler was unanimously nominated.

Andrew B. Davies then nominated Charles W. Cassidy as the other candidate for representative. Mr. Davis called attention to Mr. Cassidy's experience at the bar, spoke of his war record and said he believed he will make an efficient legislator. Mr. Cassidy's choice was unanimous.

Just before the candidates as justices of the peace were named G. Warren Davis said he would like to ask the candidates a question regarding their platforms but that he would not ask the question if the chair did not wish him to.

The chairman said he didn't think the question was a proper one to put at the caucus.

Mr. Davis said he thought "this would be a good place for them to express themselves."

Henry H. Pettis said the caucus was held for a definite purpose. He said he didn't know just what the candidates' views are. He said they can be approached regarding the matter at any time between now and the election. Mr. Pettis suggested that the meeting proceed with the selection of the candidates for justices of the peace.

Arad R. Manning presented the following names for justices of the peace: Wallace S. Ams, Telley E. Babcock, Albert J. Bailey, John H. Barnes, Charles W. Cassidy, J. Frank Corey, Andrew B. Davies, Frank N. Gardner, John D. Hall, Edwin W. Higgins, Charles S. Holbrook, Arthur F. Libby, Edmund W. Perkins, Henry H. Pettis, Lee Roy Robbins, Charles S. Stewart, and George W. Weller. They were unanimously chosen.

On motion of Webster D. Copp the town committee was empowered to fill any vacancies that might occur on the ticket and the caucus then adjourned, having been in session about fifteen minutes.

Republican caucuses were held Tuesday afternoon or evening for the purpose of nominating representatives, judges of probate and justices of the peace.

SUES FOR DIVORCE FROM SAMUEL E. CARPENTER

Bridgeport, Oct. 14—Katherine LaSalle Carpenter, former star in famous Broadway successes such as "Madam X," "Cornered," "Hit the Trail Holliday" and the "13th Chair," testified against her husband, Samuel E. Carpenter, wealthy Ridgefield resident, in superior court today in a suit for divorce.

Mrs. Carpenter alleges aggravated mental cruelyt. She testified that her husband was "awfully silent" for long periods of time, communicated with her only through notes carried by servants, and was in friendly association with a trained nurse and a cook in their home.

JEWEL THIEF POSED AS A BRITISH NOBLEMAN

Boston, Oct. 14.—A young man, arrested a week ago on a charge of larceny of jewelry from a Boylston street shop, who gave hai name at that time as James F. Herbert, Jr., son of a British nobleman, said in court today that he was Otto Hartman of Chicago, with a guardian, Julia Sisco living at 8657 Oliphant avenue, that city. Police said he had posed as a nobleman at the summer colony at Newport a year ago, victimizing several persons there, and had been a mental patient in a Florida hospital. The court sent him to the psychopathic hospital for observation.

GIVES INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE UPON CURRENT HISTORY

Giving her second lecture in a series upon The World's Current History, Mrs. Morrill Hamlin of Greenwich spoke Monday afternoon at the Slater hall annex upon European Diplomacy, treating the subject in an informative way with special reference to some achievements in the premiership of Ramsay Macdonald in Great Britain and the little entente among the Balkans.

It was a surprise when Macdonald came into power, she said, and it was predicted that he would not last more than a month, but he had lasted nine months. He went in on an imperial issue, the protectorate over Egypt, and he went out on a domestic issue, the commercial treaty with Russia. When Macdonald insisted against the wishes of the French, upon the attendance of the German representatives at the conference for the acceptance of the Dawes report, the Germans came with a very different demeanor than they showed at Versailles. They were not the truculent, arrogant representatives they had been at Versailles.

They had learned their lesson and they came in a contrite mood to accept the terms of the allies for they knew if they did not accept they would return to face a bankrupt people. In accomplishing their attendance, Macdonald led the nations in the greatest step in the last five years towards understanding among the nations.

Speaking of Egypt, which she said was almost as bolshevik as Russia, Mrs. Hamlin said that Macdonald quieted the fears of the other nations when Egypt was given the right to self determination and the Pasha announced that they would proceed to take over the control of the Suez canal and the immense waterworks on the Nile. But Macdonald announced that Great Britain would still keep an army of 15,000 well trained troops in the sedan and exercise its protectorate.

Macdonald met his Waterloo on the commercial treaty with Russia. Time and again Russia had tried to get a treaty with the United States but this has aways been refused to recognize the property rights of nationals. However, the labor element believes that there should be a trade treaty with Russia and that was one of the undertsandings upon which Macdonald was elected, so that he agreed that a Russian delegation should come to London with the understanding that they were not to disseminate bolshevik propaganda. But while the delegation has been there sovietism has seeped through England and when Macdonald promised a loan to Russia he struck a rock that he could not melt. The English bankers said that they would have something better for security than soviet promises, and Macdonald met his Waterloo because of too much freedom of speech on the part of a communist editor who counselled the army and navy not to respond to the call of the government. Although the editor explained that he meant in industrial epochs and not national epochs, the next issue of his paper recalled this retraction.

It is a blow to labor all over the world said Mrs. Hamlin, in Macdonald's defeat, but it is a gain in other ways because Macdonald has brought for the first time a spirit of comeradie of rivalry among the nations of Europe.

She spoke with great admiration of the Czechoslovakian leader, Eduard Benes, who has conceived the idea of what is in effect a United States of Europe, binding the little nations of the Balkans together and aiming to bring in Poland, Austria, and Hungary, to make a little European entente which shall say to the big nations that "you must disarm or we will keep our armies."

She declared that the people should demand that the United States should have official representation at the disarmament conference in London next June. If the people of the nations come together with one purpose as they promise to do next June, it will not have been in vain if after all the peace that Christ meant us to have comes to the earth to stay.

JUDGE NICKERSON RULES DEFENDANT WAS NEGLIGENT

Judge Leonard J. Nickerson, before whom the suit was tried in the superior court, handed down a decision Tuesday for the defendant in the $10,000 suit brought by Henrietta Natzel of this city against Miss Mary P. Huntington of this city and the executor of her estate, John P. Huntington for injuries received in a fall down stairs at the home of Miss Huntington, 214 Broadway, where Miss Natzel was employed as a domestic in 1922.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Nickerson says:

The plaintiff brings this action to recover damages by reason of the negligence of the defendant. The negligence alleged is that the defendant's testatrix failed to provide a light on the stairway in her residence where the plaintiff was employed as a domestic servant. The plaintiff commenced her services with the defendant's testatrix on the morning of the day she was injured. During that day she filled the kerosene lamps about the house. One of such lamps was placed in the bedroom of Miss Huntington and one in the bedroom to be occupied by herself. Both of such rooms were on the second floor. She was shown about the house by Miss Huntington, shown the stairs and told to look out for them. In the early evening she accompanied her employer, Mary P. Huntington, upstairs to the second floor to be there shown about putting screens in the windows. Miss Huntington placed the screens evidently to show the plaintiff how to do the work while the plaintiff stood nearby. There was a lamp lighted in the room where the plaintiff was. The plaintiff testified that Miss Huntington told her to stay where she stood and that she concluded to leave Mrs. Huntington and go downstairs. Such conduct was contrary to the positive directions of Miss Huntington as told by the plaintiff. Instead of remaining where there was a light, as ordered by Miss Huntington, and learn about putting in the screens, the plaintiff left the bedroom and followed along the hall to the stairway. In so doing she disobeyed Miss Huntington's positive orders "to stay right there" in Miss Huntington's bedroom. After crossing the hall she descended to the second step when she in some way fell about halfway down the stairs. The defendants testatrix was not negligent. She could not be expected to follow her servant, who was disobeying her orders, with a light or to hold a light for the plaintiff to descend the stairs. She had performed her duty. She had shown the stairs to the plaintiff and cautioned her regarding them. The defendant's intestate was not obliged to keep a light on the stairway in her private dwelling. No defect is alleged or claimed in connection with the stairs. They were reasonably safe for use. The plaintiff had been shown where the lamps were, one of which was in her room.

The plaintiff was not in the exercise of due care when she started to descend the stairs in the dark after she had been cautioned to look out for them and told to remain in the room of Miss Huntington. She knew there was a lamp in her, the plaintiff's room. She could have procured that and lighted it.

The disobedience by a servant of a rule or direction of the master constitutes contributory negligence as a matter of law so as to defeat a recovery for injury caused by such disobedience.

While the plaintiff was not severely injured, such injuries as she received were the result of her own carelessness. She had been shown about the lamps and had filled and placed them in the different rooms. She could have procured the lamp in her own room and lighted it if she thought the use of a lamp was necessary. It cannot be said that it was the duty of the defendant's intestate to herself procure a light and place it in the hands of the plaintiff who was her servant.

There is another question which should be mentioned in connection with the disposition of the case. Mrs. Huntington died in Sept. 1923. The defendant, John P. Huntington, her executor, was approved by the probate court Oct. 6, 1923. It became the duty of the plaintiff to bring in the defendants executor by scire facias within six months after such appointment.

The plaintiff says she commenced a suit in the nature of scire facias in Dec. 1923. It also appears and it is stated as a fact by the plaintiffs counsel that in Jan. or Feb. 1924 they were informed and knew that the suit so brought was invalid. The present scire facias was not brought until Aug. 1924. In such delay the plaintiff was clearly negligent. There was sufficient time between February and April 9 to have brought a scire facias. By so doing the plaintiff could have complied with the statute. The plaintiff cannot now maintain her action against the defendant as executor

AUTHORESS LEAPED TO DEATH FRO MSECOND STORY WINDOW

New York, Oct. 14—A leap from a second story window of her home today took the life of Mrs. Helen Smith Woodruff, author and playwright, declared by Penrhyn Stanlaw, the artist, to have been one of the most beautiful women ni the world. Lewis B. Woodruff, her husband, is a noted lawyer and scientist.

Mrs. Wodruff, who was born at Selma, Ala., 3 years ago suffered for several years from nervous disorders and for two years of the time was totally blind. She was constantly under a physician's care.

It was while blind that she wrote "The Lady of the Lighthouse" the best seller of 1913, and and gave the royalties to the New York Association for the Blind. Later her "Mr. Doctor-Man" appeared the proceeds went to the city of Birmingham, Ala., for the buiding of children's hospital.

In 1918 one of her plays, "Hurrah for the Girls," was produced in New York and the returns went to the committee for devastated France. "Kitty, Kitty, Kitty" and "By Love's Speedometer" were produced in 1919 and she collaborated in the libretto "Just Because" and produced "Cash and Kisses."

Although she realized that her illness was serious Mrs. Woodruff had always hoped to recover her health. She never gave her relatives and physician any reason to suspect that she contemplated ending her life.

ZR-3 TRAVERSED 5,066 MILES IN 81 HOURS AND 12 MINUTES

Air Cruiser Arrived at Lakehurst at 9:52 A. M. Wednesday—Average Speed For the Whole Distance Was 62.35 Miles Per Hour—Narrative of Great Adventure is Given in Detail by Captain George J. Steele.

Airdrome, Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 15.—(By the A. P.)—The ZR-3 slumbered tonight safely cradled in the Lakehurst airdrome after a memorable flight flight across an ocean.

Her German crew slumbered also and her four American passengers. She, who had set a new record for sustained flight, appeared none the worse for the effort. She swayed crooningly to and fro to the tune of softly creaking tackle. Her luminous sides shimmered under the beams of a moon that penetrated her glass domed hangar.

But the humans whom she had carried so far sheltered beneath her protecting hull—they were red-eyed and weary. They had traversed 5,066 miles under hazardous circumstances, and they had done it in a single continuous flight of 81 hours and 17 minutes.

This was the official record, as computed by Dr. Hugo Eckner, commander of the dirigible and president of the Zeppelin interests, and by Commander J. H. Klein, Jr., of Lakehurst field, who made the trans-oceanic flight.

The ship's log recorded that she left Friedrichshafen, Germany at 6.35 a. m. on Sunday, October 12, the time being one hour each of Greenwich. She touched earth here at 9.52 a. m., eastern standard time today.

Thus the average speed of the ZR-3 for the whole distance was approximately 62.35 miles per hour. The approximate average of the British R-34 during her westward flight of 3200 miles across the Atlantic in 108 hours, made in 1919, was 29.63 miles per hour.

As a further indication of the strides lighter-than-air aeronautics have taken during those five years, the fuel tanks of the ZR-3 were one quarter full when she berthed. They held 7 1-2 tons—enough, according to Lieut. Commander H. Kraus, to have carried her 1,000 knots further, or a goodly part of the distance to the Pacific coast.

Each of the 32 passengers on the ZR-3 had his story to tell when he disembarked within the Lakehurst hangar today. But the most complete of them was the story told by the diary-log of Captain George J. Steele, prospective commander of the dirigible.

He related how on October 10 the ship set for the flight, such crowds packed at the gates of the Friedrichshafen airdrome that he was lost in the mob, how the big bag failed to rise because of atmospheric conditions; how the take-off was postponed for two days.

Given Royal Send Off

"The 12th of October came in a foggy day," Captain Steel's record continued. "When the hangar doors were opened there where was a blue fog outside. But things were better. The ship had been carefully trimmed and the temperature was better; that is, colder. At 6.25 the ground crew started to take the ship out and at 6.35 the engines were started and we were off. There was a great cheer from the crowd; the band played the national air and there was much fluttering of handkerchiefs. But their view of the ship was brief. She at once rose into the fog and disappeared from sight.

"In that manner we passed out of Germany. When the clouds at last permitted a view of the ground, we saw France. We passed some distance from Belfort, Besancon, Manlin and Rochefort. But we made a slight deviation to pass over Cognac.

"At 3.30 we passed over the mouth of the Gironde river to the Bay of Biscay. It had taken us only nine hours to reach the Atlantic, averaging over 60 miles an hour. The ship felt the effect of the complication of currents in the air. In addition we were near the ground—500 to 1,000 feet—and the movement of air across the hills caused additional eddies. The result was a gentle roll and pitching but not uncomfortable. When we reached the sea the bumpy motion ceased.

"At four o'clock, when the watch was relieved the men stretched out comfortably and began to bank up sleep against their night watches. Some of the more energetic ones played a tune on the phonograph, but this met with disfavor. Evening fell over a calm sea with a clear sky, with just enough wind to the west to be a sailor's delight.

"The course was laid for Cape Finisterre. Darkness fell before we neared the Spanish coast. While Dr. Eckner and I were in the dining room, I noticed the ship began to rise. We looked out of the window and there under a full moon lay the mountainous coast of Spain. At 10 o'clock La Estacada light house was sighted and course was laid for the north. During the night the course and speed were checked occasionally and a few magnesium bombs dropped overboard.

Berths Were Comfortable

"When the end of our watch periods came we found the berths very comfortable and enjoyed undisturbed sleep. Each man had a large woolen comforter made by the workers in Friedrichshafen to protect them from the cold passage. The ship is not overcrowded for the builders with bed clothing and linen supplied for the men made of kapok. I hesitated about taking the comforter, on account of the heat, but I am glad I did. With the temperature I was able to sleep in my underwear rather than pajamas.

"The next morning of the 13th we passed, above a British steamer headed for the opposite direction. By radio the ZR-3 inquired the steamer's position and reply was received explaining that we had been drifted some distance southward of our assumed position. Course was accordingly changed and at 11:40 San Miguel island was sighted on the port bow.

"At 1 p. m. we reached the southeastern end of Terceira Island and traversed it from west to east. After leaving Terceira, we were driven to a height of 2,000 feet in order to lift the ship's nose and lose lifting gas to compensate for the loss of weight of fuel consumed.

Rip in One of the Gas Cells

"During this maneuver today, something happened which must be carefully watched during all such maneuvers. Upon returning to flying height, which was at this time about 1,000 feet, a rip about two feet long was discovered in the lower part of one of the gas cells. This was immediately repaired and the result was nothing worse than a small amount of air finding its way into the cell to mix with the hydrogen and reduce its purity. If, however, the hole had been larger, or had not been so soon discovered enough air might have found its way into the cell to form a dangerous mixture of gas and also to reduce the lifting power of the cell. It is therefore standard practice to have men carefully inspect the bottoms of the gas cells—the only part they can see—during each considerable gain or loss of altitude by the airship.

"At a height of 5,000 feet, down to 2,000, we were approaching Pico island, and all we could see of the island was its peak, trangular in outline, projecting above the clouds. From 3.20 we were passing through and over the islands of the Azores.

"Calamity overtook us earlier in the day. The wash water gave out. We have joined the ranks of the unwashed and unshaved. The commissary promises to ration sufficient water for a shave just before landing—if we see land soon enough. He is meanwhile furnishing food, hot meals and we are at least well fed. We are well housed a couple of trips a day through the corridor from the tip of the nose back and down to the depths of the lower fin need not complain of lack of exercise.

Met Adverse Winds

"The night of the 13ths was marked by adverse winds of considerable strength. As soon as weather reports came in next morning, it was decided to head up to the northwest. In the meanwhile a steamer seen on the horizon was asked for her position, and the ZR-3 found herself, according to the steamer, about 120 miles to the northward of her assumed position. Communication was also established with the cruiser Detroit and with all the available data as a guide the course was laid northwest.

"At about half past nine we passed directly above the steamer Robert Dollar. She hoisted her number in flags and ran up the British ensign. The ZR-3 then began to climb and rose to a height of about 8,000 feet. This was to lift the safety valves again. The result was about five per cent. loss of hydrogen from the gas cells, leaving them 80 per cent. full. About half of the fuel supply still remains, enough for 56 hours' running with four of the five engines at 1,250 RPM, which gives about 57 knots.

Trip Above the Clouds

"The trip above the clouds gave temporary relief from the summer temperature we have had. It was 75 degrees in the cabin last night, and continued warm today. Early in the afternoon a fog was encountered and for several hours the ship ran close to the surface of the sea, the better to judge the direction and force of the wind by observing the waves.

"Then she climbed above the fog which was only five or six hundred feet high and ran this until darkness obscured the surroundings. We felt a sympathy for the vessels in that fog; we have been there, in surface ships, ourselves, and this fog extended over 400 miles.

"When I came on watch last midnight, the ZR-3 was skirting the southeast coast of Nova Scotia. It was a cold bright night, decided change from the night before. At 1.10 Seal Island was passed and the ship headed across the Gulf of Maine toward Boston. The position was occasionally checked by bearings from radio compass stations along the shore.

"Cape Cod light was passed abeam at 3.15 a. m., eastern standard time, and soon afterwards the ship was sailing over Boston. It was a sight to swell the bosom of a returning American, and one never to be forgotten. Millions of lights. If one looked closely downwards one could see the buildings, but looking slantwist nothing but lights."

NO GREAT SUPPLY OF HELIUM AT FORT WORTH

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 15.—Helium will not be sent from the Fort Worth plant to supply the ZR-3 at Lakehurst, N. J., it was stated here today by naval officials. It would require 14,000 cylinders to supply the big craft and not much more than that amount is available here for some time to come. The supply on hand will be used by the Shenandoah on its return here.

GREAT ACHIEVEMENT FOR THE ZEPPELIN WORKS

Berlin, Oct. 15.—The Reichsverband Deutschen Industrie, an organization comprising practically all the great German industries, today sent its congratulations to the Friedrichshafen Zeppelin Works upon the safe arrival of the ZR-3 in America. The message stated that the building of the airship was the work of tireless Germans, performed during the "heaviest battle the fatherland has waged for its cultural existence" and that the work did not lag in spite of the fact that the world-famed Zeppelin plant is threatened with extinction.

The successful flight of the ZR-3, the message adds, is a reminder that it is only through work and accomplishment that Germany can emerge from its present situation.

DEPRESSION IN TEXTILE INDUSTRY OVERCOME

New York, Oct. 15.—Improvement in industrial conditions in New England is shown in a survey by the department of labor, emphasizing that the depression in the shoe and textile industries in Massachusetts and Connecticut is being gradually overcome. Mills that were closed have been reopened and are operating on part time. Similar improvement was noted up-state in New York, where manufacturing activities were reported to be expanding. Surplus of semi-skilled and common labor has been reduced.

A Portland (Me.) city official tells of receiving an application for a city job that was artlessly significant. The letter said: "I have been sick for some time and would be glad if you would give me a job until I am fit to work again."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Hostilities in Honduras

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, October 15—General Fregorio Ferrera's rebel army is making a last effort to resist the attacks of the government forces at La Esperanza, and a battle is being fought between that town and Marcala. Ferrera is in command of the rebels and General Tosta is at the head of the government troops.

MUD-SLINGING CAMPAIGN FOR BRITISH ELECTIONS

London, Oct. 15 (By the A. P.)—Former Premier Baldwin opened his campaign for parliament today by addressing a large meeting in Queens Hall, during which he ridiculed what he characterized as the labor government's universal panacea of national ownership and national control to set things aright.

Mr. Baldwin described the labor ministers as "cheap-jacks of politics, always full of enthusiasm but never doing anything." He pictured Premier MacDonald as being overborne and helpless in the hands of the extreme socialist wing of his party and predicted that the labor administration never would accomplish anything until it "killed this old man of the sea"

Mr. Baldwin's speech constituted the general theme of the conservative and liberal speakers in the campaign, while on the speeches of the laborites mostly dwelt upon what they call "the unholy pact" between the liberals and the conservatives to keep labor out of power.

Minister of Health Wheatley, who is regarded as one of the rising men in the labor administration, commenting on the situation today, said he regarded Former Premier Lloyd George's declaration of war on labor as a public announcement that labor could not be purchased. The minister added that politics nowadays was a conflict, not between men but between systems. Competitive capitalism was on trial for its life. He declared former Premier Asquith would need all his oratorial ingenuity to convince his friends that the conservative-liberal pact was not a coalition.

DENIES CHARGES MADE BY SENATOR LAFOLLETTE

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 15—George Kuhns, president of the Bankers Life Insurance Company which owns and operates two broadcasting stations here, today issued a statement denying charges made in St. Louis last night by Senator LaFollette that he had been refused use of the broadcasting station for his speech here tonight.

"The Bankers Life," Mr. Kuhns says, "has not refused to broadcast the speech of Robert M. LaFollette to be delivered here tonight. Application for the courtesy of the broadcasting privilege for Senator LaFollette was made by his Iowa headquarters only a few days ago. All programs for the Bankers Life station are definitely scheduled at least two weeks in advance.

"A speech by ohn W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, was recently broadcast as the result of arrangements made thirty days in advance. More recently it was found impossible to broadcast a speech by Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania because of too short notice from republican campaign headquarters."

CORRESPONDENCE ON PROBE OF ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

Ottowa, Oct. 15.—The reply of the United States government to the note of the government of Canada objecting to the question of the diversion of water at Niagara being made a part of the conference to the engineering board investigating the St. Lawrence waterway project was made public here tonight.

"The government of the United States is quite willing to have the joint board of engineers develop the facts with respect to any phase of the St. Lawrence problem with a view to arriving at an equitable adjustment of the rights and interests of the two countries therein, but it is not convinced that it would be wise to consider the power value of diversions from Lake Michigan without, at the same time, considering the power value of other diversions," states the note.

Canada's reply to this note was sent some days ago but was not made public.

DR. BRANTING TO FORM NEW SWEDISH CABINET

Stockholm, Oct. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Dr. Hjalmar Banting, former premier and leader of the socialist-democratic party, at the request of King Gustav, has undertaken to form a new cabinet to succeed that of Ernest Trygger which resigned yesterday.

Independent Party A Serious Menace

New York, Oct. 15—Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes continued his offensive against the independent party which he characterized as a "dangerous enemy," and appealed for a republican state and national victory to ward off "serious disaster," at a meeting tonight in Carnegie Hall.

Speaking under the auspices of the republican county committee, with Representative Ogden L. Mills presiding, Secretary Hughes declared that the republican party must bear the brunt of the independent attack as "it seems probable that the democratic party in this election will be virtually cut to pieces in the west and will be honeycombed in the east."

He upheld the activities of the Harding-Coolidge administration in detail, defending it against charges made during the campaign by Mr. Davis and Mr. LaFollette.

The address, which was broadcast by radio station in New York and Washington, also took cognizance of criticisms made by John W. Davis, the democratic nominee, of the economic and foreign policies of the Coolidge administration. Secretary Hughes paid tribute to the president as a "strong sagacious man, long tried and trusted, of unimpeachable integrity and with the highest standard of honor, calm and deliberate, but inflexible in well chosen purposes."

He predicted a republican victory "because the people have learned to know and trust Calvin Coolidge."

He opened his address with a plea for support of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for the governorship.

"He knows the government of the state and he knows the federal government," said Secretary Hughes. "He will bring to the executive office not only the highest ideals but an important experience."

The speaker, warning that "it would not take much to destroy our prosperity" said this would happen if the independent party "should really approach success" and that this would result if it could produce a deadlock in the coming election.

Declaring that the LaFollette followers denied that they intended through such a deadlock to make Governor Bryan the next president and asserted their intention of thus electing Wheeler, Secretary Hughes said: "Well, if anything could be worse than to put in Bryan, it would be to put in Wheeler."

Regarding the LaFollette proposal to submit a constitutional amendment giving congress power to override the decisions of the supreme court, the secretary said:

"Could anything be more revolutionary than that."

"A majority in congress could decide upon any system of representation it pleased in order to continue its own power," he said. "The right to be secure in your person, in your life, in your property, the right to a fair trial if you were accused, the right of freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom to worship God according to your own conscience, would be at the mercy of congress."

"What would this congress be," the secretary asked. "You may think it would be like the present one, but if this radical movement professed so far that this program could be carried out, if thriving on confusion and unrest, these initial successes were achieved, you would be likely to have a congress of like mind.

REPORT BY ASS'N OF LIFE INSURANCE PRESIDENTS

New York, Oct. 15.—Records for production of life insurance on paid-for-basis were established for the first nine months of 1924, it was disclosed in a report today by the association of life insurance presidents. Forty five American companies were surveyed in the report.

The total amount of new business, exclusive of revivals, increases and dividend additions, written by these companies during the nine months, amounted to $6,478,085,000 as against $6,073,170,000 for the corresponding period of 1923, and $4,933,747,000 in 1922. The increase in 1923 over 1922 was 23.1 per cent.

With the exception of June, each month of 1924 showed an increased business over the same month in 1923, the report said.

NICARAGUA DENIES NEW REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT

Managua, Nicaragua, Oct. 15.—There is no revolutionary movement in Nicaragua. The country is completely quiet, and it is expected that martial law, which has been in effect for some time, will be lifted at any moment.

A dispatch from San Salvador on Tuesday night said a report had been received there to the effect that General Emiliano Chamorro, who was defeated in the recent presidential elections, was heading a revolt in Nicaragua.

The wood of the mangrove tree, which is found in French Guiana, is said by investigators to be a wood that will not rot. The grain of the wood is so close as practically to exclude all moisture. Its density is placed at 110, as against forty for fir and seventy for oak.

Believe Murderous Bandit is Chapman

Chambersburg, Pa., Oct. 15.—Search for the slayer of Private Francis L. Haley, of the state police, who was killed yesterday on the Lincoln Highway, near here by a lone bandit, believed to have been the bandit who shortly before had held up the Abbottstown state bank, resolved itself tonight into a systematic tramp by squads of state troopers and posses from surrounding countries of the mountainous regions where earlier in the day an abandoned and partly burned automobile was found.

The machine was lodged between two boulders on a lonely mountain road nine miles northwest of here. It was a black touring, sport model with steps along the sides instead of the regulation running board. On the motor meter was the letter "H" done in Old English script. Personal belongings, including a safety razor, also were found, together with several rings, New York license tags 466-007 were found near the car.

The finding of the automobile, which state police said, had been sprinkled with gasoline before being set afire, brought to light evidence which police believe classifies the former occupant. In the ashes of what was once a black handbag were found several bottles equipped with corks and chemists' test tubes, used, it was said, by yeggmen to handle high explosives.

Circumstances, which developments have revealed, tend to strengthen the belief that the bandit was Gerald Chapman, escaped convict, wanted at New Britain, Conn., for shooting a policeman who interrupted him in the act of blowing a safe.

Frank Penn, a battlefield guide at Gettysburg, also was said to have expressed the belief that the driver of the car was Chapman. The driver, Penn said, had stopped at an outlying point on the battlefield Tuesday afternoon and inquired how to get to the Lincoln Highway without passing through Gettysburg.

SCALING ALLOTMENTS OF THE GERMAN LOAN

New York, Oct. 15.—With America's $110,000,000 portion of the $200,000,000 German loan about five times oversubscribed the banking syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan and company which underwrote the issue, was busily engaged today in scaling down the allotments of subscribers.

No fixed allotment will be made, it was announced, but applications will be pared down from 10 to 60 per cent. small investors will be alloted the largest percentage of their subscriptions.

The amount of money handled through the Morgan offices in payment for the German bonds, it was said, was the largest ever received in connection with a bond issue.

SPECIAL POLICE SQUAD IN BOSTON'S CHINATOWN

Boston, Oct. 15—A special squad of police was being kept in constant duty in Boston's Chinatown today to guard against tong warfare and patrolmen were detailed to serve as body guards to leaders of the Chinese colony. Special Chinese police officers were called upon to identify all orientals entering the district and strangers were detained for questioning.

Early this morning, two were held who said that they were members of a ship's crew. The immigration authorities will be asked to rule upon their right to shore leave. Up to date seven arrests have been made for carrying loaded weapons, but in each case the bearers protested the arms were intended only for protection.

PRINCE OF WALES HAVING A GAY TIME IN TORONTO

Toronto, Ont, Oct. 15—Fox hunting and fox trotting, occupied most of the attention of the Prince of Wales today. He arrived here this morning and will leave for Ottawa tomorrow.

Although he was one of several riders who fell from their mounts in a fox hunt, the prince remounted and finished the chase. Afterward he motored to the King Edward Hotel, and entered the lobby almost unnoticed although thousands had lined the streets to welcome him on his arrival earlier in the day.

In the afternoon he attended a dance at the New York club where he danced with many of the city's debutantes.

BORAH TO SEEK RE-ELECTION ON REPUBLICAN TICKET

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Senator William E. Borah, republican, of Idaho, will seek re-election on the republican ticket in Idaho, he stated here tonight.

The senator, when informed that the Idaho supreme court had ruled that his name could appear on one ballot only, said that he had left a statement of declaration of his intentions with his secretary in Boise on October 5th. He declared that he believed the declaration had already been filed or would be filed within a day or two.

Both the progressive and republican parties in his state had nominated Senator Borah for re-election.

DISCOVERY OF A NEW ANAESTHETIC IN GERMANY

Wurzburg, Germany, Oct. 15.—"Narcylen" is the name of a new anaesthetic discovered by Prof. C. J. Gauss of this city and H. Wieland of Koenigsberg. It is a mixture of acetylene gas of the utmost purity mixed with a sufficient quantity of oxygen to enable the patient to breathe. "Narcylen" is said to be free from the detrimental effect on the heart and lungs caused by ether and chloreform and its application is not restricted as to time. During a recent operation, in which "Narcylen" was used, a record of 3 1-2 hours anaesthesia was established.

There are some things we should remember to forget.

MONEY FROM SOVIET RUSSIA TO AID CAUSE OF LAFOLLETTE

Such is the Contention of Thomas V. O'Connor, Chairman of the Shipping Board—Former President of the Longshoremen's Union Asked Audience in Buffalo if Anyone in "Absolute Authority" Would Deny That Money Had Been Sent From Russia Through Mexico — Berates Union Leader Who Have Been Enrolled or Conscripted in the Political Army Led by Robert M. Lafollette.

Buffalo, N. Y. Oct. 5.—Thomas V. O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board and for years head of the longshoremen's union, asked an audience here tonight if any one in "absolute authority" would deny that a large amount of money has been sent from Russia through Mexico to strengthen the cause of Senator LaFollette and Wheeler, the independent national ticket.

"How much money has been sent here by Soviet Russia," he asked.

To win this fight and bring about uncertainity in this country, the same as in their own country?"

Mr. O'Connor spoke at length on the connection of union leaders with the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign and asserted that "members of labor organizations are not going to stand for having their vote delivered by national officers or local representatives."

"Labor," he said, "will never allow its vote to be delivered by that conglomeration of union leaders, socialists and I. W. W's. who have been enrolled or conscripted in the political army led by Robert M. LaFollette."

The speaker who predicted President Coolidge's election charged that Senator LaFollette hoped to throw the contest into congress, where he expected to "name and crown a president and in that way gain for himself a greater power than that possessed by the man who is crowned."

"I am not worried," he continued, "about the political effect of the LaFollette vote in this campaign, but what does worry me and should worry you men of organized labor, is the destructive effect of a large LaFollettee vote upon organized labor. You cannot exaggerate the destructive effect a large LaFollette vote would have upon the present strong position of union labor, a position we have secured after many years of hard patient plodding.

"It took many years for us to become strong enough to obtain agreements with employers, and it took rugged honesty, which is absolutely necessary to carry out these agreements as to wages and working conditions. And yet, we organization men are now being asked to deal with a group which constitutes a small percent of our total number—a group composed of I. W. W's. who believe in sabotage, destruction of property and even the destruction of human lives. To these I add the socialists. The whole outfit comprising a gang of union wreckers."

Quoting Samuel Gompers as having previously opposed socialists within labor unions, the speaker said he was now wondering at the position of Gompers, Frank Morrison, Mark Woll and other American Federation of Labor leaders supporting Senator LaFollette he sounded a "warning" to international officers of labor organizations "that a day of reckoning is coming, because the members of the union who won union funds are going to demand an accounting."

"They will ask," he said, "why a bunch of fake organizers have been placed in the different international payrolls, not for the purpose of organizing members in various locals but for the purpose of boosting the political cause of Robert LaFollette and Burton Wheeler."

STUDYING POLITICAL SITUATION IN IOWA

Washington, Oct. 15.—President Coolidge gave some attention today to the political situation in Iowa, receiving a report on conditions there from Luther Brewer, independent candidate for the senate who withdrew and urged support of the democratic opponent of Senator Brookhart, republican nominee. Mr. Brewer predicted Iowa would give a substantial majority for Coolidge and Dawes in November.

Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, was a guest of the president at dinner tonight. It was presumed that Mr. Smoot who is chairman of the senate finance committee and one of the framers of the present tariff law, discussed the report of the tariff commission proposing a cut in the sugar duty.

This question was discussed today by Mr. Coolidge with Chairman Marvin of the commission who reported that additional data requested by the president on the sugar beet nidustry in this country would not be available for ten or 12 days.

In the afternoon Mr. Coolidge participated in the exercises at the unveiling of the statue to Bishop Francis Asbury of the Methodist Episcopal church, delivering an address.

"GAS BANDIT" AT WORK AGAIN IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Oct. 15—New Haven's lone "gas bandit" was at large again tonight and the proceeds of his evening's work amounted to $35. The victim of the latest raid is Saidel Brothers on Derby, the second Saidel establishment robbed in less than 24 hours.

The bandit arrived when Percy Resmond was alone at the station. Ordering the young man to throw up his hands, the bandit bound the employe's legs with a piece of wire and left him lying on the floor. After taking all of the cash from the register he made his escape. The description of the bandit tallies with that of a man who robbed an A. & P. grocery store when the manager was shot.

KIDNAPPED FROM STREET AND FORCED TO MARRY

Greenwood, S. C., Oct. 15.—A story of having been kidnapped from one of the principal business streets of this city, taken into the country and forced against his will to marry a young woman was told to police here today by G. F. Edge, head of an investment company.

According to Edge's narrative five men participated in the kidnapping, these being joined later by 100 hooded men. One of the latter, he said, performed the marriage ceremony, and then gave him a lecture. Edge announced he would not consider the marriage binding.

N. D. BAKER ADDRESSED YALE DEMOCRATIC CLUB

New Haven, Oct. 15—Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, speaking at Yale university today under the auspices of the Yale democratic club, declared that it was mathematically impossible for LaFollette to be elected president in the south. New England and New York, will not support him at the polls. Any person who votes for LaFollette, the former secretary said, is "dodging the issue" for if the Wisconsin senator was elected he "would not be able to carry out the planks of his platform in that he would not have the support of congress."

C. B. MONTGOMERY HAS NOMINATED HIMSELF

Hartford, Oct. 15—Charles B. Montgomery of Sterling, has filed a petition with the secretary of the state nominating himself as candidate for justice of the peace on an independent ticket. The petition is signed by C. B. Montgomery and twelve others. The opinion was given at the secretary's office that this number of signers would allow the candidacy.

MRS. TELL ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Middletown, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Johanna Tell, who has been on trial in the criminal superior court here charged with manslaughter following the death of Charles Blair by whom she was employed as his housekeeper at a Killingworth, Conn., farm, was a free woman tonight, the jury returning a verdict of not guilty this afternoon.

Following her acquittal, the woman who confessed that she shot Blair in self-defense, carried out her wish that she might "go into oblivion" and refused comment on the case, the trial or the verdict. She remained in the court room a few minutes after the jury had returned its findings and then went to a church nearby where she remained for some time.

Cheers broke out in the court room when the verdict was returned the first time, according to attendants that a finding had ever been applauded in that court. The crowd however, was soon silenced by the sheriff at the behest of the judge.

Attorney Daniel Donohoe, who defended Mrs. Tell, gave out the statement this afternoon after the verdict had been returned:

"From the first time I heard her story and questioned her in regard to the case, I was satisfied she was telling the truth and that everything she did was in absolute necessity. It was one of the cleanest cases of self defense I have seen in my long experience as a legal practitioner." Attorney Donohoe wept when the finding was announced.

DAWES TO BEGIN EASTERN CAMPAIGN IN PHILADELPHIA

Chicago, Oct. 15—Charles G. Dawes republican vice-presidential nominee will begin his campaign swing through the east with a night meeting at Philadelphia on Tuesday, Oct. 21, it was announced at national headquarters today.

Arriving at Pittsburgh the following noon, he will deliver a 20 minute speech there and a rear platform speech in Washington, Penna., in the afternoon with a night meeting at Wheeling, W. Va. On Oct. 23 he is scheduled to deliver a rear platform speech at Lancaster, Pa., and address a night meeting at Wilmington, Del. The next day he will speak at a night meeting at Newark, N. J., and on the night of the 25th at a night meeting at Brooklyn.

On Monday, Oct. 27 the vice presidential candidate will talk from the platform of his train at Albany, Utica, Syracuse and Rochester. Returning the Dawes party will arrive in Chicago October 28.

The eastern speaking dates were arranged after a conference here between Colonel John Q. Tilson, director of the national committee's eastern speakers' bureau. Everett Sanders of Indiana, national director of the speakers' bureau, and General Dawes. Before starting east, Colonel Tilson tonight issued a statement in which he predicted the republican national ticket will win in his territory including the New England states, New York, New Jersey and Delaware and declared that republicans will regain many seats in congress now occupied by democrats.

$10,000 AWARDED FOR DEATH OF BRAKEMAN

New Haven, Oct. 15—One of the largest amounts ever received in the compromise of a death claim without a trial, today was approved in probate court when Judge John L. Gilson directed Attorney Edward W. Lynch, as administrator of the estate of Dwight W. Bennett to accept a settlement of $10,000 in payment of the claim of the estate against the New Haven railroad for injuries received by Bennett resulting in his death.

Bennett was a brakeman on a freight train which had become stalled at Brookfield junction, near Danbury, some months ago. While attempting to help the engineer in repairing the locomotive, Bennett was struck in the forehead by a wheel cap which blew out. He was instantly killed.

At the democratic caucus held in Warren Memorial hall Monday evening, Daniel Avery and Patrick J. Murray were renominated for representatives. The following nominations were made for justices of the peace: Francis J. Fitzpatrick, F. J. Glover, M. D. O'Connell, Joseph Brunell, William H. Bumstead, Henry F. Wise, Michael O'Halloran, Benjamin Phelps, William Taylor, William H. Heald, Charles B. Pinney was chairman of the caucus and John Lee acted as clerk.

The republican caucus held at the same place Tuesday evening made the following nominations:

Representatives, Benjamin P. Cooley, Alexander I. Mitchell; justices of the peace, R. H. Fisk, G. P. Ide, Willis H. Reed, Wm. H. Heald, G. M. Barlow, Charles H. Moore, E. K. Taft, Harry L. Mayo.

James Ferguson of Monson, was fined $200 and costs and sent to jail for 30 days, by Judge Heald in the borough court Tuesday morning for violating the Volstead act. His place of business was a barn in Fox Village, when Officers Hulburt and Hardisty found 22 pint bottles full of moonshine.

State Senator Eugene P. Golden was renominated as candidate from the 13th district, in the republican primary election, Meriden.

Proclaims Himself Czar

Grand Duke Cyril, cousin of the late Czar, who has proclaimed from London that he is "Emperor of all the Russias." He says his main thought now is to rid Russia of the Communists. When he ascends the throne, he will allow religious liberty, though being of the Russian Catholic Church himself.

OCTOBER 16th, 17th, and 18th

ONE CENT SALE

THE plan of the One Cent Sale, which was popularized by the Liggett Drug Stores, is to sell two of any article out of a selected list of desirable merchandise for the price of one, plus one cent. As an example, we sell the well known Peter's Chocolate, half-pound bar regularly in our stores at 35c. During the One Cent Sale you may purchase two bars for 36c. This offers an unusual opportunity for economy, and as the sale comes but twice a year, it will be wise to provide for your future needs.

CHIHLI, THE NEW ENGLAND OF CHINA

Chihli, northern zone of Chinese fighting, is described in the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society:

"Chihli, lies in the New England States of China—a region wherein the provinces of Chihli, Shanai and Shantung bear some striking analogies to our own northeastern states.

"If one disregards Manchuria this likeness extends to contour as well as location. Chihli also has a frozen winter, sudden changes in temperature, numerous mountains and many short rivers.

"A glance at a map will indicate a comparison of the Gulf of Chihli to Cape Cod Bay, with the Shantung peninsula serving as a large scale Cape Cod. Chihli alone covers nearly twice the area of the New England States and its population is more than one-fourth that of the entire United States.

"Industrially Chihli is the Massachusetts of China; Tientsin is an up-river port where factories and shipping and western ways have found a firm foothold. This city sends a large bulk of goods direct to Europe and the United States. Its exports to the United States include feathers, goats' beards, fox tails, licorice, human hair, pig bristles and lanterns.

"Western visitors are apt to interpret the modern aspects of Tientsin as an advance in civilization, but the Chinese of the interior, one must remember, regard these innovations as barbaric. Chihli combines the old and the new in startling fashion. Northwest of new Tientsin is the venerable Peking. There one may board a railroad which has thrown steel rails along an ancient caravan route to dirty, busy Kalgan, where the camels which used to make their tollsome way into Urga, Mongolia, have been superceded, in part by motor trucks.

"This railroad, known as the Peking-Suiyuan line embodies some unusual engineering feats and affords magnificent scenery. It is the rail route to the Great Wall, man's most outstanding marker on the earth's surface, which bisects Chihli.

"From Kalgan to Urga, the capital of inner Mongolia, is no farther than it is from Chicago to Cleveland but it formerly took 40 days for camels or bullock carts to bring hides and wool along this route. The performance of an American scientific expedition which used automobiles in hunting dinousaur eggs proved motor practicability and now autos run on a four day schedule between the cities.

"The first fifteen miles out of Kalgan is the hardest part of the trip, passing through the rocky ravine known as Kalgan Pass. Suddenly the road emerges to the tableland at Hanaba, and thence it heads through farming country for fifty miles and emerges into grazing lands which extend the rest of the way to Urga, except for a narrow stretch of waste gravel. This is an eastern spur of the misnamed Gobi desert. The so-called 'desert' makes better traveling than the Chihli roads where highways have been worn down a hundred feet or more in the deep, loose earth known as loess. After a rain these centuries-worn roads become rivers and tie up the slow moving traffic for days.

"A rain in Chihli which only stops travel is cause for rejoicing. Here floods are frequent and disastrous. It is difficult for the outsider to realize the extent and devastation of the high waters. In 1917 a flood inundated an area three times the size of Connecticut, between Paotingfu and Tientsin. The crop loss was estimated at $100,000,000; and the number of villages wiped out, amazing as the figure may sound, was 80,000.

"The best farming country of Chihli lies in a strip running back about 100 miles from the coast. This eastern plain is densely populated; its soil is amazingly fertile, being the deposit of deltas of the numerous rivers that empty into Chihli Gulf. Grains, cotton, peanuts and fruits are grown and cattle are raised for their meat.

"Chihli launched a fruitful educational campaign twenty years ago. There, some years ago, a 'depot of maps and books' was opened by the government where school supplies are sold below publishers' prices.

"The pedicab is a combination of a jinrikisha and a bicycle. The passenger rides in the two wheel carriage and the coolie makes better time than he did walking.

"Coal is no new idea in Chihli, where it is especially abundant. Marco Polo found that 'all over the Country of Cathay there is a kind of black stone existing in beds in the mountains, which the natives dig out and burn like firewood.'

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Reddish rays of light glorifying the birth of another morning were painting the eastern skies Wednesday when George H. Gallup of Ekonk, at his barn for the morning chores, had his attention called by his hired man to a sight he is not likely to forget in all his years that are to follow.

Floating gracefully in the skies, away to the southeast, was the huge silvery bulk of the ZR-3, German built dirigible, over United States territory after its historic flight from Friedrichshafen and on the final lap of its journey of more than 4,000 miles to Lakehurst, N. J.

Mr. Gallup was spellbound for a moment with surprise and interest as the great airship glided along on its course then hurried to his home to awaken Mrs. Gallup and allow her to share in the sight. For several minutes the ZR-3 was in the range of vision from Ekonk Hill and then faded away into the mists over in the direction on a line with Watch Hill. Mr. Gallup was the only one in any of the territory hereabouts who reported being so fortunate as to see the great dirigible in flight, though other early risers over in the territory where he lives may have seen her.

From friends of farmers who own land over which hunters are tramping these days comes the appeal for more publicity relative to the carelessness of the few who exercise no caution at all against throwing away lighted matches or cigarettes and who damage walls and fences and leave barways open. A fire that burned over territory to the southwest of Danielson Tuesday is charged against careless hunters. The danger of causing other such fires is acute just now, on account of the dry conditions in the woods, where tons of leaves are accumulating. More posting of land is certain to follow recurring damage chargeable to hunters. To the end that this may be prevented, the appeal of hunters who love the great outdoors and the pleasure they find in a day with dog and gun for publicity is freely given.

The Killonian, Killingly High schools publication, is this year being issued as a semi-monthly instead of once each month, as was the rule last year. The current issue is of interest to everyone who has any interest at all in the high school and the things that are being done by the young people who are studying there. This being the case, the readers should be legion in this town.

The Killonian, it may be judged from the latest issue, may be depended upon to review in a thoroughly interesting way, the activities of the school, and to tell, under its various headings, much about individuals connected with the school or now honored by membership in the alumni.

The Killonian board is made up of Miss Marjorie E. Paine, editor in chief, Thelma Kinder, literary editor; Maude V. Cronin, school news editor; girds, Frances E. Tillinghast; athletics, Andreas Havelas; advertising managers, Elizabeth McGorty and Philip Armington.

The Pomfret Coolidge club is to hold a rally Friday evening at Pomfret hall. U. S. Attorney John Buckley of Union and Miss Madeline Freeman of New London will be the speakers. Sharpe's orchestra is to give a concert prior to the rally.

Young people who danced to the music of Paul Suecht's orchestra at the state armory Tuesday evening expressed themselves Wednesday as delighted with the orchestra that played for the Prince of Wales while he was en route to the United States recently on S. S. Berengaria. This orchestra attraction indicates the high class of the orchestras that will be heard during the dance season now opening at the state armory.

At the particular hour of 7 o'clock this (Thursday) evening no cynic, no hardened veteran of fighting in the World war—not even What Price Glory—could convince the youthful members of the Service battery that it isn't a grand thing to be a soldier. At the hour mentioned and for the next forty-five minutes or thereabout the enlisted personnel will be engaged in besieging the paymaster, who will be charged with the pleasant duty of passing out quarterly drill pay, aggregating about $2,000. It will interest the general public to know that the bulk of this money is wisely spent by those who receive it, much of it going for fall clothing.

A new marking system for credits has been inaugurated at Killingly High school. The old plus and minus marks do not figure in the present scheme of things. The grading standard now in use in one under which marks are fixed as follows: A 93-100; B 85-92; C 77-84; D 70-76; F 0-69.

Under this system fewer A's will be distributed. However, a grade of B in all studies will put one on the honor roll.

Killingly High school's football team has another hard game scheduled for Saturday when the Chapman Technical school team of New London will make its appearance on the Quinebaug grounds. The Killingly team has gained some valuable experience in the two games already played and may be looked to for improved form in Saturday's contest.

Tonight (Thursday) brings the opening of the boxing season at the Casino arena. In view of the fact that the contestants in most of the bouts are representative of eastern Connecticut, the interest in the outcome of thm is above normal.

Jeremiah Jarvais, 76, died Tuesday afternoon at his home on the Green Hollow road, several miles south of Danielson, after a long illness. Mr. Jarvais, a native of Canada, lived for many years in Moosup and was there engaged at his trade of machinist.

These are days when many a citizen finds employment for some of the spare time he may have in raking up leaves which have accumulated in quantities in many sections of the borough.

Herbert J. Barnett has returned from Atlantic City, where he attended a showing of trucks and modern motor busses.

The Stafford fair again drew attendance from Danielson Wednesday, those who made the trip from this town going over in motor cars.

Fresh eggs have reached such high price levels of late in this territory that housewives who practice close economy are restricting the use of them.

Steady progress is being made in putting in the 4-inch gas main that is to run from the plant of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company to the Main street plant of the Paco Manufacturing company.

Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips, who have been spending the summer in Massachusetts, are visiting here. They are to spend the winter in the south.

Morton Otis, owner of the Bush Hill property formerly in the estate of the late Adrianna Bush, has increased his holdings by acquiring adjoining property.

Lafayette Blanchard and a party of friends motored to Stafford Springs Wednesday to attend the fair.

PUTNAM

The Perkins-Strongman Corporation, recently incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts, is the concern that has bought and is to operate the stone mill on the west side of the Quinebaug, formerly one of the chain of mills of the Nightingale-Morse Mills Inc. The corporation is empowered under its charter to manufacture and deal in cotton, silk, linen, woolen and worsted goods. The capital stock is $150,000 consisting of 1500 shares of common of $100 par value. The real estate and land are represented by 250 shares and the machinery by 510 shares. The officers are: President, John B. Strongman, South Dartmouth, Mass.; treasurer-clerk, Ralph C. Perkins, South Dartmouth; directors, James W. Allen, John N. Bullard, Julia A. Noyes and Sarah E. Crane. It is understood that the company will begin equipping the mill at once.

A special communication of Quinebaug lodge of Masons was held at Masonic temple, Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of attending the funeral service of George A. Young, 56, at his home on Grove street and to take charge of the burial in the Barlow cemetery, West Woodstock.

Mr. Young was the first member of the lodge raised in the present Masonic temple. He had been a resident of Putnam for the past twenty years. For the past seven months he has been ill and unable to work at his trade of carpenter, his last work being on the New Savings Bank building.

Mr. Young was born Nov. 21, 1867, where he lived during boyhood and young manhood, with the exception of a few years when the family resided in West Thompson.

Twenty-five years ago last June Mr. Young married Miss Mary Kenyon of Woodstock Valley who survives him. He also leaves two brothers, Harry and Austin Young of Southbridge and a sister, Mrs. Frank Brown, of Southbridge. The funeral service at the home was conducted by Rev. N. B. Burton of Putnam M. E. church.

The Putnam evening school can accommodate a few more pupils in carpentry, cooking, textile and drafting departments. There is at present an enrollment of 152, divided as follows: Home economics, 79; electrical department, 19; carpentry department, 9; machine shop, 15; textile department, 20; drafting department, 9.

The month for holding the annual meeting of the Windham County Farmers' association has been changed this year from December to November and it is to be held on the 12th of that month. This is because of weather conditions being more favorable to a larger attendance in November than in the later month.

Having accepted an amended proposition of H. H. McKee, representative of the comptroller of the currency, subject to the comptroller's approval, the citizens' committee in charge of organizing the Citizens National Bank of Putnam are patiently waiting a wire from Washington. One telegram has been received stating that another would follow but the second wire has not arrived.

While in the city Mr. McKee was told of the objections to the first proposition submitted to the committee as viewed by experienced bankers whom the committee had consulted. Mr. McKee then submitted another proposition, subject to approval of the comptroller. This plan was accepted by the committee and when Mr. McKee left, it was with the understanding that the committee would be apprised of the comptroller's attitude early this week.

Adolph and Albina Bernier of Putnam have purchased a two-tenement house and lot, corner of Upland avenue and North Main street, Webster, the price paid being $8,500. Mr. and Mrs. Bernier are to move to Webster and will occupy one of the tenements of their new property.

Twenty-eight cans of fingerling trout were recently received from the state fish and game commission for distribution in the brooks in Woodstock.

George M. Coffin, receiver of the First National Bank, gave an interesting and instructive talk of the federal reserve system before the Putnam Rotary club at its weekly dinner at the Inn, Wednesday.

ALL H. K. H. SILK MILLS CLOSE FOR FUNERAL C. C. KNOWLTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Oct. 15.—All the silk mills of the H. K. H. Silk company in Putnam, Watertown and Haverstraw, N. Y., were closed Wednesday, out of respect for Charles Clark Knowlton, 80, president of the company, who died at his summer home in Ashford, Sunday. The funeral service held in Eastford Wednesday afternoon, was attended by employes in Putnam and other places where the concern has factories nad offices.

Mr. Knowlton lived to see the fine memorial building which he gave his native town finished and dedicated, although on account of illness he was unable to attend the exercises held two weeks ago.

Born in Ashford the family removed to Willimantic for a time so that the son might attend the schools there. He finished his education in Boston and was engaged in the sales department of a silk manufacturing company there and later in New York.

Many years ago he formed a partnership with George A. Hammond, of Putnam (who survives him but who has not been in active business for a number of years) and they began the manufacture of sewing silk and buttonhole twist in what is now the box shop on the west bank of the Quinebaug river. Mr. Knowlton took the management of the selling end in New York and Mr. Hammond was the resident manufacturer. The firm name was Hammond, Knowlton & Co., as a third partner Louis Hauchhouse was early admitted. Mr. Knowlton during the earlier days of the industry was a frequent visitor here and is well known to the older residents.

Some years ago the concern was consolidated with M. Hemmingway & Son and became the H. K. H. Silk company with Mr. Knowlton as president. The company has at present three factories in Putnam.

While chemists puzzled over blends and compounds—

a whim of Nature solved the problem of an "anti-knock" gasoline

Motorists are now being told that they must pay extra for gasoline in order to stop motor knocks. Tydol users save that extra money. If you use Tydol consistently, it is not necessary to doctor your gasoline or pay more than the regular price per gallon. Tydol is a natural anti-knock gasoline.

For years, chemists believed that gasoline must be artificially treated in order to eliminate motor knocks. But while they worked in laboratories, the problem had already been solved in a natural way.

Nature, in her own hidden laboratories, had created a crude petroleum oil which yields a gasoline endowed with natural anti-knock qualities.

Tydol Economy Gasoline is refined, by special processing, from this particular crude at the Tide Water Refinery at Bayonne, N. J. As the result, Tydol has the very anti-knock qualities that many motorists pay a premium for in other gasolines.

You, too, can now stop motor knocks this natural way. Simply drive to the nearest Tydol pump and have your tank filled with Tydol at the regular price per gallon!

Scientific tests prove TYDOL a natural anti-knock gasoline

Knocking in an engine is caused by the gasoline mixture exploding too quickly or too violently. There is no knock if the mixture burns progressively and evenly.

The Midgley Indicator, a remarkable scientific instrument, enables us to photograph the progress of the explosion of a gasoline mixture in the combustion chamber.

Explosion of Tydol mixture—This graph shows how a Tydol mixture explodes. The smooth, even curve denotes progressive combustion. There is no tendency to knock.

NOTE: Tydol, of course, will not eliminate knocking in motors which are defective mechanically.

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair

35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair-brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair becomes.

STUDEBAKER DUPLEX

—two cars in one!

For the first time an open and closed car combined at strictly open car price

This combination of features found in no other car:

New Satin-Lacquer Finish.

Spanish chrome tanned leather upholstery.

New idea in ease of operation and control.

Vibrationless Engine; force-feed oiling system with new idea in oil supply.

Special Six DUPLEX-PHAETON $1495

AT LAST—THE DUPLEX! An entirely new-type car created by Studebaker. By simply drawing down the roller side enclosures, it may be changed from an open car to an enclosed car in thirty seconds.

For the first time in history, a car which completely meets the requirements of year round motoring.

Use it rain or shine, winter or summer, twelve months in the year. It is like owning two cars!

And the price is no higher than the old-time open car.

Framed and shaped in steel, the upper section of the Duplex body is built integral with the lower part. Thus its beauty is permanent like that of a closed car.

Its long, low sweeping lines—deeply crowned fenders—beautiful hood and radiator—all completely harmonize. For the Duplex is designed and built as a unit by Studebaker.

And with this double value you have Studebaker mechanical superiority which means abundant power—effortless operation—new ease of gear shifting—powerful brakes—velvet clutch action and notably easy steering.

In addition there is a multitude of improvements and refinements that bring a new sense of satisfaction to motoring.

The Duplex models are an exclusive Studebaker creation—they are available from no other maker!

Come in and inspect these new Studebakers. See the latest development in motor cars.

VOTING FOR PRESIDENT.

Mr. Editor: Through the columns of your paper will you explain in detail just how the people vote for president, for the benefit of new voters.

Voter.

The voter does not cast his vote directly for the presidential candidate preferred. He votes for the presidential electors named by the party which he favors. The electors of the party getting the largest vote will cast their votes in the electoral college for the president and vice president, voting of course for the candidates of their respective party.

The voter must go to the polling place where he will be given a ballot containing the several tickets, arranged in party columns. This ticket must be taken to a booth to be marked. This is to insure secrecy. It will be found that there is a circle at the top of each party column and the placing of a cross with a black lead pencil in that circle will vote the entire party ticket. This includes the presidential electors, congressman, state officials, representatives, justice of the peace and judge of probate.

The ballot must then be refolded and, after giving your name to the checker, placed on the ballot box. You have then cast your vote and in due time, after the polls are closed, it will be counted with the rest.

In those towns where voting machines are used no ballot is required. On the machines, however, to which you will be permitted to go after passing the checker, the tickets are arranged in horizontal rows with a lever for each party's candidates. Pulling the party lever, like putting a cross in the party circle, votes the entire ticket. Once the lever is pulled let it alone. You have voted and the machine will record and count your vote.

Don't expect to find the names of any presidential or vice presidential candidates on the ballots or machines. They will not be there. The entire seven presidential electors, of whichever party you favor, should be voted for and they will, if elected, vote for the candidates for whom they stand.

Every voter, new or old, should make it a point to go to the polls and vote November 4. If there is need of any assistance in clearing up any uncertain points about voting the registrars of voters will gladly furnish it.

COOLIDGE THE ISSUE.

When Charles E. Hughes spoke in Indiana this week he laid stress upon the importance of a choice of a president by the people. He took into consideration the possibility of a situation in the electoral college whereby no candidates would get the required majority, which would mean the throwing of the election under constitutional provision into congress, and he pointed out the probability of such a course resulting in the election of Bryan as president.

Perhaps the voters of Indiana did not need to be told of the undesirability of having Bryan as president, backed as he would be by the La Follettеism that makes his election possible. Most certainly there is a general recognition of that fact, and it abounds within the democratic as well as other circles. There likewise should be a full appreciation of the undesirable effect of having the power behind such an executive vested in a La Follette.

Visualizing the possibility of a deadlocked election, Secretary Hughes well says, "Confidence would be destroyed over night. Enterprise could halt, new undertakings would be abandoned, orders would be cancelled. Throughout the country there would follow contraction and depression. We should be threatened with a serious fall in values, an immediate effort to cover outstanding risks and the conditions which create confusion and panic."

It is not an exaggeration and it is time for the voters to realize it before it is too late. Let it be understood, as Secretary Hughes points out, that "the issue is President Coolidge or no election," let it be realized that it is no time to be throwing away votes. It was intended that the president should be elected by the people. There is nothing to prevent it if there is proper recognition of the fact that a vote for La Follette is a vote for Bryan, a vote for Davis is a vote for Bryan, but a vote for Coolidge is a vote for Coolidge and means the prevention of a deadlock in the electoral college.

A DESPERATE CRIMINAL.

Good and sufficient reasons exist why there should be a widespread participation throughout the country in the hunt for Gerald Chapman, wanted for the killing of a New Britain policeman and also, as it is now believed, for the more recent killing of a state policeman in Pennsylvania following the looting of a bank.

Chapman is not a novice. He has long been known as a desperate and resourceful criminal. He has maintained that he could not be kept in prison and thus far he has proved his claim. He has made up his mind that neither laws, nor authorities, nor the taking of human life will stand in the way of his doing just as he pleases. He bids defiance to all and he emphasizes his actions by the effective use of cold lead. He is one of those master criminals whose liberty is a menace to society.

Even before his record at Atlanta from which he escaped twice, Chapman was known as one of those desperate individuals whose career of crime deserves to be shortened. For the protection of life and property the quicker he can be apprehended and convicted the better it will be. There is a public interest in such an end that warrants the greatest possible activity in the man hunt. Since leaving Atlanta he had apparently so covered up his tracks that there was no knowledge of his whereabouts. Of his part in the New Britain affair there is no question. His confederate has eliminated all doubt as to that, and whether he is actually responsible for the Pennsylvania murder he already has enough to answer for to place him where he will no longer be a danger to the rest of humanity.

REPUBLICAN REPRESENTATIVES.

With what must be regarded as a full appreciation of the duty resting upon it, the republican caucus selected as candidates for representatives from the town of Norwich in the next session of the general assembly two well known business and professional men, whose ability and good judgment must be regarded as especially fitting them for such responsible positions.

George G. Engler and Charles W. Cassidy need no introduction to the people of Norwich. Because of their activity as druggist and lawyer they have become widely known citizens, and their excellent standing in the community, the success which they have attained in their respective professions and their knowledge of the needs of town and state, they are bound to command the confidence and vote of the people of this community on election day.

Seldom is there a session when there are not many matters of importance to this town and this part of the state before the legislature. Norwich needs sound and representative citizens to participate in the law making and to safeguard the community's interests. The caucus has given the town the chance to get them.

THE ZR-3.

Safe arrival in this country of the ZR-3 is in keeping with expectations. The great hazard, of course, was in crossing the Atlantic, but with motors working there was little question on that point. Little trouble was experienced and that chiefly from weather conditions.

Flying from Friedrichshafen to Lakewood, N. J., in 81 hours the ZR-3 has not gained the distinction of being the first dirigible to cross the Atlantic, though it is the first to have covered that route, but it naturally sets in motion speculation as to how soon it will be before some effort will be made to employ such airships for commercial purposes between distant points.

The delivery of the big dirigible places it in the hands of this government. We have now received our share of the aircraft distributed following the war and it remains to be seen what develops from such use as we make of it.

For the protection of the airship it becomes manifest that there is need of carefully guarding it against the danger of an explosion of the inflammable hydrogen gas with which it is inflated. One puff and it would be disposed of as quickly as have been several blimps. The Shenandoah has the advantage of helium gas, and though it means much expense the importance of providing the same for the ZR-3 as soon as possible must be apparent. The lives involved in the operation of such a ship and the cost of construction warrant surrounding them with proper preventive measures.

CURRENTS BENEATH

"Umph!" sniffed the frump woman gazing into the display window. She was pretty, yet her clothes were put on hurriedly, a wisp of hair had escaped the confining net and her hat was adjusted a mite too high on her forehead. Nobody would have been struck dumb at her appearance or turned around to look at her twice. And she knew it.

The exasperating part of it was that Lisbeth Price felt that a lot of them would have turned around if only she had time and money to arrange a well groomed toilet. That was why the pillow shown in the window so infuriated her. The display was a boudoir scene and down on the floor as though carelessly fallen from the chaise longue it lay, a fragile affair of changeable taffeta silk and ruffled lace, gold roses and an air of being about to melt away at a touch. Nobody ever would dream of putting her head upon such a pillow unless it were somebody utterly extravagant and money reckless like Annette. All she had to do was to smile sweetly and trustfully at George, whereupon he hunted up another grindstone to which to apply his patient nose.

He seemed to like it, too. The more useless and beautiful Annette became, the happier seemed George in his neglected home, where he had to hunt for his belongings and dust a chair before he sat down if he had any regard for his suit of clothes. Annette wore negligees of chiffon and lace that transformed her into a doll on a wedding cake. Lisbeth sniffed again as she recalled her own sensible check gingham house gowns in which she could step into the kitchen with no damage.

It seemed as though that taffeta silk pillow crystallized all her dissatisfaction. Undoubtedly what she would buy would be durable, like a shirred black satin pillow which could be thumped around the living room davenport with no bad results. And Dan would thump it. He liked to use the things in the house. He said he could see no sense in having things around good for nothing but looking at. She supposed he included wives.

Lisbeth sniffed again and moved on into the store. She was very low in her mind and life was considerable of a sell and nobody, Dan included, paid any particular attention to her. They just accepted her as a matter of course, like the gas stove, the daily paper and rain. What would happen, she wondered ironically, if at dinner time when Dan asked if she had bought the new sofa pillows she said yes, dear, and produced that useless frivolous bit of taffeta frippery so significant of wealth and lovely idle women? Almost she could see his eyes, hear the biting disapproval. The pillow simply did not fit in with her type. Well her type was the result of not much money, a lot of work and the rut they were in. Why not buy the pillow and give Dan a jolt?

Lisbeth headed for the draperies and sofa pillows with her lips drawn tightly, rebellion smoldering within. She felt reckless, hard. Life was not fair, Lisbeth paused before the heap of lacy taffeta pillows and in staccato tones asked the prices.

She sat quietly at the dinner table that night as usual.

"Did you get the pillows?" Dan asked as she had known he would. "What did you find?"

"Yes," Lisbeth said briefly. "Two very nice black satin ones at $8 apiece." She still felt numb from her afternoon mental storm.

Dan glanced at her face. "Black satin!" he said meditatively and then laughed rather boyishly. "They'll stand wear," he said. "You wait till next year, old girl, when I get that boost in the company and then wherever you want sofa pillows you can get 'em of platinum if you like, with dewdads of diamond and lace—any old thing you want! Say, but you've been a brick all this time, Lisbeth! You deserve all you're going to get, and not so far away, either! Hey—whatever?"

Dan never knew why Lisbeth had burst out crying on his shoulder and crept into his arms. But he held her tight. — Chicago News.

Warfield Disheartened When Hissed

When David was a boy, friends told him he surely would be a great actor, but when he appeared as a "super" he was discharged and when he made his debut as a performer in his home town he was hissed by the audience.

While attending school in his native San Francisco, he recited at entertainments and was told he was "a born actor." His ambition was to go on the stage; he served as program boy in a theatre without pay and later became an usher.

After rehearsing four weeks to be a "super" in Bartley Campbell's Siberia, at 50 cents a night, he made a flippant remark that could be heard in the audience, and was discharged at the beginning of the engagement.

A traveling stock company that he joined lasted just one week, and he again became an usher in San Francisco. An engagement with another company lasted a week. Grasping an opportunity to put on a vaudeville number in a San Francisco theater, he was hissed and was so disheartened that he left the city.

Having raised $60 through a benefit, he went to New York and at 24 made the rounds of the amusement places until he obtained a job as Jewish dialect entertainer in a dingy Eight avenue concert hall at $15 a week.

Next he spoke a few lines and did a speciality in The Inspector at $25 a week, and later joined other farce companies.

Given a part in The Merry World at the New York Casino, he pleaded for a chance to portray the East Side Jewish Peddler. At a benefit ball game he took the part and made such a hit that he was allowed to appear as Simon Levi that night and afterwards.

After three years in Weber & Fields burlesques he was engaged by David Belasco to play Simon Levi in The Auctioneer, written around his character. The production met with instant success. He appeared in it three years, then made a greater hit in The Music Master. Then came successes of a higher order, his portrayal of Shylock in The Merchant of Venice being pronounced one of his crowning achievements.

Tomorrow—Bryan Earned $1.50 a Week.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Joseph Lee, who will preside over the eleventh national recreation congress opening at Atlantic City today, has been president of the Playground and Recreation Association of America for nearly fifteen years. A native and long time resident of Boston, he has for years been conspicuous as a social worker who, to ample pecuniary resources and high social position, added an intense interest in the welfare of mankind. A Harvard graduate, and a lawyer by profession, he has devoted most of his time of late years to the organization and maintenance of the Massachusetts Civic League and the Playground and Recreation Association of America. The last-named was organized in 1906 by Theodore Roosevelt, Jacob Riis and others. Since the society was organized, public recreation has spread to 631 cities in the United States and Canada.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Is Life Becoming Too Strenuous

Mr. Editor: The death of Senator Brandegee as recently announced, leaves a sense of inexpressible loss in the mind and thought of the people of a state and a nation. A victim of ill health, which his naturally robust constitution only had enabled him to survive so long, of an obscure disorder his physicians had been unable to accurately locate, there can be no doubt that his devotion to his duties, and the welfare of the state and nation had undermined and sapped his naturally fine courage, and that his burden became greater than he could bear. To the extent that others upheld and aided him, in his always sound views, statesmanship and effort, they can only lament his personal loss. His splendid leadership, will be missed wherever statesmanship was known.

Full time, a provident wage, adequate earning capacity and salaries for ourselves and our representatives in civic and national life, would do much to increase the prosperity of the people of the nation, and free from slanderous injustice, the names of our ablest, most honorable and intelligent men. Parsimony in the conduct of our national and business interests and offices is not a wise economy.

The senator was sound in his statesmanship, his death was untimely, and a nation mourns.

The Chicken Flu—A Remedy.

Mr. Editor: Will you please allow a poultry fancier and breeder of over thirty years experience a few lines in your valued paper to make a few remarks relative to the poultry scourge in Groton as reported in the press. It is hardly fair to place the blame on the sparrow, as being the carrier of the disease for that courageous little bird has been found by the Bruce and Finch expedition (1922) to Mount Everest, living contented and happy 2000 feet above sea level, possessed of as vigorous respiratory organs as champion Dempsey or any of his class. In spite of the numerous accusations aimed at him the little sparrow cheerfully and courageously lives his allotted span of four years of the strenuous life and quietly disappears into God's great garden of melody. Many poultry keepers buy a lot of unfortunate baby chicks from commercial hatcheries whose motto seems to be "quantity" or perhaps they may buy them at stores, and bring them home and throw them into an enclosed yard and compel them to run the "forlorn hopes," improper housing, unsanitary conditions and general bad care. If the chickens escape these evils they are weakened and easily overcome by the cold rains in early August. No poultry should be kept out in the rain storms at that time. Here is the most efficient and cheapest remedy that could be tried if the birds are not beyond cure. Take one teaspoon of sulphe-napthol and mix to four quarts of water. Give poultry no other liquid. In a few days poultry will show improvement. Poultrymen can try it on one or two affected birds, and watch results. Sulphe-napthol or germicide is a disinfectant, kills all germs and if not used too freely is safe although disagreeable to poultry. It disinfects every bird that drinks the solution. Have used it on germicide and can produce others who, at my suggestion have used it on the flock and have completely stopped their losses. Would like to hear from every user the results of a trial. Sulphe-napthol can be had at drug stores. A ten or 15-cent bottle suffices 300 hens one week. I have nothing to sell. Yours for better poultry and more of it.

Respectfully,
JAMES E. RINGLAND.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE JUNGLES OF TEHUANTEPEC

Hordes of grasshoppers are invading the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, devouring crops, and even delaying railroad trains.

"The present pest is only one more fly in the ointment of one of earth's most luxuriant garden spots," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Anything can grow on Mexico's southern isthmus; most everything does. It is one of America's profuse jungle lands.

"If a native wants a crop of corn he need only burn off a patch of grass, drop seeds in holes made with a pointed stick, and the crop is his. He does not weed or cultivate his patch. Another year he burns off another patch.

"The other side of this idyllic picture is that fevers and gnats and insect foes also abound.

"There is the hookworm, and the screw-worm which bores into one's flesh and tunnels on into the bone. The chiggers make hives of their hosts and produce ulcers. Flying pests poison the flesh if they alight and enormous ants and tiny red bugs come up from the ground to produce a fiery irritation.

"Flies travel in masses, mosquitoes are a nightly plague, gnats swarm into one's eyes.

"The jungle is an amazing and awesome sight. It is thick, tangled, two-storied. The more delicate plants cannot thrive on the sunless surface of the earth, so they mount to the upper branches of trees.

"Underfoot is a swamp, traversed by muddy, stagnant streams, where reptiles thrive. Palms, bamboos, wild bananas and twisted trees of many kinds are underlaid with matted growth.

"The portion of Southern Mexico included in the Isthmus is about equal to the area of South Carolina. Politically the Isthmus comprises the eastern (not the southern) parts of the states of Vera Cruz and Oaxaca. The Gulf of Mexico is to the north, the Pacific ocean directly south, and the Isthmus railroad runs north and south.

"This railroad, extending for about 180 miles from the Gulf port of Puerto Mexico to the Pacific port, Salina Cruz, is a remarkable engineering achievement. The difficulty in building it did not arise from mountains, for her the Cordilleras flatten out to a maximum height of 730 feet, but from a jungle which, when it rains is a quagmire and which, when the sun shines, grows vegetation so furiously that the roadbed is all but usurped.

"One plan advanced for this route, in the years before the Panama canal was to build a railroad which would transport ships, cargoes and all.

"The largest stream on the Isthmus is the Coatzacoalcos—The River of the Winding Snake—and it was along this watercourse that the Forty-Niners left their canoes to tramp overland to the Pacific coast. Later prospectors found here their bonanza—oil rather than gold—and lofty derricks and loading tankers today mark an oil field which rivals that of Tampico."

Stories That Recall Others

This Couldn't Be True.

"How do you find so much time to read all the books and magazines?" asked a friend of a learned man.

"Why, I do all my reading while my wife is getting ready to go to parties," he replied.

Ernest Thompson Seton predicts that with fur ranches the country's supply will be increased instead of diminished.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
by DAVID CORY

OFF TO TURNIP CITY

Oh, the Luckymobile is a wonderful car
It hasn't a bumpersty bump or a jar.
It's as fast as a comet and smooth as a train.
As it rolls up the meadow and down through the lane.

"Ha, ha!" cried the old gentleman rabbit, "there's no car in all Rabbitland like mine," and with a honk of the horn and a whistle, dear Uncle Lucky turned to smile at his bunny nephew.

"Moo-o, moo-o!" she went tinkle, tinkle, tinkle.

"Bow, wow!" barked Old Sic'em, the Farmer's watch dog, coming out of his little wooden house by the fence.

"Master's gone to Turnip City
To buy a ribbon for the Kitty," he explained, with a wigjag waggle of his long, thin tail.

"That gives me an idea," laughed dear Uncle Lucky, suddenly remembering that Mr. Oriole had taken Cousin Cottontail's yarn. "Guess we'll run down to Turnip City. I think there's a Three-in-One-Cent store on Cabbage street."

"To be sure," answered Mrs. Cow, "you might get me a hairpin if your obliging."

"Tell me just the kind you wish," said Uncle Lucky anxiously, "shopping for ladies is a delicate job."

As soon as the good lady cow had described the latest style Uncle Lucky started up the Luckymobile and away he and the little rabbit went on their errand. By and by, after a while, and a laugh and a smile, and more than a mile, whom should they meet but the Old Dog Driver atop of his stagecoach. "Whoa!" he shouted to his billy goat team, who stopped so suddenly that they stood right up straight on their hind legs. "I have a passenger inside who is coming to your house," explained the Old Dog Driver, with a wink of his left eye.

"Goodness me, who can it be?" thought dear Uncle Lucky, peering in through the coach window. All of a sudden he began to laugh, for there sat Daddy Longlegs, the old gentleman insect.

"You'll find Little Miss Mousie at home," said Uncle Lucky. "She'll give you a cup of tea and a piece of angel cake. Tell her I've gone to Turnip City on an errand and will be home in time for tea," and with a honk of the horn, off he sped.

"Gid-ap!" shouted the Old Dog Driver, clicking his teeth with his bright red tongue. Away pranced the billy goats, tossing their horns, which were tipped with pretty silver caps, and throwing out their little hoofs, which were shod with bright iron slippers.

"Two are going East,
Two are going West,
But pretty soon we'll all be home
Home sweet home is best."

Nature's "Fireworks"

St. Elmo's fire, the flame-like appearance seen in stormy weather in the rigging of vessels and on lofty terrestrial objects, is nearly akin to lightning, says "Nature Magazine." The aurora, in its many beautiful forms, is the most ambitious electrical display produced by nature.

WHY STAY FAT ? YOU CAN REDUCE

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to forge the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are pleasant to take, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A box is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send this price direct to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat. You can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet with fear of bad effects. Get a box and start getting slender now.

NORWICH IS PROMISED GREAT PARADE FOR ARMISTICE DAY

The general committee in charge of the dedication of the soldiers memorial on Armistice Day held a meeting in the chamber of commerce offices Wednesday afternoon. The chairmen of the various committees made their reports and from all indications Norwich will witness an inspiring patriotic event next Armistice Day, Tuesday, Nov. 11th.

Arthur E. Story, chairman of the parade committee reported that at least 4,000 people will parade. The various organizations who have signified their participation in the parade are the Odd Fellows, D. A. R., G. A. R., Elks, Red Cross, Masons, Knights of Columbus, Ladies of Columbus, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Battery B 192nd Art. C. N. G., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Loyal Order of Moose Women of Mooseheart, Norwich Grange, Bankers, United Italian Society, Ladies of Maccabees, Order of Gr. Beath, Order of Eastern Star, United Commercial Travellers, Polish Citizens' Club, Graduate Nurses, Hibernians, City and Town Officials, Norwich Fire Department, Norwich Police Department, Letter Carriers. Germania Lodge, Students and Faculty Norwich Free Academy, Sailors and Marines from Sub Base, Two Companies from Ft. Wright, Coast Artillery Guard, Willimantic, Columbian Commandery, Knights Templar, Chamber of Commerce, Merchants, Rotary, Lions, Spanish War Veterans. There are other organizations yet to be heard from.

Chairman Story stated that although he had tried to invite every fraternal and civic organization in town it was possible that some might have been omitted. He wished that any such would get into communication with him and he extended them an invitation to participate. A fine spirit of cooperation is being shown and many organizations are expressing their great satisfaction in being able to pay honor to the boys of the army and navy.

James L. Case, chairman of the speakers committee reported that efforts are being made to secure a good speaker for the occasion and he expected to have the speaker announced.

F. W. Lester, chairman of the music committee, reported that the student body of the Academy would sing patriotic songs at the monument, under the leadership of Hon. William G. Park. The band from Fort Wright, possibly the naval band from Admiral Taylor's flagship Savannah, St. Michael's Boy Scout Fife and Drum Corps and Girl Scout Bugle Corps from Westerly, the local bands, Elks band from Willimantic, all will be in the parade. In addition many of the various organizations in the parade will engage their own bands.

Dr. H. B. Campbell, chairman of the transportation committee, reported that the New Haven railroad will furnish transportation, the various bus lines and the trolley company will cooperate for increased transportation facilities.

W. L. Stearns, chairman of the decoration committee, corresponded with several companies and it was decided to appoint J. Ross Jones & Sons of Hartford as the official decorators. The decorations will be one of the best, if not the best, that Norwich has ever seen. The people of Norwich are invited to display the flag on their premises on that day and it is urged that everyone will join in decorating the entire city.

An appropriation of $1000 was made at the last town meeting and one of $500 from the city council has been secured. It is estimated that at least $3.000 will be needed to defray the expenses for transportation, and entertainment of the visiting national and state military and naval companies. George A. Finn, chairman of the finance committee, has sent out nearly 1,000 letters for popular subscriptions to the general fund. Any public spirited person who cares to contribute his or her share to this general fund can send or bring their subscriptions to Treasurer Finn in the Bankers Trust company. Below are the names of those who have already contributed: W. S. Allis, M. L. Bergstresser, A. G. Bliven, E. La Rue Bliven, H. B. Cary, G. W. Carroll, Gaeton Cabaud, C. E. Chandler, Barnett Cohen, Fred Dugas, Wing Eng, Grosvenor Ely, friend, G. A. Finn, N. A. Gibbs, F. A. Grieve, H. W. Gallup, Alex Jordan, Charles Jacobson, J. M. Lahn, Eben Learned, H. M. Lerou, F. W. Lester, E. E. Larrabee, W. E. Manning, J. R. Marchesault, T. C. Murphy, Louis Navick, John J. O'Rourke, E. A. Rich, H. E. Robbins, J. H. Shannon, Savard Bros, F. Russell Smith, A. E. Story, C. F. "FRONTIER WORK" SUBJECT FOR MISSIONARY MEETING

The Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Circle of the First Baptist church, met at the home of Mrs. A. W. Davis, Tuesday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Mrs. L. A. Hurlbut, the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Charles Burke, who read the Scriptures from Matthew 29th. This was followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read. The subject of the afternoon was Frontier Work, with Mrs. Burke as leader. Three papers were read as follows: On the Kingdom or the Printing Press, Mrs. Frank Lathrop; Railroad Evangelism, on the Chapel bar, Mrs. Louis Browning; Through a Boy's Eyes, Mrs. A. W. Davis.

During the meeting the secretary mentioned the loss by death of two valued members, Mrs. William Koonz and Mrs. Charles Pierce. In referring to Mrs. Koonz, the secretary said: Mrs. Koonz was one of our most efficient members, always ready and willing to do whatever her task was, in the church work, or in our mission work. Very many lives have been helped by the messages of cheer; her strong faith shone forth at all times, and wonderful results came from the strong confidence of perfect trust which she had in the Heavenly Father's care and guidance.

Mrs. Pierce was ever ready to help one and all, and at times when she was able to do so, in her singing. Many of us can remember when Mrs. Pierce was a child, she had the gift and talent given her. It might be said Mrs. Pierce's was the song of service. Those who have been associated with her will ever retain loving memories of her and cherish in their hearts the blessings of her life and its influences.

WOMEN OUTNUMBER MEN IN NEW VOTERS LISTS

Women outnumbered the men in being made voters Wednesday at the session of the board to make voters at the town hall when a total of 382 new voters were made, of whom 224 were women and 158 men.

At the two sessions which have been held by the board 403 men and 418 women have been made voters. As the total list of "to be mades" numbered 1,933, this leaves 1,112 more to appear before the board at the final session on Saturday of this week from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. with the exception of an hour out for lunch from 1 to 3 o'clock.

Voters who have moved during the past year from one voting district to another are advised by the registrars Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes, to see that their names are in the right voting list. Printed copies are to be seen at the town hall, on the sign posts about the town and at the republican headquarters on Broadway.

MISSION FATHERS VISIT TUBERCULOSIS PATIENTS

Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, Rev. David O'Brien, one of the three fathers giving a mission at St. Patrick's church, was at Norwich state tuberculosis sanatorium, where he offered the holy sacrifice of the mass for the consolation of the Roman Catholic patients, administering Holy Communion to 71.

During the previous afternoon, the three missionaries had been at the sanatorium, where Father Hartnett had spoken for the solace of the patients. Later the three missionaries heard their confessions and prepared them for the reception of the Holy Eucharist, the following morning.

The exercises of the men's mission went on with great fervor during Wednesday. At the early mass at 5 o'clock, Father Hartnett gave the congregation of men a practical instruction on the Mass. At 8, Father O'Loughlin preached on the obligation of attending mass regularly. Wednesday evening, the great assemblage of men listened to an eloquent sermon by Father O'Loughlin on The Last Judgment. With the week half over, the number receiving communion each morning increases daily, the best proof that the mission is to outdo in success even that given for the women of this parish last week.

Nickerson has appointed Abraham Levine of this city temporary receiver for S. & W Self Service Grocery Co. which has stores on Main street and in Greeneville in this city and another store in Moosup. The Worcester concern makes a claim for $3,600 against the defendant.

Three Go to Jail

Three men fined Wednesday morning in the city court for intoxication charges were unable to pay their bills and went to jail for 17 days each. One other man charged with intoxication had his case continued until November 1st in order to give him time to raise the money to pay his fine.

"OPEN HOUSE" NAVY DAY AT SUBMARINE BASE

October 27th, Theodore Roosevelt's birthday party, has again been designated as "Navy Day". The idea of having such a day was conceived in 1922 by the "Navy League", for the purpose of centering the attention of the people on their navy, and informing them of its services, its condition, and its needs. This idea was enthusiastically received by the Naval Service, which was only too glad to have the people know of its accomplishments, its aims, and its usefulness to the country. In 1922 the day was fittingly observed in many parts of the country and in 1923 its scope was increased, and large numbers of citizens visited the ships and stations.

On "Navy Day" this year, the submarine base will be open to the public during the forenoon from 9 to 11:30 and from 3:30 to 5:30 in the afternoon. All the educational and repair facilities will be in operation and officers and men will be on hand to escort visitors. Our latest submarines will be open for inspection and submarines will leave the docks and make dives in the river.

In the afternoon, the submarine base football team will play a game with the team from the U. S. S. Wyoming.

Capt. E. J. King, commander at the base, is extending a general invitation to the public to visit the base on "Navy Day" which he hopes will be accepted by everyone in Norwich, New London and nearby towns that they may become acquainted with the only naval station in the state of Connecticut.

KNOWLTON WAS DONOR OF CONN. COLLEGE HALL

At the funeral service for Charles C. Knowlton, held Wednesday afternoon at his beautiful home, Knowlton Hill, Ashford, the officiating clergyman, Rev. Dr. Clarence Wells, of the Congregational church, at Watertown, Conn. made known the fact that it was Mr. Knowlton who was the donor of the more than $200,000 to build Colonial hall, at Connecticut College.

While Mr. Knowlton wished to see work begun on the new hall, which is designed as a dormitory and social center, he had asked that no mention be made of his gift during his life time. Work on the new hall is well along, having reached the first floor, so that it is the expectation that the building will be covered by the end of November.

At the funeral Wednesday, the college was represented among others, by President Benjamin T. Marshall, George S. Palmer, president of the board of trustees, and Miss Louise C. Howe, of Norwich, one of the trustees. With them was Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, of Norwich. It was announced that President Marshall had arranged to have the superintendent have all men at work on the college grounds pause for two minutes, at the time of Mr. Knowlton's funeral.

Mr. Knowlton was very much interested in the effort to complete Windham hall at the college. It is an interesting fact that a granddaughter of the millionaire silk manufacturer, Miss Mildred Hammon Knowlton, from Watertown, Conn., is a freshman at the college this year.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY ACCEPTS INVITATION FOR PARADE

A special meeting of Mercier Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus was held Tuesday evening and considerable business was transacted. A letter was received from the Armistice Day committee inviting the organization to participate in the parade on Armistice day. The invitation was accepted and members will endeavor to turn out 100 per cent.

Mrs. Mary McNerney was appointed chairman of the parade committee, the members to include Mrs. Ella Bowne, Mrs. Julia Casey, Miss Irene Gallivan and Miss Mary McCrohan.

Miss May Riley, chairman of the banquet committee reported that arrangements had been practically completed for the banquet to be served next week Thursday evening at the Wauregan Hotel.

It was also announced that a class of candidates would be initiated at the meeting next Tuesday evening and that th place of meeting would be announced previous to that time.

EXCITED WOMAN STARTS RAILROAD ACCIDENT REPORT

Some woman's excited imagination had railroad officials all stirred up Wednesday afternoon when she telephoned to the New Haven road office at New London that an en engine had run over a woman near the Laurel Hill tunnell barridge and that the ambulance had taken the badly injured victim to the Backus hospital.

New London officials called up the station here to verify the report and it was learned from the hospital that the ambulance was right in the hospital yard and hadn't been away from there for an hour.

By night time the rumor had grown to reports of an accident somewhere between here and New London, in which a train had run off a bridge with the loss of four lives.

Then the police took a hand to see if there might not be some person with a disordered mind who was responsible for the false and alarming reports, and when their investigation was over, it sifted down to locating the first report in an overworked imagination.

About the only basis for any one going off on such a tangent had been the appearance of the railroad wrecker here during the day for the purpose of moving some large steel girders.

LAWRENCE AND CORCORAN CHOICE FOR REPRESENTATIVES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 15.—Henry W. Lawrence, Jr., and Russel W. Corcoran were nominated for representatives by the democratic city and town committee delegates at the 18th district convention held tonight in the municipal building. Mr. Lawrence is a professor at the Connecticut college for women and Mr. Corcoran is a practicing attorney here.

An automobile owned and driven by Mellie Wilson, 187 Broadway, Norwich, and a machine owned by the Monte Cristo Garage and driven by Joseph Savage were in collision on State street tonight, with slight damage.

NEW TREATMENT FOR VARICOSE VEINS AND ULCERS

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce, original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength), at any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once.

Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated and a little goes a long way. Apply night and morning with a soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal.

So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that swollen glands and even goitre disappear when used steadily.

RHEUMATISM

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.

In the year of 1893, I was attacked by Muscular and Subacute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bed-ridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and subacute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment" for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

CLOSE RACING FEATURES CLOSING DAY AT STAFFORD SPRINGS TRACK

(Special to The Bulletin)

Stafford Springs, Oct. 15. — Close racing with hard drives in the finishes marked the closing day at the Stafford Fair here this afternoon. All three events were forced into extra heats and the field in every heat was well bunched. The feature event of the card, the 2:11 pace, purse $1,000 went to Eva Dewey, Joe Johnson driving. Johnson after finishing third in the first heat drove to a win in three straight heats but not without stiff opposition from Kazoff and Steve Oboy.

The 2:17 trot went to Perilla Scott in straight heats after the Rodney horse had finished fifth in the opening heat. Fleming's Brother Edward won the first heat but after that although in the race was not able to do better than third being beaten out by Peter Ibbleson and the Rodney mare.

Billy Crozier drove a hard race in the 2:17 pace being forced into five heats by Patience Volo and Priggie's Lady, who gave Miss Myrtle L hard rubs in all the heats.

The attendance at the fair on the last day was about 5,000 and the association reports that the net receipts for the three days was approximately $25,000. The race summaries:

PEERLESS TO CLASH WITH LAWRENCE THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 15.—A repetition of Monday evenings enthusiasm at the Peerless alleys will be very much in evidence if present signs are a criterion. The city title in bowling honors being involved, the Peerless and the Lawrence bowling quintets, both entries in the Connecticut bowling league, will resume their controversy on the alleys this (Thursday) evening at the Lawrence bowling ways. Taking first blood in the previous meeting at the Golden street alleys, the Peerless five will pack their effects and move over to the Lawrence alleys for the night.

And when the two bowling fives clash, the Peerless five will be found boosting for the first time since the league got under way safely on the top position, wrestling this top place from Moosup. The up-river bowling team which was originally scheduled to meet the Peerless five this week had its games cancelled until next week, remains idle, and as the result of being in this state of idleness, they were displaced by the now pin crashers, Peerless. The Peerless has a chance to gain double laurels, and the fact that this team will battle with another team from the home city olds seems to bring a big turn out. Two more victories out of three will give the Peerless a more firm entrenchment in the top position.

Bowler Captain Bill Belcher leading the assault, and Frank Smith still maintaining his sensational bowling, the Peerless five will give the Lawrence plenty of trouble throughout the three strings. It is most likely that each team must hit 500 or over for a team total to gain a victory in any string.

PALACE TAKES TWO FROM WILLIMANTIC

At the Palace Alleys on Wednesday evening the Palace team took two games from the Willimantic team. The first two stringers were easy ones for the local team and it was not until the last string that the visitors opened up and took the last game. Barry Noel came within two pins of the record for high single but blew a spare in the eighth box which would have given him high honor. Smith of Willimantic had high total with 361. The scores.

SULLIVAN KNOCKS OUT BALLERINO IN FIFTH

The knockout came as an unexpected climax after four rounds of stirring action. Ballerino who had been forcing the pace came out swinging in the fifth and was met by a right hook which dropped him for a count of five. He went down again, but staggered to his feet after a count of six. The knockout, a right to the jaw followed. Sullivan weighed 129½ and Ballerino 129.

Ballerino, who had beaten Sullivan in a 12-4 round fight before the latter won his title from Johnny Dundee, was favorite before the battle. It was Sullivan's second defense of the 130-pound crown.

SUB BASE TO PLAY AT HARTFORD SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 15.—After nearly a month of football, the Submarine Base chasers of the pig skin will have their first opportunity of the present season to oppose a real fast professional eleven. The eleven in question, the West Sides of Hartford with nearly all former college players of no mean ability in the lineup will test the gobs to their utmost on this coming Sunday at the West Sides field, Hartford. Having engaged four teams to date, and from three different states, the gobs are now anxious to begin their fight for professional honors in this state.

The Base record to date is a record worth boasting, and three victories and one defeat make up this teams accomplishment so far this season. The Base met some strong teams, and one of the strongest was the Springfield college eleven last month. The Base lost this game by a single touchdown, but shared honors about evenly with the Bay state institution. So it is with a good record that the Base will invade the Capitol City on Sunday, in an attempt to make a strong bid for Connecticut Pro honors.

The past week has been utilized in a number of profitable ways to have the "Playing gobs" round into form for their hard grid contest. A black board talk was had this week to enunciate more clearly the functions of the plays the Base will keep to use against the West Sides. Those plays which failed to produce the necessary amount of yardage, will be discarded and several new plays of more intricate formation have been added in their stead. More emphasis for the use of the over head game was pointed out to the gobs quarterback, and in the future, beginning with the West Sides game, the attack of the sailors will be of a more varied nature.

The team returned from its last game with the Newport Torpedo station in a fine physcal condition. There were no injuries of significance to handicap the Base coaches to get the sailors in shape for their contest with the Capitol City aggregation. It is probable that one or two changes in both the line and the backfield will be in order, but where these changes will be made the Base coaches have given no inkling. Daily in scrimmage two and three sets of backfield players are used and numerous changes in the line are made to give other players an opportunity to give an account of themselves. So far as can be seen the lineup which will be pitted against the West Sides is undecided as yet, and will be in this state until a more effective and productive eleven is found. The experiment will continue all week, and Saturday will be devoted to signal drill only, for the team which will start Sunday's game.

YALE HOCKEY PLANS ARE APPROVED BY COMMITTEE

New Haven, Oct. 15.—At a meeting of the Yale athletic committee and the hockey committee, plans for the coming season were approved and it was definitely decided that the Yale team will use Bishop's pond at the top of Long Hill in Woodbridge for practice purposes. It is believed that at least four games will be scheduled for that place including the annual junior promenade game with Dartmouth. Princeton's offer of the Hobey Baker rink for practice games probably will be accepted and it is expected that the usual Christmas trip will be made to Lake Placid. Trips also will be made to Pittsburgh and other colleges.

The annual two game match with Harvard and Princeton will be played as usual. In the meantime negotiations are going forward with the owners of the arena property here for the construction of a modern rink to replace the one destroyed by fire some time ago.

YALE VARSITY HAS HARD SCRIMMAGE WORKOUT

New Haven, Oct. 15.—The Yale varsity had a long, hard scrimmage this afternoon preparatory to its game with Dartmouth Saturday. Wortham was given another tryout at right guard in place of Eckart. The balance of the team started its practice game with the scrubs as follows:

Bingham and Luman, ends; Root and Joss, tackles; Sturnham, left guard; Lovejoy, center; Bench, quarterback; Cottle, Pond and Bench, backs. Butterworth replaced Root late in the scrimmage and Lindley went in for Cottle for a while.

Bench took the ball at the kick-off on his own 10-yard line and ran it to the center of the field. Allen and Pond had little trouble in carrying the ball to the five yard line where Cottle took it over for a touchdown. Later on Pond intercepted a forward pass and again the team marched down the field for a touchdown, Pond carrying the ball to the varsity 15-yard line but could get it no further.

During the scrimmage Root was slightly injured but will be able to be in the scrimmage tomorrow.

EASTERN CONN. BOWLING LEAGUE MATCHES TONIGHT

The bowling matches in the Eastern Connecticut league this evening will be between the Peerless and the Lawrence fives at New London while the Aetna and Taftville will clash at the Taftville Alleys. The Peerless has a chance to take the lead in the league by taking three from the Lawrence.

FRISCH, KELLY AND YOUNG NOT IN ON SCANDAL

New York, Oct. 15.—Frank Frisch, George Kelly and Ross Young, New York Giant veterans implicated by Jimmy O'Connell in the latter's attempted bribery of Heine Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, were exonerated of all connections with the scandal by Commissioner Landis because O'Connell's stor ydid not jibe in any respect with the circumstances at the time of his action.

This was disclosed today by a source close to Commissioner Landis and established from the first time the real reason why, apart from their own denials, Frisch, Kelly and Young were cleared in the investigation which preceded the world's series.

According to this source, O'Connell's story of what happened before and after he approached Sand during the game at the Polo grounds September 27 was diametrically opposite to that related by Sand and also the accounts given by the others called before Commissioner Landis.

Asked by Landis what he did after offering Sand $500 to "throw" the game, O'Connell was said to have related that he walked to the batting cage and there told Kelly what had happened. Then, O'Connell said, he took part in batting practice.

According to Sand, however, O'Connell did not approach any other player at once but went to the bench and sat alone in one corner.

VANDERBILT TO HEAD HORSE SOCIETY AGAIN

New York, Oct. 15.—At the annual election of the American Hackney Horse Society, held today, all the officers were re-elected as follows:

President, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, Newport, R. I. first vice-president, William Du Pont, Wilmington, Del, second vice-president, W. H. Wanamaker, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa., secretary and treasurer, Gurney C. Gue, Merrick, Long Island. Board of directors: Thomas G. Ashton, A. W. Atkinson, John L. Bushnell, J. K. MAJOR LEAGUE PLAYERS DISCARD BATS FOR GUNS

Montreal, Oct. 15.—A party of well known major league baseball players arrived here today en route to Plaster Rock, N. B., for a two weeks' hunting trip. The party includes Eddie Collins, captain and second baseman of the Chicago White Sox, Joe Bush and Bob Shawkey, veteran pitchers, and Fred Hofmann, catcher, of the New York Yankees.

Schwartz Beats Ash

Baltimore Md., October 15.—Benny Schwartz, Baltimore flyweight, was awarded the judges' decision over Frankie Ash, of England, at the end of a 12-round bout here tonight. Ash weighed 116 ½ and Schwartz 116¼.

All Ready To Go

The little borough of Jewett City was greatly surprised Saturday night when it was reported that Joe Faber's All Stars "composed of local boys" played the Riverview club a sixteen inning game ending in a scoreless tie on account of darkness.

The Riverview club have one of the fastest, if not the fastest ball teams in the eastern part of the state having defeated the Sub. Base, Taftville A. A., Corbin Red Sox, J. B. Martin and many other fast semi-pro-club.

Jewett City has never shown so much interest over a ball game since the old St. Mary's team defeated Ashland back in 1919. Seven members of the St. Mary's team that created such a sensation a few years ago played with the All Stars Saturday.

Joe Faber the pride of Jewett City showed the fans in Saturday's game that grass don't grow under his feet and boy, how that kid can go and get'em. At Moosup Sunday Joe showed that he can sock that old apple too and if Joe Boley has only been there he would of felt kind of shakey about his job with Baltimore next season.

Last Saturday's game was with out a doubt the longest scoreless game played in this part of the country.

Next Saturday afternoon at the State Hospital grounds these two teams will battle again for diamond honors and the largest crowd that ever attended a ball game in New London County is expected.

Jewett City is coming down strong and nearly five hundred local fans will be on hand to root for Joe Faber and his All Star team.

FIRST CARD OF BOXING SEASON TO BE STAGED AT DANIELSON THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Oct. 5.—The fun and flare of boxing will call to hundreds of followers of the game in all sections of eastern Connecticut this (Thursday) evening when the initial card of the season will be presented at the Casino Arena here.

Promoter Frank Barber has acceded to the call of hundreds of his patrons by arranging a series of bouts in which boys representative of various eastern Connecticut towns and cities will participate. This is what the supporters of the game have been clamoring for. Tonight they will realize their desires.

If they want action, they will get it tonight, for the boxers are so paired that about every event should furnish a whirlwind of excitement.

There are five bouts in the list—a total of 10 scheduled rounds. Inspection of the arrangement of bouts would lead one to anticipate a feast of what is a favorite sport of thousands.

There are to be two star bouts. In one of these Frank Busch of Norwich will be in there trading wallops with Young Pelky of Worcester. Those who know the history of these men in the ring can imagine what cyclonic milling is due when they get together. There is a match! Both have been seen in bouts here. Both are game, hard-hitting, forward-stepping boxers. There is a wide division of opinion as to which will win. They are scheduled to go eight rounds tonight at 168 pounds.

In the other star bout two gentlemen of color will furnish the action. If they measure up to their reputations as millers, Baltimore Joe Gans, now resident in Norwich, and Joe Gill of Rockville should give the fans around the arena as fast a bout as this town has seen in many a day. They are both experienced ring men and each has some hard earned victories to his credit. Their friends say that the boys who watch them work tonight will get their admission back in the action represented in this one go. They are scheduled for 5 rounds at 110 pounds.

Speed should mark all the other bouts, in which little fellows will figure. Battling Terry of Danielson will be in there trying conclusions over a six-round route at 135 pounds with Young Derosier of Woonsocket. Both are fast workers.

Young Aldor of Danielson will have it out with Tommy Woods of Plainfield. These boys will make 133 pounds and go 4 rounds if they finish out their schedule.

Gene Robideau of Putnam and Billy Roberts of Danielson comprise the fifth hookup. They will make 133 pounds for their four-round battle.

It will be observed the fans will get what they have been asking for tonight—a card largely made up of boys from eastern Connecticut centers. Wise followers of boxing are agreed that the prospect is for more and faster action tonight than at any card of bouts yet staged at the arena. Hundreds will be there to watch the fun.

A. A. U. TO ACT ON BIG LIST OF RECORDS

New York, Oct. 15.—Important athletic legislation, action upon an unusual list of track and swimming records and election of officers are among the outsanding items on the calendar for the annual convention of the National Amateur Athletic Union, to be held November 16, 17 and 18 at Atlantic City.

Delegates from all parts of the country are expected to attend.

WINS SUIT AGAINST DETROIT BASEBALL CLUB

New York, Oct. 15.—Supreme court Justice McCook awarded a judgment for $1,101.10 in favor of William Massee against the Detroit baseball company today. Massee sued for services rendered in drawing up a "fair weather insurance policy" for the baseball club in 1921 and in obtaining its acceptance by the British Dominion Insurance company.

Colgate Off For West

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Twenty five members of the Colgate University football squad with coaches and managers left tonight for Lincoln, Neb., where on Saturday the Maroon eleven will meet the University of Nebraska team.

SPORTING NOTES

Several of the clubs of the Southern Association will start the pennant race next spring with new pilots at the helm.

Mike McTigue probably will be signed up at an early date to defend his title of light heavyweight champion in a bout with Gene Tunney.

Coach "Hurry-Up" Yost believes that he has the strongest football team turned out at the University of Michigan in some years. If his belief proves correct the other "Big Ten" football elevens will have to do some tall hustling to prevent the Wolverines from again running away with the bacon.

The National Championship Three-Cushion Billiard League plans to open its 1924-25 season on October 15 with an even dozen cue experts in the running.

William and Mary's little Japanese quarterback is doing his full share toward bringing football glory to the venerable Virginia college this season.

A golf school de luxe has been opened on the roof of one of the big resort hotels in southern California by John Duncan Dunn, the well-known golf professional.

Edward W. Mahin holds the record for having scored the most points of any individual player in a Harvard-Yale football game. In the contest of 1915 Mahan, playing for Harvard, scored twenty-nine points.

By giving five bases on balls in the opening game with the Senators, Pitcher Nehf of the Giants increased his total bases on balls in world's series games to 28, which is a record for any pitcher in the big classic.

A Southern college football team has been presented 21 rabbits' feet "killed by the light o' de moon." This multiple of the lucky seven is a mascot that is expected to assure victory for the team on the gridiron this Fall.

Ten years ago Walter Hagen, an American home-bred, 22 years old, won the open golf championship of the United States with a score never made before over a championship course in an American national title tournament, namely, 290 strokes for 72 holes.

It has been said that a football team is just as strong as its substitutes, and if this is the case Yale has reason to congratulate herself this fall. In the initial game of the season the blue subs made a splendid showing against North Carolina.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Twenty young goddesses of the sea riding speed-churned waves on leaping surf boards, crossing the line abreast, bouncing dangerously on waves lashed to a fury by powerful motors, provide a scene which combines novelty and thrills and open with a bang Cecil B. DeMille's latest production for Paramount, Feet of Clay.

Light, frothy, humorous, continuously entertaining are the opening scenes between the principals, Rod La Roque, Vera Reynolds, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Robert Edeson are featured players. The beach stuff moves fast and combines drama and color. From this sequence the story proceeds into the serious part of the plot rapidly.

The cast in this production is hand picked. The Arrow Collar boy and the girl with "that school girl complexion" set the standard for good looks among the minor players. Feet of Clay returns to all of the old DeMille sure-fire methods. It is luxury, gorgeousness, linked with a logical, dramatic, pictorial story.

You're sure to expect much from Cecil DeMille after Triumph and The Ten Commandments and if you but take a trip to the Broadway theater Sunday we promise you'll not be disappointed.

Broadway Theater

For the last half of the week another big double program has been arranged at the Broadway theater.

On the Wire with Stanley and Elva is the opening act. Comedy and real thrills are featured.

Frank Du Frane and Marea Craig in Scrambled Matrimony offer some real fun.

Hamilton and Egbert (Ham and Eg) in A Medley of Nonsense have a sure cross fire of fun.

The Ruby Trio, three charming misses close the program with Samples, which is a combination of songs, instruments and dancing.

Appearing in a story which gives full play to her remarkable personality, Betty Compson was seen at her best in James Cruze' superb Paramount production of The Enemy Sex, at the Broadway theater today. At the same time, Miss Compson scores a great personal triumph. In the strong supporting cast are Percy Marmont, Huntly Gordon, Kathlyn Williams, Sheldon Lewis and De Witt Jennings, enough talent for half a dozen pictures.

Film shoppers in search of unusual entertainment will make no mistake if they visit the Broadway to see The Enemy Sex.

Bargain Shoe Store Observes Anniversary

The Bargain Shoe Store at 267 Main street is observing its first anniversary. The year it has been established here has been one of service to the Norwich public. The continued patronage the store gets warrants this statement. Other years of not only equal but even greater success are looked forward to.

The store which is conducted on the self-service system is offering extraordinary bargains to its customers, the new and the old. Shoes of high quality will be sold at extremely low prices. Prices have always been low at the Bargain Shoe Store, not because inferior quality is offered but because of the great power of the Chain of stores of which the local store is a part.

M. Novogroski, one of the oldest and best shoe buyers in New England is president of the chain. Since 1896 he has been buying and making shoes. The business is not new to him. His experience enables him to buy at the right moment and give his customers the benefit of his judgment.

The Bargain Shoe Store is managed by M. Harten who enjoys a host of acquaintances in the city. M. Harten is district manager and is at the present time in this city to supervise the big anniversary sale. The bargains offered are real. The quality offered is also real. A visit to the store will prove this. "Service and courtesy" that is the motto upon which the store has built its fine business.

Notable Organist Will appear

Professor Gulick who plays at the Central Baptist Church Sunday morning has studied the organ with many of the best known teachers in this country. Among these were Dr. Carl P. Hoffman, the late Dr. Smith N. Penfield and Mr. J. Warren Andrews, then warden of the A. G. O. Later he coached in repertory with Mr. Edwin H. Lemare, the celebrated English organist and composer.

Mr. Gulick gave but one recital in New York city last season on account of his activities in other parts of the country. But this recital, on the immense Skinner organ in town hall, was spectacular both in the character of its program and in the large number of professional organists and other musicians who attended not only from the metropolitan districts but from a radius of many miles as well.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Continuing its policy of presenting to the local picturegoers the biggest of cinematic productions, the Palace theater starting Sunday, presents for the first time Frank Lloyd's First National picture The Sea Hawk, adapted from the best seller by Rafael Sabatini, author of Scaramouche, and regarded by critics and producers as the greatest sea story ever brought to the silver sheet.

Dealing with a spectacular romance and the piracy of the late Sixteenth century English, Spanish and Moors, The Sea Hawk is reputed to possess an extraordinary amount of thrilling incidents, red blooded action and tender romance amid many quaint and massive settings and the hands of the producer of Ashes of Vengeance, Les Miserables, Black Oxen and Madame X, the Sabatini narrative is said to have lost none of its highly entertaining drama, but rather to have been greatly enhanced in its adaptation to the screen.

One showing only Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m., and twice daily thereafter, 2:15 and 8 p. m.

All seats reserved. Now selling.

If you were a woman who craved the love of a husband and—

Your first husband proved untrue

Your second husband neglected you.

Would you run away with a poet to seek happiness?

This was the problem of Christine Madison. She did run away with the poet—or started to—when her plan for the happiness she had so long sought was upset by the loss of her five-year-old son.

Christine Madison is the heroine in the Thomas H. Ince-First National picture, Christine of the Hungry Heart, now showing at the Palace theatre.

Christine's problems were the problems that face thousands of women today. How she solved them, or rather how they solved themselves make up one of the most gripping stories told on the screen in many days.

New Telephone Girl story number two, Faster Foster, Pathe news and Sport Light.

Breed Theater

The most lively and best acted film that has been seen in a long time, was the verdict of the audience last night at the Breed theater, at the opening of Reginald Barker's new production for Merto, Broken Barriers, taken from the novel by Meridith Nicholson.

This story, which was adapted to the screen by Sada Cowen and Howard Higgin, deals with the divorce question and its relation to the younger generation, and gives rise to great heights of dramatic effectiveness.

The wonderful cast included such star players as James Kirkwood, Mae Busch, Adolphe Menjou, Norma Shearer, George Fawcett, Robert Frazer, Ruth Stonehouse, Winifred Bryson, Robert Agnew, Vera Reynolds and others. Broken Barriers is a Louis B. Mayer presentation through Metro.

Woman's League Supper

Friday night at 6 o'clock occurs the annual chicken pie supper for women at the Central Baptist church. A very interesting program has been arranged to follow the supper. All for 50c.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

WESTERLY

One hundred Knights Templar, the members of Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T. of Westerly, with sword, baldric and white feathered chapeau, will leave town by automobiles this (Thursday) afternoon for New London for a Templar parade, which will move at 3.59 p. m.

Eminent Sir Arthur E. Thompson, commander, will head Narragansett commandery, with his council, Generalissimo John A. Hoag and Captain General Arthur J. Card. The right guide of Narragansett commandery will be Senior Warden Robert Hazard and the left guide, Junior Warden David A. Lowry. Adjutant William Mitchell will command the commandery escort consisting of Sir Knights Robert F. L. Barr, James H. Blackler, Wilbur G. Cheever, William Davidson, Andrew W. Fisher, Francis G. Haswell, John H. Segar, Alexander G. Thomnson, John H. Williams, Ernest A. Young, Louis B. Kay, Julian Crandall, Arnold H. Burdick and Richard Mitchell. The standard bearer will be Robinson Hardie, sword bearer Edwin K. Parker, and warder, Francis M. Johnson.

Narragansett Commandery will parade in the last or third division, which will form in New London on the east side of Huntington street, right resting on a fixed marker. The chief of this division will be Eminent Sir Commander Arthur N. Nash, past commander of Narragansett and he will have for his aides, Em. Sir Henry E. Wagner of Ockanickon Commandery, Norwich, and Sir Knights William C. Smith, Jesse D. Mills and William H. Woodcock of Narragansett commandery of Westerly. Westerly band, Charles O. Smith, director, with 25 pieces, will lead the third division. The line of march will be from Huntington street to Tilley, to Bank, to State, to Huntington, to Broad, to Connecticut, to Granite, to Channing, to Bank, to Hempstead, to Franklin, to Main, to Union, to Washington street where the parade will be dismissed, the formation being circle column of three files at a time. Substitute rest period.

Western previous to the start of the marriage to New London a number of Narragansett commandery will be present in their automobiles at 2 p. m., following which about 40 automobiles will leave in time for the parade. The past commanders of Narragansett commandery will be members of the staff of Grand Marshal R. E. Sir Calvin Congdon of New London, past grand commander of Connecticut.

The second day's session of superior court for Washington county in the Westerly trial calendar began at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the court house on Union street, Judge Arthur P. Sumner on the bench. The docket for Clerk W. [illegible] Wednesday was the [illegible] of South Kingstown, the case of the damage case [illegible] Angelo vs. Angelo Turo [illegible] which plaintiff [illegible] damages for [illegible] eye, caused by a [illegible] automobile by the [illegible] Attorney [illegible] for plaintiff, [illegible] to the jury. Judge Sumner followed. During [illegible] Judge Sumner paused to [illegible] who is too [illegible] in the case, the [illegible] be tested."

At 4 o'clock the jury returned [illegible] the defendant, as [illegible] of negligence previous to [illegible] in the case of the Kimball [illegible] of Bloomfield, N. J., vs. C. Palmer Chapman [illegible]. The case [illegible] contract for a [illegible] one set in April 1920 [illegible] $631 was stated never [illegible] been paid.

For trial of the Empire Co. vs. C. Palmer Chapman, the following jury was drawn: William A. Sheridan, South Kingstown; Raymond E. Lewis, North Kingstown; Edgar Howard, Westerly (excused); Roland F. Hazard, South Kingstown; Edward [illegible], Westerly (excused); John Hopkins, Richmond, (foreman); Fred Matteson, South Kingstown; Walter [illegible], Northup, South Kingstown; Everett Barnes, Westerly (excused); Charles [illegible], South Kingstown; Walter D. Kenyon, Hopkinton; Herbert E. Burdick, Hopkinton; Percy W. Hathaway, South Kingstown; John F. Perkins, Exeter; and George A. Johnson, Charlestown.

William H. Bseeder, credit and collection department manager of the Empire Cream Separator Co. of Bloomfield, N. J., was the first witness put on the stand and he identified a copy of the contract signed by the defendant and Roy E. Sheldon of the Springfield, Mass., office as agent on April 22, 1920. Spare jurors were excused until 2 o'clock. In the afternoon the plaintiff finished its evidence and C. Palmer Chapman, the only witness for the defense, was on the stand. The jury was sent out and Attorney Ferguson for the defense moved for a non-suit, which motion was denied by Judge Sumner and trial was continued. At the conclusion of Wednesday's session the evidence on both sides was all in.

Complaint, State, Ames L. Kenyon, overseer of poor of Hopkinton, complainant, vs. Wilfred Palmer is the first case to be heard on the Westerly trial calendar for this term of court.

Early risers in Westerly and vicinity rubbed their eyes Wednesday when the giant dirigible ZR-3 picked out six of the 5006 miles of its non-stop flight of 80 hours and 46 minutes from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., elected to pass squarely over the town. In the half-light between the first break of dawn and daylight its huge bulk with gondola cars, not unlike pullmans on the railroad with windows lighted, was plainly in view, flying at a low altitude at 5.40. Many sleepers were awakened from their slumbers in time to get more than a fleeting glimpse of the big air visitor and were able to observe its rear red light and blinker lights, while a slowly settling moon remained in the sky before the sun had risen. The noise of the motors were reported similar to a big truck in low gear going up a steep grade. It was curiously to see the supposed truck that took so long to climb the grade which gave many a sight which they reported as not to be missed again "for worlds."

Farmers to the east of Westerly reported the air craft as moving very close to the earth and at a speed that did not appear to be great, for the big blimp continued to remain in sight for some time. An early rising Westerly town councilman residing on a farm to the north of Westerly stated that "it lacked some of hitting two of his hay stacks in the field" but he was positive that it had to tilt its nose upward to get over Hinckley hill, in Pawcatuck. To many it was apparent that the rails of the New Haven road were kept in sight to mark the westward passage of the latest addition to the air fleet of this country.

Tuesday morning at 8 oclock Miss Nona Murphy and William Joseph Geary, both of Westerly were united in marriage at St. Michael's church by Rev. John F. X. Quinn. Father Quinn also celebrated the nuptial mass. During the service Martin H. Spellman sang O. Promise Me and at the offertory of the mass he sang Gounod's Ave Maria. The wedding marches were played by the organist, Mrs. Thomas Murray.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Louise Murphy. Francis Geary, a cousin of the groom, was best man. The bride wore white canton crepe. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in blue georgette and her silvery georgette hat was trimmed with blue. She carried pink roses. Following the ceremony at the church a breakfast was served to about 35 relatives at the Inn.

Sixteen past councilors from Westerly attended the 26th annual session of the state council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, held in Elks' hall, Woonsocket, Tuesday, with 140 past councilors present. The reports showed the state council to be in a very prosperous condition having made a pleasing gain in members and finances.

The election resulted as follows: Junior past state councilor, B. Ralph Cornell, Shannock; state councilor, James E. Batty, Pawtucket; state vice councilor, Lester W. Crocker, of Providence; state council secretary, George E. Harvey, Wakefield; state council treasurer, Henry F. Sweetland, Sekonk, Mass.; state council conducor, Edwin H. Blackler, Westerly; state council ward, Perley F. Cox, River Point; state council inside sentinel, A. Everett Ernst, Providence; state council outside sentinel, Charles W. Brown, East Providence; state council chaplain, Fred L. Northrup, Narragansett Pier; representatives to national council, William H. Gardner, Providence, Frank L. Walling, Woonsocket, Henry W. Sutcliffe, Westerly. The Daughters of America of Woonsocket, an auxiliary to the Junior O. U. A. M., served dinner and furnished an entertainment.

The next session of the council will be held at Phoenix.

At the home of his mother, Mrs. Maria Dunn, 150 Granite street, Wednesday evening, at 7:15 o'clock, occurred the death of George F. Dunn, 48, who has been ill for the past two years. Besides his mother he is survived by two brothers, John J. James A., and two sisters, Mrs. William D. Dolan and Miss Elizabeth A. Dunn.

The Westerly police have been notified by the Norwich authorities to be on the outlook for Josephine Murphy, 30, who has left the Connecticut state hospital, at Brewster's Neck. She was described as wearing a long cape with brass buttons over a light colored dress, was bareheaded and has bobbed hair. She was reported as staying in the woods near White Rock Tuesday night and on Wednesday night Westerly police officer Michael Curtin went to White Rock to investigate.

John V. Sharpe, a farmer residing on the Stonington road, out of Westerly, was bitten by a dog Wednesday morning in Pawcatuck while delivering milk.

His son, when attempting to enter the premises occupied by John E. Howard, 4 Prospect street, found a dog which did not appear to be friendly and returned to his father, who stated all that was necessary was to speak to the dog. When the father entered the place that talisman did not work, for the dog leaped upon the man and bit off the left side of his nose. Treatment was given the injured man by Dr. Michael H. Scanlon.

PUBLIC RECEPTION FOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR BINGHAM

A public reception for Lieutenant Governor Hiram Bingham when he comes here to speak at the rally next Tuesday night has been arranged for by the republican town committee.

The reception will be at the Wauregan house from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, preceding the rally at the town hall. Hon. Bert M. Fernald of Maine, who is to speak at the rally, will also be present for the reception, which is arranged for in order that the citizens may have an opportunity to meet and greet the republican candidate for governor.

Henry Cummings, of Brunswick, Me., a car operator, acquired a roast of pork in a mysterious manner. When he arrived in the car barn after his last trip he climbed to the roof of his car to assist the trolley pole. There was the roast and never a sign to explain how it got there.

JEWETT CITY

Street Commissioner Edmund Jodoin is in charge of work which was commenced Wednesday afternoon in connection with the installation of two new flashing traffic beacons. The lights will stand in the center of the state road at Postoffice square and at Tracy's corner. In connection with the flash lights, there will be a white button guide, on the other side of the intersecting streets.

Jerry Jarvis, 76, formerly of Jewett City, died in Moosup, Tuesday, after a long illness. He was born in Canada, August 28, 1848. He was married in North Adams, Mass., on April 17, 1866, fifty eight years ago. Mr. Jarvis lived in Jewett City thirty-one years and will be buried in the Lisbon cemetery. He is survived by his wife, ten children, twenty-seven grand children and eight great-grandchildren. His children are Rose Liberty, Dorey Jarvis, Etphage Jarvis and Luminia Garaud all of Jewett City, Charles Jarvis of Detroit, Mich., Jerry Jarvis, Jr., of Plainfield, Dellor Jarvis of Providence, and Adolphu Jarvis of Moosup.

Mrs. A. G. Bishop of Mechanic St., who has been recovering from an operation for appendicitis at Backus hospital, is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Davis.

Mrs. George H. Prior is in Ingersoll Ontario, attending the provincial King's Daughters' Convention. She is to deliver two addresses as International President of the order.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lee of Norwich were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dudkowski.

Paul Geist, lost one of his handsome pair of young horses, Sunday night. Hours of work by a veterinary doctor from Norwich failed to save, the animal which was valued at $200.

Richard Dudkowski is the democratic nominee for representative, not, Chester as was stated in Wednesday's Bulletin.

It was learned Wednesday that the Chub Rock culvert, told about in the Bulletin of Oct. 15th was intended by the builders of the Norwich and Worcester railroad, to be, last of all, a water carrier.

When the road was built, all the land now owned by the Aspinook company on the east side of the track was pasture land. In the deeding of the right of way, it was stipulated that the purchasers must provide a way for grazing cattle to reach the Quinebaug for water. This the railroad engineers accomplished by building a tunnel-like culvert, under the track opposite Chub Rock.

Rev. Elmer E. Scates, Dss. Daniel L. Phillips and Rev. John W. Payne are in New Haven, delegates from the Baptist church to the state convention being held in that city.

Reports were received Wednesday from seven Griswold potato growers, which tells the story of the about half a crop all through this section. Daniel Morgan, the pretty well established potato king of this vicinity said his crop fell off from his reckoning of a normal yield, to less than half.

Griswold farmers planted certified seed which cost $3.00 per bushel, paid 360.00 per ton for fertilizer and 40 cents per pound for arsenate of lead. With the overhead expense, costs of cultivating, spraying, planting and digging, the farmer rightly asks "How do we get off with potatoes in our bins only worth $1.00 per bushel."

The local Red Cross chapter has been asked to knit porch sleeping caps for the U. S. Veterans' Hospital at New Haven. Any who are willing to knit may get the yarn and directions from Mrs. R. F. Cheney. It is very necessary that the caps be finished quickly in order that they may be ready for cold weather.

In connection with the borough's new flashing traffic beacons, when the lights are finished, the local police propose to live strictly to the letter of the law, relative to state road traffic regulations. Any infraction will result in a fine to the violator. These fines go to the town. The question is asked why not whack up with the borough that pays for them, for their maintenance and the electricity they use.

HOW A HOUSE WAS UNPINNED AND MOVED OVER TWO MILES

Jewett City, Oct. 15—Fred Maynard is making improvements on his store and residence in the Park section of North Main street. Plans are completed to raise the roof six feet and change the second story into a modern 7-room flat, which he will occupy. His store is to take up the entire street floor. A bit of historical fact connected with this building is of local interest. This house was built about 1790 on the what is now Paul Geist's farm in Lisbon. Just previous to the war of 1812, probably in 1810, Deacon Joel Hyde, Mrs. Annie Geist's great-great-grandfather bought the farm. He was a Revolutionary soldier and something over 100 years ago he carried on the business of cabinet maker, the house in question being his shop. Records available show that a Jewett City man bought the house in the summer of 1824, as it stood on the farm in Lisbon.

Just 100 years ago, the new owner of this building, was wondering how to get it to its projected site in Jewett City. The two miles' journey looked big, and then there was the added difficulty, the necessity of crossing the Quinebaug. All the great frame, studding, rafters and floor joists are of hewn oak, and are all pinned together. Men were called from near and far, and the house was literally "unpinned," after which oxen drew it to where it now stands. The heavy white oak corner posts are still pinned wherever a joint is made, and are hard and sound, which seems remarkable when it is known, that doubtless the distant roar of the cannon of the revolution may have startled the woodsman, who felled them in the Lisbon forests.

Deacon Hyde bought the Geist farm from Col. Ebenezer Tracy. At the time of the purchase, the three farms, now known as the Anderson, Whalley and Geist places were owned by three Tracy brothers. Not long ago to Henry Allen of Norwich who was a descendant of the Tracy family of Revolutionary days, came to Lisbon to secure photographs, taken on what was once the Tracy brothers extensive acreage in Lisbon.

Longer Life for Balloon Tires

This means that they will bend and flex more, but it is this bending and flexing that breaks down most tires.

The construction of these cords gives them greater elasticity.

They stretch farther before they will break.

Hence they stand more shocks than other cords.

Supertwist Cord is used only in Goodyear Tires.

So in Goodyear Balloons you are assured not only of greater riding comfort but maximum durability as well.

HELPS ABOUT HOUSE LIGHTING

LIGHTING THE LIVING ROOM

The living room is usually not only the largest room in the house, but it is also the room that is most used. In most homes it serves as the sitting room, the parlor, the library and the music room.

Because we do so many different things in this room, we need lighting that can be changed and varied to suit our purpose. For example, if we wish to entertain our friends by dancing or playing cards, we should be able to flood the whole room with plenty of soft, cheerful light; if we wish to read or sew, we should be able to have the light come over our shoulder from behind a favorite chair; if we wish to play the piano and sing, we should have the music well lighted. At all times the lighting effect should be pleasant and attractive.

To get these effects we need three different kinds of lighting equipment in the room. First we have a fixture hung from the ceiling with which we can flood the room with light; then we have table lamps and floor lamps which are portable and can be rearranged, to give a good reading light. Finally, we may have bracket fixtures on the walls, which give us charming spots of colored light—never too bright and only used to add attractive decoration to our other lighting.

"Bulbs" are known by the amount of electricity it takes to light them. The unit by which they are classified is the "Watt" and bills for electric lighting current are rendered in terms of a "kilowatt-hour," which is one thousand watts for one hour, or one hundred watts for ten hours.

The total watts needed in any room depends upon the size of the room, the kind of fixtures used, the color of the walls and the lighting effect wanted. In most cases good lighting will require as little as one or as much as five watts of light for each square foot of floor space in the room.

[illegible] we have to think about [illegible] sure we have [illegible] the living room. 1. [illegible] light where we [illegible] the bulbs well [illegible] do not have any [illegible] the lighting equipment [illegible] the room, and does [illegible] and unlighted with [illegible] woodwork?

PORTABLE LAMPS

Portable lamps include floor lamps, table lamps and small pedestal lamps, candlesticks, torcheres, etc., for mantel and bookcase. The best portable lamps have shades which are deep enough to hide the bulbs and dense enough to prevent glare. Some are built to send more light up toward the ceiling as well as down toward the table or floor. Those use large bulbs and are designed to provide general lighting by reflection from the ceiling well shaded, so that glare does not prevent their effectiveness as a beautiful decoration. The use of bulbs larger than the 15 or 25-watt size cannot be recommended.

lamps from which more is required than merely decoration will need bulbs which have a total of 50 to 100-watts or more; in the interests of economy, those which are merely a decoration do not need more than a 25-watt bulb. Duplex outlets in the baseboard permit the greatest convenience and use of portable lamps for lighting.

WALL BRACKETS

Sometimes people try to provide as well as local lighting. Portable general lighting for the entire room with wall brackets. Except under under unusual circumstances, this leads to one result—the use of larger bulbs whose brightness is annoying.

Bracket fixtures on the walls are merely decorative spots of colored light. Since they are almost directly in front of the eyes of someone in the room, a light bright enough to furnish useful light soon becomes annoying and causes eyestrain.

It is most important that these be

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

SICK WOMAN MADE HAPPY

Mart, Texas.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build me up as was all run-down, nervous and sick. I ached and hurt all over so that I was often compelled to go to bed, and I had to have most of my work done. No medicine seemed to help me until one of my neighbors who was taking the Vegetable Compound insisted on me trying a bottle of it. The medicine helped me from the first, and the best of all is that I can even sew again without that awful, nervous feeling I was used to having. And I used to take crying spells, with such a blue feeling that I cannot explain. Now all that has left me. I feel so cheerful, and I have gained in weight, sleep well and eat hearty. Oh! I wish I had words to express what this medicine has done for me! I am a housekeeper and do every thing from the sewing to the washing now and it doesn't hurt me. You may use my letter in any way you wish. I will be glad to help any suffering woman to the road of health and happiness."—Mrs. B. F. BRANNON, 404 Travis Ave., Mart, Texas

SENATOR F. B. BRANDEGEE'S BODY TO REACH NEW LONDON FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 15.—The funeral of United States Senator Frank Bosworth Brandegee, who ended his life at his residence in Washington Monday night while in a depressed condition as a result of worry over poor investments, will take place at St. James' Episcopal church in this city Friday. The body will arrive in New London from Washington Friday morning on the Colonial express; due to reach here at 11:37 o'clock. The body will be accompanied by sixteen senators and congressmen, including Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and George B. McLean, the latter Senator Brandegee's Connecticut associate in the senate. Immediately following the arrival of the body here it will be taken to St. James' church, to lie in state until the hour of the funeral in the afternoon. The services will be conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of the church. Besides the delegation of mourners from Washington, there will also be in attendance many well known politicians from throughout New England also a representation of the State Bar association.

Ulderich St. Germain of Waterford drove his Buick six-cylinder car of 1920 model down the Norwich road yesterday at a pace that made State Policeman Robert E. Anderson seek the driver as a reckless fellow. Anderson had a Ford, but he lit out to follow St. Germain and found that he had to speed his "Lizzie" at 35 miles an hour. He was equal to the task and so was his Ford, so he overtook Mr. St. Germain and ordered him to court, where today he was fined $25 for reckless driving. Mr. St. Germain said he was driving only 15 to 20 miles an hour.

Michael Shea of Stonington was presented for intoxication, but as he had not been in the court during the period the prohibition has been in effect he was given leniency by suspension of judgment for 24 hours.

Walter Sheil is ill with pneumonia. Mrs. Del Burr is also ill with the same disease. The condition of the latter is critical.

An automobile passed through Bank street, between Tilley and Howard streets yesterday morning early and the occupants hurled quantities of Ku Klux Klan literature to the street as the machine speeded along. None of the occupants of the automobile were recognized.

Mrs. Kresengie Ackerman, of Waterford; Mary Quarana, Westerly; Angelo, Millie and Minnie Vitterio, Westerly, and Marguerite and Herman Gass, Lyme, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

An automoile owned and operated by Arthur Dayton, Station 6, Waterford, was struck by a Connecticut company trolley car on Bank street late last night. The automobile was damaged.

Mayor David Fitzgerald, of New Haven, was a visitor in New London today.

Pasquale Capone, 24 Danielson avenue, Groton was charged by State Police Officer Robert Anderson, Groton, this afternoon to appear in the court here next Saturday charged with reckless operation of his automobile on the Post road last Saturday afternoon when he guided the car to the driveway of the New England Iron & Metal company, Howard Rooney, 12, Clark avenue, Waterford, was run down and received a fractured leg. The youth is under treatment at Lawrence hospital.

Henry H. Walker, manager of the Norwich Automatic Feeder company, today lodged complaint with the police against a group of boys breaking windows at the plant on Trumbull street.

An automobile owned and driven by Joseph A. Keefe, 332 Lisbon street, Jewett City, and driven at the time by Michael Robillo, 33 Church street, were in collision this morning at the junction of Munsell avenue and Bank and Hobron streets. Keefe's car was badly damaged.

Loren Kehrs, 51 Connecticut avenue and Walter Rowson, 22 Park St., Groton, were patients discharged at Home Memorial hospital today.

Attorney Thomas E. Troland and George W. Mason were unanimously nominated at the republican city and town convention of the 13th district, which took place at the municipal building last night. The town committee was empowered to fill any vacancy that might arise.

The board of registrars was in session today for the last time.

Byron DeVault of Fort Wright was arrested by Traffic Officer William Corcoran late this afternoon charged with intoxication and upon complaint of George W. Ross, 28 Douglass St. He will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow. Ross was in bed at his home about 5 o'clock when DeVault entered the place and within a few minutes DeVault was in an ugly mood. Becoming further angered at Ross, DeVault picked up a kitchen stove from the floor and dropped it in bed with the occupant. Luckily there was no fire in the stove, but there were plenty of ashes and these filled the space in the bed not occupied by Ross and the stove. Ross arose and immediately lodged complaint with the police, resulting in DeVault's arrest a few minutes later.

Joseph Francis, 6, was picked up by the Providence police this evening and is now being cared for at the Providence Central police station, this city. Inquiry at the Harrison street address brought the information from a relative that the boy had not been in New London for two years and that the last knowledge they had of the youngster was when the father and boy moved to Rhode Island and it was likely that the boy is still residing in Providence.

The store of oPter Mros, corner of North Bank and John streets, was raided early this evening by County Detective William Lewis, Prohibition Enforcement Agent Joseph Fitzpatrick, Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolmen John Clifford, John Sullivan and Augustus Ray. Seven quarts of liquor, of the hooch type, a half pint of liquor and a quantity of coloring was found and seized. Mros was arrested charged with violation of the liquor law and was held in bonds of $1000 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. George H. Beck qualified as surety on the bond. Detective Lewis and Prohibition Enforcement Agent Fitzpatrick obtained knowledge that Mros was selling liquor at the place which was formerly a saloon. Obtaining the assistance of the city department the officers entered the store and made a search. The hiding place, at the threshold of two doors and beneath the flooring finally revealed the place of keeping of the liquor which was in bottles labeled "William Penn."

Mros has before been convicted of violation of the liquor law, having been arrested about a year ago and served a term in the county jail imposed by the superior court.

A chimney fire broke out this evening at the dwelling 35 Truman street owned and occupied by Mrs. Edith Reed. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Niagara Engine company and Allen Hook & Ladder company responded. When the fire was discovered it was believed that the burning soot would ignite the interior of the building, but a liberal supply of chemicals prevented such results and the fire was quickly subdued and without damage of moment.

The second probe of a special inquiry board into alleged utterances at a recent Ku Klux Klan meeting at Cheshire, of Chief Petty Officers John L. Hess, Joseph J. Capedeville and Roy T. Johnson, stationed at the submarine base, took place late this afternoon at the base. The finding of the board will be forwarded to Washington within a few days. The principal witnesses were Daniel T. Ferrington, Waterbury politician; Walter R. Brooks and John J. Mullen, reporters on the Waterbury Republican and Joseph Bergin, also of Waterbury, who testified to the alleged utterances of the petty officers.

James Murphy, the young man who attacked and is accused of having robbed oJhn Rooney, in an alleyway off Bank street, will appear in the police court Thursday for a hearing on a charge of assault with intent to rob. Rooney is 56 and in a weak physical condition, while Murphy is about 24. The attack is said to haves been a most brutal one, under conditions that make it within the penalty of a state prison term, if conviction comes to Murphy. Rooney had a bottle of liquor and was given to him by some friend. That bottle was in the possession of Rooney when Murphy attacked him. The old man was held against the wall of a building and Murphy then poured some of the contents of the liquor bottle into the mouth of Rooney against the will of the latter. Rooney declares that he had not drank any liquor for months and that the beverage he had on his person was to have been kept by him for emergency. It was supplied to him with the understanding that he should thus keep it. The attack was witnessed by a man who will be brought before the court where he can tell what he observed. That story is said to be such that it is likely to convict Murphy or lead to his being bound over in the superior court. He is now held in jail with his bail fixed at $5,000. He has been a railroad brakeman. Murphy endeavored to escape from the city by way of a freight train, but he was pursued to Saybrook and there apprehended at the point of a revolver.

RAYMOND FRASER ATTEMPTS TO SUICIDE BY GAS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 15.—Raymond Fraser, about 24, employed by the Connecticut Power company, attempted self-destruction this afternoon by inhaling gas at his residence, 583 Main street. That he was not successful in destroying himself was due to his timely discovery and the obtaining of immediate medical attendance. He is now a patient at Lawrence hospital, but his condition has improved so rapidly since he was admitted there that Fraser will probably return to his home tomorrow. What caused Fraser to attempt at suicide is not known, but it is believed he was despondent from some reason known only to himself.

Fraser went to his home shortly after noon and entering one of the rooms, closed the door and then proceeded to plug the crevices about the windows and door with quilts and other articles to prevent the gas fumes reaching other parts of the house. Then he turned on the cocks of a cooking stove, allowing the poison fumes to fill the room. The odor of escaping gas was detected by occupants of the house, who hastened to the room occupied by Fraser where he was found in a semi-conscious state. Patrolman Clarence Martin was notified and sent a hurry call for a physcian to the police station. City Physcian George P. Cheney responded and after administering first aid treatment, ordered Fraser transferred to the hospital. Fraser regained complete consciousness a short time following his admission and his improvement was rapid.

WOMAN SOMNAMBULIST STOPPED BY PATROLMAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Clarence Abells, 74 Howard street, a somnambulist, was found walking in her sleep on Bank street early this morning and although attired only in a scant night-dress in the chilly air Mrs. Abells failed to awaken until stopped by Patrolman William Babcock. Mrs. Abells arose about 2 o'clock and was not detected by members of her family, as she walked through the rooms of her residence and passed through the front entrance to the street. She continued through Howard street to Bank street in her thin raiment and when between Sparyard street and Lane A was observed by Patrolman Babcock. The officer hastened to the woman and finally awakened her. The officer accompanied the somnambulist to her home and today she was none the worse for her experience.

COLCHESTER

At the Dublin school the boys of the seventh and eighth grades held their first athletic meeting Oct. 11. It was decided at the meeting, that the boys would have a rugby football from the high school freshmen for $3. This ball was used by the seventh and eighth grades Athletic club of last year. The following officers were elected: President, Edward Segar; secretary, Mayer Manchik; treasurer, Prof. R. Vey Merrill. The enlargement of the playground of the Dublin school is very much appreciated. The pupils have been practicing fire drills and have succeeded in all being out of the building in record-breaking time. In the reading contest between the M's and the K's the score now stands 24 to 28 in favor of the K's.

INFANTS' CASHMERE HOSE
39c a Pair

A bit of wool for the cold days is the usual rule and these 50c stockings have it. Shown in black, white, brown and gray.

TO MAKE RICH RED BLOOD

Revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves and increase your strength and endurance

Take Organic Iron; not metallic iron which people usually take; but pure organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. One dose of Nuxated Iron is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating one-half quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen apples. It is like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat. Nuxated Iron is partially predigested and ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron filings.

Millions of people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. A few doses will often commence to enrich your blood. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain satisfactory results.

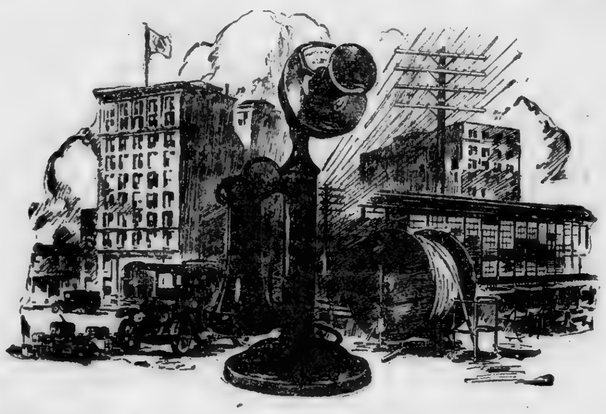
Beware of substitutes. Always insist on having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I., on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.

NUXATED IRON

COLOR IT NEW WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Beautiful home dyeing and tinting is guaranteed with Diamond Dyes. Just dip in cold water to tint soft, delicate shades or boil to dye rich, permanent colors. Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings, everything new.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods.



Individual Service—Nation-Wide Facilities

TELEPHONE service is essentially an individual service. Each subscriber must be dealt with as an individual. His telephone instrument is a piece of individual, personal equipment. But to coordinate this instrument with a nation-wide system requires supplementary facilities in wholesale quantities.

In itself, this instrument represents only a relatively small investment. Its proportionate share, however, in the total investment in wire, poles, switchboards, buildings and other plant required to make Bell System service universal in scope is an hundred times its own value.

This investment per instrument is steadily increasing as more and more equipment, constantly growing more complex, is put into service at the present high prices of labor and materials.

Centralized manufacture and years of continuous research have enabled the Bell System in some measure to meet this rising tide of plant investment. The result is that its service remains unrivalled not only in efficiency and in extent but in economy from the standpoint of cost to the subscriber.

MARKET GAINED STRENGTH

New York, Oct. 15.—Brisk accumulation of the oil shares, combined with active short covering in other parts of the list, brought about a moderate recovery of prices in today's stock market. In the main, however, only about half of the ground lost yesterday was regained by the popular industrial and railroad issues.

Declaration of the regular dividend on Sinclair preferred, which had been reported in danger, and indications of a steady decline in oil production provided the impetus for the buying of the oils. Sinclair preferred showed a net gain of five points at 81, fair havoc sold as high as 82 1-2 and net gains of one o nearly three points were recorded by Sinclair common Colorado Fuel and Iron, the Pan-American issues, Pacific Oil, Texas company, Atlantic Refining, California Petroleum, Cosden, Houston, Maracaibo, Marland Phillips Petroleum, Producers and Refiners, Pure Oil, Simms Petroleum and Skelly.

United States Steel common closed about a point higher at 105 3-4. Most of the independent steels improved fractionally. Except for heavy railroad purchases, the weekly steel trade reviews report the usual pre-election hesitancy of buyers of steel products with indications that this cautious attitude will be maintained for the next few weeks.

Railroad shares rallied with the industrials although rather persistent selling took place in Great Northern preferred and Northern Pacific, each of which closed a point lower. Lackawanna, one of the outstanding weak spots in the carrier group yesterday, rallied 3 points to 133 while net gains of a point or more were recorded by Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware and Hudson, Erie first preferred and Missouri Pacific preferred.

National Biscuit rallied more than 3 points in reflection of the extra dividend on the common but lost part of its gain later. American Can closed about two points higher at 126 5-8. Other strong spots in the specialty list were General Electric, United States Cast Iron Pipe, Woolworth, American Water Works and Sears Roebuck, all up 2 1-2 points or more.

Call money ruled unchanged at 2 1-2 per cent. The time money market held firm with little money offered for 90 days under 3 1-4 per cent. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges lost ground on profit taking. Demand sterling ruled more than a cent lower at $4.48 1-2 and French francs were down about 6 points around 5.18 1-2 cents. A break of 17 points in Norwegian kroner followed the announcement of a large bank failure in that country. Danish exchange reacted in sympathy. Other rates showed only nominal changes.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 15.—Establishment of a new high record by the German bonds at 94 7-8, almost three points above the offering price, was the outstanding feature of today's bond market. Trading in the issue here was stimulated by reports of heavy oversubscription of the loan in London.

With allotments certain to be scaled down heavily, many dealers were forced into the market today to acquire bonds already promised to customers. As a result the price was pushed more than a point above yesterday's closing figure. The final quotation today was 94 3-4.

Trading in other foreign obligations was overshadowed by the interest in the German issue. Prices moved within narrow and irregular limits, with an easier tendency in evidence.

Railroad liens bore the brunt of selling pressure in the domestic list. Louisville and Nashville, Rock Island "Katy", and Southern Railway issues worked lower, but Seaboard Air Line bonds were in better demand. Sinclair Consolidated Oil issues registered substantial improvement in response to declaration of the regular preferred dividend, which had been reported in danger.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Sharp new upturns in the prices of wheat resulted today from continued export buying on a large scale. It was estimated that between six million and seven million bushels of wheat had been bought since Saturday for shipment to Europe. Wheat closed buoyant, 4 to 4 1-2 net higher, December 1.51 to 1.51 1-8 and May 1.55 3-4 to 1.55 7-8 with corn showing 1 1-8 to 1 7-8 gain, oats 1 3-8 to 2 1-8 to 2 1-8c up and provisions varying from 7c decline to 22c advance.

Notwithstanding some hesitancy which was evident here at the opening and which was ascribed to lower quotations at Liverpool, the wheat market in Chicago soon began to climb and the finish was virtually at the day's top figures, about 8c above the minimum on Saturday.

Something of a stampede on the part of the recent speculative sellers of wheat was apparent as the day drew to an end with broadened investment buying accelerated on account of the extraordinary sustained purchasing for Europe.

Corn and oats gathered most of their strength from wheat. A good deal of attention, however, was given to predictions that husking returns would prove a disappointment. The outlook, too, was for less favorable weather than has been the rule of late.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 15.—Strength of the oil shares, based on favorable trade news, overshadowed all other developments in today's curb market, prices in the general list moving irregularly. Prairie Oil and Gas and Penn-Mex Fuel each showed net gains of 4 points on the day, while gains of 1 to 2 1-2 points were recorded by Galena Signal, Imperial of Canada, International Petroleum, Magnolia and Standard Oils of New York, Nebraska nad Ohio.

Erratic movements marked the trading in public utility shares. American Light and Traction common broke four points and Tennessee Electric Power 3 while net gains of 1 to 3 1-2 were registered by American Power and Light, Commonwealth, East Penn Electric, Lehigh Power securities and Western Power Corporation.

Radio shares held fairly steady. Ford Motors of Canada moved up 5 points on a few odd lots sales and United Bakeries Corporation gain 2 1-4. Glen Alden Coal closed fractionally higher at 122 after having sold down to 119. Peerless Motors was run up 3 points to 19 on merger rumors but fell back later to 17 3-4.

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Lame people walk without aid; sleep comes to those who have been unable to lie in bed; hands that were helpless because of terrible rheumatism are now able to do their share for the support of the family.

Rheuma is a wonderful remedy for rheumatism, gout, neuritis, lumbago and neuralgia.

It is a wonder-worker; it never falters, never gives up until every vestige of poison is expelled from the body.

Rheuma acts on stomach, liver, kidneys and bladder all at once and quickly brings long prayed for comfort to distressed sufferers. Lee & Osgood Co. and all good druggists sell it with guarantee of money back if it isn't satisfactory.

This New Treatment Never Fails To End Piles

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, marvelous results have been obtained.

Lee & Osgood Co. dispense MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES in the original box or can get it for you on short notice.

POMONA WILL WORK DEGREE IN SALEM

Grange members from all over the county will be in Salem today (Thursday) for the meeting of New London county Pomona grange, No. 6, of which J. P. Hollowell is master. Salem grange No. 166, is to entertain the Pomona.

In the morning session there will be business and degree work. Mrs. L. B. Whitman, the lecturer, has the following programme arranged for the afternoon:

Instrumental solo, selected; conference matters; vocal solo, Sister Taylor, Lebanon; child welfare and the humane institutions of Connecticut, Mrs. Rosemary Anderson, New London; farce, No Men Wanted, Norwich, How shall the Farmer meet the Feeding Problem this Winter, discussion led by Brother Hugh Whitman, Konomoc; instrumental numbers, selected.

LEBANON D. A. R. HEARD PAPERS BY MEMBERS

Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R. held its October meeting in the war office at Lebanon last Monday. The meeting opened in the usual way with singing, prayer and pledge to the flag. After the business meeting very interesting papers were read by several members; Old Relics, by Mrs. Effie Clark; Old Forts in Connecticut by Mrs. Mary Mason and a paper about Oliver Ellsworth by Miss Annie Gillette. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Imogene Arnold and Mrs. Maude Manning.

GETS TWO SQUIRRELS FIRING ONE SHOT

Mrs. David Walsh of Leonard Bridge while hunting the other afternoon secured two gray squirrels with one shot. The squirrels must have been hugged down to the tree, side by side, as only one squirrel was visible, but two dropped when the gun was discharged, both being shot through the head.

SINGLE MEMBERS WIN IN PRESTON GRANGE PROGRAM

The regular meeting of the Preston City Grange, No. 110, Patrons of Husbandry, was held Tuesday evening. The special feature of the evening was the contest program given by the single members of the Grange. The married folks presented their program at the last regular meeting. Owing to the republican caucus, some numbers had to be omitted and there was a delay in commencing of the program. Nevertheless, the following program was well carried out.

Piano solo with encore, Sister Alice Krug; monologue, Brother Charles Pienads; vocal solo with encore, Brother Sidney Hall; mandolin solo with encore, Sister Florence Kennedy; a short farce, "An Unwelcome Visitor" by Sisters Cynthia Crary and Marion Pierce; A Talk on the Grange by Worthy Master Walter McClimon; vocal solo by Sister Jane Woinilowitz; violin solo, Harold Tabbins; dialogue "A Boggure Shrimp" by Anabel Furtier and Arthur Johnson; vocal solo with encore, Howard Zabriskie; comic reading, Sister Edythe Benjamin; vocal solo, Fred Wilcox.

Judge, Sidney Hall; attorneys, Walter McClimon, Frank Crary; crier, Randall Wilcox; clerk, Berlin Burdick; prisoner, Phelim O'Shaughness; Fred Benjamin; Hans Pumpernickle Fred Wilcox, Terrence Brady, Harold Muttart; Frau Pumpernickle, Sister Abbie Stanton; witnesses, Bridget Spalpeen, Sister Esther McClimon and Mrs. McJerk, Sister Edythe Pierce, Constable Ferret, Harold Robbins; bailiff, Charles Pienadz.

The last number was two round songs by the group of single members.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies and coffee were served. The judges were Mrs. Ida Richardson of Norwich Grange, Mrs. John Finegan, Sr., of Ledyard Grange and Worthy Master Edwin Lewis of Puchaug Grange.

At the close of the program the judges were asked to retire for a decision and soon returned with the result; in favor of the single members. The married members are to give the single members a supper at the next regular grange meeting.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels

"California Fig Syrup" is Dependable Laxative for Sick Children

Hurry, Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will sweeten the stomach and thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love its pleasant taste. It never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

TO REPRESENT STATE AT BRANDEGEE FUNERAL

Governor Charles A. Templeton Wednesday morning named Judge Abner P. Hayes, Waterbury; Attorney John H. Buck, Attorney Lucius Robertson, and Benjamin Holden, all of Hartford; Edward W. Higgins, Norwich; Charles B. Lockwood, Stamford; and Theodore Bodenwein, of New London, as the state delegation to attend the late Senator Frank B. Brandegee's funeral at Washington and accompany the body to its final resting place at New London. The delegation was scheduled to leave this state for Washington Wednesday night.

In addition to appointing the state delegation to attend the official funeral at Washington, Governor Templeton ordered that all flags in the state fly at half mast at least until after the funeral, and he has cancelled all speaking engagements until after that time. He was making preparations Wednesday to meet the body upon its arrival at New London and to be present at the senator's funeral in New London.

Besides the Connecticut delegation, the house committee will include Speaker Gillett and Representatives Graham, Pennsylvania; Burdick, Aldrich and O'Connell of Rhode Island; Wason, New Hampshire and Bachrach, New Jersey.

The honorary pall-bearers will be George Harvey, Truxton Beale, Charles C. Glover, H. Rozier Dulaney, Horace H. Westcott and John Hays Hammond.

DENIES SON'S SUIT FOR BUSINESS DIVISION

Bitter feeling between father and son, which began many months ago when the son eloped, have culminated in the severance of their business relations and the carrying of their difficulties into the superior court at New London.

Ralph B. Haas, through the medium of the court, hoped to secure a settlement of the affair between himself and his father, Archibald C. Haas of Mystic and a division of the accounts of the firm, R. C. Haas & Son, Mystic grocery firm, from which the younger man was discharged following his elopment.

Ralph Haas was secretly married on Nov. 14, 1922, and was notified that his connection with the firm A. C. Haas & Son, was severed."

His suit is for an adjustment of affairs of the concern and a division of the holdings. Judge Nickerson denied the suit on the grounds that it was not alleged that in spite of the younger man's discharge, the parinership was dissolved.

Opens Dancing Season

Mrs. Edward Andrews opened her school of ballroom dancing and deportment for Academy students Wednesday evening at the Community House which was very attractive with its decorations of autumn leaves and flowers. One half hour was devoted to the new steps with Miss Gertrude Platt at the piano after which Mr. Kyle's orchestra furnished music for social dancing. Mrs. Percival Chapman is chaperone for the season.

Took Automobile Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Leon L. Hayden and daughter Lucille of Norwich took a delightful motor trip to northern Massachusetts Mr. Hayden's old home town, last Saturday returning Sunday.

CONSTIPATION OVERCOME

The use of FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS will bring speedy relief from constipation if taken promptly. They are purely vegetable and act on the liver. Mr. John D. McComb, Lucas Co. Home, Toledo, Ohio, writes: "Have used Foley CATHARTIC TABLETS in severe cases of constipation to which I am subject and found them beneficial." FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS are easy to take, leave no unpleasant after effects. Try them.

ADDRESS ON COLUMBUS BEFORE NORWICH ROTARY

At the noonday luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club held at the Wauregan hotel on Wednesday, Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, a past president of the New London Rotary club, gave a very inspiring talk on The Vision of Faith. Rev. Mr. Danforth, who is always an interesting and eloquent speaker, in opening his talk told a number of appropriate humorous stories. In dealing with his topic the speaker reviewed the career of Christopher Columbus, who was of a deep religious nature, and who had faith that if he sailed west from Spain he would eventually come to land as he was one of the few that believed the world was round. He told how his faith led him on and how he was accorded great honors which soon faded as petty jealousies sprang up. Now arises the question, Was it worth while? Many people at that time thought not but those of the younger generations have come to believe that it was very much so and I am sure it was. You have noticed how the ocean waves come rolling in upon the shore, several little ones and then three that are larger than the rest. These large waves always come in groups of three through some peculiar manner. So it is with history, these waves of three. In Columbus' time we have three waves, learning a spiritual awakening and the discovery of a new world. And with these came the desire to get out into the broad open spaces and put into practice the visions that people have faith in. The result is plain as we look over the American continents today. Now we are even spreading our faith through the old world.

Effort is a great builder of character, it broadens the mind and clears the vision and gives us faith to go striving to reach that goal which all mankind has striven for down through the generations. The world was a means of broadening the character of our boys and men and yesterday when we set a fallen foe on its feet we practiced the doctrine of brotherly love and mercy. It is not the country that makes a great nation it is the personnel. Take Siberia with its great natural resources the same as the United States but it has not had the personnel with its vision of faith.

A man must grow with his bank account or there is sure to be trouble. We must broaden out, mingle with our fellow man and come to know and care for him. Rotary which was founded for just this purpose is spreading across the seven seas and is growing into a big organization of brotherly love. If you live you must grow, not necessarily in body but in mind and heart. Will the time ever come when we can say that we have ceased to grow? Never, I think. We shall go on answering the beckoning call of faith, a positive faith that led Columbus and other great men to do the great and good things that they have.

Rev. Danforth was given a hearty vote of appreciation for his talk. At the business session Dr. Hugh B. Campbell presided and Grosvenor Ely acted as song leader. It was voted that the club would turn out for participation in the Armistice Day parade and efforts are to be made to secure the Boys Band of Pittsfield. Herbert B. Cary, chairman of the programme committee announced that next week's meeting would be in charge of the educational committee. Several communications from International Rotary were read by Secretary Weymouth.

Rev. Roderick MacLeod, pastor of the Hanover Congregational church, read his resignation from the pastorate at the Sunday morning service at the church. He has accepted a call to Norwich, N. Y., and expects to go there in November.

GAVE REPORT OF KING'S DAUGHTERS CONVEN

The October meeting of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters, held Monday afternoon at the Johnson Home was largely attended. The leader Mrs. William E. Manning presided. Eleven new names were presented for membership.

At the next meeting it is expected to have a talk on the Near East Relief, also a collection taken for its benefit. Mention was made of the City Union meeting to be held at the Central Baptist church, Tuesday evening, October 28th.

During the meeting Monday, First Delegate Mrs. Herbert R. Branche read her report of the 28th convention of the King's Daughters and Sons, held for two days last week in Waterbury. Following is the report:

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the Connecticut Branch of Kings Daughters and Sons convened at Waterbury on Oct. 8 in the First Baptist church at 2 p. m.

The devotional service was led by Rev. D. P. Gaines pastor of the church. He read the K. D.'s chapter and saying that as long as we practice the democracy of religion our hearts beat right on the right side of the land and not to look down on muck and mire but up to the hills and sky. Not look in too much but look out, see the need for service, lend a hand and put in to practical use the spirit of Christ.

A warm welcome was extended by the Rev. R. F. Shinn of the West Side Hill Methodist church. The delegates standing and replying as follows—"We are glad we are here" "I was glad when they said unto me let us go into the House of the Lord. Our feet are standing within thy gates, O. Jerusalem. Peace be within thy walls and prosperity within thy palaces. For the sake of the House of Jehovah, our God I will seek thy Good." Mrs. Prior said this form had been followed in other conventions. We then listened to the minutes of the last meeting—appointment of committees—officers annual report and a strong plea for greater support of the Silver Cross.

Next on program under title of Allies of the Order came a most interesting address by Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney of Wollaston, Mass., on Enforcement of our Laws. In part she said we recognize the danger in being unable to enforce laws. Ancient nations perished for lack of enforcement of their laws, and it is particularly dangerous to nations where the people make their own laws as we do. Amendments to the Constitution have the same force as the Constitution, and it is our duty to obey the law and to teach others to do the same. Not so much to have a vision of law but law in the home that is the place to teach the great fundamentals, love of law, land and God. No one must criticize the country unless they take part in making it better. Only when we have done our best by prayer and vote then can we criticize. The women must do their duty and support the constitution of the United States and must teach allegiance to show allegiance to God and country. What is life worth to us or what does it mean unless we are making for righteousness and law? We must be above the law and support it or be below it and disobey it. Back of prohibition is the power of the nation to enforce the law. Entrance of women into politics brings a new era in government, but we must talk law and not personalities. Next we had some sweet songs by six girls from one of the schools about ten or twelve years old, recitations by two boys and two piano solos by a girl of the same class. These were all excellent. After reports from two counties dinner was served by the ladies of the church.

The evening session was called to order at 7.30. Dr. S. H. Scarborough of the First Methodist church led the devotions reading a part of the 12th Chap. of John and talking on the third about Mary annointing Jesus' feet to show her appreciation and lavish devotion. The greatest need of the world is vision, ideals, God. Mrs. Prior now gave a short address. She said: Some states have state mottoes, Illinois has a very fine one. "To know God's word is to know God." The dues and other resources are not now sufficient to support the work and some way must be devised to increase them, perhaps each circle will be asked to give one dollar or all have a drive for new members. She reminded us of Golden Rule Sunday, Dec. 7, saying that no rule exceeds loving consideration for others. At this time Miss Day of Colchester presented her with a platinum bar pin containing three diamonds, one for each year of her state presidency. She was much surprised and very grateful, said it assured her that Connecticut members were with her. An Indian preacher described his faithful workers to a white preacher as the invisible shoulder. When the burden is heavy some invisible shoulders seem to help lift the load. The gift is beautiful but far more beautiful is the love that prompted the gift. At this time 100 stereopticon views were shown depicting the activities of the order from Canada to Nicaraugua and from Maine to Hawaii and India. The Thursday morning session began at ten with a devotional service in charge of Miss Eaton 1st vice president. After singing a verse of Sweet Hour of Prayer, the county president read passages of Scripture each pertaining to different branches of the work—prayer, service, Bible, study, publicity, foreign work and junior work. The last speaker told of a class of little girls who were asked how old one ought to be to become a Christain, one said 10, another 7 and so on but one little tot said as soon as you are old enough to love some one. Mr. Casnir who has been working in the Near East graphically described what had been done for the 60,000 orphans there. They are being taught trades so as to become self supporting. All the diplomats in those countries love America and say no nation can compare with ours in love for children as shown through schools, socities and S. S. A Greek priest spoke in glowing terms of America saying we know how to teach Christianity. This all simmers down to the golden rule and that we must not relax our efforts to feed these children. After more county reports the credential committee made their report, 13 officers present, 37 leaders, 55 circles represented and altogether 150. State enrollment is 3,967, 121 circles, this includes 11 Jr circles with 203 members. Illinois leads in juniors but stands 7th in membership, Connecticut 4th in membership.

Officers for the ensuing year were then elected by a single ballot, Miss Mary Woodruff of New Haven being chosen state president.

Luncheon was served in the church dining room. At 1:30 a memorial service was conducted by Miss Martha W. Alden of Moodus. Then we listened to the story of Grove Hall, a home place for working girls, established by the K. D's, and is now self supporting. Mrs. Prior gave the charge to the newly elected officers, calling them to the platform and in reading verses of Scripture for each one and appropriate for their work. This was very impressive. With a closing prayer the convention adjourned. The program was interspersed with 3 delightful solos and several hymns. We were all invited to tea at Grove Hall and found it an attractive home for 30 or more girls.

OPERATES 25,000 APPENDICITIS CASES

One doctor in Europe is said to have operated 25,000 appendicitis cases! Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, guards against appendicitis because it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and brings out all poisons. Helps any case gas on the stomach in TEN minutes. Adlerika brings out matter you never thought was in your system. Superfluous Hair Rid FOREVER —or No Cost

Why tolerate unsightly hair on your face, neck, arms or legs when it can be removed quickly and safely—roots and all? Don't use expensive electric treatments, nor be a slave to a razor or ordinary depilatories which merely burn off surface hairs, and often strengthen the hair roots. A marvelous new magnetic balsam, which is applied almost as easily as cold cream, loosens every unsightly hair and gently lifts it out, root and all, leaving the skin healthy, clear and beautiful. No muss, no odor, no discomfort. Absolutely harmless. Try it on this guarantee—that it will absolutely rid you of superfluous hair forever—or no cost. BACKUS HOSPITAL HAD 1,711 PATIENTS IN YEAR

The W. W. Backus Hospital year ended at midnight, September 30, during which time an unprecedented number of patients, 1711, were cared for. This was a great increase over any previous year. 81 requests for application blanks for the training school were sent out during the year. 365 ambulance calls were made. Six members of the 1924 graduating class took their state board examinations Oct. 9th, 10th and 11th at the state capitol, Hartford.

A tree was thoughtfully arranged by the Lion's Club when six box tickets for their minstrel show were sent to the nurses.

Under the direction of Mrs. Luther Packer the services were conducted August 17th by Loyal Circle, September 7th by Grace Church, Yantic, September 14th by Mt. Calvary Baptist church, September 21st, Grace Circle, September 21 and October 5th by St. Patrick's Church. October 12th by St. Mary's church.

Mrs. J. J. Donohue, for the nurses' recreation committee, reports that twelve course tickets for the Norwich Music Association have been purchased for the use of the student nurses, thus providing entertainment for the first Monday evening of each month until April. A Hallowe'en party is being planned.

The holiday committee has nothing to report because there has been no holiday since Labor Day. However, perhaps the public will be interested to know that through the very generous response to the Christmas fund last year the committee has not yet touched this year's budget.

The donation committee has received contributions of jelly, bottles, cold cream jars, jelly glasses, linen, cotton, fresh peaches, apples, canned fruit and cakes. The amount of fruit and jellies is very gratifying but even more can be used. If anyone has not been solicited articles may be sent to Mrs. E. La Rue Bliven at any time or if notified Mrs. Bliven will call for such gifts. The following have sent contributions directly to the donation committee: Grace Church, Yantic, the United Congregational church, the Universalist church, Miss McNeil, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., Mr. Frank Browning, Mrs. E. J. Jones, Mrs. J. C. Macpherson, Mrs. Frank Kline, Mrs. Vernon Hiscox, Mrs. Louis Geer, Mrs. Walter Armstrong Mrs. Robert McNeely, Mrs. E. O. Rodier, Mrs. A. B. Stanton, Mrs. Emma Worthington, Mrs. Alvin Lewis, Mrs. Eliza Gray, Mrs. A. A. Gulic, Mrs. Shearer, Mrs. Daft, Mrs. Henry Woodmansee, Mrs. Clinton Simpson, Mrs. John Hill, Mrs. T. M. Eldridge, Mrs. Robert Montgomery, Mrs. C. R. Boss, Miss Aiken, Mrs. La Rue Bliven, Miss Hyde, Mrs. Harry Land, Mrs. C. R. Butts, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Miss Benjamin, the Misses Butts, Mrs C. P. Osgood, Mrs. Walter Turner, Mrs. B. P. Bishop, Miss F. R. Leavens, Miss Blackman, Mrs. Lozine Hurlburt, Mrs. H. M. Lerou, Mrs. W. T Browne.

Flowers have been sent every Saturday by the flower committee.

Various women are collecting donations of all kinds under the direction of the suburban committee.

The response to the demand for magazines continues to be good, and one new subscription to the Saturday Evening Post has been received by the magazine committee. These are very welcome gifts to the patients.

Donations sent directly to the hospital have been received from the following: Cake for the entire hospital family from the holiday committee, magazines and jelly glasses from the United Church, Mrs. William Parks, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. John Blackmar, Mrs. Graham, jelly from the auxiliary committee, 1-2 bushel apples donation committee, Mrs. C. E. Carpenter, Mrs. C. R. Rose, the Gwathmey Machine from the auxiliary, flowers from the Norwich Grange, magazines and ice cream from The Catholic Council of Women, flowers from the United Church, Mrs. W. R. Clark, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. C. E. Robinson, Mrs. Boyce, Mrs. C. H. Osgood, Mrs. H. E. Vignal, Mrs. E. Wheeler, 6 gallons ice cream from the ladies of St. Patrick's church, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. E. T. Phillips, 12 season tickets to Norwich Music Association from the recreation committee, Charles and Austin Flint Hubbard, Mrs. Keene, Mrs. George W. Carroll, W. C. Harrison, Dr. F. R Agnew.

The finance committee has made up a budget for the year which allows the standing committees the following sums: President $5, secretary $35, treasurer $15, membership $20, hospital visitation $30, holiday $250, religious services $5, publicity $15, donation $50, flowers $75, nurses recreation $150, literature $15.

The donation committee has received $1211.00, life members at $25, $550. Gifts at $44, making the total receipts $1755.00. The finance committee has spent $870.00, the most recent and interesting purchase being a Gwathmey apparatus, the ethylene model, which is equipped for giving nitrous oxide, oxygen and ethylene, is very light and portable, weighing about thirty pounds and can be used at any bedside to give oxygen in case of pneumonia. This machine cost $320. It has been demonstrated to the doctors and some of the committee and all were very enthusiastic. The Norwich State Hospital purchased one at the same time. It uses very little ether so the patient is rendered less uncomfortable.

In order to raise extra funds, a card party for auction bridge, mah jongg or whist is to be given at the state armory under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary. This is the first time that the auxiliary as a whole has met for such a purpose and it is anticipated that the response will be large. Prizes to be offered that day will be acceptable from any merchants or individuals who may desire to give them and if Mrs. William H. Dawley, Tel. 224, is called she will see that any prizes so offered are called for. Mrs. Willis Austin is in charge of the reservations for mah jongg and whist.

POETRY

From "To Autumn"

Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness
Close bosom-friend of the maturing sun,
Conspiring with him how to load and bless
With fruit the vines that round the thatch-eaves run;
To bend with apples the moss'd cottage-trees,
And fill all fruit with ripeness to the core;
To swell the gourd, and plum the hazel shells
With a sweet kernel; to set budding more,
And still more, later flowers for the bees,
Until they think warm days will never cease,
For summer has o-er-brimmed their clammy cells.

Where are the songs of Spring? Ay, where are they?
Think not of them, thou hast thy music too—
While barred clouds bloom the soft-dying day,
And touch the stubble-plains with rosy hue;
Then in a wailful choir the small gnats mourn
Among the river sallows, borne aloft,
Or sinking as the light wind lives or dies;
And full-grown lambs bleat from hilly bourn;
Hedge-crickets sing; and now with treble soft
The redbreast whistles from a garden croft;
And gathering swallows twitter in the skies.

—John Keats.

What Is Good

"What is the real good?"
I asked in musing mood.

Order, said the law court;
Knowledge, said the school;
Truth, said the wise man;
Pleasure, said the fool;
Love, said the maiden;
Beauty, said the page;
Freedom, said the dreamer;
Home, said the sage;
Fame, said the soldier;
Equity, the seer;—

Spake my heart full sadly,
"The answer is not here."
Then within my bosom
Softly this I heard:
"Each heart holds the secret Kindness is the word."

—John Boyle O'Reilly.

Great Britain will take a census of production in 1924 covering agriculture, fishing, mining, building and all factories, employing more than five persons. This is to be similar to the one taken in 1907, except that at that time all undertakings, however small, were included. The intermediate census of 1912 was taken in 1913, but no report was published, because of the outbreak of the great war, and the 1917 census was postponed because of the abnormal conditions in industry.

"DRYS" ARE NOT SATISFIED WITH PRESENT CONDITIONS

Grievances Uttered by Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel of the Anti-Saloon League—Law Enforcement Unsatisfactory, Rum Smuggling a Menace, Rum Row a Disgrace to Foreign Nations—Gives Statistics: 6,000,000 Gallons of Industrial Alcohol Drunk Last Year Illegally, 2,500 New Drug Stores Started, 17,000 Doctors Took Out Whiskey Prescription Permits For First Time—Claims Decline in Death Rate of 1,000,000 Lives Since Prohibition and Enumerates Many Material Benefits Derived.

[illegible] N. Y., Oct. 16—Before pro[illegible]"there were twenty five mil[illegible]ar drinkers while now there [illegible] three million who get ten [illegible]s as much publicity, Wayne B. [illegible] general counsel of the anti-[illegible] league, said in an address to[illegible]more than 5,000 Sunday [illegible] workers of the state. Mr. [illegible] was one of several speakers [illegible] law enforcement rally conducted [illegible] connection with the convention. [illegible] anti-saloon league leader bit[illegible] attacked Governor Smith for [illegible] signed the Mullan-Gage re[illegible]der for the prohibition enforce[illegible] act cited the benefits which he [illegible] have resulted from prohibition [illegible]on, and discussed causes and [illegible] of remedying non-enforcement [illegible] Volstead act.

"Law enforcement is unsatisfactory [illegible] many places like New York, and [illegible] wet spots," he said. "Not even [illegible] Ten Commandments or the traffic [illegible]ations are completely enforced, [illegible] and blooded Americans will never [illegible] resort to law-breakers. The [illegible] are not satisfied with present conditions; the 'wets are less satisfied.

"Hold-over and new wet hostile officials are hamstringing enforcement. We are weeding them out slowly but surely. The mortality rate of national wet officials is high and is going up. No outstanding candidate for president will declare for the wet program.

"Six million gallons of industrial alcohol and much prescription drug store whiskey were drunk last year illegally. Two thousand and five hundred new drug stores started and 17,000 doctors took out whiskey prescription permits for the first time last year. Fifty two percent of the doctors in New York and Illinois prescribed 56 percent of all the whiskey consumed in the nation by that route last year. The Crampton bill, which passed the House 275 to 86, will remedy the situation.

"Rum smuggling is still a menace. Rum Row is a disgrace to foreign nations which permit their ships to be used for such a nefarious business. The coast guard is coming to the rescue with 120 fast patrol boats, 100 just launched, 20 destroyers transferred from the navy, and 3,800 stalwart new recruits. Rum Row will surrender.

"Inadequate penalties and refusal to use the full power of the law cripple enforcement. When judges give $5 and $10 fines to bootleggers, as in New York city during the democratic national convention, no wonder lawlessness exists.

"Failure to use current power in states like New York, Maryland and Massachusetts assassinates law enforcement. New York is the worst offender because she repealed the enforcement law once enacted. Governor Smith repudiates his obligation to uphold the national constitution, to protect orderly government in the state and invited liquor criminals to invest in New York when he signed the repealer. He now has the temerity to ask the people to endorse that ominous record by voting for him.

"Hyphenated Americans are undermining the constitution. In many jurisdictions three fourths of the federal convictions are aliens or naturalized. Those who accept the patronage of the country should obey its law or go back to the country from which they came. Legislation is pending and has passed the House to accomplish this.

"Prohibition lives have been saved [illegible]. We spend $74,000,000 [illegible] to relieve drink-made [illegible] 500,000 fewer are [illegible] our streets each year. Alcoholism has declined two [illegible] thereby our former drink [illegible] of dollars to legitimate [illegible] and made possible the placing [illegible] automobiles on our [illegible] giving work to seven million [illegible] transformed the movies into [illegible] dollars business; writes [illegible] on dollars worth of new [illegible] $30,000,000 daily to [illegible] and gives to the churches [illegible] equal to a pentecost [illegible]."

GOV SMITH DEFENDS HIS STAND ON VOLSTEAD ACT

[illegible] Oct. 16.—Governor [illegible] here tonight that [illegible] abundant volume of [illegible] testimony to the effect that [illegible] and light wines of [illegible] content do not in[illegible] and therefore they should [illegible] prohibited than any other [illegible].

"Congress should adopt this reasonable definition of what constitutes intoxicants," the governor asserted, "and give to each state the right to determine for itself whether or not it desires to legalize the sale, manufacture and distribution of beverages of any alcoholic content without definition prescribed by congress. If that is done Kansas can be dry as [illegible] and New York can have light wines and beer of a [illegible] character."

Governor Smith said "the leading [illegible]rabians," all agreed with him on [illegible] but they haven't got the courage of their convictions."

"They want to get the dry vote of the country," he added, "and at the same time appeal to the liberal-minded people who live in the cities."

The governor recalled that in the memorandum accompanying his signature to the repealer of the state enforcement act he had said that "the saloon is and ought to be a defunct institution in this country."

"I have repeatedly stated in public speech that legal light wines and beer would be the end of hard liquor," he declared, "and I would so draw a light wines and beer statute as to ingure a much better enforcement of the prohibition against the saloon and intoxicating beverages than we are able to secure under the so-called Volstead act."

Turning to the question of law enforcement the governor asserted that the Volstead act, so-called, is now the law of this state with the same force and effect that any statute or law would have that we could pass in Albany." He said he had done all that was "humanly possible" to bring about enforcement.

"The prosecution after arrest by state peace officers rests squarely upon the federal government," he said, "and I reiterate that that is where it belongs. I am unwilling by any act of mine to clutter up the calendars of our local courts in the trial of these cases while murderers, burglars, highwaymen, and other such criminals are either out on bail or awaiting trials.

"If the administration in Washington is willing to show a disposition to try the people that violate this law, after our peace officers arrest them, the matter could be speedily cleaned up to the satisfaction of everybody.

"Let the federal government, now under republican control, do its full share, and I will see that the peace officers of this state do the same, so far as they come under my control."

The governor declared that the present definition of an intoxicant contained in the Volstead act was "dishonest."

"If the people by the adoption of the 18th amendment meant that there were to be no alcoholic beverages of any content manufactured, sold, or transported, they would have said so, but that is not what they said. They did say 'intoxicating beverages' so therefore the question hinges on what intoxicates."

The governor said he was one of two state executives, out of the number that attended the president's prohibition conference a year ago, who followed out the resolution adopted by governors, calling upon each to summon to his capital the law enforcement agencies of the state for a conference.

The governor said that early in 1923 there was a demand "from some of the leading attorneys and citizens" of the staje for a repeal of the enforcement statute.

"Again do we come face to face with republican hypocrisy." He declared. "No repeal statute could have come to me unless it was passed by a republican assembly." The governor said he had no apology to make for his signature to the repeal bill.

POSSESSION OF INTOXICANTS ILLEGAL IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., Oct. 16.—Mere possession of intoxicating liquor is a violation of the state prohibition laws, whether privately distilled or purchased, the state supreme court ruled today in a special decision in a case from Fond Du Lac county. The ruling applies, the court said, particularly to persons not holding licenses under the soft drink provisions of the prohibition statues.

TWO WOMEN KILLED IN AN OFFICE IN BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Two women were killed and a man was perhap fatally wounded in a shooting affray in an attorney's office in the Western Savings Bank building this afternoon. The shooting took pace during an incompetency hearing.

The dead are Mrs. Anne Pelski of East Amherst, and her daughter, Sophie, 21 years old. Irving Templeton, with the women in the office of Charles Diebold, an attorney, where the shooting occurred was taken to the emergency hospital seriously hurt Diebold recently was elected president of the bank. Martin Warren, said by police to have been released from the state hospital recently, was arrested immediately after the shooting, charged with the double slaying.

A hearing was being held in Diebold's office, it was said, to determine what disposition would be made to care for Warren's wife and children. Proceedings were under way for his commitment to the state hospital, where he was said previously to have been under observation.

Without warning witnesses said, he drew two revolvers and began firing promiscuously about the room, striking the three persons before he was overpowered.

PRINCE OF WALES HAD TWO ACTIVE DAYS IN TORONTO

Toronto, Oct. 16.—After two active days of hunting, golfing and dining and a night spent mostly in dancing, the Prince of Wales left this afternoon for Ottawa.

Police lines held back eager crowds who sought to bid him adieu at the railway station. Despite elaborate precautions, however, about 100 persons broke through the lines and swarmed about the end of the Prince's private car. The Prince stood on the rear platform.

"You're a sport," a woman shouted from the crowd, which cheered the sally. The Prince smiled, bowed and saluted in the general direction of the voice as his train pulled out.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Spain's First Woman Mayor

Alicante, Spain, Oct. 16.—Spain's first woman mayor took office today at Cuatro Tondeta, District of Costa Blanca. She is Maria Perez Y. Mo[illegible] 40 years old and a widow. The appointment of Senora Perez is considered significant as Spain has a new law giving suffrage to women.

DeValera Campaigning

Dublin, Oct. 16.—(By the A. P.)—Eamonn De Valera in the course of a speech here tonight, said the republicans were going north to contest the elections there as the only party in Ireland standing for the unity and sovereignty of the nation. There could be no peace, prosperity or stability in either part of the country while it was divided.

France May Recognize Russia

Paris, Oct. 16.—(By the A. P.)—Recognition of the soviet government of Russia by France was formally recommended in a report handed tonight to Premier Herriot by the special committee which has been studying Franco-Russian relations. The cabinet will consider the report tomorrow, and, it is expected, will immediately accord Russia de jure recognition or at least declare the intention of the government's doing so as soon as details are arranged.

RULING ON LIBELLING RUM LADEN STEAMSHIP

New York, Oct. 16.—A steamship cannot be libelled by the government when members of its crew smuggle liquor or narcotic drugs into the United States without the knowledge of the vessel's owners, Federal Judge Augustus N. Hand ruled today in dismissing libel proceedings against the Orduna, of the Royal Mail Steam Packet company.

Assistant United States Attorney Clark, who brought the libel proceeding after prohibition agents had raided the Oruna early last March 12, said Hemwould either file amended libel proceedings or appeal the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals.

"In my opinion," Judge Hand said, "the vessel must be in possession of the guilty person with consent of the owner, or his agents, to be subject to forfeiture. The point is that either the owner or his agents must have some intentions to smuggle goods or violate the statutes before its provision for forfeiture shall apply.

"That a vessel should be forfeited because of the conduct of a trespasser or persons having no right of possession would seem a most unnecessarily harsh interpretation of the statutes never adopted by any court."

United States District Attorney Hayward led the raid on the Orduna, which had just come in from Cherbourg. Drugs and liquors valued at $10,000 were confiscated and eight members of the crew arrested.

RED CROSS CONFERENCE IN SESSION IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Oct. 16.—The annual state conference of the Red Cross opened this morning here at the old state house. Dr. O. B. Rogers, commanding officer of the veterans' hospital at Allingtown, told of the relations between the Red Cross and the government hospital service. There was a discussion of the present Red Cross program for ex-service men and their families. Captain Carroll Bryant, assistant director of life saving and first aid with headquarters in Washington and James T. Nicholson, assistant manager of the Washington division and district director of Junior Red Cross work, were the speakers at the afternoon session. The meeting will continue tomorrow.

DEM. NOMINEE DAVIS CAMPAIGNING IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 16.—John W. Davis carried the democratic presidential campaign into Chicago tonight for the third time. Continuing his assault upon the republican administration, the democratic nominee arrived late this afternoon from two days' campaigning down state. He said he was prepared to reply to Secretary Hughes' statement in New York that the democratic party could not cope with the present political situation.

"If Mr. Hughes had traveled through the country," Mr. Davis said, "and had the opportunity to observe political conditions as I have had, he would know, as I do, that the democratic party never was in a condition of greater solidarity and strength than it is today.

WOMAN COMMITTED SUICIDE AT HEALTH FARM

Greenwich, Oct. 16.—Miss Rose Smith, about 55 years old, who had been staying at the Bob Smith health farm in Stanwich for the past two months was found dead at the farm this afternoon with a bullet wound in the right side of the head. She had been despondent over ill health and it is believed that she took her own life.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, who are not related to Miss Smith, were away from the farm this morning and when they returned they found Miss Smith's body in one of the bed rooms with Mr. Smith's revolver on the floor beside it. Medical Examiner Dr. John A. Clarke gave a verdict of suicide. Miss Smith has a niece, Mrs. Frederick Rucket, living in Greenwich.

SAYS HE WAS IMPLICATED IN ABBOTTSTOWN BANK HOLD-UP

Reading, Pa., Oct. 16.—Walking into the police station here tonight, a man giving his name as Phillip A. Hartman, of Annville, Pa., told the police he was implicated in the robbery of the Abbotstown state bank Tuesday afternoon. The actual holdup, he said, was done by George Roth, of Columbus, Ohio.

TWO AVIATORS KILLED IN AIRPLANE CONDITION

San Diego, Oct. 16.—Two fliers were killed and another narrowly escaped death in an airplane collission over Coronado today.

Lieut. Kerr met instant death and the second pilot when taken from the wreckage could not be identified.

NAVAL OFFICER BURNED TO DEATH IN PLANE COLLISION

Glendale, Cal., Oct. 16.—A naval officer, identified as Lieutenant Commander Grattan C. Dichman of the air service at San Diego, was burned to death here late today when flames destroyed his plane after it struck a small building.

The practice of hybridising to produce new varieties of plants was first used in Europe by the Romans, who bred races of roses by its means.

Chinese in New York Renew Tong Warfare

Fifth Victim Was Found Lying on Floor of Squalid Tenement House.

New York, Oct. 16.—Tong warfare which has blazed and smouldered in Chinatown for a fortnight flashed forth today to claim the life of another Chinese.

The victim was Tong Woo of the On Leong Tong. His body drenched in blood, he was found on the floor of his squalid tenement house, feebly lifting a police whistle to his lips and trying to blow it.

Six bullet wounds gaped his body. A pistol with chambers full of exploded shells lay near the door. Someone evidently had slipped in while Woo lay abed and pumped him full of lead before he could put up a defense.

Woo died at Governeur hospital a few minutes later without giving police a clew to his murderer. Lee Wah was taken into custody when he attempted to force entrance to the scene of the crime he is a member of the Hip Sing Tongz.

The Tong war that broke out on October 2 has thus far written five deaths and two shootings upon police records.

Sam Shang, Chin Ping, Eng Soo Den, Tong Woo of Chingtown, and from Hartford, Conn., have given Tom Fong, a transient in the district their lives to satisfy the vengence of one or another of the warring tongs.

CAUSE OF OUTBREAK OF TONG WAR IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The recent outbreak of Tong war in Chicago's Chinese districts was ascribed today to an agreement supposed to have been entered into a few years ago by the On Leong and Hip Sing Tongs as a means of defending themselves against rent-gouging landlords. According to two representatives of two of the Tongs, it was agreed that if one was forced to move from his place of business because of too great an increase in rent, no other Chinese would move in without the consent of the previous tenant. According to the story, some Chinese have disregarded the compact—here and in other cities—and recently two Chinese were killed on the streets.

TWIN DAUGHTERS DIVIDE ALLEGIANCE IN DIVORCE

Bridgeport, Oct. 16.—The twin daughters of Samuel E. Carpenter, of Ridgefield divided their allegiance to him today during the third day of the trial, before Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in the superior court, of the divorce action brought against him by his second wife, Katherine Lasalle Carpenter, former Broadway stage star.

Miss Elenore Carpenter, 24 years old, a resident of Paris, where she was a staff attache of the Anne Morgan committee for the restoration of devastated regions of France, testified against her father because she believes that her father's second wife "to whom I m very, very devoted," is "in the right."

Her twin, Mrs. Edith Carpenter Deriche, of Pittsburgh, taking her father's part, declared that she believed her sister, "whom she still liked and loved," was aligned with Mrs. Katherine Lasalle Carpenter because easily influenced, she was brought into court "under pressure" and through "improper influences."

Their brother, Samuel Carpenter, Jr., who lives in Paris where he conducts a tourists agency, testified for his father and said that on several occasions when he has visited or dined with his father and his second wife here and abroad, observed no unkind conduct on his father's part.

HAS ISSUED WORTHLESS CHECKS IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Oct. 16.—Norman C. Lynch, a pleasant appearing young man reputed to be a member of a well-to-do family in Rhode Island, and who also matriculated at Harvard, Yale, Brown and Dartmouth colleges, was held for the superior court today on ten counts charging forgery of checks. It is said he gave many worthless checks here, forging both the signature and endorsement on them, and a check he gave to pay for fees at Yale was found to be worthless. Lynch is said to have spent $80,000 in a short time in various ways. He had been in jail since arrest and although he asserted his parents would appear and bail him out that did not happen and the police say they understand that this time Lynch would have to stand trial. The last check Lynch is said to have given was on September 24 for $200 on Frederick Lynch and offered to a bank in New York.

COAL WOULD BE CHEAPER WITH PLENTIFUL STORAGE

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Coal will be cheaper and more plentiful if storage is made a general practice by consumers, the coal storage committee of the American Engineering council said in its report made public here tonight.

The remedy for the coal situation is in the hands of the consumers who must be educated to store it, the committee says, adding that insurance companies will carry policies on coal in storage and coal in storage can be financed by banks like any other commodity, while labor will benefit, according to the committee, by the bringing about of regular mine operations while the chances of coal famine will be minimized.

STATE CAPITAL CLOSED OUT OF RESPECT TO BRANDEGEE

Hartford, Oct. 16.—The state capitol will be closed at noon tomorrow for the remainder of the day as a mark of respect for the late United States Senator Brandegee. Flags on the capitol, state armory and state library are at half staff.

The republican state central committee is meeting here this afternoon for receipt of campaign reports from the thirty-five districts. Secretary W. Creedon said he did not think the question of a special senatorial election would be discussed.

Increase in Volume of National Advertising

With Gain of 20 Per Cent Last Year, Further Increase is Expected This Year.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The volume of National advertising in 1924 showed an increase of 20 per cent. over that of last year, according to reports submitted today to the American Association of advertising agents. The association was host at luncheon to the audit bureau of circulation which also opened a convention here.

"Our code discourages free publicity which is not real news," John Benson, of Chicago, past president of the agents, told the publishers.

"It is a wise magazine publisher who encourages newspaper advertising as complimenting his own medium," he continued. "It is a wise newspaper publisher who encourages use of the mail follow up. It is to the common advantage of the competing groups of publishers to put the advertizer first."

Reports presented to the agents showed that while the volume of National advertising in 1923 was $150,000,000 in 1924 it had increased to $300,000,000. Further increase next year was expected, according to James O'Shaughnessy, New York, secretary and others.

Nation wide research of advertising media will be undertaken next year by the association.

DENY RUSSIAN MONEY IS HELPING LA FOLLETTE

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Emphatic denial was given tonight at La Follette national headquarters to the suggestion made by Thomas V. O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board, in a public address in Buffalo, last night that the La Follette-Wheeler campaign was being financed from Russian sources.

Norman L. Ekern, financial director of the independent forces, gave out the following statement concerning the O'Connor inferences.

"The insinuation by Thomas V. O'Connor, of the shipping board at Buffalo last night that a large amount of money may have been mysteriously sent from Russia to Mexico to boost the cause of Senators La Follette and Wheeler, as reported by The Associated Press, is the beginning of a pre-election series of campaign canards. It is of course, absolutely false, and so absurd as to justify no attention except to the motive back of such an implication.

"Mr. O'Connor was appointed a member of the shipping board by the Harding-Coolidge administration and has been particularly active in attempting to keep union members from supporting the candidacy of La Follette and Wheeler.

"This is the same O'Connor who forfeited his standing with his own organization, the longshoremen's union, and whom, according to newspaper reports on Labor day brought to Washington as his guests a delegation of alleged labor representatives to be addressed by Candidate Coolidge.

COMMITTED SUICIDE IN PRESENCE OF BROTHER

Hartford, Oct. 16.—In the presence of his younger brother, Frank, Oscar D. Griffin, 28, living at an Ann street rooming house, committed suicide tonight shortly after 10 o'clock by shooting himself through the head. The two brothers together with a friend, Edson M. Robinson, of Bristol, were seated at a table playing cards when Griffin rose in his seat, muttering some inaudible remark, whipped out a revolver from a breast holster, and placing the gun to his right temple, pulled the trigger. The suicide was attributed to despondency.

The dead man had been at one time a special policeman in the employ of the Erie railroad.

On Sept. 3, 1923, the older Griffin had met with an accident on the Berlin turnpike near Hartford, in which his skull had been fractured by a stone hurled through the windshield of the car in which he was riding by the rear wheel of another automobile directly in front. Ever since this accident Griffin had been despondent. He had been unable to find work. He frequently complained of pains in his head.

BINGHAM ADDRESSED BIG RALLY IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Oct. 16.—With Lieutenant-Governor Hiram Bingham, republican candidate for governor as principal speaker, the local party campaign got under way here tonight at a rousing rally at Foot Guard hall.

The lieutenant governor declared the issue of the campaign was "Coolidge and common sense versus demagoggery and bunkum." He referred to Coolidge as a second Lincoln.

Other speakers at the rally, held under the auspices of the republican women's club, were Senator John H. Trumbull, candidate for lieutenant-governor, Congressman E. Hart Fenn and Secretary of State Francis A. Pallotti.

2,200 EMPLOYES OF BANK TO CONTROL $350,000,000 INSTITUTION

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—(By the A. P.)—A plan whereby the 2200 employes of the Bank of Italy, a $350,000,000 institution, are to take over control of the bank, has been approved by the board of directors, it was announced today to The Associated Press by A. P. Giannini, president. The plan will go into effect on January 1.

As a preliminary move, Mr. Giannini will retire tomorrow as president and James A. Bacigalupi, the present senior vice president, will succeed him as head of the institution.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER TO MAJOR LOUIS M. ULLMAN

New Haven, Oct. 16.—Five hundred friends were present at a testimonial dinner tonight to Major Louis M. Ullman, the dinner marking his retirement as chairman of the Third district congressional committee and from active participation in politics in New Haven. In recognition of his long and active career, Major Ullman was given a diamond ring. Both republicans and democrats took part in the program.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE TALKS TO FOREIGN BORN CITIZENS

Addressed at White House Delegation Representing American Citizens From Twelve Nations — Told Members That They Can Be True to the Land of Their Birth Only by First Being True to America.

Washington, Oct. 16.—America is anxious to aid in the restoration of the old world, President Coolidge told a delegation of foreign born citizens at the White House today, but added that "we can be in a position to help only by unifying the American nation, building it up, making it strong, keeping it independent, using its inclination to help and its disclination to injure."

"Those who cast in their lot with this country," Mr. Coolidge declared, "can be true to the land of their origin only by first being true to America. When the public sees and realizes that racial groups here are first of all devoted to the interests of this country, there will be little difficulty in securing here the present needed help and assistance fro the countries of the old world."

The delegation represented American citizens from 12 nations and comprised a portion of the Foreign Language bureau of the eastern division of the republican national committee. A testimonial of support of President Coolidge was presented on behalf of the delegation by William Augustine Scully, director of the bureau.

The President during the day received officers of the crew of the ZR-3, and again extended his congratulations on the successful voyage to Commander Hugo Eckner.

Several callers, with reports on the campaign, also were received by Mr. Coolidge.

FINANCIAL REPORTS GIVEN IN CAMPAIGN FUNDS PROBE

Chicago, Oct. 16—(By the A. P.)—The republican national campaign organization had collected and expended $1,714,317 up to October 10, and the LaFollette independent organization had collected $190,535 and disbursed $155,062 according to testimony given today at the opening sessions of the special campaign fund investigating commission of the United States senate.

Complete figures as to operations of the democratic national organization were not obtained, but Lincoln Dixon manager of the western headquarters, testified that his organization had spent $32,500 up to Oct. 10, of which sum all except $5,000 had been furnished by the national committee. The other $5,000 was a personal contribution from George E. Brennan, democratic national committeeman from Illinois, he said. Chairman Borah, representative of Idaho, stated that he would call finance officers of the democratic national committee later.

W. V. Hodges, treasurer of the republican national committee told the senate investigators that the gross total contributed to the republican campaign had come from 16,902 individuals and organizations with twelve contributions ranging from $10,000 to a maximum of $25,000. John M. Nelson, national director of the LaFollette campaign testified that the total of $190,535 received by his organization had come from approximately 72,000 contributors in sums ranging from $1 upward, with one contribution of $23,000, another of $5,000 and three of $1,000 each.

Manufacturers and investment and other bankers were the principal contributors in large sums to the republican fund, Mr. Hodges said. William Wrigley, Jr., of Chicago, was listed as the only person contributing as much as $25,000. James A. Patten, of Evanston, Illinois, a grain dealer, gave $20,000. Fifteen thousand dollar contributions came from Payne Whitney, of Manhassett, N. Y., Aldrich A. Johnson, a manufacturer of Camden, N. J., and Arthur Curtis James, a New York city, Hodges testified.

Other large contributors named by the republican national treasurer were J. B. Duke, Sommerville, N. J., $12,500; Owen F. Robert, Avon, Conn., $12,500; Mrs. Owen F. Roberts, $12,500.

Those giving $10,000 were listed as follows: Julius F. Crechman, Mortimer L. Schiff, J. B. Armitage and Chase Hangler, all of New York City; J. Horace Harding, Brunson, N. J., B. A. Eckhart, Chicag; Arthur W. Cutten a grain merchant of Chicago, Albert W. Herris, president of a Chicago bank; Charles G. Dawes, Evanston, Ill., the republican vice presidential candidate; Harry F. Night, of St. Louis, and A.

Hodges testified that the Union League Club of Philadelphia had sent in $15,000 for representing probably contributions by its members, and that a like sum had come from Horace C. Jones, treasurer of the national campaign committee, Philadelphia, representing probably sums collected for a previous campaign.

"Have you received any contributions from J. P. Morgan and company or any members of that firm," asked Senator Borah, after Mr. Hodges had finished with the lists.

"Yes, yes," was the answer. "I don't know the names of all of the members of the firm, but I do know that we have had contributions from Dwight Morrow and Thomas Cochran, each giving $5,000."

The national treasurer agreed to furnish the list of contributors when it came in. Grundy previous had advanced $50,000 to the national committee, Hodges said, but that sum had been repaid him.

Questioning by members of the committee developed that Grundy was to have raised $300,000 in Pennsylvania and that under the original budget of the national committee a total of $600,000 was to be sought in the state and $400,000 in Illinois. Chairman Borah indicated that Grundy would be called for examination at later date, probably in Washington to which place the investigation is likely to be transferred with a few days.

Hodges explained to the committee that the next expenditures by the republican national organization in the presidential campaign had aggregated $1,242,659, the other $371,358 having been collected for the congressional senatorial and state campaigns and expended for those purposes through the regular committees.

The national organization started out on an estimated budget need of $3,000,000 for the campaign, Mr. Hodges said. He added that collection up to October 10, had run about $600,000 short of those of the 1920 campaign.

WOULD DELAY CONTEST OF ASPIRANTS FOR SENATOR

Hartford, Oct. 16.—Announcement of candidates for the republican nomination for United States senator to succeed Frank B. Brandegee, until after the November election, was deprecated at a meeting of the republican state central committee in this city today. A statement by Chairman J. Henry Roraback that discussion of candidates before November 4 would divert the attention of republican workers from the business of carrying Connecticut for Coolidge and Dawes, was applauded, and the subject of preparing to nominate for Senator Brandegee's successor was dismissed. Resolutions expressing the committee's regret at the senator's death were adopted.

Chairman Roraback said that the announcement by any one of his candidacy for the United States senatorship at this time would be putting personal political ambition ahead of the party interest.

BRINGS SUIT TO ANNUL DAUGHTER'S MARRIAGE

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 16.—A suit to annul the marriage of his daughter, Janet Lee, to Jose Francisco Mariategui, secretary of the Peruvian legation at Rome, was filed in circuit court here today by W. D. Collins, capitalist. The couple were married at Clayton, a suburb, Tuesday afternoon, but separated a few hours after the ceremony, it was said, when the bride's parents convinced both that the marriage was a mistake. The suit was filed by the father because the bride is a minor.

The petition gets forth that Mr. Mariategui followed her from Peru to St. Louis, and "after false statements, artifice and over-persuasion and use of all sorts of alluring and improper promises, finally persuaded her to be married."

TO RECHRISTEN THE ZR-3 AS "LOS ANGELES"

Washington, Oct. 16.—The ZR-3 was declared today by Secretary Wilbur, speaking in behalf of the navy, to be "A sybol of peace and friendship between her builders, her owners and other nations." To further define her role, he said the ship would be rechristened "Los Angeles," when the government formally takes possession.

Mr. Wilbur's announcement was made in the course of a speech at luncheon to Dr. Hugo Eckener, head of the German Zeppelin company, and several executive officers of the air cruiser during their visit today to Washington. The party was received by President Coolidge who reiterated the congratulations he had telegraphed on the arrival of the ZR-3 at Lakehurst, and after a conference with the National Advisory Council for Aeronautics, returned to Lakehurst, N. J., tonight to resume supervision of activities at the field.

Announcing his selection of "Los Angeles," as the future name of the Shenandoah's consort, Secretary Wilbur expressed the hope that it "may not only be a constant reminder of the angel's song, but also that on each Christmas eve from her place in the heavens, the song may again be broadcast to the world: 'Peace to Men of Good Will'".

The visit of the ZR-3 was of great significance, the secretary said, assuring the German officials that the flag which would replace theirs on the ship's forepeak would be that of a nation "honestly desiring the prosperity and happiness of all the German people."

WILLIMANTIC

When five cars in the center of a line of seventy cars making up Second B. O. freight train No. 1 from Boston to Maybrook Junction left the rails at two o'clock Thursday morning, one hundred rods east of Phelp's Crossing over one thousand feet of ties were splintered and the rails for that distance were twisted. The train was being hauled by engines Nos. 3260 and 1278. It was said that the wreck was caused when one of the journals of the truck of one of the cars burned out, allowing a part of the journal box to drop on the ties, ditching that car and causing four others in its rear to buckle and leave the rails. The roadbed was badly torn up and the work of repairing this and removing the damaged cars from the track lasted all through Thursday. The work was being done by the wrecking train and crew from East Hartford. Some of the cars had overturned. The train was in charge of Conductor Marshall and Engineer Forbes was in charge of the first engine. The cars at the head end were uncoupled and hauled to the local yard where the cars in the rear of the damaged cars were coupled on later having been shunted back to North Windham and then hauled over the east-bound tracks to this city. The remaining train of sixty-five cars left here for the west at 7.10 a. m.

Constipation is ruinous to children—keep yours healthy with Kellogg's Bran

Constipation undermines a child's health. It saps his energy and makes him listless. It can lead to more than 40 other serious diseases. Mothers should take immediate steps to remove, safely and surely, the dangerous poisons from his system.

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL bran—brings permanent relief. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. That is why Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is universally recommended by doctors. They know it brings results.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to give permanent relief in the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Kellogg's Bran acts on the intestines exactly as nature acts. It sweeps and cleans and purifies them. It makes them function naturally and regularly. It allows you to discontinue forever the use of harmful, habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is a delightful surprise to the taste—particularly if one has tried ordinary unpalatable brans. Kellogg's Bran has a delicious, crisp, nut-like flavor—an exclusive flavor. It is most enjoyable with milk or cream, sprinkled over other cereals or cooked with hot cereals. Try it in bread, muffins, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Have your children eat it regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Kellogg's Bran is made at Battle Creek and sold at all grocers. It is served in individual packages by the leading hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant.

Columbia Old College

Columbia college, which was first known as King's college, was established in the middle of the Eighteenth century, and save for a few years during the Revolutionary war, it has carried on its work in the city of New York. It was the college of Alexander Hamilton, John Jay, Robert R. Livingston, De Witt Clinton, Hamilton Fish and many other outstanding figures in the history of this nation.

Good luck is the willing handmaid of upright, energetic character and conscientious pursuance of duty.—Lowell.

SECRET OF HAPPINESS

The greatest menace on earth to happiness is the ill health with which so many women are afflicted. The young woman is subject to pain and irregularities, the mother to the torture of displacements with consequent pains, aches and nervousness—the middle aged woman to the uncomfortable conditions caused by this critical age. The one remedy to control these conditions and restore the system to a normal healthy condition is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for fifty years has been restoring sick and ailing women to health and happiness.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Secretary John H. Corbett of the Windham County Y. M. C. A., is active in the preparatory work for the twenty-fifth annual Older Boys' conference to be held at Meriden Oct. 24-26. The Windham County Y. M. C. A. has been assigned a quota of 40 delegates. Already several delegates have registered and indications are that the quota will be filled at an early date.

A program of unusual interest has been provided. Among the principal speakers are Rev. Allen A. Stockdale of Toledo, Ohio, the "Pitching Parson," who is pastor of the First Congregational church of Toledo, and Albert E. Roberts of New York, senior secretary of the county work department, international committee of the Y. M. C. A.

Football technique that he gained while a student at Killingly High school appears to be proving of advantage to Loyola college at Montreal, where Paul Gareau, member of last year's Killingly High school team and a graduate of the school in June, is studying. Newspaper clippings telling of a game in which Gareau played a fine position for Loyola mention that he opened the scoring for his team against the junior team of the University of Montreal, which was handily defeated. Prior victories of the Loyola junior team over the McGill college juniors gives Loyola the Montreal Junior Intercollegiate championship for the 1924 season. Mr. Gareau is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gareau of Potter street.

Thursday morning, the funeral of Jeremiah Jarvais was held from his home on the Green Hollow road with services at All Hallows' church in Moosup at 9 o'clock. Rev. Joseph E. Mc[illegible] was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in Jewett City. The bearers were Thomas Pepin, Michael Pepin, Philip Pepin and [illegible] Grenier. Louis E. Kenney was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Another water shortage is in sight. Rain is as badly needed now as at the end of the long dry spell during the summer season. Rivers and ponds throughout this territory are at unusually low levels.

The assessors will be obligated to impose a 10 per cent penalty upon property owners who fall within the allotted time to file a sworn list of their taxable properties in Killingly. November 1 is the limitation set.

Members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., held a meeting with Mrs. H. D. Crosby Thursday afternoon.

With the national and state elections less than three weeks away, Killingly awaits their coming with exceeding calm. Nevertheless, there will be an opportunity for qualified persons to be admitted as electors when voters are being made tomorrow (Saturday).

About 100 were in attendance at the annual inspection of McGregor Woman's Relief corps Wednesday evening. Mrs. Eleanor Lucey, junior vice-department president, was in charge of the inspection, in the absence of Mrs. Iota Bjurstrom, of Norwich. Four candidates were received. Preceding the meeting a supper was served.

Parking regulations promulgated some weeks since by borough officials became effective Thursday. These rules have received so much publicity that, it may be assumed, motorists are familiar with them. Parking signs showing the limitations of stop-overs will help forgetful drivers to remember.

Members of the Camp Fire Girls will go to South Killingly this (Friday) evening to have a part in a husking bee and to participate in a harvest supper at the Community house.

Grand Chef de Gare Dyson, of Hartford will come here Sunday afternoon as a guest of the Windham county Voiture of Forty and Eight, the meeting at which he will speak to be in American Legion hall.

John M. Bessette, for many years tax collector of the town of Brooklyn, has been nominated by the democrats of that town as their candidate for election to the general assembly.

The bursting of a great pneumatic tire on a truck loaded with bales of cotton brought a crowd to the street near the Hyde block, Thursday afternoon.

C. Clinton Cleveland of the postoffice clerical force remains off duty, recovering from an illness that has kept him away from work the past three weeks.

Henry B. Newton of Brockton was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Thursday.

Trucks bearing horses that have been in the races at Stafford fair this week have been rolling through Danielson the past two days, homeward bound, after the season's campaigning. These trucks were bound for Readville and other points in Massachusetts.

Following the Chapman Technical school game scheduled for Saturday, Killingly High school's football team will not play another home game until it closes the season here with the Putnam High school Thanksgiving day. Between next week and Nov. 14, Killingly will play four out of town games.

A half dozen new homes under construction in various parts of the borough will be ready for occupancy before winter sets in. Danielson could use 50 more new dwellings, but construction is not keeping pace with the demand.

At Thursday morning's session of the town court, Judge W. Fenner Woodward presiding, the case of one man charged with having been intoxicated was disposed of by imposing a fine.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS PLAN FREE HOSPITAL BED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Oct. 16.—District Deputy Henry Dubuc has suggested to various councils of the Knights of Columbus in this district, a plan under which the associated councils would maintain a free bed at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. The plan has met with approval, though no definite action on it has as yet been taken.

MRS. J. SPRAGUE BARD DIES IN HOUSE WHERE BORN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Sarah E. Bard, widow of J. Sprague Bard, died Thursday morning at her home in Brooklyn, having been seriously ill for a number of weeks. Practically all hope for Mrs. Bard's recovery has been abandoned for several weeks.

Mrs. Bard was born in Brooklyn, Oct. 28, 1835, in the home where she died, a daughter of Adams and Harriet Robinson White, and had always lived in that town. November 15, 1870, Mrs. Bard was united in marriage with J. Sprague Bard, who died February 23, 1917. The children of the marriage were Harriet Adams Bard, born April 28, 1873, died Aug. 15, 1873; Bertha, born Oct. 29, 1874, died April 13, 1892; Ernest Robinson Bard, now resident in Detroit, and Sidney White Bard, treasurer of the Brooklyn Savings bank, twins, born Sept. 21, 1878. There are also two step-sons, Charles R. Bard and Fred B. Bard, both of New York.

Trinity church, where funeral services for Mrs. Bard are to be held at Brooklyn, numbers her among the small group of devoted enthusiasts who promoted its construction. She was so energetic in the interest of the work to be done that she inspired others to do their utmost, insuring eventually the building of the church. Mrs. Bard also was deeply interested in the Brooklyn library, of which she served as president [illegible] years.

Deeply devoted to her home and to her family, known and loved by all in the community that had been her home for so many years, Mrs. Bard possess on leaving only happy memories of her life to all who knew her.

PUTNAM

Members of the citizens committee engaged in carrying forward the plans to establish the Citizens National Bank held several impromptu meetings, Thursday, but had nothing to say following their congregating, except that the much waited for and longed for telegram from the Comptroller at Washington had not arrived.

It was apparent that some of committee are, to say the least, becoming impatient at the delay. When H. H. McKee, representative of the camptroller, left Putnam the last of last week for Washington, after having made the committee a proposition subject to the comptroller's approval, which the committee immediately accepted, he promised that the committee would receive a telegram Monday, stating whether or not the offer and acceptance was ratified. A message was received Monday to the effect that the statement of the comptroller would follow, Tuesday, and that is the last the committee has heard. In the meantime, there is little or nothing that the committee can do.

One member of the committee expressed himself rather forcefully and in such a manner that it was apparent he was about disgusted with the way the matter had been handled in Washington. He said that he could see no reason why the information should not be given as promised; that if the comptroller did not want to ratify the agreement it was an easy matter to say so and not keep the committee waiting. It is not hard to discern that members of the committee feel that they have met with unnecessary obstacles and have been led through unnecessary detours during their progress to the desired result and now, at what appears to be the journey's end, something is keeping them from arriving. The committee has promised that at some future date they will outline the progress of their journey step by step that the public may know just what the committee did, how they did it, the obstacles met and overcome and the whole situation in general. Members of the committee intimate that the story will be an interesting one for the readers.

With the hunting season under way hunters should be careful with fire while in the woods, also being careful to replace bars and stones that they may dislodge from stone walls. If these precautions were taken by every hunter, there would be much less posted land on which hunting is now forbidden.

The town school committee held a meeting, Wednesday evening at which routine business was transacted. The schools in the town are now running smoothly the period of getting under way having passed.

The statement given out Wednesday that the dirigible ZR-3 was seen from Putnam early in the morning, Wednesday, has proved erroneous as the big airship passed over Providence, 28 miles from Putnam, about 4:30 o'clock when it was hardly daylight, and continued south along the Shore Line to New London. However, if people think they saw it they had as much enjoyment from that as if it had appeared on the Putnam horizon.

Ralph C. Jenkins, superintendent of schools, has submitted the following report to the town school committee. The registration in all schools on the opening day was larger than it was on the opening day last year. The enumeration of children between 4 and 16 inclusive, living in Putnam shows some falling off. This apparent discrepancy between fewer children enumerated and more children enrolled in school can be explained by the fact that children are now taken into the kindergarten a year earlier than last year's entering class in first grade, by the fact that there are more absences of school age at the Windham County home that there are more out of town pupils attending Putnam High school, and that fewer pupils in the seventh and eighth grades are leaving school for employment.

All teachers in the Putnam schools were certified according to law before they were permitted to receive their first salary checks. All reports due by law to the various departments of the State Board of Education have been forwarded.

All of the teachers visited schools in surrounding towns last week and submitted written reports of their visits.

The work of the first month at Putnam High School only strengthens my conviction that the administration of the High school at the present time is the strongest that it has been since I first became acquainted with the school.

The committee appointed at the last board meeting to interview the county commissioners and secure their cooperation in securing greater accommodation for that school for the increased number of pupils, found the commissioners ready to do anything in their power to give the children at the county home just as good schools as possible.

The Commissioners have fitted up an excellent room on the first floor of what is known as the hospital building. This is equipped with [illegible] lighting, heating, blackboards, etc., and is in all respects an excellent schoolroom.

With the opening of this room and by shifting the pupils in all of the other rooms, the school is better graded now than it has been for some years. And all of the pupils are on the full time again instead of one room on part time as was the case last year.

Vaccination in all schools is practically complete. There is one case of Scarlet fever at the East Putnam school but the school is not considered in danger as the pupil was not in school for some days before coming down with the disease. The school dentist is now at work in the Israel Putnam school. Twelve pupils from the Putnam Heights school were sent to the dental clinic Thursday to have their teeth cleaned and minor repair work done.

The evening school opened this week with 35 pupils in the commercial department and 24 pupils in the department of English. Since the opening night, additional pupils have come into both departments.

The Central Falls Construction Company has begun work building a new storehouse for the H. K. W. silk company at its new mill on Providence street. The building is to be of brick, 100x50 feet, and is to be equipped with all the latest devices for silk dyeing. The contract calls for the completion of the building in 14 weeks.

The same company will construct a office on the south side of the large mill between the present mill building and the highway. Under this office will be a cement vault for the storage of silk. Some of the departments in the new mill are already in operation but the whole plant will not be removed from South Meadow street until the new dye house is ready for occupancy.

G. Harold Gilpatric, former cashier of the First National Bank, sits on the piazza of his parents' home these days and is frequently visited by friends. The bandages over his eyes have been removed and the only covering now is smoked glasses. He appears to be resigned to whatever the future may hold.

J. W. Connors, representing the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers is to meet Putnam merchants at the Chamber of Commerce rooms this (Friday) morning at ten o'clock and speak to them on the "Dress Well and Succeed" campaign. The slogan is being adopted by many large merchants in the larger cities of the country.

REP. TOWN COMMITTEE FUND IN FIRST NATIONAL BANK

(Special to the Bulletin)

Putnam, Oct. 16—Another body affected by the closing of the doors of the First National Bank is the republican town committee. The committee had sufficient money in the closed bank to carry it through the present campaign. Now the members are obliged to raise a new fund to pay necessary expenses. At the caucus, on Tuesday night, the hat was passed and nearly forty dollars was realized.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent; air and 6 per cent. common kerosone (coal oil).

The inventor, O. N. Johnson, 642 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

COOLIDGE TOPS THEM ALL.

Straw votes have been wrong, there are times when they have indicated just the opposite from the actual result, but such polls were not undertaken on such an elaborate scale as that conducted by the Literary Digest last year and which is being repeated even more extensively this year. It is pointed out in this week's Digest that "No straw vote is actually satisfactory to the losing side," but it is to be realized that no straw vote can be accepted as the inevitable outcome by the winning side to the extent of considering the election over except the shouting.

The latest returns in the Digest's poll continue to show the president receiving a greater vote than all the other candidates combined. He has a substantial majority of the 1,903,004 votes cast, the position which he took at the start and which he has continued to maintain. He has a majority in 36 states, Davis in 11 and La Follette in one, Wisconsin.

In Connecticut he holds a three to one lead over all competitors, an even greater one in the rest of the New England states while in such states as New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, California, Ohio, Michigan and Colorado he has a commanding position. West Virginia has even given him more votes than Davis and La Follette combined. He has a greater vote in Oklahoma than Davis, while North Dakota, South Dakota, Kentucky, Washington, Oregon and Arizona show a strong preference for him.

In the poll at the present time votes are recorded from every state, and the Davis figures are given the benefit of the votes from the solid South.

Such an expression as is manifested by the greatest poll that was ever attempted not only has a telling significance, but it is in keeping with the sentiment that is disclosed in the similar polls throughout the country.

NOT BROOKHARTS.

Because of the prominence they have gained within the republican party and the following which they are rated as having, much attention has been given to the position which Senators Borah of Idaho and Johnson of California were going to take in the present campaign.

Senator Johnson was a candidate for the republican nomination for president. His campaign was a failure, defeat even being encountered in his own state. Since the primary campaign he has been maintaining a discreet silence. It has been attributed to his disappointment. His attitude has not been that of a good loser. He has not declared his opposition toward President Coolidge, but there has been a feeling that he was leaning toward La Follette because of his inability to get the republican nomination. Recently he criticised a supreme court decision in California which denied the third party a place on the ballot. That, however, did not embrace the advocacy of La Follette. It was confined solely to the decision. There is significance, however, when through his friends he admits that Coolidge will be successful in California. He has kept out of the campaign but he knows how it is going, and he hasn't refused to conceal his opinion.

Senator Borah has not been maintaining the same kind of a silence. He has openly declared for President Coolidge, even after he was nominated for senator on both republican and third party tickets. He had something very good to say about the president and the courageous stand which he takes in Washington, and now when the Idaho supreme court declares that he can run on but one ticket in that state he promptly announces that he remains a republican.

Both senators have an independence which manifests itself most emphatically at times. But it is quite evident that they understand the folly emphatically at times. But it is quite evident that they understand the folly of taking up with any such makeshift as that involved in the La Follette candidacy with its wild promises, glaring impotencies and dangerous proposals.

Disappointment probably prevails in a certain quarter that they haven't before this declared for La Follette. They may be independent republicans but they are not Brookharts.

IN THE FOREIGN SERVICE.

When the so called Rogers act was passed it was for the purpose of providing the means of improving our foreign service, of paving the way for competence and efficiency among our consular and diplomatic officers, of charging the methods that have been employed and offering some real encouragement to enter such service.

Thus when Secretary Hughes points out how the foreign service has been improved by the new legislation there is cause for gratification. It means that the law is working as was intended, that desirable ends are being attained.

The law made possible the pensioning of those reaching the age of 65 and it provided a board for making such changes as it deemed necessary for the good of the service. This board has been at work for several months. It has retired one diplomat and 31 consular officials because they have reached the age limit, and in certain instances have been dependent upon the younger men who were rightfully entitled to the office. It has also brought about the demotion of eight diplomats and 13 consuls.

All of this means that these services are not to be regarded in the future as places to stagnate. There is set before the young men of the country the prospects of a career in this direction. It means that there is a chance for the fellow lower down in the ordinary course of events and that a clerk or a deputy consul will not necessarily be required to hold those offices for the rest of their lives if they remain in that service. The Rogers act was a forward piece of legislation and is apparently working as expected.

HEADLIGHT ADJUSTMENTS.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Stoeckel is again calling attention to automobile headlights. Heretofore much emphasis has been placed upon the equipping of the cars with lenses that are legal, that prevent glare and that thus increase the safety of the highways.

He finds that there is a general regard for the headlight law, but that there is a common error in thinking that the installation of the necessary lenses ends the matter. When he points out that though the lenses comply with the law there are too many instances where they are not operated or focused in such a way as to light the highway without throwing a blinding light. This will serve to explain to many drivers and other highway users why it is that there continue to be so many lights that just about blind the drivers going in the opposite direction.

In calling attention to this situation and in describing the method whereby the owners of cars can make their own adjustments he is rendering a most commendable service. The strong and glaring lights being due to a belief that the acquisition of legal lenses settled the light question may be a revelation to many, but the fact that adjustment is a matter which can and must be undertaken by the motorists themselves should be sufficient to obtain early compliance. Strong lights properly thrown on the road or focused mean greater safety and whatever can be done for the safety of the highway is timely.

MUSCLE SHOALS.

The question of doing something with Muscle Shoals has been before the country for the past few years. The war department at that point made it evident that it could be advantageously employed during times of peace for various purposes and it was not long before there was a desire to obtain.

When Henry Ford made his offer for the plant and rights he started others thinking. He sought to get possession of a proposition where the government had spent many millions of dollars for a small payment and the distribution of further payments over a long term of years. Cheap fertilizer and power were set forth as the possibilities of the plant, after the government had proceeded to complete it in keeping with Mr. Ford's wishes.

No sooner had Mr. Ford made his offer than there were others who became interested, or at least made public their interest and their desire to obtain possession. Some offers topped that by Mr. Ford. The matter was one that tied up congress and become more or less involved in politics, even though Mr. Ford may have desired to avoid that situation.

In the withdrawal of his offer Muscle Shoals remains unchanged. There is now nothing to prevent a new offer or a disposition of the plant on its actual merits.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Someone will yet want to prohibit the taking of straw votes.

The fellow who put the pup in pupils must have been a hot dog man.

Have you passed your judgment on the proposed new traffic regulations?

The more one gets of the beautiful light frosted October the more one wants.

Less than three weeks and the election will be over. Are you prepared to vote so as to have it decided in the electoral college?

Statistics show a big increase in the amount of gas used last year, but think what a boost the campaign will give it in compiling the 1924 figures.

Someone asks, What is the good of a car that will travel 30 miles faster than the regulations permit? How would it be possible otherwise to prove that some people never respect regulations?

PRIVATIONS OF GOLF

Time—Sunday morning, an hour before dawn.

Scene—Benches near the first tee of public golf course at Lincoln park. Every seat is taken by a figure, male or female. Other shadowy figures are arriving, singly, in pairs, by the dozens.

Smith (with a yawn)—What time is it now?

Smith—Ye gods! And there are a hundred ahead of us. We won't tee off until after 7. Time was when Sunday morning and holidays meant forty extra winks. Then I took up golf. Now I gotta set the alarm clock for 3 a. m. If I want to get here in time for a round. 'S tough!

Brown — It's all of that. And expensive. Used to cost two bucks to play all season. Now it's 15 cents a round and they're raising the ante—

Jones (coming out of a doze)—Ante! Sure I did. I was the first one in. I put in a red chip—oh, beg pardon, old man. I was wool-gathering. Up 'till 2 playing poker so I'd get here in time. I never go to bed Saturday nights.—dozes off again.)

Brown—As I was saying, it's getting to cost more and more, to say nothing of losing sleep. But I can't quit. I've got just enough Scotch—

Jones (coming to life once more)—Scotch, you say? Where do you get it? How much a quart? My bootlegger—There I go, off my nut again. I heard you say Scotch and I thought you meant hooten. Hey (shaking Brown, who is plainly snoring) you won't let me sleep and—

Brown—Sleep? 'Salt right, officer. You know me. I sleep here every Saturday night—

Smith—Let him sleep, Jones. Poor devil! He's in Dutch at home as it is. His wife thinks he's nutty—

Jones (gloomily)—He's getting off easy. Say, look at that chap in pajamas and a bathrobe. He's sleep walking.

Smith—Not on your life! He's foxy. 'at's all. Lives over there just beyond the park. Comes here, registers, gets a ticket, goes home and back to bed—There's a guy with fishing poles.

Jones—He'll have caught a mess of perch over there in the lake before it's time for him to play. Hello, White, where do you spend your Sunday forenoons?

White (indignantly)—What do you mean, forenoons? It's just 5 o'clock. Though I'd register, drive up to Milwaukee and see a fellow and get back before my number's called—

Smith, Jones and Brown—Get in line, then. Starter's here. You'll be way behind us as it is.

(They patiently inch forward to the registration window just as the starter sends off the first foursome with a warning that they mustn't waste any time looking for balls in the dark.)

Registration clerk (as they sign their names)—You'll be on the tee around 2 this afternoon, gentlemen.

White (calling from the end of the line as they start toward the lunch room—Wait a bit and I'll join you at breakfast.

Registration clerk—Sorry, sir, but it won't do any good to sign up. We've got enough names registered now to keep a foursome driving off every five minutes until 7 o'clock tonight.

White—What! Seven tonight! And it's not 6 a. m. yet! ——! ——! Stick around everybody and watch me bust every club I got in the bag. I'm off this darn game for life. — Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Child Labor Amendment

Mr. Editor—There seems to be much mis-understanding of the Child Labor Amendment and unnecessary alarm over possible results. The proposed amendment would not be a law but an enabling act. Perhaps the appended questions and answers as published by the Woman Voters' Bulletin may help clear a somewhat perplexing situation.

1. Why is an amendment to the federal constitution necessary before congress can pass a national child labor law.

The supreme court in two cases has ruled that under the constitution as it now stands congress does not have the power to pass a child labor law. An amendment is necessary to confer that power on congress.

2. What is one practical reason why child labor cannot be so effectively done away with by state law as by federal law.

Interstate competition. Child labor is cheap labor. If a southern textile mill employs children and so cuts its labor bill, a New England textile mill competing with the one in the south does not feel that it can afford to stop employing children since that would mean a higher labor bill. So the mills will fight state prohibition of child labor on the ground that when one state has child labor law and the other does not, injustice to the mills in the progressive state results. On the other hand no such unfairness would result from a federal law as under it all states would be treated alike.

3. Why does the amendment make 18 years the age limit.

Because the amendment should be applicable to conditions a hundred years from now as well as today, and at the present rate of development of industrial machinery, who knows what the next fifty years may bring.

4. Is it proposed to forbid all work of children under eighteen.

No. It is inconceivable that any congress would ever pass a law forbidding a healthy boy of sixteen or seventeen to work, if his parents wish it. The two former federal laws forbade the employment of children under fourteen in factories, mills, etc., and regulated the hours of work for children from fourteen to sixteen. Probably a rather conservative law of this kind would be passed. In this matter, congress would probably follow the thought of the people as its progresses. Perhaps at some future time the people would wish congress to forbid children of sixteen or seventeen from working in certain highly dangerous occupations.

5. Is it likely that children would be forbidden to work on the home farm or to help their parents by doing chores.

No state has ever tried to regulate in this way, and certainly no congress would ever dream of it! The twenty national organizations which are backing the amendment would be opposed to such regulation, as would every other sensible person, for helping with the home tasks is certain not "child labor," but is decidedly educational work, in which every child should share.

6. Has Connecticut any laws prohibiting persons under eighteen from doing certain kinds of work.

Yes. In Connecticut children under eighteen are prohibited from employment between 10 p. m. and 5 a. m. as messengers for telegraph or messenger companies.

Bryam Earned $1.50 a Week

Far from home, Harry E. Byram gave up his post and accepted another so that he could be nearer his place of birth in a better position and paying more money—then soon afterward he was out of a job and had to hunt for one.

Son of a workingman, he was born in a small, meagrely furnished home in Galesburg, Ill. After attending the public schools, he went to work at 12 as printer's devil at $1.50 a week to help his family. Earning $3.50 a week three years later, he quit to become call boy for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, working 12 hours a night, seven days a week, for $16.50 a month, often having to go out past the cemetery at midnight in zero weather to summon men to work.

Studying shorthand at home in spare time, at 19 he became secretary for a railroad official in Chicago. Two years later he took his little savings and went into business for himself. Two years after that he listened to the call of the railroad and became clerk for an assistant to James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad.

Hill took an interest in Byram and made him division superintendent at Everett, Wash. After he had been with the Great Northern six years he accepted a flattering offer from the Rock Island, back home.

Soon the road's management changed and he was out of a position. Applying to the Great Northern, he met with refusal but was advised to see Daniel Willard, then vice-president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, who made him general superintendent of the Nebraska district. Five years later Bryam was Willard's assistant and a few months afterward was second vice-president of the Burlington.

In 1917 he was elected president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, one of the largest roads in the country. He is 58, well-to-do, still is at the head of the road and is considered one of the best railroad men in the country.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Few public men possess the restless energy of Winston Churchill, who has come again into the limelight with the possibility that he may be the next British premier. "Winnie," as he is popularly nicknamed by the people of Britain, is a man of many parts, and among other distinctions, enjoys the reputation of being one of the most brilliant speakers in parliament, where he has been a member for nearly 25 years. In his early career he distinguished himself in military service in India and South Africa. He also fought in Cuba in 1895 with the Spaniards, and won a Spanish decoration. Several books have issued from his pen, including a biography of his father, the late Lord Randolph Churchill, the noted politician. Although half American by birth—his mother was a daughter of the late Leonard Jerome of New York—Mr. Churchill is British to the core. He was born 50 years ago and received his education at Harrow and Sandhurst.

'Stories That Recall Others

Using Up the Whole Tree.

Whenever Jack seemed to need a little threat to make him behave better, his mother had a habit of saying that if he didn't behave she would have to go out to the peach tree, which stood in the back yard, and get a switch and use it.

Mother wished Jack to eat his dinner, but Jack seemed in no mood to comply. Finally mother appealed to the old standby.

"Jack, if you don't eat your dinner I'll have to get a switch off the peach tree."

"You'd better watch out, mother," the youngster replied, "pretty soon there won't be any limbs on that peach tree and then you won't have any peaches."

Only a Dream.

A head usher says he had a dream the other night and is exceedingly glad it was not true.

"I dreamed as I left the church I met a couple who seemed very indignant. 'We are not coming back to that church any more,' they said."

"What is the matter?" I asked.

"'Why, everyone seemed so cold. Not a person greeted us or shook our hands.'

"That is strange," I said, "I can't understand it. Just where did you sit?"

"'Why, in the back seat near the door.'

"And what did you do after the benediction?"

"'Why, we left the church to get in our car to go home.'

"And after awakening I figures that they left the church so quickly the most fleet-footed handshaker could not have caught them. I am certainly glad it was only a dream."

What Is It?

It is a duty both useful and necessary; it is esteemed a great virtue, but few possess it; it is found in the lower as well as the higher circles of life, and is often exhausted and as often renewed. Our sufferings are rendered lighter by it, and our trials are softened; it gives contentment to the mind and ease to the conscience, to the afflicted hope and to the mournful consolation. What is it? Answer—Patience.

PLUMBERS AND STEAM FITTERS ENDORSE TWO STATE CANDIDATES

Meeting in this city this week for the state convention of the Connecticut state association of plumbers and steam fitters, representatives from fifteen local unions reelected Charles J. Leary of Stamford to the presidency. Milton McDonale of Bridgeport was elected vice president and Edward P. Gaffney of Ansonia was reelected secretary and treasurer for his eighth term.

Vice president McDonald was endorsed in his candidacy for state senator in the twenty-fourth district of Fairfield county and Congressman P. B. O'Sullivan of Derby was endorsed for reelection in the fifth congressional districts. The resolutions endorsing Mr. O'Sullivan commended his opposition to the Melon tax bill, and Cape Cod canal "grab" and approved his efforts for soldiers' bonus, child labor amendment, the Burson and postal salary increases and for rural roads.

Another resolution condemned the Coolidge veto of postal employes salary increases and pledged to work to overcome this when congress convenes in December.

Speakers at the convention included General Organizer Michael F. Garrett of Chicago, Patrick Griffin, president, and Charles Thompson, secretary of the Massachusetts state association of plumbers and steam fitters, P. F. O'-Meara, president, and James Egan, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor and Robert McNeely, business agent of the carpenters' union of Norwich.

President Leary was elected delegate to the Massachusetts state convention at Lowell and it was voted to hold the next Connecticut state convention in Middletown, in April 1925.

EPISCOPALIANS TO BUILD BISHOP TUTTLE MEMORIAL

Bishop Tuttle, the great leader of the West, who traveled up and down his three hundred thousand square miles of territory, elbow to elbow with stage drivers, saloon keepers and gamblers, brought out of chaos and the roughness of the country the high ideals and the fine leadership which is soon to be marked by the Episcopal church in his memory in the everlasting stone of the ages, the great, memorial building which is to be erected in St. Louis in his memory.

As he rode on the driver's seat over the ostling roads open only to those who were hard and careless of life, his mind, keen always for accomplishment, built schools and hospitals. He was hailed at every tavern above the din of the heavy glasses on the hardwood bar as "Our Bishop."

Children of the Sunday schools today feel the life of the West only in the moving pictures which are recalling the great romance of that country west of the Mississippi River. There Bishop Tuttle went at the age of thirty to carry forward the banner of the church, where men are rough and all women were treated alike, and where nature had to be fought at every turn. Buffalo roamed the plains. The Indian and the bad white man on one side of the program fought for viciousness, while men like Bishop Tuttle sought to solidify that great element in humanity which ever recognizes justice and devotion to orderly religious worship.

There was never a time in all of these travels of Bishop Tuttle when the respect and affection for "our Bishop" was lost sight of. Old and young, bad and good, even those who tore down society's safeguards, respected Bishop Tuttle and his great work. Today these three hundred thousand miles of territory are all changed; schools, colleges, churches, hospitals and homes for the aged have been built in all corners, and the dream of the Bishop, as he rode over the rough country, has come true.

The Episcopal church all over the United States is making an offering to build a great memorial to Bishop Tuttle in St. Louis. Mite boxes are being filled by children everywhere. The women of the parishes in Connecticut are holding a special function in each parish on the same day, which is Wednesday, Oct. 22, to help the building and endowment fund. All of this is being done in recognition of the service of a man who lived a life filled with unselfish work and striking romance—presiding Bishop of the church for twenty years,—one of the greatest statesmen of our age in church and public life.

In connection with this movement the ladies of Christ church and Trinity church are to hold a joint parish tea at Christ church Sunday school rooms, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

HEBREW YOUNG MEN PLAN ACTIVE SEASON

The Young Men's Hebrew Association has opened its new quarters in the top floor of the Olympic building on Water street and is preparing for an unusually active season. At a recent meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

NEW LONDON TEMPLARS ENTERTAIN BROTHER KNIGHTS

New London, Oct. 16.—Palestine Commandery, Knights Templar, were hosts in this city today and this evening to Columbian Commandery of Norwich and Narragansett Commandery of Westerly. The New London commandery proved royal entertainers and their guests praised highly the fine reception tendered. This afternoon there was a parade in full Templar uniform with 600 Sir Knights in line and three bands that furnished excellent music as the column moved through the business streets of the city. There was a display of color in flags and bunting along the line of march and indeed the citizens added to the hearty greeting given by the hosts. At the conclusion of the parade the Templars sat down to a dinner provided by Walter Garde of Hartford and New London that all pronounced to be abundant in quantity, excellent in quality and in variety to be all that was desired. The Willimantic Elks' band provided music during the dinner, and the Yale orchestra furnished a concert of the latest numbers, after that. This evening an entertainment of vaudeville was provided for the Sir Knights with a program that made them decide to be the guests of Palestine in the future.

CANTERBURY AND LISBON TEACHERS HOLD MEETING

The October teachers meeting under the supervision of Edwin B. Floyd was held in the Canterbury Green school, the teachers of Lisbon uniting with those of Canterbury.

The meeting was most interesting and enjoyable. Mr. Floyd presented the aims, activities and achievements to be striven for in the next three months. A committee on reading gave inspiring papers on promoting an interest in reading, better methods of teaching reading and creating an interest in home reading of magazines.

This committee consisted of Miss Davis, Miss Peterson and Mrs. Lovell of Canterbury and Mr. Robbins, Miss Rosebrooks and Miss Lynch of Lisbon.

Demonstrations of teaching silent reading were given by Miss Rosebrooks and Mrs. Lovell. The method of teaching silent reading to beginners as demonstrated by Mrs. Lovell was the theme of Mr. Staples' discourse at the institute at Norwich and he considered it the very best method.

At the close of the meeting the teachers adjourned to the home of Mrs. Lovell on the green for a social hour with refreshments.

The afternoon was unanimously declared a delightful success and all are looking forward to the next meeting to be held at the Ledyard school in Lisbon.

EVENING OF WHIST OPENS SOCIAL SEASON

The Young Women's Hebrew Association held a very successful whist and social Thursday evening at their new rooms in the Olympic building, Water street. It was the opening social event of the season and there were about 75 present. The prizes were awarded as follows:

Ladies—first, Mrs. A. Krieger; second, Mrs. George Kaplan and Mrs. A. Bruckner, tied; consolation, Miss Doris Safon.

Miss Jennie Lowenberger was chairman of the committee in charge and serving with her were Miss Sadie Mopsick, Miss Sarah Mintz and Miss Rae Nowick.

During the evening a popularity contest was held and Miss Goldie Segal, president of the association, was elected Miss Y. W. H. A. The association is looking forward to a very active fall and winter season and a number of whists and social events are being planned. The association meets the first and third Tuesdays of the month.

AUTOMOBILE BREAKS POLE AT BURNHAM SQUARE

The Cleveland sedan of David J. Kerr of 27 Greene avenue, which Mr. Kerr was driving through Burnham square about 4:45 Thursday morning, was made almost a complete wreck when it struck and broke off a large wooden telegraph pole on Main street in front of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. office and then whirled across Main street, coming to a stop on the north bound trolley tracks with the right front wheel off and that side of the machine showing the most damage. The car was removed to a garage.

Mr. Kerr was returning from Westerly at the time and had come across Preston bridge into the square. The force of the blow moved the wooden pole about four feet and broke one of the bases for the new White Way poles.

NEW YORK RUNAWAYS SOUGHT IN WILLIMANTIC

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 16.—Inspector William Lahey, New York police department communicated with the New London police tonight requesting that Grace Maloney, 14, and Edna Williams, 16 both of New York, be detained as runaways and it was believed that the girls were at the residence of Louix Lux, Willimantic. As the New London authorities have no jurisdiction in Willimantic the police of that city were given the message that the girls could be taken into custody if they were found there.

Hadassah Whist Held

A successful whist was held Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. Pollock, 265 West Main street, for the benefit of the Norwich Chapter of Haddassah, the proceeds going to the medical unit. Nine tables were in play and refreshments were served by the hostess.

Poor men never fully realize the blessings of poverty until they break into the tax-dodger class.

NORWICH LIONS VOTE TO BE IN PARADE

The Norwich Lions club held its regular weekly luncheon and meeting Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. President George A. Finn presided and the song leader was Rudolph Henschel. The usual number of club songs and group songs were given. At the business meeting there was a report on the "Minstrel Serenade" given recently at the Broadway theatre by the club A good sized sum was realized for the club's charitable fund.

The club accepted an invitation to participate in the Armistice Day parade and President Finn appointed the following a committee to make arrangements for the club's appearance in line, B. C. Pullen, Edward Rich and Harlow Bogue.

Some evening next week the club is arranging to give a performance of the Minstrel Serenade at the state tuberculosis sanatorium for the benefit of the patients there. George Madden, Jean Kaefer and Rudolph Henschel are the committee in charge.

The club received and accepted an invitation from the Meriden Lion's club to attend their charter night celebration October 23rd. Louis Fontaine was appointed to make plans for the club's representation at the Meriden celebration.

DROVE STOLEN CAR THROUGH THIS CITY

The automobile of Dr. Thomas E. Robinson of Westerly, a Buick coupe, registration 3016 R. I., was stolen in New London Thursday night from in front of the Masonic club while the owner was at the Knights Templar banquet in the armory.

Dr. Robinson discovered his loss about 9 oclock and reported his loss to the police who notified Norwich headquarters just too late to give the local department a chance to catch the car.

Shortly before hearing from New London the car had passed through this city with two men in it and had stopped at Washington square where the men inquired the way to Springfield. They drove off up Washington street at a high rate of speed and the man from whom they had asked directions was so suspicious of their actions that he at once notified Capt. Twomey at police headquarters. The captain passed the word along to Willimantic as soon as he had heard from New London of the theft.

WEDDINGS.

LaFemina-Lobacz

Ralph A. Femina of No. 78 High street and Miss Rose Lobacz of No. 111 High street, were united in marriage Monday morning in St. Joseph's church by Rev. Peter Sroka, curate of the church. Many relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony. The bridesmaids were Miss Anna Lobacz, Miss Ursulia Rymszy and Miss Stella Petrosky and the groom's attendants were Frank Petrosky, William Lobacz and Edward Swabby, the last named of Jewett City.

The bride received a number of beautiful gifts. Following the wedding the couple left for a honeymoon trip after which they will reside at No. 111 High street. Their wedding trip will take them to Boston, Philadelphia and New York.

Both the bride and groom have been employed as weavers in the American Woolen mill. The groom is a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., and is the son of Louis and Lucy Robastella LaFemina. The bride is the daughter of John and Bertha Lobacz and was born in Norwich.

Gorneman-Dawley

Miss Lena B. Dawley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Dawley of this city was married to Paul C. Gorneman of Providence at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Jenkins of 81 Blydenburg avenue, New London. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alexander Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church of Norwich.

The bride entered with her father, preceded by the matron of honor, Mrs. John C. Jenkins and two bridesmaids, Miss Margery W. Dawley of Preston and Miss Jessica P. Leland of New Rochelle, N. Y. The best man was John C. Jenkins of New London. The bride was attired in ivory satin trimmed with lace and orange blossoms. Her bridal veil was arranged coronet style with pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor wore powder blue georgette over gold embroidered satin and carried a bouquet of commonwealth roses. The bridesmaids' gowns were of resida green crepe with fur trimmings. They carried baskets of pink chrysanthemums.

The bride is a native of Norwich, a graduate of the Norwich Free academy, class of 1915. She later attended Simmons College, Boston and Columbia University, N. Y. The bridegroom is the son of Carl Gorneman of Amarillo, Texas. He attended Washington and Lee college and is a graduate of the Columbia Law school. He is at present associated in law practice in Providence with George Raymond.

The bride's traveling costume was of ox blood red jammuna cloth with squirrel trimmings. Her hat was of velvet and squirrel to match. The floral decorations at the house were of autumn leaves, palms and chrysanthemums and were furnished by Geduldig of Norwich. After a wedding trip to New York and Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Gorneman will reside in Providence.

Garypie-Gray

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Allyn of Ledyard was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday evening when Miss Mary B. Gray became the bride of George A. Garypie of Ledyard. The bride was charming in a gown of white satin crepe with tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Preceding the ceremony O Promise Me was sweetly rendered by Mrs. George Beckwith of Franklin, a cousin of the bride. The ceremony was performed before a bank of autumn foliage, the single ring service being used. Rev. Giles F. Goodenough, pastor of the Ledyard Congregational church, officiated. Little Miss Martha Morgan of Stonington acted as flower girl. The bridal party entered the parlor to Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin played by Mrs. George Beckwith.

Guests were present from Sag Harbor, N. Y., Newark, N. J., Stonington, Mystic, Franklin, Norwich and Ledyard. The bride received many beautiful and useful gifts of silver cut glass, linen and money. After a short honeymoon trip by automobile they will reside at the Turn o' the Road farm in Ledyard which Mr. Garypie has leased for a term of years. Mr. and Mrs. Garypie have the best wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy married life.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

SMUGGLING ALIENS IN VICINITY OF NIAGARA FALLS

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Admission of aliens into the United States at Niagara Falls, in a plot in which he received $15 a head, was charged by District Immigration Inspector Shirley D. Smith today against Alois Vogt, immigration inspector on the Toronto-Lewiston boat since 1918.

Inspector Smith announced that Vogt had made verbal admission of connivance with a Toronto man, not a government official, whereby two books of identification blanks for immigrants had been sent to Toronto and sold to aliens for $135 apiece. Smith said Vogt later had refused to sign a statement. The district inspector said a warrant would be issued later in the day.

BUDGET OF CITY OF NEW YORK FOR YEAR MAY REACH $400,000,000

New York, Oct. 16.—Mayor Hylan admitted today that the city budget for the coming year might reach $400,-000,000 an increase of $25,000,000 over last year's figures.

"We have given $2,000,000 to the police," the mayor said "We have given the same sum to the street cleaning department and the child welfare bureau's allowance has been increased $1,000,000. Salary increases for city employes receiving less than $2400 a year will eat up another $1,500,000. It can be easily seen that the budget of 1925 will be greater than that for 1924, no matter how hard we try to curb it."

Took Years to Write

Noah Webster began his preparation for his American Dictionary of the English Language in 1807, and published it in 1823. Previous to 1807 he had publisher a speller and a "Compendious Dictionary," both of which were probably helpful in the new undertaking. The American dictionary contained 12,000 more words and about 40,000 more definitions than had appeared in any English dictionary published before his.

Interesting to Scientists

When the swamp areas of northern Minnesota are drained, remains of many elephants may be brought to light. Prof. Clinton R. Stauffer of the University of Minnesota, has reported to science that recent finds indicate that huge mastodons and mammoths were once abundant in that region and survived the great ice age formerly thought to be the period in which they became extinct.

Buddhism Old Religion

There are so many points of resemblance between Buddhism and Christianity that many have believed that Buddhism was an attempt to copy that religion. Most Oriental scholars agree, however, that it arose in the north of Hindustan between 300 and 600 years before Christ.

Keep Clean

Cleanliness is the foundation of sanitation and sanitation is the first step toward good health. Clean food is very apt to be safe food; clean hands will not often convey disease to the mouth; and a clean body will resist disease far more successfully than a dirty body will.

First Real Pantomime

In December, 1723, the first real pantomime was produced in London, at the Drury Lane theater, as part of the Christmas celebrations of that year. The name of this epochal piece was "Harlequin Doctor Faustus."

JOINT-EASE For Stiff, Swollen Joints
Rheumatic or Otherwise

Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in through skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

Every rheumatic sufferer ought to send today for free book, "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" (just out). Address H. P. Clearwater, box 800, Hallowell, Maine.

ACADEMY PLAYS AT WESTERLY TODAY IN SECOND GAME OF HIGH SCHOOL LEAGUE

After being beaten by Chapman Tech last Saturday at New London 14 to 0 the Academy football team will endeavor to make up for this defeat this afternoon when the team goes to Westerly to clash with the Westerly High team in the second game of the Interscholastic league. The showing made against Chapman last Saturday was far from satisfactory, the local team failing to take advantage of the breaks in the game, especially Scott who missed two almost certain chances for touchdowns.

Coach Aitken has put the boys though a rigid drill during the week topping off Thursday afternoon with an hour of snappy signal drill. The team in scrimmage shows marked improvement over the past week and is in tip-top shape to meet the Rhode Island team this afternoon.

Busch, who has been playing one of the tackle positions, has been dropped from the squad for the remainder of the season because of an infraction of the training rules. Busch was caught smoking and was ordered to turn in his uniform. The loss of Busch in the line will not be felt so heavily now that Perry Hollander a veteran of last year's team has returned to school and will take Busch's place at tackle in today's game. Hollander is a hard worker, a hard tackler and can be shifted to the end position or to the backfield and can perform well in any position. Another veteran to return to the squad this week is Louis Covey a backfield man who played on last season's team. Covey will lend added strength to the team and will go in at halfback in place of Carpenter in the game against Westerly today.

The probable lineup that will start in today's game will be: Scott le; Lukoski lt; Hagberg lg; Haslam c; Gilman rg; Hollander rt; Carlin re; Williams qb; McGowan rhb; Covey lhb; Hinricks fb. The subs will be Polsky, Stephano and Dunn on the line and Higgins, Holdridge, Carpenter and Tombari on the backfield.

Westerly will be no mean opponent for the Academy as almost the entire Westerly team is composed of veterans. The Rhode Island team has shown up well this season piling up good healthy scores against good opponents and the Academy will have a battle on its hands this afternoon. The game is scheduled for 2:45 o'clock.

FABER'S TEAM TO PLAY RIVERVIEW ON SATURDAY

Not satisfied with the result of last Saturday's game which went sixteen innings to a scoreless tie Joe Faber will send his All-Star team against the Riverview club at the State hospital on Saturday. Inability to hit Tony West's shoots in the initial game was really the undoing of the All-Star aggregation while on the other hand fast fielding by the All-Star infield prevented the Riverview team from scoring. Joe Faber, who is the property of Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles but who was farmed out to the Harrisburg team of the New York-Pennsylvania league, had the best season of his career in league baseball. Joe has always been recognized as a finished infielder but his inability to hit has kept him out of fast company. During the past season Faber developed his batting eye and when the season finished his average was .312 a decided improvement over the 1923 season when he finished with Jersey City with an average of 183.

In two games last week Faber showed that he is playing wonderful ball both in the field and at bat. In the game against Riverview he accepted 13 chances without an error and in the game against Moosup on Sunday pounded out a home run, two triples and a double.

For Saturday's game the two clubs will use the same lineups that battled last week and fans can expect another good game, which will probably close the season at the State Hospital.

INTERCLASS TRACK MEET AT BUCKELEY TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 16.—The first of two popular sports are in line for revival this (Friday) afternoon at Morgan Park, where the entire student body of Bulkeley school will assemble to witness and participate in the first outdoor track meet held by the local institution for a number of years. Although Bulkeley had an inter-class track meet held dates so far back to be even attempted to recall. However all the Bulkeley students hunger for track should be appeased at Morgan Park Friday afternoon, for there will be nine events that will include events in both the track and field departments.

The individual showing in this first outdoor track meet which will be probably followed by at least one more near the close of the present football season, will count greatly towards the lining of these track men who will represent Bulkeley at the annual Yale track meet for high and prep schools next spring. The number of students who will turn out for this first meet has exceeded the expectations of those indirectly responsible for the sponsoring of this initial athletic event. Students from all classes, regardless of the size have signified their intentions to participate in at least one event.

Judging from the exhibitions of the classes of two years ago when Bulkeley staged its last track meet, it looks as though the lions share of the interclass glory should easily go to the sport dominating senior class. The senior class has sent more than its share to the athletic front at Bulkeley and because of the wealth of athletic material the class of 1925 has harbored most of the glory in all departments of sports. But from an announcement made by Coach W. R. Canty, that all members of the football team will not be allowed to participate in the coming meet, the track meet will not hold the interest that it would if such track inclined stars such as Sheflott, Henkle, Rice, Barry, Watterson and Gavitt were allowed to participate. The refusal of Coach Canty to allow members of the football team to enter their names is to insure a good afternoon of football practice in preparation for the strenuous game with Naugatuck High on the following day. But then he may call an early practice and this will give some of the football players a chance to participate in the track events. Regardless of this final decision, a number of football players are entered in the various events.

The meet will get under way at 2 o'clock promptly and will be handled by competent officials.

LANDIS SUMMONS YDE TO APPEAR BEFORE HIM

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Published accounts of statements attributed to Emil Yde, Pittsburg National pitcher, that "something more sensational may be sprung shortly," in connection with the baseball scandal of the New York Giants, led baseball Commissioner Landis to request Yde to appear before him with any information he may have.

"I am anxious to receive any information from any source which will develop whether the O'Connell-Dolan affair has been cleared up by their expulsion from baseball, or whether there are trails which lead elsewhere," said Landis. "But I have no information so far such as Yde is quoted as giving, that Sand was not the only Philadelphia player to be approached, or that anyone else was involved."

"There are several probabilities in this case and I am working on them," said the commissioner, who returned to his office today after winding up world's series details. "I welcome any facts that anyone else can bring out, to help clear this up.

"The baseball public can feel sure that I am not concealing anything I have discovered in relation to this attempt to throw a game. I am not trying to cover up anything and I am not trying to shield any one. But I still lack evidence that the scheme involved others than O'Connell and "Cozy" Dolan.

"I have encountered scores of fans who still feel that there is more to the story than the attempt of O'Connell, at Dolan's instigation, to bribe Heine Sand. If there is, I have as yet been unable to trace it, but I am still trying."

ANOTHER AUTOMOBILE RACE DRIVER IS KILLED

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 16.—Ernie Ansterberg, world famous automobile racer, was killed late today on the new Charlotte Speedway, when he lost control of his car while trying the new track, struck the upper rail and went over it. He died on the way to a hospital.

Ansterberg arrived here this week from Los Angeles, with a number of other racers for the inaugural races at the speedway October 25. He held the world's record for the fastest lap on a mile and a quarter board track, having made this record at Altoona, last summer. Ansterberg was married and his wife is said to be in Los Angeles.

EPINARD WILL RACE AT LAUREL SATURDAY

Laurel, Md., Oct. 16.—Only some accident between now and post time will prevent Epinard, famous French thoroughbred, from starting in the $10,000 Laurel stakes Saturday, Eugene Leigh, trainer of the colt, said today. Word was received at the track that M. Wertheimer, who had intended sailing for France Saturday, has cancelled his passage, and will see his horse run here.

Contrary to some reports, Epinard and Sarazen, his conquerer in the third international special, will not meet in the Laurel stakes. The Vanderbilt gelding, not having been nominated for the race, is ineligible. Both Ladkin and Wise Counsellor, however, are considered almost certain starters.

RICKARD PLANNING TO MATCH FIRPO AND FULTON

New York, Oct. 16—Although awaiting the outcome of immigration proceedings in which Luis Firpo is involved before completing his arrangements, Tex Rickard is going ahead with plans for a match at Madison Square Garden in November between Firpo and Fred Fulton, the Minnesota plasterer. The promoter is desirous of staging the contest on November 14 or 28.

Another South American heavyweight, Quentin Romero, of Chile, probably will appear on the same card with Jim Maloney, of Boston, as an opponent in the semi-final match.

Rickard plans to make it an all-heavyweight carnival and probably will give Arthur Garvey, of Holyoke, Mass., former Notre Dame football star, an opportunity to show his fistic prowess in a preliminary bout.

REPORT THAT DENNY MURPHY WILL BE SOLD THIS WINTER

Baseball gossip that has drifted east from the Pacific Coast league reports that Denny Murphy, Taftville boy who has been first string catcher for the Vernon team, is to be sold into faster company this winter. To what club he will go is not intimated but it is known that several big league scouts have had their eyes on him for some time. Just before Denny went to the Coast league he was given a try-out by Roger Bresnahan but his hitting held him down although his catching ability was of big-league caliber. Since then he has improved in hitting and during the past season was picked as the best catcher in the Coast circuit. Denny expects to play during the winter in the Coast Winter league.

COLUMBIA HAS SAME QUINTET AS LAST YEAR

New York, Oct. 16.—Joe Derring, coach of Columbia's varsity basketball team for the past four years, has been reappointed for the 1924-25 season.

Prospects at Morningside Heights for the coming campaign are unusually bright as Derring has available all five of the regulars who finished second place in the Intercollegiate league. Cornell captured the league title but was given a good race by Columbia and the Tigers.

Yates Wins Medal Round.

Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., Oct. 16.—Shooting par golf, Arthur Yates, Rochester, N. Y., won the medal in the qualifying round of the annual invitation tournament of the Shawnee Country club here today with a 74. J. Walcott Brown, the youthful star from Asbury Park, turned in the next best score, a 76.

What a man sows he shall reap—unless he is an amateur gardener.

LOCAL BOYS PERFORM WELL IN BOUTS ON OPENING CARD AT DANIELSON

(Special to the Bulletin.)

Danielson, Oct. 16.—Baltimore Joe Gans of Norwich was the classiest of all the fighting machines that stepped into the ring at the Casino arena here this evening. In fact, he was so good that Joe Gill of Rockville spoiled what promised to be a bout of real class by taking a flop in the midst of the second round and without cause for so doing. He was waved out of the ring and disqualified by Referee Billy Gallivan of Waterbury.

Gans in the opening round of the bout showed more class and style than any boxer that has appeared in Danielson in many a day. Gill looked good, too, until Gans knocked him to the floor with a pile-driving right swing, just as the round was coming to a close. The bell saved Gill but the punch that he received evidently spoiled his appetite for more like it and he quit cold when Gans put a snappy right to the head in the second round. Commissioner Frank Murphy of Hartford entered the ring and announced that Gill had been disqualified. The bout was to have gone eight rounds. The weights were Gans 168, Gill 165.

Frankie Busch of Norwich and Young Pelkey of Worcester went eight rounds to a draw. This was a gruelling fight in which both received a lot of punishment and absorbed it with more or less difficulty. At times, the bout was fast and then slowed down a bit. Busch made his best showing in the early rounds but the sixth, seventh and eighth were easily Pelkey's. This bout aroused a lot of enthusiasm and inspired the wish that the men might be seen over a longer route. Busch weighed in at 169, Pelkey at 173.

In the first preliminary Young Alder of Danielson won the decision over Tommy Woods of Plainfield. These boys were quite evenly matched but they did not seem to get going as many would have liked to see them. Alder weighed 131, Woods 132½.

Battling Terry of Danielson took the count in the second round of a scheduled six round bout with Young Derosier of Woonsocket. Derosier is a classy boy. This bout was a whirlwind during the first round. The pace proved too fast for Terry and after weathering a storm of blows in the early stages of the second round was driven to his knees and stayed there for the count of ten.

Gene Robideau put away Billy Roberts of Danielson in the third round of a bout that was scheduled to go four. It was announced in advance of this fight that both had failed to make the weight agreed upon, 133 pounds. Robideau came in weighing 140 while Roberts weighed 128½. Roberts is a game lad. He knocked Robideau to his knees in the first round but was unable to stand up under the fast pace set and went down after courageously taking a real beating from his heavier opponent in the third round.

The attendance at the show was highly encouraging for the future boxing in Danielson. Practically a capacity audience was on hand and after the show the expressions of opinion generally were that the show was well worth the money, paid by those who saw it.

YDE DENIES HE MADE STATEMENTS ABOUT SCANDAL

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 16.—Emil Yde, Pirate pitcher, has communicated with Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburg Nationals, denying that he made any statements with reference to the baseball scandal, Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pittsburg club, declared tonight when informed that Yde had been summoned to appear before Commissioner Landis. Yde is at his home in Freeport, Ill.

The statements attributed to Yde were contained in an interview by an unnamed fan to a Rockford, Ill., newspaper. In the interview, the fan repeated what was purported to have been a conversation he had with Yde during one of the world series games between the New York Nationals and the Washington Americans. The account was re-published in a Pittsburg newspaper.

Shortly after the purported interview appeared, Mr. Dreyfuss said, a telegram was received from Yde in which he denied that he had made any statement with reference to the baseball scandal.

DARTMOUTH SQUAD ON WAY TO YALE BOWL

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 16.—Dartmouth's football squad of 33 men left for New Haven tonight where the Green will play Yale on Saturday. With the exception of Smith, first string guard, who will probably be unable to play on account of injuries, the team will be the same that rolled up a 38-0 victory over Vermont last Saturday and scored 52-0 and 42-0 wins over McGill and Norwich, respectively. The team, rebuilt with a nucleus of veterans, is in good condition. Practice will be held in the Yale bowl tomorrow.

RITOLA SOON TO RETURN TO AMERICAN TRACK

New York, Oct. 16 (By the A. P.)—Willie Ritola, Finnish-American distance running star, who scored several notable triumphs for his native land in the Paris Olympics, is returning soon to the land of his adoption, it was learned today. He intends to resume the residence he held here for ten years prior to last January.

Chase Admits He's Wrong.

New York, Oct. 16.—Canon William S. Chase today admitted that he had made an erroneous affidavit regarding Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight. The canon's admission was made before Federal Commissioner Hitchcock at a hearing on the canon's complaint that Firpo committed perjury in telling the immigration authorities that he did not know Miss Bianca Lourdes Picart, who came to this country on the same steamship from Buenos Aires.

Norwich vs. Jewett City.

The Nutmegs of Norwich, when they go against the as yet unbeaten Speedboys of Jewett City, will present one of the fastest lineups ever seen in eastern Connecticut. The Nutmegs-Speedboys game Sunday will be one of the most interesting in this section of the state and is the only football game over the week-end.

Yale Has Final Workout.

New Haven, Oct. 16.—The Yale varsity had its final workout in the bowl today prior to its game with Dartmouth Saturday. Tomorrow the Yale authorities will give the bowl over to the visiting team. The Dartmouth squad will arrive in New Haven early tomorrow morning and will be taken in busses to a hotel in Derby, where the men will remain until afternoon when they will practice in the bowl.

Harvard Tennis Tourney.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 16.—J. M. Davies of Los Angeles and E. M. Wheeler of Bridgeport, Conn., won the doubles tennis championship of Harvard university today by defeating Takelichi Harada of Japan, Harvard singles champion, and Japanese Davis cup player, and Alden Briggs, of Brookline, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1. The victors are both in the graduate school of business administration. Wheeler was captain of the Yale tennis team and Davies had played with the Leland Stanford team.

Pays $2; Gets $310.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 16.—In winning the first heat at Cranwood today, Robinwood paid one of the longest prices of the year. A $2 mutuel ticket paid $310 to win. Holders of $2 tickets to place received $16.20 and show tickets paid $28.60.

In the mountains of western Massachusetts is a highway which was long the name of "Jacob's Ladder."

According to the legend which I have heard—for whose accuracy his-[illegible] otherwise I do not vouch, an early settler known far and wide as Jacob once lived near the summit of the mountain. To get down to the lowlands where his nearest neighbors were he dug out of the mountainside a trail, so zig-zagged and steep that it came to be known as "Jacob's Ladder." At first it was a difficult climb for men afoot; later it was [illegible] improved to be passable with pack-saddle; later [illegible] widened and graded to [illegible] small loads on [illegible] parts. Forty years ago it [illegible] with sharp turns at al-[illegible] angles, with grades im-[illegible] to any but extremely [illegible] and rough beyond descrip-[illegible] still retained its name of "Jacob's Ladder," because of its widely recognized steepness and difficulty. It was used only locally, as drivers going to and fro between the Connecticut valley and the Berkshires preferred to go a long way around rather than attempt it.

Twenty years ago, when state roads began to come into use, it was seen that this impracticable mountain road was an essential link in the through route. So the state took it in hand and improved it. The improvements have been going on ever since. Its curves were so sharp and its grades so steep that, for several years, the motorist who successfully negotiated "Jacob's Ladder" was entitled to boast of the power of his car and his own driving skill.

The state kept on with its work, however. One grade after another was reduced; one angle after another eliminated. Hollows were filled in; steep pitches skirted or cut down; broad, sweeping curves took the place of the early zigzags. Today it is an easy ascent, which even small cars usually make with little difficulty "on high," and which the average motorist practically ignores. I have known tourists, after passing it to stop to ask where that "Jacob's Ladder" they had heard so much about really was. They didn't recognize it even when driving over it, so simple has the once harsh problem been made.

Therein behold one result of modern development. There is another result which may or may not be considered so admirable.

"Jacob" has, of course, long since passed on to his rest. The hill farm which he once cultivated has reverted to scrub and woods. The primitive home which he established by hard work, frugality and stern self-denial, is represented now by half-a-dozen "filling stations" or "soft-drink" stands all of which are abandoned every fall when the touring season ends.

There is one magnificently engineered boulevard more. There is one farm less.

Last week, if you did me the honor to read me, you'll recall that I talked a little of the change which has come during even the "few and evil days" of my life in the matter of highways and transportation. Having known "Jacob's Ladder" as it was forty and fifty years since, my passage over it two weeks ago, was a wonderful contrast. It was one of the biggest links in that hundred-and-fifty miles long sermon which the trip drew out. It was also one of the most vivid representations of the radical change which has come with the years.

Massachusetts is richer by ten miles of magnificent boulevard over which trucks and touring-cars, business traffic and pleasure travel pass in unending procession.

Massachusetts is poorer by one hill farm and one frugally living, hard-working, hardship-enduring but royally independent farmer's family.

Now, I'm going to ask you whether you think the gain outweighs the loss or not. I do not ask you because your answer, whatever it be, would make no difference. The "spirit of the age," the "trend of the times," the "march of progress,"—whatever you choose to call it,—has already answered that question with emphasis and, so far as you and I are concerned, with frugality. We may not agree with that answer. But, if we don't, we are in a hopeless and helpless minority. We are as much at its mercy as two chips, tossing in a tideway, are at the mercy of the oceanic flood and ebb.

As social economists or philosophic students of events we may have an opinion.

As practical farmers, we have just one life-saving policy open to us.

That is to accept the changes which we are powerless to prevent, and make them serve us in so far as that is feasible.

Perhaps some of the older of my readers will remember, as I do, how farming was farmed forty, fifty, sixty, seventy years ago. We remember how farms which now won't pay the taxes on themselves, then supported in comparative comfort big families brought in enough to supply food, clothing and shelter, enough to give the children at least a common-school education and, in many cases, send one or two promising boys to college. We, who remember those days, are apt to shake our heads somewhat sadly over the change.

We see straggling hedge-rows masking what once were trim stone walls. We see level areas which once were mown reverting to tangled acreages of sedge and swamp grass. We see what used to be corn and wheat fields overgrown with jungles of sickly brush. We see gaping cellar-holes where once stood substantial farm-houses.

Also, we see cities and villages hud-dling at commercially strategic points in the lowlands, and magnificent cement roads gridironing a country which formerly saw only ox teams slowly and painfully straining their ways over rutted roads and up difficult hills.

"There are gains for all our losses," so the poet assures us. Anyway, there is change,—radical, omnipresent change. Our only chance, as farmers, is to accept the inevitable, stop mourning over What-Has-Been or sighing for What-Might-Be, and make the best our opportunities and abilities will permit of What-Is.

The days of The Old Farming have passed. They won't return. At least not in our time. They may, perhaps, come back when another glacial age has swept over our New England and a new race of hardy pioneers is advancing to reclaim, once more, the country left bare by the glacier's northward retreat. But we, you and I, won't be even memories on that new earth.

We are most of us, being compelled thereto by the exigencies of our calling, competent readers of the weather signs. We know what a red morning sky presages, and what it means when the swallows and the other birds take flight towards the southlands.

"When it is evening, ye say, it will be fair weather: for the sky is red. And in the morning, it will be foul weather today, for the sky is red and lowering. Ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times?"

Ah, brother farmers, both old and young, the signs of the times are writ large and clear before our eyes. I have no divine right as He whom I have quoted had, to call any man "hypocrite" who fails or refuses to read those signs. But both you and I have the right to question his judgment, to deprecate his short-sightedness, and to avoid his error.

Farming is not now and will not be a gain in our day, what it was to "Jacob" on his hill-farm at the top of his "Ladder." Everything around us has changed. We must change with our environment or—go to the wall. We must accept the new conditions, not to "save our faces," but to save our lives.

So many old farms which I know of the potato yield three generations ago used to be far beyond anything which later farmers have been securing. These later farmers explain it by saying that the soil has been "worn out" and that manuring won't take the place of the age-old fertility stored up in new land. Yet, the other day, I read in The Bulletin of that simply amazing yield dug this fall from a Preston field:—a yield fairly comparable with those of which the old pioneers delight to boast. Wherefore it seems that, accepting the facts of soil and season as they are, it is yet possible to renew, in the case of at least one crop, the big yields of old-time virgin soils. I do not know the details concerning the preparation for and management of that Preston crop. Doubtless many of you do. But I am willing to wager that it was accomplished not by a recopying of old methods, but by a painstaking and foresighted adoption of new methods to fit new needs.

Up at Storrs, the things which Prof. Esten has done by his "New Agriculture" on an abandoned hilltop of naturally thin and unpromising soil are simply marvellous in the eyes of any old farmer who will take the trouble to investigate them.

No: farming in New England isn't "played out." It isn't even sick unto death. It may be stiff and lame but that it is because too many of us farmers have persisted in treating its 1924 ailments according to the theories and practice of 1824. We have been looking backward when we should have been looking forward,—not forgetting to keep a mighty sharp eye on the present.

We have got to adapt ourselves to the world in which we find ourselves. Perhaps we think that world isn't quite perfect. Perhaps we think if our ideas had been paid more heed to, it would have been better. Well, what of it? It is not perfect: it is not by any means what we'd like it to be. But it Is-What-It-Is. We can make faces at it or shake fists at it. What good'll that do? To anybody? To ourselves?

On the other hand we can take it as it is doped out to us and get the most possible out of it. If I were an Eastern Connecticut farmer, I'd put that Preston potato-grower on the rock, if necessary, till I'd screwed out of him the last trivial detail of how on earth he did it. Then I'd take his methods apart behind my own barn and see just how far I could make them fit my soil, etc. and in what ways I might, perhaps, improve upon them. I'd trapse up to Storrs and suck Esten dry about his system for raising huge crops without manure or high-priced fertilizer. Then I'd "go him one better," if such a thing were possible. I'd study up what my handiest market wants most and will pay best prices for. I'd sit up nights to get some sort of grip on selling methods,—methods by which I could secure a good deal the biggest half of what the ultimate consumer pays for my products.

Perhaps, having done all this, I'd drop, kerplunk, into a deep hole. Perhaps I wouldn't. At least I'd have the satisfaction of knowing that I'd done my best and acted my wisest. And some of my neighbors who had done the same thing wouldn't drop into any hole. They would have come out on top, well on top. They would have opened a gate upon Easy street.

Now, please don't assume that I'm playing the schoolmaster or the preacher too rashly. I'm no second Solomon for wisdom. But, after more than seventy years of the rough-and tumble of life, it seems to me as if I could see a glimpse of light in the east for New England farmers. And I do want to stir 'em up if I can, and point out what looks like the dawn of a new day.

As somebody once said, "Strike, but hear!"

THE FARMER.

WINDHAM

GULBRANSEN
The Registering Piano

Only the Gulbransen Registers "Touch"

A piano, played by music-roll-and-pedals, that positively registers personal "touch!"

Which means—a piano all folks can play as skillfully, with all the expression and feeling possible to the best hand-playing!

This is the latest and most amazing development in the art of piano-making—a new-day musical instrument indeed—the Gulbransen Registering Piano.

Registering your "touch." This is the thing about the Gulbransen that has so stirred the imagination of the music-hungry public—that has awakened, too, the interest of many capable pianists in the artistic possibilities of the Registering Piano.

Just realize what it means to the present generation of music-lovers—the children too much occupied at school to have time to practice, the men deeply engrossed in their work, the women of the household busily engaged with home and social affairs—that in spite of these handicaps each and all now may enjoy the very highest type of piano music, without study or long practice—real music, played by each, with his or her own personal "touch."

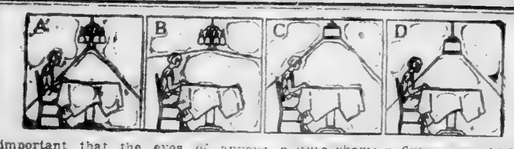
HELPS ABOUT HOUSE LIGHTING

LIGHTING THE DINING ROOM

In some ways the dining room is the room, and it is the center of interest. It should be the most brightly lighted object in the whole room. There are a number of different kinds of fixtures which may be hung from the ceiling to provide good lighting, and almost all of them may be used imporperly to provide bad lighting.

The Center Ceiling Fixture

Whatever the kind of fixture, it is important that the eyes of anyone seated at the table be protected against the glare of the bulbs which furnish the light. There are two ways to do this. 1. Be sure that the shades are long enough and of the right shape. For example, the next picture shows a fixture on which one bulb (A) is well shaded and the other bulb (B) is badly shaded.



The shade which is narrower at the bottom protects the eyes of the person at the table. 2. For a given shade, be sure the fixture is low enough over the table (but not so low as to be in the way or make it impossible to see the person sitting opposite).

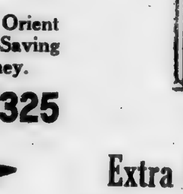
Now look at the fixture in (C) and (D). When this fixture is as high above the table as it is at (C) the glare from the bulb is directly in the eyes of everyone seated at the table, but if it is put down closer to the table, as at (D) the fixture completely hides the bulb, and we have excellent dining room lighting without glare. For most fixtures it is best to see that the bottom of the shades is not more than 36 inches above the table for (A) and 24 inches above the table for (D). Where candle fixtures are used, shades are needed not only to reflect some of the light which would otherwise go up to the ceiling or down on the table.

The fixtures over the table will need bulbs with a total of from 100 to 200 watts.

Other Lighting

Bracket fixtures on the walls and candlesticks on the buffet may be used to add decoration, provided they are well shaded and are not so bright as to be annoying or to produce glare and eyestrain. When they are used, the bulbs should not be larger than 15 or 25 watts.

Convenience outlets should be installed for electric appliances. If used on the dining table, a convenience outlet may be placed in the floor under the table, or on the under side of the table itself, so that the unsightly cord need not hang from a bulb socket and cause one part of the lighting fixture to be dark. Duplex convenience outlets which permit the use of two appliances may be installed for practically the same cost as the older style single outlets.



ROAD CONDITIONS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Road conditions and detours where construction work is underway are reported in eastern Connecticut by the state highway department as follows:

Pomfret—Phoenixville road. Bituminous re-surfacing completed and work being done on shoulders. Entire road open for travel.

Stafford—Morgon and Wales roads under construction but are open for traffic.

Union—From Stafford-Union Town line to state line road closed. Fair detour over dirt road.

Bolton—Bolton-Coventry road is closed. Detours posted. Through traffic from Hartford to Willimantic should go via Andover.

Mansfield—Mansfield Depot road under construction. Open to traffic.

Mansfield—Mansfield Four Corners-Storrs road under construction. Open to traffic.

Groton—Baptist Hill construction work going on. Open to traffic.

Groton—Noank-Groton Long Point road open to traffic. Shoulders incomplete.

Groton—Water street, Mystic, open to traffic.

Putnam—Putnam-Killingly road is open to traffic. Shoulders incomplete.

Waterford—Post road under construction, shoulders incomplete. Detour plainly marked.

Old Lyme—Post road under construction. Through traffic will avoid inconvenience if it follows the Shore road from Lyme to Moosbroker's corner in Waterford as posted.

Salem—East Haddam — Grading operations under way. Norwich-Hadlyme road section east of Hartford-New London road impassable to Gardner Lake, then use detour posted to Norwich. Section west turnpike very rough but open to traffic.

Plainfield—Putnam-Norwich road. Grading being done, open to traffic.

New London—Bank street closed to traffic. Detour posted.

Clinton—Westbrook-Post Road — One way traffic for short distance at two points.

Westbrook—Menunketsuch River bridge—Construction work under way. One way traffic over temporary brdige.

It's awfully hard to find your confidence after it has been misplaced.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Although a story of strictly modern times, no more beautiful collection of costumes has ever graced the screen than those worn in the fancy dress ball in Christine of the Hungry Heart, the Thomas H. Ince-First National picture now at the Palace theater.

Florence Vidor, playing the title role, appears as a Spanish senorita, and that starry soft-eyed loveliness that one is variably visualizes when the Spanish beauty is mentioned, typifies Miss Vidor's own personality exactly.

Alberta Vaughn in her latest Mermaid comedy, Single Reel telephone girl Series Faster Faster, Pathe news and Sport Light complete this high class program.

Palace Theater

In Frank Lloyd's production of The Sea Hawk at the Palace four days beginning Sunday Oct. 19, the photography is one of the most discussed points of the big First National spectacle.

The difficult sea scrapes and night scenes are not alone Mr. Brodin's accomplishments in recording The Sea Hawk. The lighting of certain quaint English interiors and the photographic quality of the scenes at the auction block where Rosamund, the English gentlewoman and the Andalusian girl are sold to the Moorish merchants are scenes of rare artistic technique. As to photographing of individuals, his action portraits of Milton Sills and Enid Bennett border on the remarkable and within the confines of the Turkish court Mr. Brodin has brought to mind a number of famous old paintings and tapestries by his handling of Frank Currier, as Asad, William Collier, Jr., as Marzak and Mme. Radzina as Fenzilah.

Broadway

Feet of Clay, Cecil B. De Mille's latest production for Paramount, which features Rod La Rocque, Vera Reynolds, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Robert Edeson, opens a four days' run at the Broadway theater Sunday. The story is an adaptation of the immensely popular magazine serial by that name by Margaretta Tuttle. Beulah Marie Dix and Bertram Millhauser wrote the scren play.

The eye-filling piece de resistance is a race between twenty girls in jockey bathing suits on surf-boards behind fast speedboats.

In the story Julia Faye, wealthy half-sister of the penniless Vera Reynolds, has a "society cat" part of the sort which gained her such a reputation in Saturday Night, Triumph and other pictures. She, her husband Robert Edeson, and Ricardo Cortez wealthy and in love with Vera Reynolds, form interlocking cogs in a plot which leads to dramatic consequences when La Rocque's fool makes it necessary for his new wife to support her husband. Misunderstanding is bred by the situation De Mille solves in a unique manner.

Broadway Theater

Another superior program of Keith Vaudeville and pictures was presented at the Broadway theater yesterday to the delight of a capacity house.

A very clever act called On The Wire with Stanley & Elva opened the program of vaudeville. In ten minutes they cover a great latitude.

The Ebony Trio offer Darktown Frolics, a bright combination of song, dance and comedy.

Frank Du Franc and Marea Craiz in Scrambled Matrimony. It is a real funny offering of domestic tiffs.

Hamilton & Egbert, Ham & Ed, in A Medley of Nonsense offer a cross fire of humerous patter and songs to good returns.

The Ruby Trio are three young women, singer, instrumentalists and dancers, who present a combination of the three things called Samples.

It was adapted by Walter Woods and Harvey Thew from The Salamander. Owen Johnson's well-known and widely read novel.

The Enemy Sex is a must picture. You simply must see it.

Bread Theater

The biggest cast of the year is the claim made by Metro for Broken Barriers, Reginald Barker's new production, which is the feature attraction at the Breed theater today and Saturday. This picture, which was adapted by Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin from Meredith Nicholson's novel of the problems that arise in modern society because of the divorce question, has among its players some of the best-known actors in pictures.

Included in the cast are James Kirkwood, Mae Busch, Norma Shearer, Adolphe Menjou, George Fawcett, Robert Frazer, Ruth Stonehouse, Winifred Bryson, Robert Agnew, Vera Reynolds, Edythe Chapman, Margaret McWade and George Kuwa.

William Duncan will also be seen in the Fast Express and the Pathe news and a Mack Sennett comedy complete the bill.

Business Is Good
—because Our Prices are Low!

"Business is good!" Not every store can make that optimistic statement, but when we say it—we mean it. Steadily our sales volume has increased. We have had to go into the market and buy. People today are weighing prices and judging value like they never have before—and that is why our business is growing. We are crowding more real, actual, tangible value into every dollar invested here in furniture than ever before. Let your own eyes tell you the big story of thrift and economy that is being written here now!

As our stocks have been moving out into the homes of this city at these low prices, we have gone into the markets for other merchandise to replenish them. We have found manufacturers willing and glad to make price concessions we never dreamed would be possible. We have been able to buy furniture at the lowest prices in years, and we are passing these savings along to you right now. No matter what you need, it is priced now at a figure that will save you real money. On this page are just a few typical reasons why our business is good.

MYSTIC

The Garden club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles M. Davis on Hurr street. Mrs. L. P. Allyn, the president, presiding. An interesting article on Indian Summers was read by Mrs. L. P. Allyn while Mrs. Annie B. Gates had a carefully prepared paper on trees which concluded with an ant poem by Van Dyke. It was reported by Mrs. Allyn that the work of planting trees shrubs, etc., in the cut on Gravel Hill has been completed by nurserymen from New London, who had the work in charge. The work of planting around the Baptist church which is to be taken care of by the Ladies' Aid society of that church, probably cannot be done for some time yet until the work about the church is completed. Members of the Garden club were invited by Mrs. L. P. Allyn to hold a basket picnic today (Friday) at her cottage on Mason's Island. The date of the next meeting of the club has not been decided upon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gaskell have returned from an automobile trip to Boston, and various points on Cape Cod.

Florine Dow Camp, Royal Neighbors, is planning a masquerade to be held in connection with the next meeting. The affair is to be a Hallowe'en party.

The Home Missionary society of the Methodist church met Tuesday afternoon in the chapel and discussed plans relative to the missionary conference to be held here early in November.

Mrs. David Brown and Mrs. Fred Gledhill attended Stafford Springs fair Tuesday.

Madeline Gley, 33 Greenmanville avenue, and Robert Perkins, Industrial place, are ill with diphtheria at their respective homes.

Mrs. C. E. Newbury and Mrs. A. E. Cutler went to Bristol Wednesday as delegates from the local branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, to the state convention of the W. C. T. U. which opened on Wednesday and continues until today (Friday). Another delegate is Mrs. Wallace A. Phillips, who went to New Haven Monday to attend the Baptist state convention held in that city.

Mystic was well represented at the republican caucuses held respectively at the town hall in Poquonnoc and Arion hall in Stonington, at which L. P. Allyn was nominated for representative on the Groton side and Mason Manning on the Stonington side, Judge Frank H. Hinckley being nominated to succeed himself as judge of probate in Stonington, and Alfred O. Colby as justice of the peace on the Groton side while James Cooper, Ernest A. Bliven and Dr. Charles F. Congdon were nominated for justices of the peace on the Stonington side.

Mrs. Guy Flint and Mrs. Edward Runnells of Springfield, Mass., have been guests of Mrs. Runnel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mabbett.

Phoebe Packer Rathbun Tent, Daughters of Veterans, met Wednesday evening in G. A. R. hall.

Charity Chapter, No. 61, O. E. S., met Tuesday evening in Masonic temple.

Mrs. Georfge H. Greenman had a pleasant surprise Monday evening in honor of her birthday when a number of her friends came to spend the evening with her, bringing a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums and a birthday cake all decorated with candles among other good things.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Music of the Week

Mme. Hansen's ever eloquent violin records two delicately beautiful cradle songs by Jarnefelt and Cesar Cui this week. In lesser hands they are always lovely numbers—the subtleties of Mme. Hansen's bow endow them with even richer tone colors and feeling.

Again we are privileged to hear Lapdowska's harpsichord in two records of historic importance and present delight. The Neapolitan Scarlatti's "La Chasse" (The Hunt) is the first, a quaint piece, while the second is a "bourree" or old country dance of the player's own composing, and fully in the spirit of l'ancienne regime.

We are grateful for Margarete Matzauer's superb record of Ponchielli's "Voce di donna" (Angelic Voice) from "Gioconda" and Meyerbeer's "Nobil signori salute?" (Noble Sirs, I Salute You!) The first is a beautiful example of legato singing; the second, a florid number, always a test of an operatic contralto's coloratura ability.

Victor Herbert, before his death composed four serenades especially for Paul Whiteman's much discussed concert orchestra. This week this organization, augmented chiefly by the strings of the usual concert orchestra, records them. They are clear, brilliant records, in style Spanish, Chinese, Cuban and Oriental respectively.

Shannon Quartet records two of the perennially lovely favorites of all time. "All Through the Night," like the famous Londonderry air, is as typically Gaelic as the latter is Celtic. The solo parts are accompanied by orchestra, with lovely interludes. Tom Moore's "Oft in the Stilly Night" is sung with its familiar setting.

Henry Burr sings "A Voice With a Smile" which, with Again, Kathleen Mavourneen" by Sterling Trio, will be sure of a popular hearing. And, strange as it may sound, Aileen Stanley and Billy Murray cut the comedy and make two sentimental records. The first is a duet, "When I was the Dandy and You Were the Belle," This number calls upon "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," Dvorak's Humoresque," and "When You Were Sweet Sixteen," Miss Stanley makes a solo on the other side of "Put Away a Little Ray of Golden Sunshine for a Rainy Day." The style of each is fox-trot.

Billy puts on his cap again and with Ed Smalle and an orchestra stages "Way Out West in Kansas," "Go 'Long Mule," is companion on the other side, by Vernon Dalhart, suggests its pace. "That's Georgia," a fox trot record by the Benson Orchestra of Chicago, has one of those suspended intervals wherein you dance for several bars without the beat. Every dancer will like it. "Morning" on the other side is jazzish, but not jazz.

Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra take up "Hard Hearted Hannah," somekin, 'twould seem, of "Hard Boiled Rose," and put her on a record. "Bagdad" on the other side is a clever Oriental fox trot.

Elly Ney a Magnetic Player

So great is the spell of Elly Ney, the pianiste who appears with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra at the New London State Armory next Monday night, that even the orchestra with which she appears as soloist reflect its glamor.

A solo appearance with a great symphony orchestra whether it be instrumental or vocal requires artistry of the highest degree on the part of both soloist and orchestra, and artistry we shall have when Mme. Ney plays the Brahms Concerto No. 2, with her husband Willem Van Hoogstraten conducting the orchestra. If the true magnitude of this particular musical event could be made known to the public in advance of the concert, there would be a repetition of the vast audience which assembled in the armory on one occasion last winter.

WESTERLY

"I will grant the motion to direct a verdict for the plaintiff," said Judge Arthur P. Sumner, Thursday forenoon in the Westerly session of the superior court for Washington county, in the case of the Empire Cream Separator company of Bloomfield, N. J. vs. C. Palmer Chapman of Avondale. The decision of the judge followed a morning given over to the hearing of motions and counter-motions of Attorney Roche for the plaintiff and Ferguson for the defense, in which the collection of $231.69 was sought for the payment of a milking machine. The jury which had been sent out was recalled, following the judge's decision and after the next jury had been empanelled the remaining jurors were dismissed, as there would be no further need for them in this session. Judgment was entered for $488.69.

The last case to come before this session of court was that of the complainant, Amos L. Kenyon, overseer of poor of the town of Hopkinton, vs. Wilfred Palmer, of Hope Valley, a bastardy case, in which the town seeks to recover for the support of an illegitimate child. Attorney Rathbun appeared for the defendant and Roche for the town of Hopkinton.

The following jurymen were drawn —Herbert E. Burdick, Hopkinton (excused); Frank A. Terranova, Westerly, (excused); Edgar Howard, Westerly; Eric Abby, Richmond; Hector A. Lafreniere, North Kingstown; Fred Mateson, North Kingstown; Thomas H. Murray, Westerly; Walter L. Northrup, South Kingstown; Percy W. Hathaway, South Kingstown, (foreman); George A. Johnson, Charlestown; Joseph D. Wilcox, Westerly; Raymond E. Lewis, North Kingstown; Arthur L. Parker, North Kingstown; Everett Barns, Westerly, (excused); John Hopkins, Richmond (excused); F. DiPietri, South Kingstown; William A. Sheridan, South Kingstown. Everett Barns did not respond when his name was called and Judge Sumner directed that he be telephoned for.

Trial was begun with the woman in the case, Mary Puckas, of Hope Valley, on the witness stand. Theodore DeBrowski of Westerly was sworn to act as interpreter.

Miss Jane Mudge, a student nurse at Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London, returned to her duties Wednesday night, after being the guest of relatives and friends in Westerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fern, following their return from a three weeks' automobile wedding trip to Montreal, have been guests of Mrs. Fern's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Lahn, in Pawcatuck, previous to making their home at 186 Pequot avenue, New London.

NEW LONDON FLAGS AT HALF STAFF FOR BRANDEGEE FUNERAL TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 16.—The body of United States Senator Frank Bosworth Brandegee, will arrive in New London Friday morning on the Federal express, the date of the arrival of the body having been changed from the original schedule, 11.37 o'clock. The body will rest in a special Pullman car and will be accompanied by sixteen senators and congressmen. Following the arrival of the body at the Union station it will be taker to St. James Episcopal church where it will lie in state until the hour of the funeral 2.30 o'clock when Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of the church will read the service. The honorary bearers from New London and Norwich will be Judge Charles B. Whittlesey, Daniel M. Crouch, Theodore Bodenwein, Sheriff Sidney A. Brown and Frank V. Chappell, this city and Arthur M. Brown and former Congressman Edward W. Higgins of Norwich. With the arrival of the special train other congressional bearers will be selected from among the congressmen and senators accompanying the body from Washington to New London.

The services will be attended by many prominent politicians and attorneys from through the state, including Governor Charles W. Tempieton. The body will be laid in its final resting place in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

All public buildings and many private institutions are displaying flags at half mast since the announcement of the death of Senator Brandegee.

Edward and Gisuldo Fatterini have sold to Attilio and Italia Pierfederlic a half interest in the property, 113 Pequot avenue.

Edgar E. Keeney has sold to Clyde V. Backus a house and lot on Lee avenue.

Rose Zimmer has sold to Philip H. Fitzhugh a house and lot on Shapley street.

Miss Edna Green, stenographer in the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran, is confined to her home on Home street, threatened with appendicitis.

Miss Shirley Dunn of Blackhall St., John Huntley, Lyme and Raymond Fraser, Main street, the last named having attempted self destruction at his home yesterday afternoon by inhaling gas, were patients dismissed at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital today.

Mrs. David Lubchansky and infant son, of North Bank street; Mrs. John Couch; Mrs. Duncan Belcher and infant daughter, Clinton; Mrs. Mary Hosley, Thames street; Samuel Levy, clerk, Montville; Mrs. D. I. MacLaren, Westerly, were patients discharged at Home Memorial hospital today.

Peter Mros, proprietor of an estab-lishment corner of North Bank street and John street, who was arrested last night charged with violation of the liquor law when County Detective William Lewis, Prohibition Enforcement Agent Joseph Fitzpatrick, Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman John Sullivan, Augustus Ray and John Clifford raided the place and found seven quarts of home made whiskey, one gallon of wine and two bottles of coloring, was in the police court this morning, but the case did not get to trial, it being continued to the 25th inst., at the request of Mros' counsel. The court ordered a bond of $1,000 under which Mros was held last night and the accused furnished a surety.

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney today began his vacation of a fortnight. During his absence Sergeant James C. Sullivan will be acting captain.

Detective John Cavanaugh resumed his duties, having concluded his fortnight's vacation.

Patrick Fredella, Jefferson avenue, and Miss Frances Barna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barna, 45 Grand street, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St Mary's Star of the Sea church. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, rector of the church.

Mrs. Henry C. Comeau and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Comeau, are spending a week in New York.

Lloyd Gates, Groton Long Point, left today for Miami, Fla., where he will be employed during the winter.

Frederick Siller and son Oswald and Miss Emily Galpin of Scranton, Pa., are being entertained by Mrs. Jennie Hodder, 68 Montauk avenue

Announcement is made of the mar-riage in New York recently of Miss Gladys Cassidy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Cassidy, of New York, and Walter E. Comeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Comeau of this city. Mr. Comeau is employed by the Brooklyn Edison company.

The case of the state against James Murphy, charged with a felonious assault upon John Rooney with the intent to robbing him, was again continued in the police court today because Rooney's condition is yet such from the beating and stabbing that he received at the hands of Murphy that he could not be in court. The hospital notified the police that Rooney must not leave for a week at least as his condition was not such as would make it a safe venture for him to go out. He is nearly 60, while Murphy is a rugged young fellow with a constitution created by hard work on railroad trains. On the 10th of the month Rooney had been in the section about the Pequot. There he obtained a bottle of liquor from some friend that recognized his condition and believing that stimulant would be for the benefit of Rooney if he used it cautiously gave him a bottle. Rooney came up town and let it be known that he had the liquor. Murphy was one of the fellows who was possessed of this information so he induced Rooney to go to an alleyway and there Murphy robbed him and beat him terribly. At the hospital it was discovered that Rooney had two stab wounds in his body. These wounds are detaining him in the hospital. Today Murphy's bond was fixed at $2500 and his father became surety on that bond though the effort took every dollar's worth of property he is possessed of as collateral. Murphy does not seem to appreciate the predicament in which he has put himself.

Bert De Vault, formerly a soldier at the island forts, was in court this morning charged with intoxication. "I and a friend," he said, "drank half a pint of whiskey and I felt the effect of it." He undoubtedly told the truth for the fellow who had him arrested told the police that De Vault took a stove and tossed it into the bed in which the the complainant was lying. De Vault said he was earning $5.40 a day in Groton, but that he didn't have any money with which to pay his fine. That took him to jail, but he will not be apt to stay there for his associates will see that he gets his liberty by the payment of a fine.

John Shea, a Stonington resident, who has kept away from the court several years, was there yesterday and again today for intoxication. When he appeared Wednesday his good record led to leniency for him and judgment was suspended. That evening he was found helplessly drunk again and was arrested. Today he was fined and sent to jail.

Robert Lyons, 31 Maple avenue, was notified by the police tonight of the death in Pawtucket, R. I., of Lyons' sister-in-law and baby, the mother and babe dying at 65 John street.

An automobile owned and operated by John McArdle, 252 Montauk avenue, and a machine owned and driven by George A. Anderson, 137 Mitchell street, Groton, were in collision on Main street, near Church street, Groton, this forenoon. Mitchell's car was damaged.

Mrs. Estelle K. Taylor, 53 Beverly road, West Hartford, late this afternoon informed the New London police that about Aug. 20, while she was in New London Mrs. Taylor lost a valuable brooch. The brooch was of more than ordinary length and contained 13 diamonds.

An automobile owned by Griswold A. Chappell of Lake street, Manchester, struck and killed a dog, owned by Mrs. Mary Costello, of Bishop terrace, on Broad street, late this afternoon.

DESTROYER GETS YACHT WITH $40,000 RUM CARGO

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 16.—Destroyer Jouett early this morning made another capture of a rum-runner and in doing so a rich prize was secured, for a converted yacht and a goodly supply of liquor and alcohol was taken in charge by the federal authorities. The yacht is the Mauguerite owned by and in command of Charles M Dunn, New York. The liquor consisted of 300 cases of Scotch whiskey and 6700 gallons of alcohol, the latter packed 10 gallons to a case. The aggregate value of the whiskey and the alcohol is placed at close to $40,000.

Dunn was before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich at noon, and was held for hearing the 21st inst. in bonds of $1500. He obtained a surety. The crew of four were discharged. The Marguerite was moored at the United States coast guard pier and her cargo of whiskey and alcohol was placed in storage in the custom house where a fortune in liquor awaits disposition by the government it being estimated that between $250,000 and $300,000 worth of liquor is housed there.

The Marguerite was in the sound the greater pare of the night and early this morning, before daylight, went alongside the Belgian steamer Nieuw Capello and Dunn negotiated for the purchase of the liquor and alcohol. The task of loading the yacht was started and shortly before daylight the yacht put off with her cargo. The Marguerite had gotten but a short distance from the Nieuw Capello when the Jouett appeared and the crew, having observed the yacht leaving the steamer, started in pursuit of the rum-runner. After a chase of several miles the destroyer overtook the Marguerite and Dunn being ordered to bring his craft to a stop, did so. Members of the Jouett boarded the Marguerite and once aboard the nature of the cargo was quickly revealed. Dunn was ordered to head the yacht for New London and did so with the Jouett following. With the arrival of the yacht in port, the crew were taken to the police station and made prisoners until the hour of the hearing.

BRANDEGEE HAD LARGE HOLDINGS IN NEW LONDON

New London, Oct. 16.—That the late United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee who committed suicide at his home in Washington, held considerable property here at the time of his death was made known tonight by James R. May, democratic candidate for state comptroller, who has been in charge of the senator's New London property for several years.

Including in this property is the large Brandegee residence which, with its surrounding land, occupied an entire block bounded by Hempstead, Bristol, Fremont and Walker street. His holdings also include the tract formerly occupied by the Pequot hotel and which contains eight cottages: the estate known as the Gelbert block in the same vicinity, together with a tract of land located on the lower boulevard. The Pequot hotel property was vested in the Pequot Hotel corporation but in reality, according to Mr. May, belonging to Mr. Brandegee. Mr. Brandegee also was the holder of an undivided interest in a large house and tract on the corner of Montauk avenue and Chapel street.

Five years ago, the senator purchased two farms at Montville containing about 190 acres, two dwelling houses and several outbuildings. This land is situated on the Thames river in what a known as the Massapeag section. It is said that the senator expended $25,000 in developing this property. The senator also was the owner of property on Montauk avenue, Ocean avenue, Bellevue place and Faire Harbour place but a number of these lots were disposed of at individual sales. One lot was given to the Harbour club and the senator, at a nominal sum, transferred one tract to the Lawrence Hospital association. Another parcel with a dwelling house was sold by the senator to the hospital at a price far below normal.

The senator had disposed of his interests in land adjoining Connecticut College which he had purchased with the late Alfred H. Chappell and the late Dr. Frederick Farnsworth. The senator also was interested in a piece of property in Groton but this was sold some time ago. A street known as Brandegee has been put through this property.

WEDDING

Riley-O'Brien

Lawrence E. Riley of New York, formerly a resident of Norwich, and Miss Nina T. O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O'Brien, 59 Oneco avenue, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the nuptial mass being celebrated by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, the rector, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Herbert Riley, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Mary Cuit attended the bride. Following the ceremony, a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Riley will make their home in New York, where Mr. Riley is employed as an accountant. Mrs. Riley was employed until recently as ticket seller in the office of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at the union station.

JEWETT CITY

On account of excess foliage, tree men are removing a maple and a cottonwood on E. A. Faust's property on the East Main street Highlands. Other maples damaged by September's gale are being rid of broken branches.

Drawbridge snapper blues have made a record and reached Jewett City. Same didn't swim up, but are on sale in local markets.

The town assessors are on the job. One man says it is the signal every year for him to begin to save money to pay his taxes with next spring. Good dope!

At the meeting of the Ladies' society of the Congregational church held in the church parlor Thursday afternoon, it was voted to hold a Christmas fair. Mrs. W. A. Richardson to be chairman. Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. D. Wolf, Mrs. Walter Marshall, Mrs. S. R. Waters, Mrs A. P. Anderson and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox.

Mrs. A. M. Brown a delegate from the Baptist Sunday school attended the state convention in New Haven.

The men's class of the Methodist church meets this (Friday) evening at L. D Howe's.

Mrs. J. H. McLaughlin is spending two weeks at her mother's home in Baltimore, Md.

At the meeting of Dorcas Circle of the King's Daughters held at Mrs. F. C. Whiting's Tuesday night there were eighteen present. Each one told how she earned the dollar she had promised during the summer. The ways were varied and some of the very amusing. A report of the state convention held at Waterbury was given by the delegate, Miss Mabel Wilcox and by the leader, Miss M. A Burdick. During the social hour pictures were shown of a number of prominent men. Mrs. J. H. Tracy and Miss Grace Olin having the largest number correct.

Voters are still to be made on Saturday once more.

Miss Rose Sharkey has returned from spending the week-end at Williams Memorial, Framingham, Mass., Griswold's assessors are expecting that property owners will file their lists before the first of November. By doing so they will avoid being assessed additional ten per cent.

It is arranged to have jelly, jams of old linen, to be sent to Backus hospital, left at Mrs. A. M Brown's before Monday next.

Mrs. Francis Campbell entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church Thursday afternoon in the church parlor. She was assisted by Mrs. A. M. Brown, Miss Ida I. Foster and Mrs. Mary Brewster. It was voted to conduct a Christmas sale and serve a supper.

Mrs E. A. Kramer and Mrs. Julia Metzger of Willimantic were guests Thursday at Mrs. Annie Otis's.

Mrs. E. M. Blake and sons, Ellsworth and Homer motored to Jewett City Sunday morning, too Mr. and Mrs. George A. Lindell to Holyoke and spent the day with their son, Walter Lindell, who is a successful merchant of that city.

NORWICH TOWN

The Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church is planning to send before Christmas to Miss Ruth Beebe, of Athens, Alabama, a box containing a variety of useful articles for distribution among her pupils, also personal gifts to her, as was done last year. Miss Beebe, a member of the faculty of Trinity school, in Athens, returned recently to commence her third year work among the colored children of the South, after a visit of several weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe, of East Town street. She writes interestingly of her journey, also of the school, to Mrs Herbert L. Yerrington, president of the society. "Perhaps you know that I chaperoned the new high school teacher on our journey? I joined Miss Myrtle Perkins of North Carver, Mass., at gether from there. Leaving New New London and we travelled to York Thursday night, we passed through the principal cities of the coast that night, awaking Friday morning to find ourselves among the mountains of Virginia. Soon after daybreak we crossed the state line, following numerous small rivers that wind in and out among the mountains. The scenery was beautiful and I regretted that it could not last all the way. Friday afternoon we followed the Ohio river on the Kentucky side, crossing the river as we entered Cincinnati. After changing stations and reservations for pullman tickets we immediately took our train which reached Athens 6:20 Saturday morning. Miss Allyn met us and it seemed so good to be home again, among my beloved people.

"The formal opening of Trinity was held Sunday September 28th, with an informal meeting at the schoolhouse. Our friends came early to meet the new teachers and to give the returning ones a hearty welcome. Rev. and Mrs. Huck, of the white Presbyterian church, were present and Mr. Huck spoke on the theme of the hour, "Rejoice and be glad". After the teachers and friends had spoken, the president of our chapter of the A. M. A. league reported that a committee has raised $83.00 toward their apportionment of $600.00 for this year. A public collection of $10.00 was taken. Thus our people are striving to do their share of the work of the A. M. A. here in Athens.

"I hope you are planning to attend one of the meetings that Rev. H. C. McDowell of Galangue Mission, Angola, West Africa is to address during October in Hartford and New Haven. Mr. and Mrs. McDowell are products of the A. M. A. having been graduated from Talladega. They returned from Africa on their first furlough in May. Rev. H. C. Barnwell our superintendant who heard him speak in Chattanooga says that he has a great message. I hope to hear him on his southern trip. With the Lord's Blessing on all my friends. I am,

Cordially,
Ruth R. Beebe."

FACTS FROM PARIS ABOUT REPARATION PAYMENTS

Paris, Oct. 16.—(By the A. P.)—When Seymour Parker Gilbert, Jr., takes over the position of permanent agent general for reparations payments in Berlin on Oct. 31, he will have to his credit for meeting reparation payments the equivalent of 940,000,000 gold marks, less some small amounts which have already been paid out for deliveries in kind.

This sum is made up of 140,000,000 gold marks paid by the German government from revenues and 800,000,000 gold marks of the credit with the reichbank as part of the new note issue based on the present Dawes loan.

The success of the three recent French railway loans and the oversubscription of the $200,000,000 Dawes plan loan to Germany are taken as capital is well disposed toward Europe favorable indications that American and especially towards France.

The French government has annual interest and sinking fund charges in America of about $45,000,000 which are now paid by remittances from France and one purpose of the new loan would be to relieve the French budget of this interest until the German payments begin.

Ousted From World's Series On Bribery Charge

Jimmie O'Connell, $75,000 outfielder of the New York Giants, who was barred from World's Series play, being charged with attempting, with Coach Cozy Dolan, of the Giants, to bribe Henry Sand, shortstop of the Philadelphia Nationals, to "throw" the game played on September 27. O'Connell blames Dolan, saying Cozy directed him.

		Number	DOUBLE-FACED List Price
Berceuse (Lullaby) (Jtrasdeki) Violin Solo / Berceuse (Lullaby) (Cui) Violin Solo	Cecilia Hansen / Cecilia Hansen	1035	$1.50

Two delicately beautiful cradle songs, rich in both contrasts and similarities, sung by Mme. Hansen's violin with a subdued accompaniment on the piano.

La Chasse (The Hunt) (Saudeti) Harpsichord Solo / Bourrée d'Auvergne (Country Dance) (Landowska) Harpsichord Solo	Wanda Landowska / Wanda Landowska	1038	1.50

One of these numbers is a dance in old style by the artist herself. The curious whispering aftertone of the harpsichord, whose strings are plucked with quills, not struck with hammers, like the piano, is beautifully in evidence.

Gioconda—Voce di donna (Angelic Voice) (Ponchielli) In Italian / Huguenots—Nobil signori, salute! (Noble Sirs, I Salute You!) (Meyerbeer) In Italian	Margarete Matzenauer / Margarete Matzenauer	6471	2.00

The first number, the tender thanks of the blind woman rescued from the charges of witchcraft, is a beautiful example of legato singing; the second, the florid contralto song of the worldly page-boy.

Melodious Instrumental

A Suite of Serenades—Part 1 / A Suite of Serenades—Part 2	Paul Whiteman and His Concert Orchestra	55226	1.50

Four serenades by the late Victor Herbert, especially composed for this enlarged organization, in Spanish, Chinese, Cuban and Oriental styles.

Light Vocal Selections

Oft in the Stilly Night Male Quartet / All Through the Night Male Quartet	Shannon Quartet / Shannon Quartet	19413	.75

Go 'long, Mule / Way Out West in Kansas	Vernon Dalhart / Billy Murray-Ed Smalle	19442	.75

Two comedy songs that come up to the name; even the instruments of the orchestra laugh and chuckle. Incidentally, these are two very snappy dance tunes.

When I Was the Dandy and You Were the Belle / Put Away a Little Ray of Golden Sunshine for a Rainy Day	Aileen Stanley-Billy Murray / Aileen Stanley	19443	.75

These distinguished comedy singers have two fine sentimental numbers, the first introducing some old-time tunes.

A Voice With a Smile / Smile Again, Kathleen Mavourneen	Henry Burr / Sterling Trio	19444	.75

Emotional numbers in the popular manner. The first number is simple and obvious in melodic style; the other waltz-like in structure, introducing the harmony of men's voices.

Dance Records

Hard Hearted Hannah—Fox Trot / Bagdad—Fox Trot	Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra	19447	.75

The Savannah lady of the adamantine heart now appears on a fox-trot record, paired with an "Oriental" companion. Good records for the Collegiate, and also for the standard or two-step fox-trot.

That's Georgia—Fox Trot / Morning—Fox Trot	The Benson Orchestra of Chicago	19445	.75

Fox trots of the melodious kind. "Georgia" has an odd beginning, smoothly launched without obvious rhythm. "Morning" has short phrases and a strong rhythm.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Daddy Longlegs Arrives

Knickerty knock, knickerty knock!
Just like the tune of Grandfather Clock.
Rapped Daddy Longlegs on the kitchen door
As Little Miss Mousie ran over the floor.

"Who's knocking?" she asked, timidly peeking through the keyhole. She didn't propose to open the door when Uncle Lucky was away without first finding out who might be on the other side. No, sireeman. She was a careful little person and took mighty good care of her old gentleman rabbit's house.

"Who's knocking?" she asked.

"It's Daddy Longlegs," answered a voice. "Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot told me to wait till he came home.

At once Little Miss Mousie opened the door, when in walked the old gentleman insect, his hat in one hand and his old hickory stick in another for he had more than two hands, let me tell you, and more than two feet, also. Oh, my yes indeedy.

"Where did you see Uncle Lucky?" asked the tiny mouse housekeeper, smoothing the cushion in the old armchair.

"On the way to Turnip City. He has gone on an errand with Little Jack Rabbit, but he'll be home in time for tea. He said for me to wait for him."

"Make yourself comfortable," answered Little Miss Mousie. "I'll bake some tea biscuits. Uncle Lucky is fond of them. He'll come home with a good appetite," and off bustled the pretty little bobbed haired mouse housekeeper.

Picking up the Bunnybridge Bugle, the old gentleman rabbit insect glanced over the news But by and by, after a while, and a laugh and a smile, for the funny page was covered with pictures of Danny Fox chasing the Old Red Rooster, who, at the last moment escaped by throwing an ostrich egg in the old fox's eye, Daddy Longlegs fell asleep Yes, sir He was so tired laughing that he had to shut his eyes, and when Little Miss Mousie peeped in an hour later, he was still snoring

"Dear me," she sighed, looking up at the Tick Tocky Clock, "what keeps Uncle Lucky so long Could anything have happened to him?" and the anxious little lady mouse ran to the front door and looked down the street But no one was in sight, only Reddy Comb, the rooster newsboy, with the Rabbitville Evening News.

"Dear, dear," she sighed again, "the biscuits will be cold and I shall grow dreadfully nervous if he doesn't come soon, right away quick," and she scampered down to the front gate and looked up Lettuce Avenue. Still seeing no one, she ran down to the corner and glanced anxiously up Carrot street. But the Luckymobile with dear Uncle Lucky in it was nowhere in sight.

"Dearest me, what shall I do if anything happens to him," she asked herself as she turned back and ran up on the little front porch, where just overhead, on a beam, pretty Mrs. Sparrow had built a nest to hold her little birdies.

Just then the Ticky Tock Clock struck "One, three, five, six, eight. Dear, Oh dear, it's dreadfully late." And in the next story you shall hear what hapened after that.

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY

New York, Oct. 16.—Stock prices turned reactionary today, uneasiness over the political situation bringing about further selling on the speculative industrials, many of which lost one to two points. Commission houses reported a growing disposition on the part of traders and small investors today stay out of the market until after the election.

Further accumulation of the oil shares took place following publication of the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute showing a reduction of 26,540 barrels daily in production for the week ended Oct 11. Net gains in this group, however, were held to fractions.

The new German bonds continued to attract considerable attention, touching a record high at 95 5-8, as against the offering price of 92, and then yielding about a point from the top.

United States Steel common closed unchanged at 105 3-4 after having sold above 106 in the early trading. Republic Steel fell back about a point in reflection of the relatively poor quantity report just issued by that company. Other independent steels yielded fractionally.

Reports that the directors of the American Hide & Leather company would discuss a recapitalization plan next Tuesday to eliminate 135 per cent. dividend arrears on the preferred, stimulated the buying of that stock which closed at 63 3-4, and 1 1-2 points, after having sold as high as 64 5-8. Central leather preferred also rallied 1 1-2 points. Recent heavy selling of American Can and Corn products was attributed to liquidation of the estate of Nathan Allen of Kenosha, Wis., one of the founders of the Central Leather company.

Stewart Warner broke 3 points to 52 on heavy selling from Chicago and then rallied feebly. America Can sold as high as 127 but reacted later to 125 5-8, off 1 on the day. Losses of 1 to 2 points also were recorded by Baldwin, Brooklyn Union Glass, Cuba Sugar, preferred, Du Pont, United States Cast Iron Pipe and National Biscuit.

Further cuts in tire prices brought about some selling of rubber issues; independent strength, however, was shown by Goodyear preferred, which closed a point higher. Buying being based on reports that action would soon be taken toward the payment of accumulated dividends.

Railroad shares were rather sluggish, Lackawanna dropping 1 3-4 and Norfolk & Western 1 3-8. Other changes were largely fractional.

The money markets were quiet. Call loans held steady at 2 1-2 per cent. Time money rates were unchanged with leaders disinclined to make concessions to meet the lower rates quoted by the borrowers. Commercial paper rates eased slightly, prime names being available as low as 3 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were slightly firmer. French francs were again quoted around 5 1-4 cents. Demand sterling was moderately active just above $4.48 1-2. Scandinavian currencies made moderately recovery from yesterday's heaviness.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 16—Drastic scaling down of the allotments on the German loan today caused the liveliest scramble for the bonds in stocks exchange trading since the offering last Tuesday. Brisk bidding by dealers, who received only a small percentage of their applications, carried the price up to a new high record at 95 5-8, at which point extensive profit taking set in and drove the quotation back to 94 1-2, slightly below yesterday's final figure.

Sales of the German obligations on the stock exchange today approximated $5,000,000 representing one third the day's total bond transactions, and bringing the turnover for the three days up to about $12,000,000. Blocks of as high as $275,000 changed.

With trading in domestic corporation issues completely overshadowed by activity in the German liens, prices of the active railroad and industrial mortgages again fluctuated within narrow limits. Demand for the rail bonds turned from the investment to the speculative class, several of the latter displaying rallying tendencies. Sugar Company issues, including Warner 7s and Punta Alegre 7s, were conspicuous heavy spots.

Outside the foreign list, the principal feature of trading was the establishment of a new high record by the treasury 4 1-4s at 106.15 on a small turnover. Other U. S. government issues were firm.

The $6,000,000 Bogota loan, offered today, was readily absorbed and other financing also met with a good reception.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 16—Corn underwent a sharp break in price today, powerfully effected by assertions on the part of a trade authority that there is an over-supply of feed grains and that the next government report will show a decided increase of the official estimate of corn production.

Closing prices for corn were heavy, 2 1-2 to 4 3-4 cents net lower, December 109 5-8 to 109 2-4. Wheat finished weak, 1 7-8 to 2 2-4c off, December 149 5-8 to 149 1-8 and May 1-8 to 153 1-4, with oats 1 5-8 to 2 cents down, and provisions varying from 7 cents decline to 10 cents gain.

On some transactions the extreme breaks in corn prices today amounted to as much as five cents a bushel, compared with yesterday's finish according to the bearish view that was put forward and that attracted wide attention, more forage crops have been raised than can be consumed within the present crop year. It was urged that under such circumstances the situation as to wheat and rye afforded insufficient basis for recent prices of corn and oats summer weather in September and October having achieved the seemingly impossible—an outlook that the great bulk of the crop will mature.

Selling which broadened out in the corn market especially during the last part of the day, found aggressive buying support lacking. Many standing orders to stop losses on declines below certain definite limits were automatically brought into play.

Wheat and oats owed much of their weakness to corn. The main reason for the setback in wheat values, however, appeared to be profit taking sales which became of huge volume when the December delivery touched a new high price record for the season. Estimates were current that frost and drought had curtailed the Argentine crop 25 per cent.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 16.—Revival of speculative interest in the oil shares, several of which advanced from one to 4 points was the outstanding feature of today's irregularly higher curb market. Buying of the petroleum issues was stimulated by the publication of statistics showing a further decrease of more than 26,000 barrels daily in crude oil production for the week ended October 11.

Prairie Oil and Gas stood out with a gain of 4 points on fairly good transactions; Standard Oil of Ohio advanced 3 1-2; Standard Oil of Nebraska 3, and Buckeye Pipe 3, on small sales. Ohio Oil and Prairie Pipe each gained 1 1-2 points.

Public Utilities, which were hard hit on the recent reaction made further brisk recovery. National Power jumped twenty points o none sale, American Gas and Electric moved up 3 3-4 and American Power and Light Commonwealth, middle west utilities and Wester Power closed one to two points higher.

Be good and you will be happy and probably poor.

LEGAL NOTICES

SUPERIOR COURT, NEW LONDON County.
The American Specialty Co., of Worcester, Massachusetts vs The S. & W. Self Service Grocery Co., of Norwich, Connecticut.
The application of the plaintiff in the above entitled action brought to me as a Judge of the Superior Court to be heard in said Court in New London county on the 14th day of October, A. D., 1924, which application is dated on the 1st day of October, A. D. 1924, having been presented to me the undersigned a Judge of said Court in said New London county, and order for a hearing thereon before me at said Superior Court room in New London on this 14th day of October, A. D. 1924 at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, having been issued and return having been made of the service of said order as directed thereon, the same came to a hearing before me at said time and place, when the plaintiff appeared by his attorney J. H. Barnes and the defendant corporation by its attorney J. J. Desmond and the parties having been heard, it is found that said order was duly served, that the allegations of said application are true, and that a temporary receiver ought to be appointed forthwith.
Now, therefore it is ordered:
1. That Abraham Levine be and he is appointed temporary receiver of the said S. & W. Self Service Grocery Co.
2. That said appointment shall not take effect until said Abraham Levine shall have filed with the undersigned a bond in proper form, with good and sufficient surety in the sum of $5,000 conditioned on the faithful performance of his duties under said appointment and in the event that he shall at any time or times hereafter be confirmed or appointed in said action either as temporary or permanent receiver, his faithful performance of his duties as such receiver, and said bond shall have been approved by the undersigned.
3. That said Abraham Levine immediately upon taking effect of his said appointment shall proceed to take possession of all the books, papers, evidence of debt and property of said corporation, to collect all moneys coming to it, and to take all lawful steps within his power to secure and preserve its assets.
4. That said receiver continue to carry on, in such manner as he may deem judicious, the business now conducted by said corporation until otherwise ordered, but no longer than for one month from this date, and to this end he is authorized to make such contracts, purchases and disbursements as may be necessary.
5. That a hearing upon the confirmation of his said appointment and for the appointment of two appraisers, be had before the undersigned in the Superior Court room, civil side, in said city of New London, on the 24th day of October, 1924 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that said temporary receiver give notice of his appointment and of said hearing to all parties in interest by publishing a copy of this order in the Norwich Bulletin and in the Moosup Journal once each, and by mailing a like copy, postage prepaid, to each stockholder of record and known creditor of said corporation at their several best obtainable addresses all on or before the 18th day of October, A. D. 1924.
Dated at New London, Conn., this 14th day of October, 1924.
LEONARD J. NICKERSON,
A Judge of the Superior Court

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Lebanon within and for the District of Lebanon on the 14th days off October, A. D., 1924.

The Administrator with the will annexed, having exhibited his administration account with said estate to the Court for allowance; it is therefore Ordered, That the 25th day of October, A. D. 1924, at two o'clock in the afternoon, at the Probate Court Room in Lebanon in said District, be, and the same is appointed for hearing the same, and the said Administration, c. t. a., is directed to give notice thereof by publishing this order once in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District, and by posting a copy hereof on the public sign post in said Lebanon nearest where said deceased last dwelt, at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and make return to the Court.
GEORGE E. BRIGGS.
GEORGE E. BRIGGS, Judge.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 16th day of October, A. D. 1924.
Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge
Estate of Filippo Pusateri, late of Norwich in said District, deceased.
Mary Pusateri of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, be admitted to probate.
Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 21st day of October, A. D. 1924, at 12 o'clock noon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record. Attest,
HELEN M. DRESCHER,
oct17d. Clerk.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 14th day of October, A. D. 1924.
Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of John Murray, late of Griswold in said District, deceased.
Ordered, That the Administrator cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order, on the signpost nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said district, and make return to this Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Attest:
HELEN M. DRESCHER,

NIGHTFALL

The dusk is growing, and the shortened fields
No longer reach the glimmering light of town;
The forward urgency of daytime yields
To the dark barriers night is drawing down,
And I can hear the distant ocean's roar
Upon old age's solitary shore.

Though I should have no boon of life again,
I could not question, I could not repine;
I have had all love's joy, if all its pain—
No gladness, and small grief, but have been mine.
These are twin gifts which love must always bear,
Naught would I have foregone of all love's share!

— Mary Stewart Cutting

HUMOR OF THE DAY

What kind of sugar is beet?
All other kinds but the kind we sell.—The Progressive Grocer.

Visitor—Are you convalescent?
Patient—No, man; I'm just a Marine.—Whipple Echo.

What's the difference between a Scotchman and a canoe?
A canoe tips.—Walter Reed Come-Back.

Wife—Henry, dear, we must have a couple of chickens for dinner.
Hubby—All right, I'll take a spin in the car.—London Opinion.

Clerk—What about a charge account for the man who just came in?
Boss—You've got to get cash. He's the fellow who went into the State Bank and asked them how big an average overdraft they'd let him run there.—Good Hardware.

Yep, I had a beard like yours once, and when I realized how it made me look, I cut it off.
Wal, I had a face like yours, and when I realized that I couldn't cut it off, I grew this beard.—Film Fun, New York.

"You waste too much paper," said the editor.
But how can I economise?
By writing on both sides.
But you won't accept stories written on both sides of the sheet.
I know, but you'd save paper just the same. — Heywood Advertiser.

The French ministry of public works has announced that on January 1, 1924, the hydraulic electric power harnessed in France amounted to 2,400,000 horsepower. Of this amount, 2,250,000 horsepower operates electric generators; 37 per cent of that total, or 850,000 horsepower, is used by electro-chemical and electrometallurgical industries.

A watch that's dead set against daylight saving time is owned by Alexander Comeau, of Portland, Me. Last spring Mr. Comeau set his timepiece an hour ahead. A few days later he was surprised to find that the hour hand on the watch had dropped back just one hour, to standard time. Again he set it ahead one hour. The faithful timepiece ran along this way for another few days and then went back to standard time. He made no further effort to tinker with the watch.—Boston Globe.

TAFTVILLE

The election of officers of St. Vercelli's T. A. & B. society was held Wednesday evening in the clubrooms on Providence street, and resulted as follows: President, Miss Louise White; vice-president, Miss Grace McSheffery; recording secretary, Miss Mary Hanlon; treasurer, Miss Agnes Caffrey; financial secretary, Miss Pauline Hanlon. After the election a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

On Sunday at 6:30 in Parish Hall, District Deputy Hennon of Jewett City installed the following officers of Penemah Council, No. 24, K. of C: Grand Knight, John J. Daley; deputy grand knight William Smith; chancellor, Thomas Corcoran; recorder, James Hanlon; financial secretary, Edward V. Murphy; treasurer, Peter J. Lafleur; warden, Hormidas Gladue; trustees, David O'Brien, Sr; inside guard, James Nolan; outside guard, Edward Gladue; member of the board of trustees, Byron Hanlon. After the installation, remarks were made by District Deputy Hennon, State Advocate J. J. Collins, and Rev. U. O. Bellerose. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Oscar Normand of Moosup, a former Taftville boy. Retiring Grand Knight Sullivan was presented a token in appreciation of his untiring efforts during the past year. James Garvie rendered two pleasing solos. Chowder, sandwiches and cigars were served.

Miss Irene Parent and Miss Isabel Roy have returned to their studies at the Academy of the Holy Family in Baltic, after spending a few days at the homes of their parents in town.

The Taftville Pharmacy block on South Second avenue has been painted.

Repairs to water pipes on Providence street are being made.

The Aowakiya Camp Fire Girls met Thursday evening in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational church, with the guardian Mrs. S. Tracy Clark in charge.

Lawrence Hoffman of Boston, was a business caller in the village Thursday.

The third fox in as many weeks was trapped Thursday by George Kinder, Jr., of North Third avenue. The animal was of the grey variety and is a very large specimen.

The Thursday evening basketry class met in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building. The class is being conducted this year in the same manner that it was last season, and the members are taking up the manufacture of various household articles from reed.

The Misses Troeger of North A street are moving to their new home on Highland avenue, this week.

AUTOMOBILE HITS TROLLEY CAR
DAYVILLE DRIVER IS ARRESTED

Frank Rogers, 32, of Dayville, who was accompanied in his automobile by James Lyndscott, 34, of Somersworth, was unable to operate his machine in McKinley avenue Thursday night without hitting the back step of a trolley car which was coming in the opposite direction between Broad street and Warren street, and the accident resulted in the arrest of both men, Rogers for driving a machine while intoxicated and Lyndscott for intoxication. They were locked up at police headquarters.

The trolley car was southbound, due in Franklin square at 7 o'clock, with Conductor Bellefleur in charge. The Rogers automobile was proceeding northerly on the street and immediately after the smash the conductor reported by telephone to the starter in the barn at Greeneville who notified police headquarters. Capt. D. J. Twomey at once dispatched officers Hugh McAvoy and P. Murphy in the patrol wagon and they arrested the two men at the scene of the accident. The Rogers car was removed to a garage.

ARTHUR D. HINCKLEY IS PLANNING TO GO WEST

Arthur D. Hinckley, manager of the "men's store," of The Porteous & Mitchell company, for the past four years, has resigned his position with the company, with the expectation of making business connections in the west in the near future.

Mr. Hinckley is a native of Norwich and spent his early days here.

ARTHUR D. HINCKLEY.

About 12 years ago he went west and for several years, up to the time he returned to Norwich, he was manager of a men's store in Kansas, and has a great liking for that section of the country. As a testimonial of the esteem of his store associates, he was presented a $20 gold piece.

Examination For Postmaster.

The United States civil service commission announces an open examination at Norwich, Nov. 15, to fill a vacancy for postmaster at Taftville. The date of vacancy is given as Jan. 24, 1922, and the salary $1,900.

Applicants must submit to the examiner on the day of the examination their photographs, taken within two years, securely pasted in the space provided on the admission cards sent them after their applications are filed. Tintypes or proofs will not be accepted.

Application Form 2241 and Form 2223, containing full information as to the requirements to be met and the character of the examination to be given, may be obtained from any one of the vacancy offices listed or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Crosswalk Parkers Fined

In the city court Thursday morning two automobile drivers were presented on charges of parking on crosswalks. Their cases were nolled on payment of $5 each. Charles Gudeahn, presented on a charge of non-support was ordered to support his children or serve three months in jail. He took an appeal to the court of common pleas and bonds were set at $300.

KNOWLTON COLLEGE GIFT DUE TO NORWICH WOMAN

There were expressions of surprise, satisfaction and gratitude in Norwich Thursday, when it became known that it was the late Charles Clark Knowlton, a native and summer resident of Ashford, who was the donor of the $200,000 for building Colonial Hall, at Connecticut College for Women. There was even greater satisfaction when it was disclosed to a very few how Mr. Knowlton came to be interested in the college.

When the association of prominent eastern Connecticut women was organized to create a fund to erect Windham Hall, the members unanimously requested Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, of Union street, Norwich, wife of Former Congressman Higgins, to act as executive secretary of the association. Mrs. Higgins had entertained a number among these members while she was in Washington and they had come to realize her rare executive ability. After much persuasion Mrs. Higgins accepted the office. She has a personal interest in the college, as one of her three daughters is a student there.

In the course of the campaign, Mrs. Higgins had an interview with Mr. Knowlton, seeking his aid toward the growing Windham Hall fund. At first the aged silk manufacturer was inclined to be content with merely adding to that fund; but as the matter was put before him, he eventually notified Mrs. Higgins that he had decided, not to limit his assistance to a simple contribution to Windham Hall, rather to donate an independent sum to completely build a separate unit of the college structures. A New York architect was set to work upon plans, and in perfecting these and finally getting conditions to exactly suit Mr. Knowlton's desires and requirements, Mrs. Higgins accomplished work which would have won an honor cross for any modern general. As noted Thursday, a start has already been made on Colonial Hall, which was the name upon which Mr Knowlton had set his choice. The building is to combine the features of dormitory and social center.

The splendid accomplishments of Mrs. Higgins in this project have been kept secret from all except the donor of the $200,000 fund, the college trustees, the architect and Mr. Knowlton's secretary. It was by the merest chance that a rumor of how much Connecticut College owes to the foresight generalship and constant labor of Mrs. Higgins came to the ears of a Norwich resident Thursday. When questioned, Mrs. Higgins would not admit her big part in the success of the expensive and important undertaking; but it is a fact, that the Norwich woman achieved this big victory, so enthusing Mr. Knowlton for the erection of Colonial Hall that as late as Saturday afternoon he had Mrs. Higgins and his New York architect at his summer residence in Ashford in conference regarding certain changes in the plans. As the conference ended the aged benefactor expressed complete satisfaction with the way the building was coming on.

It was about the last business matter to claim Mr. Knowlton's attention—for death came to him suddenly, late Saturday evening.

NORWICH REPORTS FIVE SCARLET FEVER CASES

The weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health for the week ending October 11th shows that Norwich reported five cases of scarlet fever, one case of diphtheria and one case of typhoid fever during the week. Communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut during the week follow:

Diphtheria — Jewett City, New London, Norwich, Sprague, Stonington and Waterford, one each.

Scarlet fever—Norwich, 5; Putnam 4; Woodstock 1.

Typhoid fever—Groton, 3; Norwich 1, Windham 1.

Whooping cough—New London 4, Willington 6.

Gave Pretty Party.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Clover Charbino entertained a group of young folks at a party from 4 to 6, in honor of the birthday of her son and daughter, Clover and Irene. Both young people received many handsome gifts, including gold pieces from their parents. The table was attractively decorated; the color scheme being pink and yellow. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charbino, assisted by Mrs. Edward Moumblow. Those present were Catherine and Anna Drew, Mildred Carpenter, Anna Delaney, Alice Cote, Yvonne Boucher, Irene Charbino, William Delaney, William Moumblow, William and Clover Charbino. Games were played and selections on the Victrola enjoyed.

NEW FOOT PATH AROUND MOHEGAN PARK LAKE

Among the most recent improvements in Mohegan park is a new foot path around the northerly shore of the lake. Although the path has been completed only a short time, it has already proven to be a very attractive feature and those who have used it are very enthusiastic over the natural beauties which it opens up.

Starting near the pavilion on the westerly shore, the path completely encircles the northern end of the lake, and merges into the old path on the east shore. The park is very beautiful at this season of the year and the number of people who visit it, particularly on Sunday, is very large.

BAPTISTS PASS RESOLUTION TO OUTLAW WAR

New Haven, Oct. 16.—Opposition to all wars was expressed at the Connecticut Baptist convention here Wednesday when delegates adopted a resolution to make another conflict impossible. A debate preceded the action on the resolution and the opinion was expressed by a number of the delegates that the spirit of the resolution be made strong and more emphatic.

Rev. E. E. Gates, secretary, in his annual report, stated that the Baptist churches as a rule were prosperous and taking a more active part in the work to apply the principles of Christianity to every day life. Rev. H. B. Hutchins, of Hartford, in his report on the standing of the ministers, said that during the past year 12 of the ministers had died, the most prominent being Rev. T. Edwin Brown.

Rev. C. S. Nightingale, of Moosup, reported that three new churches had been organized, one at Stratford, one at Bridgeport and one at Branford. Rev. James A. McGee, of New Haven, reported on the evangelistic plans for the year and recommended that four indoor events be held each year—Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter and Pentecost.

The convention delegated Rev. C. S. Nightingale of Moosup to preach the annual sermon and named Rev. R. W. Ferguson of Rockville as the alternate.

The next annual convention probably will be held in Meriden.

SHEPHERD DOG SAVES GEO. GRANT FROM BULL

George G. Grant, the Taftville undertaker who conducts Haughton farm at Montville, has his collie, Rover to thank for his life when Mr. Grant was gored and severely wounded by a prize Ayrshire bull at the farm Tuesday morning.

Mr. Grant sustained two fractured ribs, a cracked breast bone, two deep gashes in his left leg and abrasions and bruises over his entire body, and would possibly have been killed had not the dog attacked the bull in defense of his helpless master.

Mr. Grant was leading his two thoroughbred Ayrshire bulls which won blue ribbons in this year's New London County fair at Norwich. He had just tied one of them to a stake and was leading the other to another stake a short distance away when he was attacked.

The bull came up with his head, his horns catching in Grant's clothing, raised him off his feet and dashed him to the ground. The hold of the horns in Mr. Grants clothes held fast and tossing its head in fury the bull repeatedly threw the master with injurious effect.

Rover, Mr. Grant's favorite watchdog, saw its master's plight and threw itself at the heels of the maddened beast biting into its flesh. Its attention diverted the bull which sought to ward off the dog's attack and in so doing released Mr. Grant, who caught the rope at the bull's nose and led him away quietly to his stake.

Then, although seriously hurt, he was able to make his way into the house where he was attended by Dr. David Fessler.

Mr. Grant, now at his home in Norwich, is responding to medical aid although his physicians are still striving to ward off lock-jaw, which is feared.

THE CHRISTIAN HOME MISSION FATHERS' THEME

Again Thursday, the three missionary priests from Philadelphia, who are preaching this week to men of St. Patrick's parish, put in a long and busy day. Beginning at 5 o'clock Thursday morning, when a congregation of good proportions assisted at the mission mass, Father Nicholas O'Loughlin delivered a brief, practical, direct message dealing with The Home. His text was the Fourth Commandment.

At the 8 o'clock mass, Rev. David O'Brien had some timely truths to present in his sermon on the mutual duties of parents and children. There was a very large number to receive Holy Communion at these two masses, the parish priests assisting the mission Fathers in administering the Sacrament.

The earnest body of men assembled for the evening service of congregational singing, recitation of the Rosary and prayers, heard Father O'Brien again on The Christian Home, during the brief period allotted to the instruction. Then followed a most consoling sermon by the superior of the mission band, Rev. Richard A. Hartnett, whose theme was "The Mercy of God." The preacher set forth the value which God puts upon every soul as proved by the stupendous fact of the Redemption; hence the one vital issue of life—saving one's soul, through obedience to God's laws.

Organist Frank L. Farrell and the men's chorus added much to the enthusiasm and earnestness of the service by the fine music which was a feature.

Lifelong Ambition Realized.

Mrs. Judith S. Buck Sohn, wife of Dr. Boris J. Sohn of this city, has obtained her Ph. G. degree from the New Jersey College of Pharmacy.

Mrs. Sohn was born in Russia, where she received her early education. She graduated from the Passaic public schools in 1912 and the Passaic High school in 1916. In 1917 she was married to Dr. Boris J. Sohn who is a graduate of the medical school of Boston University.

Mrs. Sohn has a great love and interest for medicine and it is believed that she will soon resume her study of medicine at a medical college.

Conecticut sportsmen have gone to New York state for the deer season in the Adirondacks, which opened Thursday.

COOLIDGE SATISFIED WITH PROGRESS OF CAMPAIGN

Feels Encouraged Over Outlook, After Making Allowances For Possibilities of Too Sanguine Reports—Given Assurance That He Would Receive Almost 100 Per Cent of the Vote of Actors—Festival of Fun on the White House Lawn.

Washington, Oct. 17—Satisfaction over the progress of the political campaign was expressed today by President Coolidge, who told visitors that after making allowances for possibilities of too optimistic reports, he felt very encouraged over the outlook.

The president was assured this morning at a breakfast party at the white house with about forty members of the theatrical profession that he would receive "almost 100 per cent. of the vote of the actors."

The party tuned into a fun festival on the white house lawn after the breakfast with Al Jolson, and Raymond Hitchcock leading in songs and impromptu speeches. Mr. Coolidge left for the cabinet meeting with the tunes of a newly composed song, "Keep Coolidge," and some of the actors' "presidential jokes," ringing in his ears.

Later in the day, the president conferred with Charles A. Littlefield, of Lynn, Mass., republican candidate for the house, on conditions in the shoe and textile industry. Mr. Littlefield, who is a guest at the white house, reported conditions in these industries were improving and that a greater improvement could be expected.

Secretary Weeks, who has been in New York for several days, reported to Mr. Coolidge that the national ticket was sweeping that state and that there was "better than an even chance," that Theodore Roosevelt would defeat Al Smith in the gubernatorial race. He said Mr. Roosevelt was making an aggressive campaign and drawing enthusiastic crowds.

At the same time, Mr. Butler denied charges of Senator Robert M. LaFollette, the independent presidential candidate, that his committee would mobilize a large mass of funds in certain states during the last weeks of the campaign. His denial was in reply to questions by Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota.

"We have no such intention, and have no such preparations," Mr. Butler said, "We have no ability to do it. We have no funds for purposes of that kind. There is no intention of doing any thing of the sort. I want very much to conduct this campaign in such a way that when I get through it will be something to be proud of."

Under cross examination by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, regarding the budget plans of his committee, Mr. Butler testified that originally he had estimated $2,500,000 as the amount it would be required for the national presidential campaign This sum was increased by $500,000 later, he added, after it had been decided to take care of the senatorial and congressional campaigns as well.

Calling attention that evidence before the committee was that the republican organization already had collected approximately $1,700,000, Senator Caraway asked if it was expected to collect additional $1,300,000.

"Yes," Mr. Butler replied.

"Nothing except the solicitations which are going on all over the country, among our friends, for funds," was the reply. "There is no special plan."

Pressed by the Arkansas senator, Mr. Butler said the collection of funds was under the direction of the national treasurer, William V. Hodges.

"I have talked with the treasurer, and I know what the general plan is," Mr. Butler added.

"Would you mind telling us what that general plan is?" pursued Senator Caraway

"Why, the plan is, simply to be in communication with our friends all over the country," Mr. Butler replied, "for them to send in their subscriptions, that is all. We have had committees appointed in various places for that purpose, I presume."

REPUBLICANS HOPE TO RAISE CAMPAIGN FUNDS OF $3,000,000

Chicago, Oct 17.—(By the A. P.)—William M Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, in commenting on the special campaign investigating committee of the senate today that it is the "hope" and "expectation" of his organization to raise a total of $3,000,000 for the national campaign, presidential, senatorial and congressional.

DECISION OF IMPORTANCE TO INSURANCE COMPANIES

Hartford, Oct. 17.—A decision of far reaching importance to insurance companies in a case, the first of its kind in this state, which has temporarily established that a woman can sue her husband for damages for injuries received in an automobile accident was given today when Judge Newell Jennings in the superior court over-ruled the demurrer which stood in the way of Inez Bushnell, of Thompsonville to recover by trial $5,000 damages from her husband, Mark W. Bushnell, who was insured by the Automobile Mutual Insubance company, of Providence, R. I.

The effect of the decision is to prepare the way for the parties to this suit to try it on its merits and then to take it up to the supreme court for final adjudication. The case will be watched with interest because it is the first of its kind in this state where a wife is suing her husband to recover damages for injures she receved in an automobile owned by him, and recently because it is a question which has long agitated the casualty insurance companies.

The origin of the suit is an accident on April 30, last, when Mr. and Mrs. Bushnell were taking their son to Providence in an automobile and crashed into a tree near Mansfield, breaking Mrs. Busnnell's leg and causing other injuries to her. While on the face of her suit she is suing her husband, she is really suing the insurance company which indemnified him.

"DRY" AGENTS DISGUISED AS "CANADIAN BUYERS."

New York, Oct. 17.—Three "Canadian buyers," nattily dressed and carrying canes, dined in the Midtown restaurant today, and when they left they carried with them fifty cases of whiskey, fifteen cases of Chartreuse, seventy five sacks of canadian ale, 150 cases of beer, and a large quantity of benedictine and wines.

The Midtown is a well known eating place and its fame had seeped through to Canada, the "buyers" informed J. Hine, the proprietor, when they arrived. They were assigned a table and it was suggested that highballs migh quench their thirst. Three times the highballs appeared, according to the "buyers" and then one of the trio remembered a "pressing engagement." He hurried out and returned shortly with a warrant. Hine was arrested on charges of possessing and selling liquor.

Patrons of the restaurant were told to complete their meals when the raid started, but they rushed pell mell into the street, leaving bills unpaid.

NO IMMEDIATE PROSPECT OF FRENCH GOV'T LOAN

New York, Oct. 17—There is no immediate prospect of a French government loan being offered in the local market within the next three weeks, despite reports that public offerings would be made next week of an issue of between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000, it was stated tocay in quarters where such financing is ordinarily arranged. There is a strong probability, however, that before the end of the year the temporary $100,000,000 credit granted to the bank of France, which remains untouched, will be converted into a long term bond issue.

TO DISBAND DEFEATED ARMY ENCAMPED ABOUT SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Oct. 17—(By the A. P.)—Plans for disarming and dispersing the more than 15,000 soldiers of the defeated Chekiang province army, now encamped in and about Shanghai, were discussed at an all-night conference between leading Chinese merchants of the city and Chekiang army representatives, without any agreement having been reached.

DESTRUCTION OF ZEPPELIN PLANT WOULD BE A CRIME

New York, Oct. 17.—Destruction, in accordance with the Versailles treaty, of the Zeppelin plant which produced the ZR-3, would be "a crime against civilization" C. G. Grey, editor of Aviation, London, declared tonight at a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria in honor of the German crew of the giant dirigible and attended by army and navy officers and civilian promoters of aeronautics.

Mr. Grey said he spoke for the great majority of the English people in expressing such sentiments. He pointed to the fact that American pilots of heavier-than-air machines have punctured all records in their fields, and expressed a hope that the development in navigation of lighter-than-air machines would be carried out in similar fashion.

E. G. Wilmer, chairman of the Goodyear interests and promoter of the new Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation, announced that while the organization would not immediately build a Zeppelin, the next dirigible of that type would be put on paper immediately and would be a larger, faster and even safer than the ZR-3.

Alluding to the British government's undertaking to build two dirigibles of 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity each—twice the size of the ZR-3, Mr. Wilmer said "unfortunately we in America lack the support a labor government gives to the encouragement of aeronautics."

UNUSUAL UNCERTAINTY IN BRITISH ELECTIONS

London, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—With the parliamentary elections only twelve days away, and the campaign at its hottest, nobody would venture today to predict the result, for it is generally acknowledged that anything may happen.

The government party still professes complete confidence in the outcome of the balloting, but it was asserted that the hearts of most of the labor candidates are less certain than when the campaign opened. Outside the ranks of labor, few persons are to be found who believe that labor will come back with a majority in the lower house.

In fact, the impression is growing that, as in the last parliament, the conservatives again will have the strongest personnel. Should that happen, the government of Ramsay MacDonald, should it again come into power, would be quickly defeated by a combined vote of the conservatives and liberals, and a conservative would be formed.

But it is considered inconceivable that the liberty party will not claim a price for its electoral sacrifices in withdrawing candidates for the benefit of conservative constitutents in the triangular fights, and that this price will be the inclusion of some liberal ministers in a government which would thereby become a coalition ministry.

MASTER OF STEAMER BOSTON RESPONSIBLE FOR COLLISION

Washington, Oct. 17—Capt. Alfred W. Call of Everett, Mass., master of the steamer Boston, is held responsible by the Steamboat Inspection Service in spectors at Providence for the collision of the Boston with the tanker Swiftarrow, off Point Judith, in a fog the night of July 21, when four lives were lost, and his license has been revoked.

The inspectors have reported both Capt. Call and Capt. Jose Gomes of New Bedford, Mass., master of the Swiftarrow, to the Collector of Customs at Providence for violation of pilot rules.

The inspectors of the Steamboat Inspection service at Providence, R. B. Clark and Richard F. Bailey, held an investigation immediately after the collision, and then preferred charges against both captains.

Estimates of Cash Value of Education

Untrained Man $1,200 a Year, High School Graduate $2,000, College Graduate $6,000—Average Incomes.

Boston, Oct. 17—The cash value of a college education to its possessor is $72,000 according to a report made public today by Dean Everett W. Lord, of the Boston University college of business administration, based on a lengthy study of the earning capacity of college graduates. The cash value of a high school education is placed by the report at $33,000.

The report gives the average maximum income of the untrained man as $1,200; that of the high school graduate $2,200; and of the college graduate as $6,000. The total earnings of each of the thee types, up to the age of 60, are placed at $45,000, $78,000 and $150,000 respectively. Dean Lord in his computation estimated also that while the untrained man at the age of 50 begins to drop toward dependence, the college man eaches his maximum earning capacity at 60.

"The untrained man goes to work as a boy of 14 and reaches his maximum income at the age of 30," the report said. "This maximumis, on the average, less than $1,200 a year. In view of the fact that this income is earned through manual labor dependent on physical strength it begins to fall off at the age of 50 or even earlier and soon reaches a level below self-support. The figures show that more than sixty out of every 100 untrained workers are dependent upon others for support at the age of 80. The total earnings for the untrained man from 14 to 60 are about $45,000. Between the ages of 14 and 18, the four years which might have been spent in high school, the young man usually earns not more than $2,000.

"The high school graduate goes to work at 18, having lost the opportunity to earn $2,000 which the untrained man earns during this period. However, starting at 18 the high school graduate passed the maximum income of the untrained man in seven yeas, rises steadily to his own maximum of $2,200 at 40, and continues at that level for the rest of his life. He averages a total earning of $78,000 from 18 to 60. The $33,000 excess over the life earnings of the untrained man represents the cash value of a four year high school course.

"Now consider the college or technical school graduate. His permanent earnings begin at 22, although a considerable amount may have been earned during the college course. By the time he is 28 his income equals that of the high school graduate at 40 and it continues to rise practically without a break. Since his income is dependent upon his mental ability and training constantly improved by practice, it increases instead of diminishing with the years. The college or technical school graduate's average income of $6,000 at 60 years is often surpassed.

"His total earnings from 22 to 60, not including anything earned during the college period, are $150,000. The $72,000 more than is earned by the school training."

AUTOMOBILE THIEF SHOT BY A MOTOR CYCLE OFFICER

Brookline, Mass., Oct. 17—One man was shot and captured today by a motor cycle officer and a second escaped after the pair, fleeing at sixty miles an hour, in a stolen automobile, had led the policeman in a wild chase through the streets of Brookline. Their flight was halted when the heavy coupe in which they were riding overturned at a corner. Both men escaped serious injuries from the overturning of the car as it came crawling from under, made his escape. A shot fired by the officer in pursuit had taken effect, however, in the leg of the other, Robert Walker of the Roxbury district, Boston, and he was captured.

The pursuit began when Motorcycle Officer McCracken saw a man remove a bundle from a standing truck, throw it in the coupe, enter and drive away. When the car failed to halt at his command, the officer pursued the machine and opened fire. A crazy, zigzag chase followed in which, at times, the policeman said, automobile and the pursuing motorcycle tore through the streets at a rate of sixty miles an hour. A dozen collisons were barely avoided.

According to the police, the automobile in which the men were riding, was stolen from Newton Holbrook of Thomaston, Conn., in Cambridge, September 20. Walker was taken to a hospital, suffering from a flesh wound in one leg. He was held there to be charged with larceny.

John W. Murphy, president of the board of aldermen, New Haven, has been elected president of the New Haven trades council to fill a vacancy caused by the removal of the president or that body to another city. Mr. Murphy is a cigar maker.

SPECIAL ELECTION TO CHOOSE SUCCESSOR TO SENATOR BRANDEGEE

Waterbury, Oct. 17.—Governor C. A. Templeton tonight stated that he will issue a call on Monday for a special election to choose a successor to Senator Frank B. Brandegee. Attorney General Frank Healy gave him a written opinion today, stating that he must call a special election, the governor stated. He has not yet decided on what date the election will be held.

COMPLEX PROHIBITION CASES IN LAKE COUNTY, INDIANA

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Fifty-two men and women charged with violating the prohibition law in Lake county, Indiana, were held to have "substituted for prohibition a system of license that protected them from conviction" by the United States circuit court of appeals here today when their cases came up. The defendants included Roswell Johnson, former mayor of Gary, Ind., and Louis Barnes, former sheriff in Lake county. They had been sentenced to from 10 days in jail to 18 months in a federal penitentiary and fines of $2,000, and these sentences were confirmed by the court today.

Following return of indictments, May 25, 1922, 75 arrests were made by prohibition officers in and around Gary. Of these 75 defendants, 52 were convicted but appealed from the sentences imposed by Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger, of Indianapolis.

Thirty days are now given the defendants to appeal from today's decision. If no appeal is made, the mandate for their commitment automatically issues.

FIVE BANK ROBBERS GOT $75,000 AT BANK IN MICHIGAN

Spring Port, Mich., Oct. 17.—State police and Jackson county officers were scouring secluded spots and guarding the roads in this vicinity tonight in the hope of picking up some trace of five men who this morning held up and robbed the state savings bank of Spring Port, Mich., of approximately $75,000 in currency and bonds.

The robbers escaped after four of them had entered the bank, locked four bank employes, and four patrons in the vault, scooped up the bonds and money, and raced back to the automobile where an accomplice was waiting, across the sereet.

TWO U. OF M. STUDENTS KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Benton Harbor, Mich., Oct. 17.—The death toll in today's automobile crash in which a party of University of Michigan students on their way to Urbana collided head-on with another car was increased to two late today, when Sam Miller, freshman, of Buffalo, N. Y., died at a hospital.

Miller had been unconscious since the accident. The other victim was Edward McGrath, 24 years old, of Marion, Ohio. He died shortly after the accident.

Israel Saretsky, of this city, another of the university party, remains unconscious but physicians hold out hope for his recovery.

If a man wastes his time he robs himself.

Charge Made by Dem. National Committee

That Intimidation, Coercion, False Propaganda Are Being Used by Republicans in Election Campaign.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The democratic national committee declared in a statement tonight that "intimidation, coercion, false propaganda, and large sums of money—the ancient republican devices for carrying elections—are being used in all parts of the country, according to reports reaching Washington.

"Various brokerage concerns in Wall street, and elsewhere," said the statement, "have been sending out letters purporting to give information about the stock market but really intended as propaganda for Coolidge.

"Officials of the internal revenue bureau have been found to be including with receipts and letters to income taxpayers statements crediting the recent reduction of taxes to Secretary Mellon, who with President Coolidge actually opposed the decrease that was made "From Indianapolis comes the charge that negro letter carriers are being warned that if they don't promise to vote for Coolidge and Dawes they will lose their positions.

MAINTAIN SUPREME COURT OR ABANDON STATES RIGHTS

Secretary Hughes Explains That Authority to Pass Upon Constitutional Limitations if Lodged With the President Would Make Him Supreme Over Congress; if Delegated to Congress Would Make That Body Supreme Over the States; if Given to the States Would Enable Them to Override All Federal Powers—Asserts That We Must Either Abandon the Duality of Legislative Enactment or Maintain the Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to Pass With Finality Upon the Constitutionality of Legislative Acts.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Delivering a convocation of the University of the state of New York an address which he introduced as non-political, Secretary of State Hughes spoke tonight in favor of retiring the original constitutional balances established between the supreme court and congress and between the president and congress.

"The Constitution of the United States is not a feitch," he said. "Impartial consideration of existing conditions should either lighten our respect for the institutions which have proved themselves to be adaptable to unforseen and unimaginable conditions or should aid us in securing advisable modifications. Mere panegric or mere impatience with whatever exists are of little value."

He said the charge of usurpation of power made against the supreme court had been, "in the judgment of most persons competent to judge, disapproved." It was not a question whether the United States subscribed to the doctrine of judicial review, for the Constitution provided that; the question, said Mr. Hughes, was whether the nation should abandon that doctrine.

"Where could the authority to pass upon constitutional limitations be lodged?" he asked. "Not with the executive, for that would be to make him supreme over congress, not with the congress, for that would enable congress to escape all the limitations of its powers and would make it supreme over the states. Not with the states, for that would enable the states to override all federal authority.

"Either we must abandon the principle of duality or maintain the jurisdiction of the supreme court of the United States to pass with finality upon the constitutional validity of legislative acts."

The secretary of state declared it quite clear that the present arrangement" for the election of president, "should be revised." In particular, the provision for election by the house of representatives in case no candidate receives a majority of electoral votes, "is seriously defective."

He also considered "deserving of serious consideration" whether the term of the presidency should not be extended to six years with non-eligibility for election to a second consecutive term. He compared the presidential system, characterized by historians as "built for safety, not speed," with the prime-minister parliamentary system, affording "swiftness in decision and vigor in action." He concluded that the American style was most stable and therefore most desirable.

"There is, however, the possibility of improving the methods of contact between the executive and the congress," Mr. Hughes continued. "It ought to be possible for cabinet officers to take part in the debates in both houses on matters touching their departments and thus to be able to give exact information and to defend themselves against unjust attacks. A vast amount of time is now wasted in the congress over things that are not and never were."

Referring to criticisms of the present system of treaty making, with the senate empowered to pass on the work of the president, Mr. Hughes said:

"It is easy to make objections to the present arrangement but it would be difficult to devise a better one. It should be remembered that very few treaties have failed of approval in the senate. In the last three and one-half years this government has concluded 54 treaties which were required to be submitted to the senate. Of these, 53 have been sent to the senate and 47 already have been approved."

"FLAPPER BANDIT" CASE IN HANDS OF THE JURY

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—The case of Violet Dickerson, 19 year old "flapper bandit" charged with complicity in the murder of Louis Hirsch during an attempted holdup in his store las November, was given to the jury late today. Judge McDevitt concluded his charge at 5.15 o'clock and ordered a recess until 8 p. m.

The case moved rapidly in its closing hours. The young woman, mother of four months old son, born in prison, was on the stand for more than an hour in direct and cross-examination. She declared that she had been held prisoner by Charles Oettinger, under sentence of death for the Hirsch killing; that she had been in fear of her life because he had threatened to "plug" her; that he had terrorized her by telling her she was being watched and followed, and that on the night of the holdup he had beaten her, pushed a pistol against her side when she attempted to run away and finally snatched the weapon from her with a curse of her "yellowness," and himself had shot the merchant.

When Judge McDevitt returned to the court room the jury announced that no verdict had been reached. It was sent back for further deliberation.

The jury having failed to reach a verdict at 9 o'clock, Judge McDevitt ordered it locked up for the night and adjourned court until 10 a. m. tomorrow. He said he had taken this action out of consideration for the girl defendant and her baby.

Miss Dickerson had either been in court or in an ante room throughout the day. Her child, whom she had been permitted to bring from prison with her daily during her trial, is looked after by a sheriff's matron.

FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY AFTER FOOTBALL GAME

Georgetown, Tex., Oct. 17.—Trouble arising over a football game between the Georgetown and Giddings High school teams this afternoon resulted in the fatal shooting of Charles Fields of Giddings and the serious wounding of John Fields, brother of the slain man and coach of the Giddings eleven.

The shooting occurred in the street just outside the park where the game was played. The wounded men were removed to the hospital, where Charles Field died shortly after.

Trouble between A. Townsley, a special police officer and John Fields, was said to have started during the progress of the game. The arguments were resumed after the game when the men left the playing field. Outside the park, Charles Fields joined in, taking the part of his brother. After heated words had passed between the three men the shooting took place.

DAVIS TALKS ON QUESTION OF RELIGIONS LIBERTY

Chicago, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Sounding again his position on question of religious liberty and personal rights, and eulogizing Woodrow Wilson for championing the cause of self-determination in behalf of smaller nations, John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, tonight concluded his third campaign visit to Chicago and started southward to east St. Louis, Ill and St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Davis rushed through his last few hours here, making three speeches in as many sections of the city tonight. The first was before an audience in the Bohemian quarter, the second before a Jewish gathering, and third before an audience of Polish people.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE COUNSEL DISPUTES GOVERNOR SMITH

Boston, Oct. 18.—New York would never have prohibition enforcement under Gov. Alfred E. Smith's 2.75 per cent beer plan, Wayne B. Wheeler general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, said in a statement issued here tonight.

"The recent publication of the investigation covering ten years made by the Carnegie Institute completely paralyzes Governor Smiths contention that 2.75 per cent beer is non-intoxicating," Mr. Wheeler said. "But even if it were non-intoxicating to many drinkers tolerant to its use, uniform experience shows it is non-enforceable. Perhaps that is the reason Governor Smith wants it.

"His plan to have congress pass a law to allow each state to fix its own standard is equally indefensible. The supreme court has held that the purpose of the eighteenth amendment is to make national prohibition 'uniform and efficacious.' There would be no uniformity or effectiveness in Gov. Smith's plan. The brewers in the wettest states would smuggle their high-powered beer into the drier states and defeat their law, just as they did before the eighteenth amendment was adopted. • • •

"New York will never have prohibition enforcement under the governor's plan. If present lawless conditions continue, they will encourage every other lawbreaker in the state. No wonder New York city needs a thousand new policemen. If the state will face its constitutional obligation and enact a state enforcement code, it will do more to check lawlessness than the governor's plan, which protects liquor law breakers and then requires more policemen to catch their victims."

FURTHER HEARING ON GOULD ACCOUTNING SUIT

New York, Oct. 17.—Counsel clashed when Edwin Gould took the stand today in the accounting suit of the Jay Gould estate. Former Judge Alton B. Parker, counsel for Edwin, objected to questioning of his client in the present proceedings on the ground that a decision would be played, that Mr. Gould had filled seven volumes with testimony on previous occasions and that calling him to the stand interfered seriously with his business.

Referee James A. O'Gorman ruled that Mr. Gould, being a trustee of the estate, must testify at any time, however, when plaintiff counsel contended that lawyers could not be expected to recall details of testimony rendered several years ago.

Edwin Gould admitted under questioning that between the years 1904 and 1914 he knew little of what was being done with the estate money. He said that he was satisfied with the promise of his brother, George J. Gould, made in 1894, that the funds would be properly used.

"I trusted him and we all did," he declared.

SHENANDOAH ENCOUNTERS BAD WEATHER FOR FLIGHT

San Francisco, Oct. 17.—The navy dirigible Shenandoah skirted the northern California coast today and tonight was over Western Oregon. Another day and night lie ahead of it according to the watches on the bridge, before it can find a haven at Camp Lewis, Washington, western terminus of its loop from Lakehurst, N. J.

WILLIMANTIC

Flags on public buildings in the city and on some private residences were at half mast Friday, out of respect to United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee.

Hunters in this section claim that the season is yet too early for bird shooting as the leaves are too thick. The weather is so warm that hunting clothes become extremely tiresome and hot after a few hours of hiking. The birds, although numerous, are very wild and evasive this year. In many instances partridge have forsaken their favorite foraging grounds which have been too frequently invaded by hunters and have taken to more secluded sections.

Two hundred teachers of graded schools representing eighteen towns in the state attended the teachers' institute held with morning and afternoon sessions Friday, at Windham High school auditorium. The institute was under the auspices of the state board of education with Supervisor Levi T. Garrison of this city chairman. The interpretation of the New Courses of Study was the general theme of the institute. Relative to the theme Dr. A. B. Meredith, state commissioner of education delivered two addresses in the forenoon, one on Functions of a Course of Study and the other on The Basic Monograph. F. E. Harrington spoke on Arithmetic. A recess for luncheon was taken at 11.45, the afternoon session being called to order at 1.30 o'clock. The afternoon addresses were by F. S. Camp, elementary supervisor of the state board of education who spoke on The Social Studies; Earle S. Russell, superintendent of schools for Simsbury, on Oral and Written English and L. C. Staples, supervising agent for Suffield, on Reading. The public grammar schools of the town were closed for the day to allow the teachers to attend the institute.

The first meeting of the season of the Brotherhood of the First Congregational church was held in the church house Thursday evening in charge of the newly elected president, Dixon Van Zandt. Taking part in the entertainment were Charles H. Caswell, Dr. R. Bullock Jones, Ralph Gibson and Charles Dudensky who furnished novel musical numbers. Formally introduced to the seventy members in attendance were Rev. J. C. Graham of Windham Center and Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, who were given a hearty welcome and responded in kind. Judge Otto B. Robinson was the speaker, his subject being The Recognition of the Privilege and Responsibility of Citizenship. The president's appointments of standing committees for the year follow; Membership, James P. Bath, chairman, Alfred P. Abbe, Harold S. Maine, Dr. Herman C. Little, Dr. William E. Hendry and Ralph U. Wolmer; entertainment, Raymond A. Parker, chairman, Dr. R. Bullock Jones and Harold C. Lincoln; fellowship, Harry W. Standish, chairman, Louis H. Arnold, Robert H. Fenton, George C. Moon, Ralph W. E. Carpenter, and Robert O. Branch; finance, George S. Elliott; chairman, Edward F. Whitmore and A. W. Buchaman, Jr.; publicity, James B. Fullerton, Louis A. Kingsbury and Judge Otto E. Robinson.

There is a little story regarding constables of the town of Windham which brings out an unusual circumstance regarding the "constable" situation here. Seven of the eight candidates are elected, four on each party ticket, but this year there are five on the list who really want to be elected and the question arises who will become the seventh constable? At the last town election Wilbur G. Stevens of North Windham and Alfred P. Abbe, republicans, each received 1,537 votes and as the ballot boxes are sealed for six months there is no chance for a recount at present. If the men believe in taking chances they may settle the matter by the mere toss of a coin, heads or tails up for the winner. One of the two is bound to lose. To date but two of the six constables elected have qualified, William D. Kelley and Gus Sagal. As a rule only that number ever qualify, but this year it is understood that Dog Warden John T. Meikle and Gilbert P. Flynn intend to qualify. Harry W. Avery is barred from being a town or city officer due to his federal position and Theodore Marrotte, successful republican candidate, has not qualified. It is said that a certain man about town received a couple of votes for constable in one of the districts at the elections. His name was not on the ballot but if he really received the votes he is legally elected constable. In case those elected fail to qualify, selectmen have the power to appoint special constables.

Mary, 3-year-old daughter of Peter and Catherine Canda Podco of South Coventry, died at St. Joseph's hospital Thursday night after an illness of a few days. Besides her parents she leaves one brother, John.

At Lebanon Baptist church, Friday afternoon, funeral services for Addison Fitch Thompson were held at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. G. Littlefield officiated. Burial was in the South cemetery. Arrangements were by Avery & VanZandt.

It has been estimated that there are enough bricks laid in the rear basement of the Capitol theatre building to build a good sized two and one-half story garage. The walls of the theatre proper are of solid brick, four layers deep and sound-proof. The rear of the building is far below the street level and requires a rear wall 92 feet high from the ground, or about six normal stories. Ten bricklayers are on the job and it is planned to have the roof covered before the first severe snow storm.

Charles G. Morris, democratic candidate for governor will discuss state issues and the business of state institutions at a large democratic rally to be held next Tuesday night at the town hall.

The Sorority Circle of the Methodist church met this week with Mrs. Albert E. Spellman in the afternoon and accomplished sewing for the coming bazaar.

Local guests at an auction party given by Mrs. George F. Stiles in South Windham in the afternoon were Mrs. H. R. Campbell, Mrs. F. H. Sherman, Mrs. John Hargreaves, Mrs. Albert B. Welch, Mrs. Ralph W. E. Carpenter and Mrs. Herman C. Little.

Some advocate of free traffic, two-way streets and catch-as-catch-can parking is displaying his grudge against the newly adopted traffic ordinances in this city by taking one-way street signs away, probably home for kindling wood. Two signs on North street disappeared two weeks ago and Friday morning the standards at Temple and Valley streets were among the missing.

Grace Mahoney, 14, and Edna Wil-liams, 16, both of New York, were being sought by Chief Allen McArthur of the local police Friday as runaways upon request of Inspector Leahy of the New York police department. The telegram from Inspector Leahy stated that it was possible that the girls were at the residence of Louis Lux, at Phelps Crossing, but members of the family denied having seen the girls, although they claimed that they knew them. Another family in the vicinity, said to be relatives of one of the girls, also denied having any knowledge of the whereabouts of the young ladies.

Ashford democrats held the final caucus of the major political parties in eastern Connecticut at Bakers' hall in Warrenville Thursday night. Twenty voters attended and selected James E. A. Knowlton as clerk and Alexander Bassett as the chairman. The nominees for representatives are Norman D. Baker of Warrenville, second, and Edward Buck of Westford, first. Nominees for justices of the peace are William McQuade, Edward O. Zeller, E. B. Bicknell and Michael Secker.

The town will be required to secure eight more ballot boxes in the event of a special election to select a successor to the late Senator Frank B. Brandegee, it was stated Friday, by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. The town has 11 boxes, of which eight were used for the town election. Recently five more boxes were ordered for the coming national election to that election ballot boxes used in the town election might be kept sealed for six months in compliance with the statutes. With all of the boxes on hand in use, an additional order will have to be placed for the special election.

There is every indication of a classy gridiron engagement culminating in a close victory, presumably for Windham High, when that aggregation meets Middletown High at Recreation Park this (Saturday) afternoon. The Windham boys are in the pink of condition and as tough as nails. In addition to this vital physical backing, Coach Callaghan has imparted to them a knowledge of football strategy that should meet with the same good results which have marked the team's activities for two seasons.

Captain Frank J. Riggs of Hart-ford and Captain Walter B. Perrett, the officer in charge of local work, will direct the Salvation Army Home Service Appeal for funds to maintain the work of the army in this city, the drive to be conducted the week of Oct. 27. The local citizens committee, which will back the army in its appeal, includes: Acting Mayor George W. Hickey, James B. Fullerton, P. S. Hills, Samuel Chesbro, Charles W. Hill, Michael E. Sullivan, Mrs. Charles W. Webster, Mrs. Margaret McArthur, First Selectman Russell, A. Andrews, and H. Clinton Lathrop, the last named as treasurer.

In honor of her approaching mar-riage with Theodore Whittier, of Springfield, Mass., Miss Gladys Jacobs was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Myra M. Mathews Thursday evening. Miss Florence Curtis assisted the hostess. Fifteen friends were present. At whist Mrs. Ruel M. Hyde won first prize and Miss Frances Stearns got the consolation award. The rooms were gay with Hallowe'en decorations.

At the home of Mrs. Conrad Du-beau the first house-to-house whist of the season of the Catholic Daughters of America was held this week. Miss Mary Hennessey of Middletown was a guest of the evening and won first prize. Mrs. Gertrude Dennehey won second and Miss Nellie Faley was given the consolation award.

Miss Gersuld, the dean, tendered the members of the Junior class living outside of the dormitory a tea, in the afternoon recently, at the Residence hall, of Willimantic State Normal school. Music was by the Misses Palmer and Wood of the senior class, who were assisted in the program by Misses McVeigh, White, Portelance, Wood, Sjoveli, McKee, Wiesmiller Olson, Fischer, Minson, Shackley, Enright and Felleu, students.

Brief Mention.

A postal card sent from Germany to this country on the ZR-3 at a cost of fifty cents, has been received from a relative by Mrs. Fritz Steinmeyer of Storrs.

One case of typhoid fever was reported from the town of Windham during the week ending October 11, according to the weekly morbidity report issued by the state board of health.

The greater part of Greenland is now covered by an ice sheet similar to that which covered eastern North America during the ice age.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Y. M. C. A. Entertainment Course Opens October 2.

The entertainment public will be pleased to learn that the local Young Mens Christian Association offers an excellent course of three entertainments for a remarkably low price, and the customary high standard of quality will be maintained, the committee having carefully selected the concerts from the attractions of the White Bureau. The first concert will be given on October 27th by The Radio Girls, five in number, including the well known Hearon Sisters who spent eighteen months with the soldiers overseas. They will present instrumental and vocal selections, humorous sketches, readings and impersonations. The second attraction will be six of the best Scotch entertainers in America who will entertain on December 17th. This company will present the wonderful play Cotters Saturday Night, based on the famous poem of Robert Burns. In this play there is a homey atmosphere created which strikes a responsive chord in the breast of every listener; the loved and familiar songs are sung by rich experienced voices; there is humor, sentiment, pathos, philosophy with a tribute to home life that is refreshing to our modern eyes. The third number will be given by The Modern Opera Company, consisting of three ladies and two gentlemen all artists in their line. The musical numbers have been carefully selected and arranged to effect a program that would prove not only well rounded but diversified; to this end the scenes are chosen from several fo the most popular light operas instead of presenting one set of opera which might or might not please the audience. This number will be given on January 21st. The course is costing the Y. M. C. A. more than the splendid course of last season, the course tickets are priced the same, namely $2.00 for the course. Tickets can be secured at the Y. M. C. A. office or at Smiths Shoe Store on Broadway.

BIG REPUBLICAN RALLY PLANNED FOR NORWICH

Plans are developing nicely for the big republican rally to be held in the town hall at 8 o'clock next Tuesday evening, Norwich is very fortunate in securing Col. Bingham, who is a forceful speaker, and is in great demand in all the large cities of the state. U. S. Senator Bert M. Fernald, an ex-governor of the state of Maine, and recently elected to the United States senate from the state of Maine by a 50,000 majority will be the other speaker.

Invitations have been sent to the chairman of ten surrounding towns to be present at the rally. Hon. Henry H. Gallup will preside as chairman of the rally. The local town committee plans a public reception to Col. Bingham at the Wauregan Hotel at half past seven on Tuesday evening, just prior to the rally and all the public of this and surrounding towns are cordially invited to attend both the reception and the rally. The band has been engaged to give a public concert in front of the hotel during the reception and they will also render a few selections at the hall during the rally.

Breed Theater

Maurice Tourneur's The White Moth, a story of the French theater, co-featuring Barbara La Marr and Conway Tearle, will be the feature attraction at the Breed theater Sunday Monday and Tuesday.

It has been elaborately produced and is said to mark the finest of Tourneur's achievements as well as the best work of the artists who have interpreted it on the screen.

The White Moth originally appeared in Ainslee's Magazine, being the work of Izola Forrester, author of The Gray Path, The Feast of Lights and other stories. The film adaptation was prepared by Albert Shelby LeVino.

Miss La Marr has the title role, while Ben Lyon plays Douglas Valentine and Conway Tearle is seen as Robert.

Others prominent in the cast are Edna Murphy, Josie Sedgwick, Kathleen Kirkman and William Orlamond.

Other pictures on the bill include Topics of the Day and a Pathe comedy.

Today's bill consists of Broken Barriers, a Reginald Barker production with James Kirkwood and Mae Busch, William Duncan in the Fast Express, a Mack Sennett comedy and the Pathe news.

Palace Theater

Celebrating our first anniversary with the years greatest picture. The Sea Hawk.

Regarded, by virtue of its originality and magnitude, as even a better entertainment than the author's well remembered. Scaramouche, Rafael Sabatini's The Sea Hawk as picturized by Frank Lloyd and released as a First National picture, comes to local playgoers Sunday on the screen of the Palace theater.

Resplendent in rich dramatic value and requiring many and massive backgrounds for its many big sequences The Sea Hawk, as transferred to the screen by Mr. Lloyd, is not only one of the outstanding cinema achievements of the past year but one of the singular triumphs of screen history.

Whereas the average super production has had its locale on the land, a majority of the big scenes of The Sea Hawk have been taken at sea, on four gigantic ships of the Sixteenth Century period, two of them rowed by galley slaves.

The story begins in England, where Master Peter Godolphin is murdered shortly after his sister Rosamund and Sir Oliver Tressilian announce their coming marriage. Oliver is accused of the murder because a trail of blood leads from the dead man's body to the doorstep of Penarrow Hall, Oliver's home. When Oliver submits to an examination and proves his innocence to the justice, Lionel, his brother, fearing that he might be accused of the murder, has Oliver kidnapped and taken aboard a ship about to sail for Algiers, thus making it seem positive that Oliver had fled from punishment for his guilt.

At sea the pirate ship on which Oliver is held prisoner is attacked by a Spanish marauder and Oliver becomes a galley slave for several years. When a Moorish galleass attacks the Spaniard Oliver frees himself from his chains, helps the Moors to conquer the ship and is made a commander by the basha. Later, hearing that Rosamund is about to marry Lionel, Oliver goes to England and, aided by his corsairs, takes Lionel and Rosamund from the altar and returns to Algiers with them, bent on making Lionel suffer for his intrigue and convincing Rosamund of his own innocence. In Algiers, however, the fair haired Rosamund attracts the attention of the basha and some highly interesting encounters between the forces of Oliver and the basha are said to develop.

Palace Theater

There is a veritable style show in the hospital scenes of Christine of the Hungry Heart, the new Thomas H. Ince-First National picture now at the Palace theater.

These scenes show the lecture room of a fashionable hospital, and about fifty men and women gathered there to hear the lecture of Dr. Alan Monteagle. The men are in afternoon noon clothes, and the gowns of the women are sure to cause many a gasp among the feminine patrons of the Palace theater. The costume worn by Miss Florence Vidor in this scene is another beautiful creation.

Both costumes and settings of this new Ince photoplay are dazzling. George Archainbaud directed, and the photography is by Henry Sharp.

Also short subjects consisted of the Telephone Girl, Faster Faster; Pathe News and Sport Light.

Broadway Theater

In his latest Paramount screen offering Cecil B. DeMille of the alluring favored cinema concoctions has reached in all directions to make Feet of Clay, which opens at the Broadway theater Sunday strictly 1924.

The heroine, played by the new "find" Vera Reynolds is the new type to whom the public interest has turned, the flapper, grown from parties and petting at seventeen to marriage and responsibilities at twenty-one.

Of course, there is a wonderful DeMille party, a dance floor laid over a pool with interesting connecting bridges. All of this is preceded by a colorful beach sequence, utilizing a myriad striking novelties and featuring an exciting race between twenty boards behind fast speedboats.

Featured in the principal roles of Feel of Clay are, besides Miss Reynolds, Rod La Rocque, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Robert Edeson. The story is an adaptation of Margaretta Tuttle's immensely popular magazine serial of the same name. Beulah Marie Dix and Bertram Millhauser wrote the screen play.

With the exception of The Ten Commandments, Feet of Clay is by far DeMille's best production to date—and one of the finest pictures for all around entertainment and thrills you will ever see.

A new comedy and Kinograms will be the short subjects. One show only Sunday night starting at 7:30. Be there early.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

When the selectmen and town clerk have completed their task of examining by this (Saturday) evening the qualifications of those who desire to be admitted as electors, Killingly will have the largest number of voters in its history, and the total will not be far from 3,000. About 325 new voters have been made to date this year and that number will be increased by today's admissions. Of interest is the fact that a surprisingly large percentage of this year's new voters in Killingly are women, an evidence that they will not overlook the privilege granted them under the 19th amendment.

Getting out the vote this year will be a greater task than it was four years ago, when the number of voters was much less than at present. There will be, however, an ample and energetic staff to workers of both parties and as many automobiles as may be required for the work on election day. These workers and machines will reach to all parts of the town, so that all may have the opportunity of voting i they will but improve it

Here is something of interest to several thousand residents of this and surrounding towns. Coming from what may be assumed to be official sources it will command attention: "We recognize the constitutional right of every one to smoke if one is so inclined. That is an inherent privilege. Therefore, we maintain that only those who have paid us $10 a head for the privilege should be allowed to smoke, and to smoke only at such times and places as we designate. We trust that this makes the whole question, on which the future of civilization depends, as clear as mud. Which it does."

Auction Notice: We will sell at public sale on the premises at 16 Mechanic street, Danielson, on Saturday, Oct. 25 at 2 o'clock p. m. the real estate known as the Phoebe Snow property, also some choice household goods. For particulars, apply to Witter Bros., auctioneers, office 12 Main St., Danielson, Conn. adv.

Miss Etudienne Forest of Maple St., who is to be married to Oscar J. Berger now Monday, was given a miscellaneous shower by twenty friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Bernier on Reynolds street.

The rooms were attractively decorated with autumn flowers and foliage. Upon the entrance of the bride-elect, little Gasmanne Bernier wheeled an ornately decorated tea wagon to a central positions and from it Miss Forest received many gifts. Games and music featured the evening's program of entertainment and refreshments were served. For popularity of Miss Forest was awarded the many beautiful gifts she received.

Today (Saturday) Mr. and Mrs. James L. Miller of Reynolds street are to observe the golden anniversary of their wedding.

Lawrence J. Seward of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Friday.

A vaudeville bill of merit drew the usual large Friday evening attendance to the Orpheum theatre.

Hunters say that, even this early in the season game birds have been shot at so much they have become as wild as hawks.

Persons who have applications on file to be made voters will not overlook their opportunity today to be admitted as electors.

Killingly rooters will be on hand in numbers this afternoon at the Quinebaug grounds when Killingly High meets the Chapman Technical school team of New London in what will be the last home football game until Thanksgiving day.

Negotiations are pending for the construction on East Franklin street of four cottages, to be built at once if there are no unforeseen obstacles.

Sweet cider is now being offered to those who care to buy it in this territory, and there appears to be a veritable flood of the juice.

Man cook wanted for place in the country. Call Danielson 397 this morning between 10 and 11 o'clock.—adv.

In football news dealing with the activities of the Connecticut Aggies' varsity team, a note appears mentioning that Antonio "Duke" Longo has returned for practice after being out of the game with a knee injury.

Arthur C. Fielder of Providence is spending the week end with friends in Danielson.

The first and second degrees are to be conferred upon candidates of Killingly grange at a meeting scheduled for next Monday evening.

Miss Lucile Caron will have the members of the Treble Clef club at her home for a meeting Wednesday evning next.

Current Events will be discussed at a meeting of the Ladies' Reading circle with Mrs. C. M. Smith Monday afternoon.

Judge and Mrs. A. G. Bill are spending the week end at Antrim, N. H.

The Junior World Wide Guild of the Baptist church has elected the following officers: President, Winifred Hammett; vice president, Vera Franklin; secretary, Ethel Wells; treasurer, Florence Moran.

Miss Annie Day had the members of the Ladies' Sewing society of St. Alban's church at her home for a meeting Friday afternoon.

Splendid line of ladies' woolen and jersey dresses on display today. Also something to interest you in LaResista corsets. The Alice Eleanor Shop.—adv.

A degree was conferred upon candidates at a meeting of Warren chapter, R. A. M., Friday evening.

Arthur Williams, members of the Killingly High school football squad last year, is making his presence felt on the gridiron at Connecticut Agricultural college. He was credited in news notes published in a Hartford paper Friday in making several impressive gains through the varsity line in practice at the college.

Charles S. Bill, many years a resident of Danielson, is to engage in business for himself.

After having been seriously ill George H. Call is improving at his home on Broad street.

There will be a reminder of old campaign times when a republican rally is held at Wauregan at 6 o'clock tonight (Saturday). The plans call for a torchlight procession, headed by the Wauregan band, a flag raising and speaking. Republicans are expected from the villages of the town of Plainfield.

PUTNAM

Next Wednesday in the Putnam probate court there is to be a hearing on the allowance of the final account of G. Harold Gilpatric, former bank cashier, as trustee of a trust estate created by the late Joseph W. Cutler for his daughter, Miss Annie Cutler of Bellevue street. The trust created amounted to $40,000. The final accounting shows but $6,000 so that the fund is $34,000 short, the remainder of the fund having been appropriated by the trustee.

Although most of the fund has disappeared through the mismanagement of Gilpatric he was heavily bonded and it is believed that the amount collectible from the bonding company will restore the trust in toto. Under the terms of the will, the Hartford Connecticut Trust company of Hartford becomes trustee.

A democratic rally, under the auspices of the John W. Davis club, of Putnam, was held in St. John's hall, Providence street, Friday evening. Among the speakers was Donald Mahoney, director of the speakers' bureau, New Haven. A food sale and social hour followed the rally.

Few of the large audience at the Bradley theatre, Thursday night, realized that Walter Burke, who with his wife was the fourth number on the vaudeville bill as "Burke and Betty," was a buddy of Jacob Alpert of the S. & A. Amusement company. Burke and Alpert were in the aviation service during the war and were with the same corps. Until a short time ago, when they met in New Haven they had not seen each other since army days. Mr. and Mrs. Burke were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Alpert while in Putnam.

Although Judge William M. Maltbie came to Putnam to preside at a short calendar session of the superior court, Friday morning, he found little business awaiting him. The four uncontested divorce cases on the list were not claimed for trial by counsel. One small case involving the sale of some dresses in which the T. & T. Dress Co., of Worcester, was plaintiff and Meyer Goldwater, of Danielson, was defendant, got as far as having the pleadings read to the court. During a short recess the parties got together, adjusted their differences, and a settlement was reached. Two cases were assigned for trial next Thursday. Short calendar next week Friday will be taken up at Willimantic.

Misses Ruth and Dorcas Bartlett, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bartlett, Main street, who are making their debut on the Swarthmore Chautauqua circuit, have arrived back in the tsates. They have been on tour for several weeks through New Brunswick and Nova Scotia and are now in Maine. Their route includes cities in Massachusetts and Rhode Island during the holiday season so that Putnam friends may have an opportunity to see them.

George Perry, of Grove street, is seriously ill at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester.

James E. Murray and John Lynch have been appointed Putnam members of a committee to arrange for the annual ball of Putnam lodge of Elks. The ball will again be held in Danielson this year.

Funeral services for Peter Daigle, of Putnam, who died suddenly Tuesday morning, were held at St. Mary's church, Friday morning. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Word has been received of the marriage in Youngstown, Ohio, of Miss Helen Eaves, formerly of Putnam, and C. F. Smithson of Youngstown. They are making their home in Dayton, Ohio.

John A. Morse, Putnam's veteran violin maker, has just finished two "fiddles" made from a piece of spruce rafter taken from the old Quinebaug house, which has been moved forward from its position of many years to adjoin the rear of the Putnam Inn.

The Quinebaug House formerly stood on Main street but was removed to the rear to give place to progress. The building must be about 75 years old and at one time school was kept in the hall in the second story.

When Mr. Morse learned that some of the spruce rafters in the old building had been ripped out, during the changes being made, he became interested. Such well seasoned and dried spruce is a rarety. After examining the wood Mr. Morse secured sufficient of it to fashion two beautiful violins of the "Strad" variety.

FELIX LEVESQUE FOUND DEAD FRIDAY MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Oct. 17.—Felix Levesque, about 45, was found dead in bed at his home on Church street, Friday morning. Heart trouble was the cause of death. Mr. Levesque had been in his usual health Thursday and when he retired for the night was the same as usual. When he did not appear for breakfast, Friday morning, his daughter went to see what the matter was and found he had passed away. Mr. Levesque had lived in Putnam most of his life and was a mill operative. He leaves a son and daughter with whom he made his home.

ANOTHER CHURCH LOSES THROUGH G. H. GILPATRIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Oct. 17.—The South Woodstock Baptist church is added to the First Baptist church of Putnam and the Congregational church of Abington as making three churches that will have to meet an assessment levied by the comptroller of the currency on stockholders of the First National Bank of Putnam. The Woodstock church holds five shares of stock, a gift received some years ago, and will therefore have to raise $500 to meet the assessment. Like the Putnam church the Ladies' Aid Society of the Woodstock church is attempting to raise money by a series of sales, entertainments, etc., and the first one has already been held. There is talk of disposing of other securities held by the church to liquidate the assessment.

HOSPITAL HEAVY LOSER IN GILPATRIC'S BANK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Oct. 17.—The Day Kimball hospital, perhaps the most important public institution in eastern Windham county, is the hardest hit by the closing of the First National Bank of any institution in the county. The hospital held 100 shares of the bank's stock and from it had for a long time derived a good part of its income. Now it finds not only the income stopped and the principal wiped out, but the hospital must pay an assessment of $10,000. The trustees will be forced to meet a part of this assessment next Monday. In addition to the above the Nurses' Home Fund and other money is locked in the bank and due to the bank's closing, patients have been unable to pay their bills. It is certainly a dark hour for the hospital and one that calls for assistance from the friends of the institution who are 100 per cent of the population of this end of the county.

Notwithstanding the recent addition to the hospital the institution is most of the time taxed to capacity. The automobile with its wake of accidents, has added greatly to the demands upon the hospital and not a week passes that emergency cases are not received and a life or limb is saved. The hospital must go on at all costs but the trustees are facing a serious problem and needs the financial support of this community. It is an opportunity to perform an act of philanthrophy of a scope seldom arising in this county. The trustees will receive contributions of any amount to be applied to the assessment fund. Checks drawn to "Stock Emergency Fund, Day Kimball Hospital" may be mailed to Charles H. Brown, treasurer, Putnam.

A southbound trolley car of the Connecticut company left the rails a short distance north of Kinney's at Mechanicsville, just after 6 o'clock Friday evening, swung crossways over the state highway, blocking it and with the front end almost on the edge of the river bank. The passengers were considerably shaken up but no one was injured. Motorman Caffrey was in charge of the car. It is believed that a stone that became lodged on the rails was responsible for the derailment of the car. Traffic on the state highway was blocked for a short time until the big car could be swung around, opening a path for travel.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

COLUMBIA

The few remaining summer visitors are rapidly leaving for their homes. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson D. Merwin closed their cottage at the lake on Tuesday and went to Hartford. They expect to occupy their cottage over week-ends during the fall while the weather remains pleasant.

Mrs. Mary B. Yeomans, who has been here since early in the summer went on Wednesday and the Misses Kemp, who have been at the home of Mrs. Proctor since the spring, left for Brooklyn, N. Y., Thursday.

At the republican caucus at the town hall Tuesday evening about 45 were present, half of the number women. W. Clifford Robinson was chosen chairman and Edward P. Lyman clerk. Edward P. Lyman was nominated on the first ballot with a good majority as candidate for state representative. In acknowledging the nomination Mr. Lyman said he did not care to accept it unless he could have the unanimous support of his party which he inferred had been lacking recently. He was ably supported by Fred A. Hunt and others, pledging him their support, particularly by a group of active young men who shouted in succession their support of the candidate. William Collins and his son Hubert, both spoke on the subject. The democratic caucus was also held at the town hall on Tuesday evening, after the adjournment of the republican caucus and was attended by about twenty persons. Joseph N. Clarke was elected chairman and Raymond E. Clarke clerk. After several ballots and many had declined to be balloted for, Raymond C. Squier was nominated for representative: Raymond E. Clarke, Frank P. Potter and George H. Champlin were the choice for justices of the peace.

Joseph N. Clarke states that a very satisfactory settlement has been made by the insurance company carrying the town compensation policy covering Emory Hill, who was severely injured by cutting his foot while working on the road for the town sometime since.

William Bertsch, who has been obliged to constantly wait upon his wife, who has been very ill for some time, has not been able to attend to his harvesting, so 16 neighbors went to his farm Wednesday and dug his potatoes, husked his corn, picked the apples, etc.

Officials of the Salvation Army from Willimantic were in town on Monday endeavoring to organize a campaign for their week

HAMPTON

Norman Hoffman daughter of Mr and Mrs. Walter Hoffman, was baptized at the Congregational church Sunday.

The funeral of William Henry Burnham, a lifelong resident of Hampton, was held at his home on Monday afternoon, Rev. A. Avery Gates and Dr. Soule of Hartford officiating. Burial was in the South cemetery.

The republican caucus was held on Tuesday afternoon at the town hall. Chester B. Jewett was nominated for representative.

The Ladies' Aid society met Wednesday afternoon for work.

Mrs. William P. Spaling, who has been ill, is improving slowly.

At the annual meeting of the library Mrs. Albert Mills resigned. Her successor has not been appointed.

Mrs. Lester Burnham has returned after visiting in Boston.

At the democratic caucus, held on Wednesday evening at town hall, Wallace N. Jewett was nominated for representative.

EAST KILLINGLY

Monday, Rev. W. D. Hetherington attended a clergy fellowship meeting held in the Baptist church of Putnam. Rev. Wilbur Newton led the devotions. Rev. Mr. Lawson read a paper that brought many important things in the country pastorate before his hearers. The contents of the paper was such as to produce a lively discussion. Several, though not entirely agreeing with what the paper contained, showed the brotherly spirit that makes for friendly fellowship.

The Willing Workers of the Union Baptist church met with Mrs. W. D. Hetherington and did considerable work. Class reunions are the order of the week.

This is leap year. The men of East Killingly will show that they are alive and will hold a pork supper, the women aiding by furnishing ice cream and cake.

Last Sunday, Rev. W. D. Hetherington, having returned from his annual vacation, occupied the pulpit. A good number greeted him. In the Sunday school 51 were present.

WOODSTOCK

Miss Nellie D. Chandler, Mrs. Charlotte May, Mrs. Agnes Wood and Miss Mary Flynn have returned from an automobile trip over the Mohawk trail.

Mrs. David P. Hatch was the leader at the meeting at the Hill church Sunday evening.

The dedication of the Bracken Memorial Library is to take place Wednesday the 29th of this month.

At the Republican caucus Tuesday, Bert Johnson and Byron W. Bates were nominated for representatives and Robert E. Harris for Judge of Probate. Judge Clarence H. Child was prevented by age limit from serving another term.

Lester W. Gallup who has entered Worcester Polytechnic Institute was home over Columbus day. On account of his very satisfactory record on his entrance examinations he has been awarded a matriculation scholarship which will cover his tuition for the freshman year.

F. W. Hinrichs is to speak in Eastford Saturday evening on the political issues of the day and the importance of every voter registering his vote.

Miss Florence Giles of Boston has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Maurice F. Childs.

Melzar Woodbury who is a member of the United States Coast Guard has been spending a week's furlough here at the home of his parents.

Miss Helen Perley is entertaining this week Miss Sophie Barrett, of New Jersey.

Mrs. Annie Taylor, who has been visiting friends on the Massachusetts coast is with her sister, Mrs. H. W. Brown for a few weeks.

MAPLEWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oat and children spent Monday in Coventry, R. I., guests of Miss May Cavanaugh.

Mrs. W. W. Clapp was a recent visitor in New Haven.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Harding were Frank W. Oehl and three chums who motored from New York city.

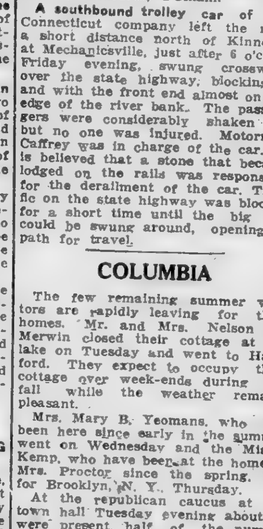
PLAINFIELD

The Woman's club met at the Community house Oct. 16th. There were 20 members present and one guest. Mrs. Susie Dodge and Mrs. Minnie Barber were the hostesses and served a dainty lunch. The president, Mrs. Dawson presided and a business session was held and many things were disposed of. One new member was voted in. Then Mrs. King presented a most interesting program, the subject being Coolidge The club sang as an opening number, Auld Lang Syne, with Mrs. Flagg at the piano. There were readings by Mrs. Butler, Miss Wright, Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Wilcox. Mrs. Eva Smith rendered a vocal solo, with Mrs. Ethel Lyon at the piano. The club was much pleased to see so many members present and hopes for a good attendance on Nov. 5 with Mrs. Harvey and Mrs. Pratt as hostesses

WAUREGAN

The Congregational church supper and roll call is to be held next Wednesday evening. Leach's orchestra will furnish music and Jehu Dogne will sing. Mr and Mrs. J. J. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield Center are to be the speakers.

Noted Teacher Back In U. S. After 53 Years In Turkey



ACCOMPANY UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD, N. Y.

Dr. Mary Mills Patrick, President Emeritus of the Constantinople Woman's College, who has passed the last fifty-three years in Turkey engaged in educational work for women, arrived recently at New York. She stated that the entire custom concerning Turkish women has been revolutionized during the past few years. They even bob their hair, and the men are practically willing to recognize women's rights.

No Better Material In Any Car at Any Price

The sturdy qualities that make the good Maxwell so durable and dependable are the natural results of materials and methods of manufacture usually associated with cars of far higher price.

There are approximately 38 fast wearing parts in all automobiles. Irrespective of price there is nothing superior to the good Maxwell at those 38 points.

More expensive alloy steels are used in the good Maxwell than in many cars selling for twice or thrice as much.

Furthermore, the group of engineers who share credit for the advancement and perfection of the good Maxwell—the same group that designed the Chrysler Six—has practically eliminated all vibration. This is a refinement of operation hitherto assumed to be impossible with a four-cylinder car.

Every penny you invest in the good Maxwell will work for you overtime. It is apparent from the testimony of its owners that it is actually a better car than anything at anywhere near its price.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Maxwell's attractive plan.

SAFEGUARD ELECTION RESULT.

In at least two of his recent speeches Secretary Hughes has been soaring down upon the importance of keeping the presidential election out of a deadlock. It is quite evident that he is calling attention to a possibility and doing so at a time which will permit of preventive measures being applied.

Everything points to the election of President Coolidge. Yet the danger of being so cocksure that there will be a disposition to feel that it isn't necessary to vote is all too apparent. That attitude has raised havoc with more than one election, and Secretary Hughes understands perfectly that it does no good to offer an explanation based upon such a situation the day after an election.

Just as long as there is a possibility of a deadlock in the electoral college there is good and sufficient reason for directing the attention of the voters thereto and warning them to guard against it.

Nothing would suit the third party leader any better than to bring about such a deadlock. That is in fact the very goal which he is said to be headed for, since, he believes that with the election thrown into congress he can bring about a combination whereby he can dictate the election even though he might not be able to get it.

The important thing for the voters to do is to get to the polls and by their vote prevent any possibility of a deadlock. Secretary Hughes renders a valuable service when he stresses this point. It is a warning that needs to be heeded. There is no better time to get the people to thinking about this situation. It rests with them whether there is a deadlock or not.

If there is a sincere desire to prevent any such situation, and there certainly ought to be, the thing to do is to get to the polls on election day. The vote cast for Calvin Coolidge means a vote to check that very thing. Any worry on the part of Secretary Hughes is that the people will have too much confidence in the outcome and fail to safeguard it.

CUTTING COAL COST.

According to a report made following an investigation by the coal storage committee of the American Engineering council at Chicago certain relief from the high price of coal rests with the consumer. That is to a certain extent a restatement of what has been said before, but until the time comes when there is a general recognition of it it will stand frequent repetition.

The relief that the consumer can provide for himself lies in the buying of his coal during the spring and summer and storing it for use during the coming winter. Coal is cheaper in the spring and summer and a winter's supply that is obtained during that time not only gets the benefit of a lower price but it overcomes the possibility of a shortage and difficulties in getting fuel later on. Also it is appreciated by every consumer that the later in the season coal is bought and the nearer the approach to a shortage, no matter what the cause of it, the higher the price paid for coal.

The best time for the movement and the delivery of coal is during the spring, summer and fall months. There are handicaps added just as soon as winter and bad weather arrives. To attempt to handle the entire coal shipments in the fall and winter is sure to mean congestion. It places an unnecessary strain upon transportation facilities and has an adverse influence upon the movement of other goods.

No committee will hold that the early buying and storage of coal will remove the high prices. But it doesn't require much effort to demonstrate that it will help, and it argues for itself that whatever is done to insure the regular operation of the mines will likewise contribute to a much desired end. Cutting high coal prices and preventing a shortage means checking two serious household worries.

FOXES.

Farmers will have little use for such an organization as the fox hunters' association of Indiana, which has received protests for permitting the dogs to run a fox to death and tear it to pieces, and the membership requirements in which organization include the provision that the member who kills a fox, or permits one to be killed, is subject to expulsion.

It is explained that the desire of these fox hunters is to keep the foxes alive. And that is right where they stand at cross purposes with the farmers. The fox hunters are interested in the foxes because of the sport which they have in chasing them back of hounds. The attitude of the farmer is due to the manner in which the foxes raid the countryside of game, chickens, turkeys and other fowl. On the question of foxes the farmer and the Indiana fox hunters are as far apart as the poles.

For the farmer it makes little difference how the fox is disposed of, so long as his existence is ended. Sly and stealthy, clever and speedy, they give the farmer many an exasperated day, and they serve no good purpose. They make no more friends than does the rat.

Fox hunters of this vicinity take as much delight in chasing the fox as do those of Indiana, but they chase him to kill him, and not to see him run or to protect him. They like the fun, they like the pelt and they like the bounty. For the farmer it is a matter of protection to kill the pests, and there's no chance that they will ever be found missing the chance to decrease the number.

UNSAFE NAVIGATION.

From the conditions that were reported at the time of the collision between the steamer Boston and the tanker Swift Arrow off Point Judith indications pointed to the latter being responsible. From the investigation and report made by federal steamship inspectors the responsibility has been placed upon Captain Call of the Boston who is found to have navigated his ship too fast through the fog and who has been penalized by the revocation of his license. Whether that decision is allowed to remain of whether appeal will be taken has not been disclosed. The captain of the Swift Arrow was not entirely exonerated but the violations of which he was found guilty were much less serious.

The charge is that Captain Call caused the Boston to be navigated at such a speed as could not be termed a moderate rate of speed," which is called for by pilot rules in case of a dense fog, and there were no extenuating circumstances.

Pushing through a dense fog along a steamship lane where vessels are traveling in the same direction without the probability of cross routes is one thing, but when there is no slackening of speed at such a crossway as off Point Judith big chances are being taken. Caution is called for, since it must be remembered in the case of such a vessel as the Boston hundreds of lives were at stake and depending upon safe transportation, fog or no fog. The lesson of this collision doesn't stand alone in insisting upon safe transportation at sea. It nevertheless increases the list of collissions that ought not to have been, and it is to be hoped it will serve to reduce the amount of unsafe navigation.

GERMAN LEADER FOR COOLIDGE

From St. Louis comes the statement that Charles Nagel, a member of the cabinet under the Taft administration and a man who stands high in German circles, is going to support President Coolidge. Perhaps this is no more than might be expected, but it has a special significance at this time because of the claims which have been made that the Steuben society to a man and other German-born citizens were going to vote for La Follette because he was a friend of Germany during the war.

Mr. Nagel, who is recognized as a leader of German-born citizens, of whom there are many in Missouri, doesn't consider that that is reason sufficient for supporting La Follette. In fact he considers that the Wisconsin senator should be opposed because of his demands for a revision of the Versailles treaty and because of his plans for wrecking the Constitution. Further than that he insists that the maintenance of economic stability and prosperity and the prevention of a deadlock in the election depend upon the election of President Coolidge.

Mr. Nagel has spoken for himself. He unquestionably represents the sentiment of a great many German-born citizens in and about St. Louis, and in all probability he voices the feeling of a considerable portion of the German voters throughout the country. It is the best kind of advice.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The one big objection to making Main street a one-way street is the block pavement.

How long will it be before trans-Atlantic trips are made in dirigibles instead of steamships?

There's one chance left to be made a voter. Make the most of it but don't wait until the last hour.

With the I. W. W.'s of Minnesota strong for La Follette, because of his policies, most voters will require no other information.

The man on the corner says: Remember that while October is the month of beautiful scenery it is also the month of the most accidents.

That's a robust appeal which a democratic candidate for office in Rhode Island makes when he declares "The republicans are not playing fair. All they offer you (as candidates) is Americans."

Miss Marbury of New York is now trying to claim her snobbery talk was comic stuff. That only makes it all the worse. Poking fun at dressmaking and cooking is bound to create a reaction. She made a bad political statement at the start but she makes it worse the more she tries to explain it.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

There is in all parts of the country a growing and pernicious habit of robbing the farmer of his produce. The farmers of today are having hard enough time of it in coping with price conditions without having to butt up against highway robbery. On a recent Sunday the writer saw a large gang of men, women, and large children comin into the city in the late afternoon loaded down with bags and baskets. Possibly they were returning from their summer estates bearing the fruit of the season's toil, but more likely they were bringing in for winter use the fruit of somebody else's toil. Evidently they were not the sons and daughters of the Mayflower. In this country the public at large has a great privilege of roaming across the fields and through the forests that no other country thinks of permitting. If the privilege is not abused no objections are raised. But we may be compelled to follow Europe for self-protection.

There are two grave dangers that assail the public today from driving an automobile, and strangely enough the one is the very opposite of the other. The first danger comes from speeding which, of course, must be classed with recklessness. The great danger of reckless driving is the liability of smashing two cars and sending two—or more—persons into eternity. The danger arising from driving too slowly is the practical hold-up of traffic, and anything under heaven, even murder, may happen when traffic is badly congested. Doesn't this apply to life in general? The man who lives a fast life is apt to turn turtle sooner or later. We see them keeled over all along the human pathway. The man who justs pokes along never arrives. Somebody is tempted to cut in just ahead of him and sideswipes another machine.

The above seems to put emphasis upon the growing tendency in our day to put up safeguards wherever danger prevails. Go into a workshop of rapidly revolving machinery and there you will find safeguards galore. As a precaution all belts are cased in so as not to come in contact with the worker's clothing. Likewise pulleys, gears shafting are fenced in for similar reasons. Human ingenuity has gone to the uttermost limit to protect both the life and limb of workmen. The flash-light beacons of our streets serve a like purpose for both drivers and pedestrians, the latter being expected to keep within the white lines. Isn't the latter quite suggestive? Human life in general would be much safer if it kept within the limits of white lines. Following such a strait and narrow way would keep from the injury caused in intemperance, dishonesty, immorality and from other things that are both crooked and black.

It is now claimed by psychologists that appreciation of color stimulates quickness of intellectual perception. To know color values helps us to properly rate other values that are determined by the judgment. To quickly detect the shading of different hues calls forth the same set of mental faculties that make correct decisions along other lines. Color blindness indicates a defective ability to see unlikeness in other things that differ. The mind that can sift out and combine colors so as to make a kind of symphony is the type of mind that can sift out evidence and make combinations in the interest of justice. You never knew a lover of color who did not have somewhere in his nature streaks of refinement, and this ability to see and appreciate color is the source of great inward satisfaction. In October he revels.

A question much debated just at present is the reliability of the straw vote, so called. Before that question is settled one needs to know just how it is conducted. It may be so managed as to feel the popular pulse accurately; it may also be so used as to be absolutely worthless. Were the Literary Digest or any other publication to send out one million post cards to one million democrats or to one million republicans with the request that each one's choice for president be marked on the card and returned, nothing in all the world could be more perfectly absurd. It would simply indicate nothing. If 100,000 of such cards could be put into the hands of the 100,000 workmen of the General Electric Co., making the same request, then it certainly would be a straw indicating how "the wind blows". Or suppose the same number could be put into the hands of the alert and active men who daily commute between New York and the outlying cities and towns. Then there would be basis for intelligent views.

Those who make a practice of study-the Bible realize that it is more and more the most suggestive book in all the world. Of course it is in many ways an incomparable book. But as a place to find suggestions on almost any subject its suggestiveness is simply amazing. Even along scientific lines, even though the Bible was not intended to be a text book on science, and especially modern science, yet it is true to many of the discoveries of science. For instance the curvature of the mountain peaks which is a scientific fact is referred to in the Bible as Ruskin has shown in some of his famous passages. If you are perplexed in finding a subject to talk about or write about go to the Bible and you will find something to start your gray matter into action—if you have any.

Every form of animal life is pro-vided with some means of protection. As all life must struggle for its continued existence nature has fortified it for that purpose. The bestowment of this protective power is a part of God's creative plan. To build up defences is as natural as to close the eye in the presence of danger. Until human nature comes nearer to the perfect man than it is today, it is well for us to keep a Fortress Monroe and a fleet of battleships. There is a naturalness as well as a reasonableness in safeguarding ourselves from all kinds of danger. If one must go into a fever-stricken district it is wise to be provided with antiseptics. Let us thank God that science has just put into our hands such powerful defences against the once fatal diseases like tuberculosis and the like.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

SPIRITUAL BLINDNESS

To be blind physically is one of the sorest afflictions known to men and yet I one day read in the paper about a blind woman in Washington who had said to one of her friends that she was contemplating writing a book on the subject "Compensations to the Blind". When asked what she meant, she said that blind people idealized everything. If roses were described to them, they were imagined to be much more beautiful than they could possibly be. Nature in their thought was surpassingly fine, and the people whom they met might be homely enough to those who could see them with the natural vision, but to the blind, if the voice was pleasing and the influence exerted helpful the blind person always gave to such a one beauty of both form and feature. Those of us who see with the natural eye can quite understand how such a picture could be possible.

There are, however, no compensa-tions in spiritual blindness. The one spiritually blind has no true conception of God, no appreciation of Christ, no love for God's Word, and with these blessings taken out of the life, life is scarcely worth living.

In the story of the blind man in the ninth chapter of John and in the experience of Saul of Tarsus, we have two perfect illustrations of spiritual blindness. Jesus was so near the blind man that he could detect the faintest inflection of His voice, and yet he knew Him not. He represents a countless host of people who have eyes and ears, but who do not perceive the presence and the power of the Word of Jesus Christ. The Apostle Paul is an illustration of the fact that when a person is prejudiced it closes his eyes to all that is beautiful about him. Paul is reported to have been present at the stoning of Stephen and the death of the Martyr, and while it may have influenced him after a while as a memory, yet it seemed only to harden his heart at the time. There is nothing that can so blind the eyes as prejudice.

From these two illustrations we can easily learn some of the causes of spiritual blindness. They include: Ignorance. The blind man did not know Jesus of Nazareth. He may have heard about him, but knew him not, such ignorance, and it is representative of much of that which exists today, is sin.

Prejudice. Saul of Tarsus was centered in his own devices and plans, and could see no good in any other plan than his own. To be self-centered is to fail inevitably ourself, and to be a hindrance in the way of others.

Selfishness. One's life, if lived for one's self, is a narrow circle, and he who walks simply in the circle of selfish interests does not yet know the joy of helping interests and he who is ignorant of the joy of helping others has never yet entered into the Christ life. Christ's vision was as broad as the world. Because his vision was so broad, his mission was divinely great.

Education In Ways of Swindlers Best Protection.

Bleeding the gullible investor of his hard-earned money through frauds and fake stock swindles—a business which is estimated by some students of the situation to have increased within the past few years—can be best combatted by a consistent and continuing campaign of education among the people, in the opinion of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

The post office department, through issuance of "fraud orders," has put a permanent prohibition on the operation of hundreds of brilliant and "profitable" schemes State blue sky laws, better business bureaus, business organizations of many kinds, bankers' campaigns and other movements of community and state-wide scope have been driving against this evil with increasing zeal.

But the crooks continue to draw in their prize booty. And there is still a crying need for further sound and practical advice, more adequate and more drastic measures to rescue the "life savings" of the poor man and the "widow's mite."

Hit Small Investors Hard

Secretary Mellon believes it is among those people who can least afford to lose that the grafters of America work most successfully their nefarious schemes. It is upon these innocent victims, who have worked the hardest for their money and striven with the most sacrifice to save it that the greatest burden of such grafting falls with such crushing weight.

The flickering gleam of "easy money," like the enticing "will o' the wisp" that it is, continues to draw many a man or woman, who otherwise may have good, hard common sense, into the quagmire of "gilt-edged" paper, and scintillating promises of huge rewards, which vanish — a lost hope —with all the cash.

Mr. Mellon believes there is no accurate way of estimating how much money is lost each year in America through the sale of bogus securities, or the exchange of Liberty bonds for such worthless paper.

Education Chief Remedy

While believing that good comes from every move against the grafting profession, Secretary Mellon is convinced that in the long run the safest and surest way to circumvent their game is to educate the public adequately as to the relative value of securities, so that they will be forewarned, and use intelligent discrimination before purchase.

Persons who have not had sufficient experience to know such values, Mr. Mellon advises, should get in touch with their bankers or financial houses of high repute, which must know, in order to buy for themselves. There the prospective investor will always be able to find willing and able advice as to how he can safely invest his money, without danger, Mr. Mellon points out. Such persons need not be timid about approaching bankers or financial houses, he says, for there will be found men who are willing and glad to furnish the information sought.

"But the unscrupulous promoter of fraudulent securities," predicted the secretary, "like the criminal, will probably be with us always. The incentive to get his graft easily is very strong. And in my opinion, it is doubtful if we shall ever be able completely to eliminate him."

Millions Already Saved

The post office department has been doing a highly creditable work in suppressing fraudulent concerns which operate through the mails. The amount of money saved to the American public is estimated by Edgar N. Blessing, solicitor of the department, to run into many millions—how many, he says, it would be impossible to predict.

For instance, since March 4, 1921, Judge Blessing reports, the department has issued 851 fraud orders against concerns and individuals, which prohibits their using the mails in any form. This is a drastic and highly effective measure in the hands of the government, which is continually used with great success.

During the same period the post office department obtained 891 convictions under the penal code for misuse of the mails with a purpose of fraud.

Example in Oil Industry

It was the post office department, in conjunction with the department of justice, which recently made a drive against the fake oil stock promoters in the southwest, securing the conviction of many persons.

One of the highest estimates as to the loss suffered by the public through fradulent stock sales and exchange of Liberty bonds for worthless securities has been made my Andrew Ten Eyck, member of the New York bar, who places the figure at the amazing total of $1,000,000,000 annually.

Mr. Ten Eyck, writing in the Harvard Business Review, says this loss of $1,000,000,000 "is not only an inroad into the working capital of the nation, but also a source of unrest on the part of thousands of victims of security swindles. It is recognized everywhere as a legitimate concern of the state," he says.

More Investors Since War

"When American business has recovered its sense of direction and proportion there is still likely to be a reflection in the leading security markets of one permanent consequence of the war, which is the increase in the number of investors from about 3,000,000 to well over 20,000,000."

Mr. Ten Eyck, recommends to Americans for study the workings of the British companies act, which he investigated in England for the New York stock exchange. He fears that the present method of licensing security sales under state supervision will not protect the public and explains the completeness of information required here.

"The American experience with reference to measures in the interest of pure food suggests an apt analogy. Publicity as to what the security is and the property behind it, and limited to certain simple data, should be forthcoming by compulsion of the state, with the emphasis always on proper company management. President Coolidge stressed this point in an address to the investment bankers at the white house on October 29, 1923. Legislation founded on such principles, for which ample precedents are to be found in the British law, would be moderate and in accord with common sense, and, what is most important, make for the education of the public in analysing security values for themselves and demanding evidence of the wholesomeness of securities before they purchase.

"Such laws will not supplant, but supplement and strengthen, the criminal statues dealing with fraud, whose rigid enforcement will always be necessary to reach the crooks. They will most certainly create a better atmosphere in the security field."

Bills Before Congress

National legislation looking toward regulation of the situation is before congress in several bills, the most prominent of which seems to be the so-called Denison bill, originally an organization of the blue sky commissioners of 37 commissions. It has since been rewritten and is now before the house committee on interstate commerce. Since recent reorganization of the blue sky commissioners' organization it is not known exactly what position they take toward the bill as it is now constituted.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Child Labor.

Mr. Editor: An article today addressed to you, but really meant for the reading public, and calculated to deal argumentively with the above question, appears unsigned.

This may be an oversight of the printer but if the argument was cogent the authority would be of minor importance. We do not hesitate to say that this is not the case.

The seeming information clothed in the letter does not appeal to this, nor to many of your sensible thinking readers. Was there plenty of room, it would be a pleasure to go into the six questions and their replies—offered by the "Woman Voter's Bulletin." Let it suffice that we make a general denial of all the propositions contained in the quoted document in regard to a constitutional amendment. By interpretation of the supreme court, the Constitution is entirely silent on the question of child labor, and we may properly so. To set a national or any other limit for childhood is absurd. Some people are children their whole lifetime.

The questionnaire adds: "Why set the limit at eighteen?" The reply answers. "Because the amendment should be applicable 100 years from now, as well as today. Who knows what the next 50 years may bring?"

We counter with the equally insane question, Is a person of eighteen years today a child? Of course, legally, they are regarded "infants in law," but in 50 or 100 years do we expect the human species to be less mature, than today, or that they will have less or more inclination to work? The proposition today admits a deterioration.

A constitutional amendment to enforce labor and prohibit idleness would be more in point. Statistics show in the profession this writer is himself engaged, which has so much to do with health of the nation, that the number of plumbers in the United States since 1910 has decreased from 128,000 to 113,000 in 1924 notwithstanding the tremendous growth of the nation during that period. It is a patent fact, too, that there are about five autos to every bath tub in the country. Of course it will be legal for children of 18 to run an auto but not a pleasure to equip for other useful employment.

Our city paper of late has been giving a series of papers that point out the advantages of youthful employment and diligence with examples of which our chief executive is a notable one. No institution apart from actual experience can take the place of a culture which is essentially American. The bugaboo of factory work is a humbug. There is a training philosophic, balancing and rythmatic to both hand and head in the action of machinery; and the personal touch of acquaintance has an enlightening and refining effect on those who are alert for its attaining. It may be the only college course in reach of the many and is worthwhile.

It is time that youth should be indoctrinated in the American idea that all employment is honorable and that by hand or head, yes, by both hand and head, the highest attainment is within his reach here, as not elsewhere. The story is told of an applicant for some position who told Lincoln how many diplomas he had obtained. Lincoln gave him the job and the assurance—that the recommendations would not stand in the way of his progress.

Mary Pickford's Serious Girlhood

Only four years old when her father died leaving the family in cruel poverty, Mary Pickford never had a real girlhood.

The father had earned but small wages and the little home in Toronto, Canada, was devoid even of comfort. When her mother was left alone without funds and with three small children to care for, little Mary Smith, as she then was known, felt the shadow of want.

At five she had a small part as a boy in "The Silver King," while her mother took in sewing. Next she played in stock companies in Toronto and Rochester, her mother, brother and sister joining her when she appeared as "Baby Gladys" in "The Little Red Schoolhouse" and "The Fatal Wedding," lurid melodramas. Other engagements followed.

Loathing the work, she saved a little money and sought an opportunity in New York. For weeks during the hot summer, she haunted the theatrical manager's offices and booking agencies without success. She tried to see some of the leading actresses but her quest was in vain until, through the aid of Blanche Bates' colored maid, she got word to David Belasco.

Then came weeks of climbing the three flights of stairs to Belasco's office. Finally she secured an appointment to see him after a play, and on a lonely stage just before midnight she acted before him and her chaperone, Aunt Minnie. Belasco signed a two-year contract with her that night, she to appear as Mary Pickford, the name of her great grandmother, and to play the part of Betty Warren in "The Warrens of Virginia" at $25 a week.

The engagement ended she sought work in moving pictures and was employed by D. W. Griffith, then director of the Biograph Company. The scene in wheih she first took part was cut from the film, and one of the business heads said her acting was poor and that she was "too plump," but Griffith retained her. Starting at $25 a week her salary was increased until it was $175 a week.

Returning to the stage she appeared in "A Good Little Devil" but soon went back to the screen, starring in "Heart's Adrift," "Tess of the Storm Country" and many other pictures that brought riches and made Mary Pickford known throughout the world.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

by DAVID CORY

Uncle Lucky Missing.

"I won't wake up Daddy Longlegs," thought Little Miss Mousie, tiptoeing past the sitting room, where we left that old gentleman insect sound asleep in the last story, you remember, little reader. "There's no reason why he should worry about dear Uncle Lucky being so late. Dear little me, what can have happened? What will I do if Danny Fox has caught dear Uncle Lucky," and the poor anxious little mousie lady took out her pink pocket handkerchief and wiped her eyes. Then tossing back her pretty bobbed hair she bravely ran into the kitchen to look at the biscuits.

"Done to a turn," she cried, taking the pan from the oven. "I hope some good fairy will show Uncle Lucky the way home. Maybe tiny Miss Firefly will light her little lantern and fly ahead to help him over the rough places," and placing the pan of biscuits on the side table, she ran to the window and pushed aside the pretty white curtain. Goodness me, how dark it had grown. She had hardly noticed that night was coming on, for the fire in the shiny kitchen stove lighted the neat little kitchen from one end to the other. Only under the cupboard and behind the broom in the corner were gloomy shadows hiding.

"Quarter past eight, quarter past eight.
Uncle Lucky's dreadfully late,"

all of a sudden went the Tick Tocky Clock.

"Oh, please don't say that," almost sobbed the little mouse housekeeper, searching in her apron pocket for her pinky hanky. "You'll make me cry, and I don't want dear Uncle Lucky to see tears in my eyes. He once said they looked like stars under my yellow straw hat."

"Mrs. Moon is in the sky.
Hungry Hawk is sailing high,
In the forest Danny Fox
Is tippy toeing in his sox.
In the quiet, shady wood
Old Man Weasel hunts for food
Wicked Wolf is also there,
Little people, have a care," cried Old Hooty Tooty Owl from a tree nearby.

Dear, dear, dearest me, where can Uncle Lucky be?" screamed Little Miss Mousie, waking up Daddy Longlegs with a start.

"What's this clatter? What's the matter?" he shouted, jumping out of the old armchair and into the kitchen.

"Uncle Lucky hasn't come home," sobbed Little Miss Mousie. Something dreadful has happened. I know it, I know it," and throwing her apron over her pretty bobbed head, she sat down in the dear old gentleman rabbit's chair and pushing her little feet into his old carpet slipper, she sobbed louder than ever.

"Tick, tick, ticky tock, It's just half after eight o'clock," mournfully ticked the old Grandfather Clock in the dark front hall. And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Otto H. Kahn, the New York financier, who is mentioned as a possible candidate for mayor on a reform republican ticket against John F. Hylan in the next election, is a native of Germany, a former subject of Great Britain, and for 30 years a resident of New York city. His training in Germany in his youth was with his father, a banker of Mannheim. Then he was sent to London, where he entered the local branch of the Deutsche Bank. In 1893 he came to the United States and entered a well known bank with German affiliations and in the course of time he became a partner in the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Much of his fortune was made as the result of his association with E. H. Harriman when the latter was buying and reorganizing railways in the west. Mr. Kahn has been an active promoter of the higher art interests of the United States, especially as a patron of opera, enterprises conducted on a large scale.

CHINESE WERE FIGHTING WITH CARDBOARD BULLETS

Shanghai, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Cardboard bullets, their shells loaded with commonplace Chinese red firecracker powder, intended to produce no effect were more serious than a loud noise, made up a quarter of a million rounds of "ammunition", seized by foreign settlement authorities this afternoon.

Attention of British marines stationed in the Jess field district, west of the International settlement was attracted to two Chinese junks proceeding down a waterway toward the main part of the city. The marines stopped and searched the junks and found the rifle "ammunition" which was at once turned over to the settlement authorities.

Close examination of the bullets revealed the deception. The shells were of one that had been re-loaded. new caps had been put on, but the bullets were made of thin card board. These were made and it was found that the shells exploded loudly but that was all.

Whether the fake ammunition was a common swindle or some carefully planned scheme to mislead the Chinese orders to whom the ammunition was consigned, was not disclosed.

The situation here was unchanged as to-day the more Kiangsu province troops entered the city, making the hold of the central Peking government on the Shanghai gateway even more secure.

OBITUARY

Mrs. William T. Curtin

Mrs. Nora Curtin, 79, widow of William T. Curtin, died late Thursday night at her home in Montville. Mrs. Curtin was born in Ireland, but had resided in Montville the greater part of her life. She is survived by three sons, Thomas A. Mahoney, Flushing, N. Y., Michael Mahoney, Greenville, R. I., and Edward C. Curtin, of Montville. A daughter, Mrs. T. P. Williams of Norwich and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Denison, Hartford, also survive.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Cynthia Allen

Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, funeral services for Cynthia Dart, widow of John Hastings Allen, formerly of Montville, were held at the parlors of Church & Allen, 15 Main street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist church. Relatives and friends were in attendance from New York, New London, Groton and other places.

Burial was in the Allen family plot in Raymond Hill cemetery, Montville, where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Graham. The bearers were Warren N. Allen, of Ledyard, Walter L. Allen of Brooklyn, N. Y., Mrs. Allen's sons, Roscoe Dart of Montville, a nephew, and Christopher G. Allen of Norwich, her grandson.

Among the flowers was a beautiful wreath of roses and carnations from Montville Center Congregational church, a choice spray from Trinity Methodist church, Norwich, and a handsome remembrance of asters in purple, the King's Daughters' colors —from Comfort Circle, Norwich.

The funeral arrangements were in charge of Church & Allen.

MISSION FATHER VISITS EX-SERVICE PATIENTS

When John P. Col. M. L. Walker, for the past three years in charge of maintenance work at the Panama Canal Zone and assistant to Col. Jay J. Morrow, who is to be the new Governor of the Zone, succeeding Colonel Morrow, who has resigned to enter the private engineering field.

DR. ORVILLE A. PETTY OF NEW HAVEN WILL BE ARMISTICE DAY SPEAKER

The general committee in charge of the dedication of the Soldiers' Monument of Armistice Day feel that they have secured one of the best patriotic speakers in the state in the person of Dr. Orville A. Petty of New Haven. Dr. Petty was a chaplain in the army in France and his war experiences over there have particularly fitted him to be the principal speaker at the dedication of our Soldiers' Monument. Norwich is particularly fortunate in securing the acceptance of Dr. Petty, as he ranks very highly among Connecticut speakers and in addition thereto has seen actual service on the front. Dr. Petty was secured through the co-operation of State Commander E. P. Armstrong of The American Legion, now of Waterbury but a native of Norwich who is very much interested in the success of this celebration.

Public subscriptions are still coming to Treasurer Geo. A. Finn which indicate a spirit of enthusiasm among the citizens of Norwich and the fact that the amount of the contributions received, and which have come unsolicited, speaks in no uncertain terms of the enthusiasm with which the citizens are entering into this patriotic event. The additional contributions received since the last list published two days ago are as follows: John T. Barry, Irving E. Bogue Co., C. E. Carpenter, H. F. Dawley, R. B. Day, Guy B. Dolbeare, Geo. E. Fellows, Franklin Press, Inc.; Josiah Greenstein, Edwin Hill, C. P. Learned, Geo. Linton, Dr. K. K. Mrakoff, Quinn & Desmond, Abner Schwartz, C. I. Smith, F. Russell Smith, Vincent Stranz, Wm. C. Young.

Treasurer Finn will be pleased to receive any contributions by cash or by check from any public spirited citizen who desires to help along the public subscription in order to defray the necessary expenses incidental to an event of this kind and magnitude.

FLETCHER POST AIMING FOR 100 PER CENT. TURNOUT

A turnout 100 per cent. strong is the aim of R. O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion in connection with their appearance in the Armistice Day parade November 11th. The members of the Post will appear in regulation American Legion caps as a sufficient supply for all the members of the Post has been ordered. In addition 100 caps have been ordered for the use of ex-service men who wish to appear in the parade and these will be distributed to those who apply, free of charge. These caps are intended for ex-service men who do not hold membership in the Legion as it is expected that by November 11th all the Legion men will have regulation caps of their own.

There was a good sized attendance at the meeting of the Post Friday evening with Commander Herman A. Bruckner in the chair and the principal matter of discussion was the programme for Armistice Day. Announcement was made that automobile transportation will be provided for all disabled ex-service men who are unable to march and who desire to participate in the parade. Disabled ex-service men who wish to be provided for in this way should send their names to Harry W. House who has this matter in charge, so that the committee will know how many machines to secure for this purpose.

THREE LIQUOR ARRESTS IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 17.—County, prohibition and local police officers conducted a series of liquor raids here late tonight. As the result three arrests were made, each of the accused being charged with actual sale. All were held in bonds of $750 for their appearance in the police court Saturday morning. Two of the arrests were made on information supplied by alleged stoolpigeons who claim that they obtained liquor at the places. County Detective William Lewis, Prohibition Enforcement Agents Joseph Fitzpatrick and Harry Avery, Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman John Sullivan and Augustus Ray, armed with warrants, visited the places of John Gentilella, a Bank street fruit dealer, where it was claimed that he had sold liquor to two stool pigeons. Gentilella was taken into custody but was shortly released when his brother, Joseph Gentilella, qualified as surety on his bonds. No liquor was found in the place. Gentilella has been arrested several times for liquor law violations. The raiding squad then visited the residence of Edward Kaiki, Sixteenth street, against which place information had been filed with the authorities, that liquor had been purchased there. Search of the house failed to reveal any liquor. A sleeping room was visited by the officers and there Mrs. Kaiki and two children were found in bed. Mrs. Kaiki was observed to be wearing her house clothes. She was ordered to get out of bed but refused to do so, claiming that she was ill. When the officers finally removed the outer covering of the bed it was revealed that Mrs. Kaiki had the liquor, in a gallon container in bed with her. Kaiki was arrested and, being unable to furnish a bond, was locked up. The liquor was seized, together with a quantity of coloring and a variety of empty bottles as evidence.

The third place raided was the residence of Amelia Delpra, Smith street. Actual sale is alleged against Mrs. Delpra and she was taken into custody but released when she obtained a surety on her bond in Tony Menghi. The arrest of Mrs. Delpra resulted, when Patrolman John Sullivan was on duty on Hamilton street to find out who has been destroying electric lights at the Hamilton street bridge of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. While standing in the dark, Sullivan observed two youths throwing missiles at the light. He placed them under arrest and at the police station their identity was revealed, being Herbert Maynard, 22 Viets street, and J. R. Dardis, Station 7, Waterford. When searched two soda bottles, partially filled with hooch, were found on Maynard. Upon being questioned Maynard admitted obtaining the liquor at the Delpra place. The officers then visited the Delpra house and placed the woman under arrest. Maynard and Dardis were locked up, being held as witnesses.

MUST PAY $195 IN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS

In the divorce suit of Linwood Massey, chief petty officer attached to the submarine base, against Catherine Ley Massey of New Haven, motion for alimony pendente lite in the amount of $20 per week, payable semi-monthly, was granted by Judge Leonard J. Nickerson in the short calendar session of the superior court in New London Friday. First payment is to be made in one week, and thereafter at the end of each two weeks. On the motion for allowance to defend, $50 was granted, payable in the sum of $25 in 30 days and $25 at the time of trial.

In the case of James D. Robertson vs. Catherine Sawyer Robertson for an order that he be adjudged in contempt of court, it was ordered that $195 due to Oct. 4, 1924, be paid in 24 hours or an order entered.

CAUGHT FOR VANDALISM IN BEAN HILL SCHOOL

Four Norwich Town boys, the oldest about 20 and three of them about 12 years old, were brought to police headquarters Friday night by Constable Lucius Fenton and are charged with vandalism in breaking into the Bean Hill school house on the night before the Fourth of July and damaging school property.

FOURTH OF JULY BABY NAMED AFTER PRESIDENT

Francis Joseph Paquette and his wife, Mary Louise Hunt Paquette, of 635 North Main street have a proud possession to hand down to their fourth child, a boy, who was born on the Fourth of July, this year, and whom they named Calvin John Coolidge Paquette.

Recently Mr. Paquette wrote President Coolidge of the names that had been bestowed upon the baby boy and in reply received the following letter from the White House, which will be treasured to give to the boy when he will appreciate it:

Calvin John Coolidge Paquette—Born July 4, 1924

The White House
Washington
Oct. 13, 1924.

My dear Mr. Paquette:

The President appreciates most deeply the compliment which you have paid to him in the selection of a name for your son, and he asks me to convey to you his very best wishes for the welfare and happiness of his little namesake.

Sincerely yours,
C. B. Slemp,
Secretary to The President.

NORWICH DELEGATION AT SENATOR BRANDEGEE'S FUN

As a mark of respect from the Norwich Chamber of Commerce to Senator Frank B. Brandegee, a representation was present at the funeral services Friday afternoon in St. James church, New London. Senator Brandegee was actively interested in the proposed development of the Thames river channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich and he left no act undone that would not further this development. This community suffers a distinct loss in the death of Senator Brandegee. The Norwich delegation in attendance at the funeral was President H. M. Leron, C. A. Laxton, Lucius Briggs, C. A. Taggart, E. LaRue Blisen, James L. Case, G. A. Finn and John J. Bourke. Through the courtesy of City Manager Holt of New London, reservations were made in the church for the delegation.

WHITE ROCK BOY MAY LOSE ONE EYE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Oct. 17.—John Donahue, 2 years old, son of John Donahue of Main street, White Rock, Friday afternoon at 3.15 o'clock, struck with an axe a glass bottle in the yard. A piece of the broken glass flew up, cutting his left eye so badly that a good sized piece of the iris hung out. Dr. M. H. Scanlon was called and took the boy to Dr. Granolds in the Washington Trust block, where he was placed under ether for an operation. So bad was the cut that the boy was taken to the Backus hospital, Norwich, for an X-ray as it was feared some of the glass still remained in his eye. Little hope is felt that the sight of the eye can be saved.

FOUR DIRECTORS ELECTED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The final election for four directors of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce closed at 6 o'clock Friday night. The result of the voting of two hundred members showed the election of the following members to serve as directors for two years: G. A. Finn, J. M. Lee, H. A. Tirrell, A. M. Van Wagenen. Two hundred ballots were cast, each ballot voting on four directors. There were thirty-six blanks.

The election tellers were: J. H. Leseman, W. F. Shaw, H. M. Opitz, C. J. Hoefer, W. R. Dean, J. A. French, W. H. Aldrich, J. S. Adams, W. S. Moon, J. J. O'Rourke.

MISSION FOR THE BABIES OF ST. PATRICK'S PARISH

The three mission Fathers of the Congregation of the Holy Ghost are to finish their two weeks' labors in St. Patrick's church Sunday evening, but before they go they have invited the mothers of the parish to bring their babies to the church, that they, too, may participate in the spiritual graces and benefits of the mission. It is expected that between two and three hundred children will be in the congregation assembled for the services at 3:30, Sunday afternoon. The Fathers will give an instruction to the assembled mothers and the babies will be blessed. This is always an interesting feature of every mission.

During Friday, the Fathers continued their work, Father O'Brien preaching the brief sermon at the early morning mass at 8, his theme, The Sin of Anger, from the Fifth Commandment. At 8 o'clock, Father Hartnett continued the instruction on this commandment. Friday evenings, Father O'Loughlin told the assembled men a little about what the Holy Ghost Order, with headquarters at Philadelphia and Connecticut novitiate at Ridgefield, is doing in the African mission field. In that vast country, 600 priests are laboring in Central Africa, among a population of 28,000,000. The seventeen Catholic bishops on the field do a stupendous work, one, Bishop Shanahan, of Lygeria, having a diocese as big as the state of New York, with 200,000 in his class receiving instruction for baptism. It is to arouse interest in these missions and to furnish young priests who will volunteer for the mission work, that the Fathers devote their efforts.

Friday evening's sermon by Father O'Brien was on Confession. Today (Saturday) at 5 and 8 there will be talks on the Holy Name and in the evening a short devotional sermon, so as to permit extra time for the hearing of confessions. The men will end their mission with the great service of Sunday evening.

The men's chorus choir did exceptionally fine work Friday night, directed by Organist Frank L. Farrell. The ushers were John P. Corcoran, William J. McKnight, John Wozniak and Thaddeus Leahy.

WIFE OF NORWICH CHINAMAN ADMITTED

Boston, Oct. 17—Chinese wives of American citizens have the right to enter the United States, Judge James A. Lowell ruled in the United States district court today in vacating a detention and deportation order issued against the Chinese bride brought to America by Ng Lim, Norwich, Conn., merchant. Lim, born in the United States, recently went to China and brought back Chiu Shee as his wife. He was admitted at once upon arrival but the young wife was detained and later ordered deported.

Judge Lowell held that the new immigration act of 1924, under which the authorities here barred the woman, does not bar the wife of any American citizen, just because that citizen is of Chinese extraction. Mrs. Lim was accordingly ordered admitted.

This was the first time that the issue has been judiciary determined, it was said today, and the decision will affect many thousands of Chinese in all parts of the United States.

It was learned here Friday night that Ng Lim is connected with the Chinese laundry on Bath Street.

LUNCHEON MAKES PLEASANT BEGINNING OF SEASON

The luncheon of the Federation of Women of Park church, Friday afternoon, at Osgood Memorial was well attended and was a very pleasant beginning for the year's work. After the luncheon the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and Miss Louise C. Howe gave an account of how different members had earned their contribution for the budget of the year. From the report of Mrs. John Blackmar, of a picnic last summer to which the gentlemen gave the funds and the ladies the food, they must have had a merry time. Mrs. Blackmar wrote in such a happy vein those unfortunates who were out of town and so could not join felt they had missed the best way of earning their share.

Several songs suggested by what the speakers said added to the pleasure of the meeting.

The gifts to Eben Learned and to Mrs. Arthur E. Story, an appreciation of their many years of service, were shown. Mrs. Story has recently resigned after 20 years' connection with the choir, in all of which long time there were only three Sundays when she was not present, a most remarkable record.

The officers were glad to see several new members and welcome them to the ranks of those who have for so long worked together devotedly for the various activities of the church.

RADIANT CHAPTER, O. E. S. NOTES GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Oct. 17—The 50th anniversary of Radiant Chapter, No. 11, Order of Eastern Star, was observed Friday evening, at Masonic hall, on Main street with a turkey dinner and reception. The repast was spread in the woman's club room and was served at 6 o'clock. About 300 covers were laid.

Worthy Patron James Reynolds Bee be delivered an address of welcome to the past matrons and past patrons of the order, who occupied honorary chairs. Among orther prominent members were Mrs. Caroline E. Billings, past matron and chapter member, and Edward E. Avery, past patron. The reception was at 7 o'clock with a special meeting at 6.30 and initiation of six candidates. The chairs were filled by the past matrons and past patrons.

Following the meeting each past officer was presented a jewel of the order. The history of Radiant Chapter was read in interesting manner by Associate Matron Miss Marion E. Ellsworth. A fine entertainment program was then carried out as follows:

Soprano solo, Mrs. Mabel Brooks; selection, Temple Male quartette, reading, Mrs. Clara H. Beebe; violin solo, G. Raymond Young; reading, Mrs. Clara H. Beebe and selection, Temple quartette.

WORLD WIDE GUILD ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

The World Wide Guild of the Central Baptist church held its first meeting for the season Friday evening following the woman's banquet in which they participated. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Laura Shields; vice president, Leonora Chapman; secretary, Susie Hargreaves; treasurer, Helen Denison; program committee, Dorothy Gildersleeve; publicity, Ruth Ballou; membership, Mary Peckham; social committee Florence Bushnell; white cross, Unabelle Harbeck; song leader, Amie March.

Fifth Birthday Party

A pretty party for the fifth birthday of her daughter, Ruth Evelyn, was given Friday afternoon by Mrs. Harry N. Howard of Peck street, when five little friends were guests, William and Phyllis Anderson, Harry and Kathleen Chapman and Ethel Muller.

Hallowe'en favors, caps and games and dainty refreshments were provided for the children, whose mothers assisted Mrs. Howard during the afternoon.

He Took His Encore

It was little Ruth's first visit to the farm. She was watching a meadow lark in an adjoining field and listening to his song. In a little while she entered the house and told her aunt about it. "He wasn't a bit afraid," she said, "he just looked at me and then turned round and sang another verse."—Boston Transcript.

ACADEMY AND WESTERLY BATTLE TO SCORELESS TIE ON FOOTBALL FIELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, R. I., Oct. 17.—Surging back and forth for a solid hour of playing time the Norwich Academy and the Westerly High gridiron warriors battled to a scoreless tie. Two more evenly matched teams it would be hard to find and a better battle has seldom been seen on a gridiron in this section of the state. Neither team had the advantage either on the defense or on the offense, and the play was confined mostly to midfield.

The game summed up was a battle of Hinricks versus Meikle, Hinricks being the only one on the Academy team to gain ground and Meikle the only player for Westerly. Hinricks was the individual star of the game, his end runs and line plays gaining first down for the Academy several times. On the defense Hinricks played a brilliant game and smothered a number of plays before they were fairly started. The Academy line showed marked improvement over last week, Marty Gilman, Charlie Hagberg and Lukowski breaking through repeatedly and throwing the Westerly runners in their tracks. Carlin, right end for Norwich played a brilliant game although completely covered by the Westerly interference.

The nearest approach to the goal line for either team was ten yards when in the second quarter Hinricks got a forward pass and ran 17 yards before he was downed. The Academy was held for downs and Westerly punted to midfield and the half ended. In the last few minutes of play a fumble by Westerly lost them the ball on their 9 yard line. Here the Academy had a chance to score but passed it up.

With the ball directly in front of the goal and less than two minutes to play the Academy elected to rush the ball rather than try to drop-kick with the result that on the fourth down the ball was far to one side and at an almost impossible angle to kick. Hinricks attempted to kick however, but missed, the game ending a few minutes later.

The Game by Quarters

The first quarter was marked by an exchange of punts, the Academy having the slight advantage. Meikle kicked to Covey and the Academy was held to downs and forced to kick. Westerly made first down and was then forced to kick. The play see-sawed back and forth this way during the greater part of the quarter which ended with the ball in the Academy's possession in midfield.

Hinricks started the second quarter with a 15-yard run and Turco of Westerly was injured and Ledwidge took his place at right half. Westerly held the Academy to downs and took possession of the ball. Westerly in their turn was forced to kick. On the first play, a forward pass, Williams to Hinricks netted 15 yards and another play put the Academy on Westerly's ten yard line. The ball was in excellent position but the Academy was held, the Westerly defense completely smothering Hinricks. Westerly punted out of danger and at the end of the half found both teams struggling in midfield.

Hinricks opened the third quarter by kicking to Westerly on their 20 yard line and the runner was down in his tracks. Unable to gain Westerly punted to midfield. Academy was held and forced to punt. Westerly ran the punt back a few yards but were unable to gain and again punted. The Academy made two first downs and after being held for three downs on the 15 yard line Hinricks attempted to drop kick which fell short. The ball was put into play on the 20 yard line and Westerly was forced to punt. The quarter ended with the ball in midfield.

The final quarter was a repetition of the other three with the exception of the last few minutes of play. On a fourth down Westerly made a bad pass and the ball bounded to their 20 yard line where they lost it. Here the Academy attempted to drive the ball through the line but to no avail. With the ball in front of the goal on the second down the Academy elected to try an end run which placed the ball near the sidelines. Hinricks attempted a kick but failed and the game ended. Norwich vs. Jewett City

Football fans visiting Slater field, Jewett City, on Sunday afternoon will witness the first game of a two out of three series between the proverbial rivals, Norwich and Jewett City.

The Nutmegs of Norwich presenting one of the strongest lineups ever seen in Eastern Connecticut will go against the fast and as yet unbeaten Speedboys of Jewett City. Both teams will have the strongest lineups possible and the public is assured of one of the fastest games ever played in Eastern Connecticut.

The Speedboys have a lineup composed of some of the best players in and around Jewett City. At left end will be Eickelberg a fast and well known player, Guilette and Stanley play left tackle and guard and Harris a star athlete of Jewett City at center. On the right side of the line will be Ambot and Jizzy at guard and tackle and Barry on end. Parkurst and Sawicki both recognized by local fans as fine players will be at quarter and left half respectively. Kadudu at right half is one of the best backfield men Jewett City has ever had, while Jaskewis at full is beyond doubt a fine player.

For the Nutmegs DeRusha, former star of the Norwich All Stars will be at left end, Brown a promising young player will be at tackle and either Fidell or Frink both well known athlete will be at guard. Spotten will play center. On the right side of the line is Dixon, known as the "Fiery Demon", at guard, Brush a former Crescent club player at tackle and either Savage or Burdick also Crescent club men at end. The backfield composed of seasoned players consits of Williams at quarter, Capt. MacLaren at left and Tom Spivery, one of Eastern Connecticut best players at right halfback. Kirk Wilcox well known locally, is at full.

Both teams expect the full support of the local sporting public and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of fans from the Rose City to encourage the team that is representing their city on the football field. For all those who want to see the game there will be a car leaving Franklin square at 1:45 P. M. Sunday afternoon and a car returning from Jewett City at five p. m. The kick-off will be at three o'clock sharp.

NEITHER JONES NOR HAWLEY CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

New Haven, Oct. 17.—Both Yale and Dartmouth elevens on the eve of their first contest in a quarter of a century, affirmed skepticism tonight as to the outcome of the combat in the bowl tomorrow afternoon, which will be attended, it is estimated, by a crowd of 60,000, the largest number ever to see such an early season game.

Dartmouth's squad arrived in New Haven early this morning and this afternoon were given the use of the bowl. Later in the day the Ellis went into the giant saucer for a few minutes of signal drill and kicking practice.

Neither Coach T. A. D. Jones, of the Blue eleven nor Jess Hawley of the Green and White are at all confident of the powers of their charges. Jones has nothing to say and Hawley is slightly more communicative. At the bowl this afternoon he said that he did not regard the chances of a White Indian victory too highly, since his team has but few veterans on it, is green and inexperienced and has had little opposition so far this year.

Both teams are in excellent shape for their first hard test of the season. Smith, left guard on the New Hampshire team, who up until two days ago was unable to practice, will start the game fully recovered from his injury, while Kline, second string Yale back who was on the hospital list the first of the week, will be ready to go in tomorrow if necessary.

CHAPMAN TECH TO PLAY AT KILLINGLY TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 17—Chapman Tech will make its first invasion of teams up the river, when the local eleven fresh from its victory over Norwich Free Academy will invade Danielson where the Killingly High school outfit will be met. Nearly three complete teams will make the trip by automobile to the homing grounds of the Killingly eleven. After a week spent in perfecting the over head attack, the Red and Black will it is expected gain its third straight victory.

Expecting both Courbois and Kanneberg back in the lineup, Chapman Tech will present its strongest possible lineup.

Bulkeley Inter-Class Meet

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 17.—With the versatile Norbet Le Blanc leading the junior parade in sweeping almost everything in their way, the third year men were declared the winner in the first inter-class track meet held at Bulkeley school for a period of over two years. Carrying the bulk of events by excelling the rival classes in most of all the running events, the juniors got off to a good start early in the meet and were easily the winners when the final total scores were tabulated. The outcome of the meet was juniors 33, sophomores 25, seniors 24 and freshmen 0.

CHAMPIONSHIP MOOSUP TEAM WILL END SEASON AGAINST WEBSTER SUNDAY

For the last game of the season Webster will be on deck at the Carpet grounds next Sunday with a team which is expected to give Moosup a hard rub. The Webster outfit have a lot of confidence and Mgr. Karabash of the Webster nine phoned Mgr. Loughran last Sunday after their game with Holy Cross, broadcasting Webster's victory over the purple nine by a big score of 11 to 3. Mgr. Karabash wishes it stated that he will guarantee every player who played against Holy Cross last Sunday to take the field against the Moosup champs here Sunday, October 19. Play guaranteed to start at 2:30.

Karabash gives his lineup: They are "Shorty" Faulkner of the Cincinnati Reds, as, this bird played with O'Leary's Norwich club last season; F. Lonergan of Webster, 2nd; "Hal" Couillard of Blackstone, 1st; Ashworth of the Sacred Hearts of Woonsocket will catch; "Dick" Fagan of St. Andrews Boston Twilight league will pitch; Daoust of Blackstone will take 3rd, he has also played for O. Leary; "Tom" Dwyer, rf; Douglass, recruit outfielder for the New York Giants, lf; Staroata, cf; J. Lonergan, Karabash and Duse, utility; McLeod utility pitcher. This will be one of the toughest lineups that Moosup has faced this season as Webster has a victory over Moosup this season by a 6 to 3 score and another point is that Moosup hasn't defeated Webster in 9 long years. Bitter rivalry and keen interest results. Can Moosup do the trick? Mgr. Loughran says that he is going to wind up the season right and is depending upon every one of his faithful players to help send Webster home the same route Willimantic had to take.

"Tony" West the Baltimore Ace, will be given the pitching burden and "Bill" Liberty of Jewett City will catch. "Chick" Davis, the reliable grand old man of the Moosup champs will be already to fire them over.

Allard, who is showing the strain of the football season, will also be available to catch if Liberty should get injured. Good work is expected of Allard next season behind the plate. "Artie" Couillard will be on 1st. "Capt." Eddie Burns, 2nd. Faber of the Baltimore Orioles will cover ss; Sank of Fredericksburg, Pa., 3rd; "Jack" Clabby, the Norwich boy and the property of Allentown, Pa. under "Silent John" Hummel, the "Babe Ruth" of his league will roam about in lf; Harry Mills, cf; "Joey" Kendricks, rf; Strike, utility.

A record breaking crowd is expected.

MANY PROMINENT GRID BATTLES SLATED FOR TODAY

New York, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.) Football will come into its own on eastern gridirons tomorrow with an array of games attracting not only exceptional interest but having a vital bearing on championship hopes of many outstanding elevens.

Seldom has this stage of the season witnessed a schedule including such notable battles as those between Yale and Dartmouth at New Haven, Harvard and Holy Cross at Cambridge, Army and Notre Dame at the Polo Grounds, Princeton and Navy at Palmer stadium, and Pennsylvania and Columbia at Philadelphia.

These five attractions alone, it is estimated, will attract throngs of probably a quarter of a million, while close to 500,000 altogether will witness the East's program, which also includes many other promising skirmishes.

Chief interest apparently is centered in the renewal of the Notre Dame-Army feud, which promises one of the closest and most sensational encounters there rivals have staged, and the battle at the Yale bowl, where close to 60,000 may see the Bulldog's attempt to check the powerful Dartmouth eleven.

Notre Dame, which has won seven of its ten encounters with the Army, brings a veteran, versatile combination to the annual field of battle. The Cadets, also have an experienced eleven, and seem to have added much needed speed to their attack with the addition of Harry Wilson, former Penn State ace, and return to form of "Tin" Hewitt, ex-Pittsburg battering arm. Notre Dame is a slight favorite among critics but the West Pointers have an excellent chance to triumph over their rivals for the first time since 1916.

Yale, minus most of the sensational cogs of her unbeaten 1923 eleven faces a formidable antagonist in the Green outfit. Dartmouth has been mopping up early season opponents and tuning its offensive for a big drive against the Blue, which barely defeated Georgia last Saturday, 7 to 6.

Then, too, Dartmouth has an old score to settle. These two have not met since 1900. But in seven games they played up to that time the Green was unmercifully walloped, failing to score a point in any of three contests and losing the first one played exactly forty years ago, by 113 to 0.

While Yale goes into this fray with at least an even chance of keeping her slate clean, Cornell, which shared the eastern heights with the Elis last season, will face Rutgers at Ithaca in an attempt to pick up the threads of victory which were broken sensationally by Williams last Saturday. Stopped after winning 26 straight games in four seasons, Dobie's Ithacans are favored to conquer Rutgers.

Harvard, giving indications of old-time Crimson supremacy, meets a seasoned foe in Holy Cross but should triumph on the basis of early form, while the other member of the "Big Three," Princeton, is favored to take the measure of the navy. The latter contest may be closely contested but it lost much of its original significance because the Rigers were held to a scoreless tie last week by Lehigh while the Navy was trounced by Marquette.

Columbia, showing steady improvement under Percy Haughton's guidance, goes to Philadelphia with the best chance the Blue and White has had in years to battle on close to even terms and possibly defeat Pennsylvania.

Washington and Jefferson opposes Carnegie Tech at Washington, Pa., while LaFollette, already sharing up among the best in the East, takes on Bucknell at Lewisburg, Pa. West Virginia faces a comparatively easy antagonist in Geneva, while Pittsburgh, which conquered the Mountaineers last Saturday, invades Baltimore to meet Johns Hopkins.

Amherst meets Wesleyan at Middletown, Conn., in the first of the "Little Three" series, while Brown opposes Boston University at Providence and Vermont tackles Springfield in other New England attractions.

Boston College goes out of its territory for what promises to be an interesting tussle with Syracuse, a game which holds a good share of up-state interest while Colgate invades the middle west to meet Nebraska in one of the outstanding intersectional contests of the day.

BULKELEY PLAYS NAUGATUCK AT NEW LONDON TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 17—Smarting under a 19 to 6 defeat administered Bulkeley last season at Naugatuck, the Bulkeley football eleven minus several of its star gridsters will entertain the Naugatuck High school bulky aggregation at Morgan Park Saturday afternoon. Bulkeley will do everything in her power to make the trip a most pleasant one from a social stand point of view, but when the teams line up on the gridiron ready for the whistle to open hostilities, there will be no love lost between the two teams.

Expecting to use the same effective tactics which scored the Orange and Black their first victory of the season, Bulkeley will attempt to assume the offensive from the first whistle and continue until the game is safely tucked away under the winning side of the column. It will be a noteworthy achievement for the locals to overcome a team which will outweigh every man on the team from ten to twenty pounds. But being a fast and aggressive eleven, the Bulkeley machine may over-come this enormous handicap and add new laurels to its list of achievements.

Three first string players will be absent from the regular lineup and there is a possibility that, Daniels' injuries making the fourth will not allow him to participate in this contest. The three regulars who besides Daniels will not be seen on the field of battle, include Joe Barry, fullback, James Latham end, and Bill Booth guard. Both Barry and Latham are out of the game with broken bones in their legs, while Booth is out with a fractured face.

HIRAM PERCY MAXIM, President of the Maxim Silencer Company, says: "The Lanchester Balancer certainly takes out the vibration. It makes the motor smoother than most six and eight-cylinders on the road today."

No Vibration

Ever since automobiles have been built, engineers have been everlastingly striving to conquer engine vibration. Now the new Willys-Knight achieves positive engine smoothness by a device so simple and efficient that all engineers are wondering why it wasn't invented years ago. . . .

The Lanchester Balancer . . . the discovery of Dr. F. W. Lanchester, F. R. S., builder of one of the most expensive motor cars in Great Britain. By securing the United States rights for the use of this remarkable invention, Willys-Knight introduces in America an entirely new conception of enjoyable motoring.

This is still another triumph for a car already famous for its engine. The Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine actually improves with use. Never needs valve-grinding. Never needs carbon-cleaning. Owners report 50,000 miles and more without an engine adjustment.

Everybody is talking about Willys-Knight's vibrationless performance—and everybody who rides talks of the thrill of it. If only for the sake of a new experience, drive a Willys-Knight over the road today at all speeds.

MUCH INTEREST IN ATHLETIC TOURNEY AT "Y"

An exciting athletic tournament that is now going on among the young men and boys in the local "Y" gym is a contest known as the "Y" Olympic games. There are twelve teams, representing various countries, which will cover a period of five weeks. At the close of the games the high point scorers in each division will be announced as being the all round athletic champions of the local association and suitable awards presented. A handsome trophy cup has been contributed by Mr. Lee Clegg, the Franklin street jeweler, and which will be presented to the athlete scoring the most points.

Belgium	239 Points
Canada	215 Points
France	169 Points
Holland	91 Points

Individual winners in events:

Standing broad jump, W. Krohn; S. DeRusha, 8 feet 2 inches; E. Gelb, 8 feet 1 inch. Chinning bar, J. Falcone 19 times, F. Barber, DeRusha, Angelopolis 15. Basketball shooting, J. Falcone, A. Bruaman, G. Attaviano tied for 1st. Canada won from Belgium and France beat Holland in volleyball.

PLAINFIELD CLASHES WITH STONINGTON HIGH TODAY

The Plainfield High football squad will entertain the Stonington High football team this Saturday afternoon at the Carpet Grounds in Moosup. Fresh from her 25 to 7 victory over Putnam High last week the Plainfield team have been working hard on new plays under the direction of Athletic Coach Emery who has proved himself a very able man at the helm of the Plainfield squad.

The team is made up of mostly new material as it was hard hit by graduation in June. Captain Gallup and Allard are at their same positions in the backfield, they being helped out by Maggia, a recruit at half and two other new men, Dodd and Mercier. The line is very well balanced with five veterans of last year's squad, the line being Tyler and Wallace ends, Zuinglas, and LaFarve, tackles; Svannen and Skoradowsky, guards and Hutchinson center. This is a team that any high school might well be proud of as they are hard tacklers and the backfield is fast and powerful.

Plainfield's motto this year is "The bigger they are the harder they fall," The Plainfield boys are eager for today's whistle which will send them into the fray.

MUCH INTEREST IN PRINCETON-NAVY GAME

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 17.—Princeton tonight knew nothing but football. The Tiger-Navy tilt in Palmer Stadium tomorrow afternoon was the subject everywhere.

Never before in the history of Orange and Black football has an early season game commanded such interest, and only on nights preceding "Big Three" contests has the hustle of visitors been excelled.

The Navy team quartered in Trenton for the night, will make the 12-mile trip to Princeton tomorrow morning in automobiles. Shortly before noon upper classmen from Annapolis will arrive in special trains.

The Tiger eleven was virtually idle today. Members of the squad merely went through a light signal drill on University Field after which they were lectured by Coach "Bill" Roper.

Tonight Roper sprung a surprise when he announced that Captain "Buzz" Stout tomorrow will see the game from the sidelines. Indications were, however, that he would see action if the Tiger defense crumbled. Charley Caldwell will act in Stout's place as field general and will call the plays in the "huddle." Legendre will be at Stout's berth at right end, with Hills his running mate.

DONOVAN AND FABER RENEW BATTLE TODAY

The Riverview club of the Norwich State hospital will play the Jewett City club this afternoon on the hospital grounds. Joe Faber is not very well satisfied with the outcome of last Satuday's 16 inning game and states that he is out to win tomorrow. Joe says "Give me a pitcher, catcher and first baseman and I can defeat the Riverview club." This afternoon he will have Bill Liberty catching, Spike Liberty pitching and a first baseman of no mean ability. Now that Joe has these requisites it will be a treat for the baseball fans to journey to the hospital and watch the performance. The Riverview club will put on its regular lineup with Belair and West in the points. Couillard will play at 1st base and the rest of the infield will be taken care of by "Eddie" Burns 2b, Mills ss, "Jack" Sank 3b. The outfield will have Laffey in left and Jack Clabby in center and Ray in right. Clabby gave a demonstration of his hitting ability in Moosup last Sunday when he drove out four hits for 12 bases. This evening when the sun is slowly sinking behind the hills bordering the historic Thames, Joey Faber will be consoling his playmates from Jewett City murmuring those old familiar words "Why didn't I leave well enough alone."

The game this afternoon will start at 2:00 p. m. sharp and Hank Moran will officiate.

WESTERN CONFERENCE GAME OF IMPORTANCE TODAY

Chicago, Oct. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Illinois and Michigan with the 1923 western conference gridiron championship shared between them, meet tomorrow at Urbana, to dedicate Illinois new $1,700,000 stadium in the outstanding game of the 1924 season in the west. Seats have been sold for a record breaking crowd of 67,000 spectators.

The gridiron rivals went through their first conference schedules last season without a defeat, finishing in a deadlock for the title. Partisans of each claimed superiority for their teams, and tomorrow's game will go a long way toward determining the 1923 puzzles.

The Wolverines will be without the services of Harry Kipke, all-American halfback; Jack Blott, who was similarly honored from Center, and Muirhead, and Uteritz. Illinois, however, will send a team of veterans into the field, with two exceptions—McMillen, guard, and Green, center.

The forward passing of "Red" Grange, all-American star of 1923, won the Inninois opening tilt with Nebraska, and this famous player displayed enough of his last year's form against Butler a week ago to enable Illinois to win handily. Michigan's big problem will be to stop Grange tomorrow, a task that was too much for every Illinois opponent last season.

EPINARD WILL BE FAVORITE IN TODAY'S RACE

Laurel, Md., Oct. 17.—Epinard, Pierre Wertheimer's famous four year old, is expected to be installed a heavy favorite in the $10,000 Laurel stakes, to be run over the mile route as the feature of tomorrow's card here.

The French thoroughbred is considered to have been given much the best of the weight arrangements, with only 116 pounds, and will have Clarence Kummer, one of the country's best riders, in the saddle. Wise Counselor, Frederick Burton's star, and in the eyes of the turf followers Epinard's most dangerous opponent, has been assigned 120 pounds.

Nine horses have been named to meet Epinard, including such bright lights as My Play, brother of Man O' War; A. H. Morris' Rustic; Donaghee owned by J. W. Bean and J. E. Griffith's Single Foot.

Ladkin, August Belmont's crack who has scored one victory over Epinard, was withdrawn after developing a sore foot.

The Glen Riddle Farm's Big Blaze had drawn the rail position in the Laurel race. My Plan is in second place, Wise Counsellor sixth, Epinard, eighth, with Donaghee on the outside.

Epinard's owner arrived at the track, today, and saw the colt work out over five-eighths of a mile, Trainer Leigh declared his charge was in splendid shape.

Sub Base at Hartford Sunday

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 17.—Final preparations have been made to carry along a large number of routes to Hartford along with the regular Submarine Base football team which will leave early Sunday morning from the head of State street by bus. A confident sailor team will leave the Whaling city to bring back the scalp of a team which will give the local gobs plenty of fight throughout. The Hartford West Sides anticipating a hard game from the gobs have made every precaution to insure a victory for it will mean much in the end when the tabulation of the Professional teams records of the past season are made to determine which team or teams have a claim to the top-most honors in the Nutmeg state.

After a week of devoted application to the new plays which will be used by the Base in this game, the Base staff of coaches feel confident that the Base will give a good account of themselves on Sunday.

A Challenge

The Y. M. C. A. senior gym class would like to challenge the Taftville Maennerchor seniors to an athletic-gymnastic meet to be held either in Taftville or in Norwich. "The Y'ers" competed against the Maennerchors last winter but lost a tied contest through failure of one of the "Y'ers" to properly touch his man in the relay which resulted in the Maennerchors being determined the victors.

At Lawrence, Kansas: Haskell Indians 28; Midland College 0.

Austin College, 20; Henderson-Browne 13.

At Jackson Miss.: Mississippi College 14; Millsaps 0.

SPORTING NOTES

It will be interesting to see how Bowdoin, Bates and Colby, the New England institutions of learning, making their debut under the freshman rule, fare this season in foot ball.

There were 378 home runs made in the American League in 1923 and 441 in 1922. In the National League 475 home runs were knocked out in 1923 and 538 in 1922.

The spitball will be passe in the major league in about five years. Only seven pitchers remain, and some of them are fast slipping. Shocker, Grimes Faber and Coveleskie are the outsanding stars using the spitball.

Coach Joe Wright's contract as rowing instructor of the University of Pennsylvania will expire with the conclusion of the 1924-5 season at Poughkeepsie in June, next. He with Jim Rice, as assistant, had a fine season this year.

WESTERLY

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Snyder returned to Westerly Thursday evening from a vacation which included visits in New York City, New Jersey and South Manchester.

William Segar was a business visitor in Boston Friday.

Mrs. R. H. Farnham, Mrs. M. L. Scott, Mrs. A. M. Nash and Mrs. F. Farnsworth, were automobile visitors in New London Thursday afternoon, when they witnessed the Knights Templar parade.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harrison of Lynn, Mass., were the guests during the past week of friends in Westerly.

Max Raithel of Westerly and James McGarvie of Pawcatuck were mighty hunters Thursday in the wilds of North Stonington and returned with one bird between them.

Mrs. Edna Mackolleny and Mrs. Finley of Carolina, R. I., were business visitors in Westerly Friday morning.

Mrs. William Segar and Mrs. Harry Milner of Westerly were automobile visitors in Ledyard Thursday. ... they visited the famous large ... trees, stopping in New London on ... return to witness the Knights ... plar parade.

Ello R. Clark and Robert H. Farnum were automobile visitors the past week in Alton and Wood River Junction.

The over 100 Westerly Knights Templars who visited New London Thursday night were loud in praise of the hospitality shown them. At the banquet in the state armory Waldo E. Hark mayor of New London, was one of the speakers who told the Westerly delegation that his early interests were in Washington county as he was born in Ashaway.

No cases were tried Friday morning in the regular session of the Third district court and Judge Michael J. Isaacs did not appear in the court room. Clerk N. Walter Flynn, Jr., read the following docket:

... Watt Beach Soap company vs. Barber and Reynolds. Continued one week.

Civil docket, E. A. Sweet vs. Dan... Jackson. Motion was made for proof of claim and judgment was entered for $141.95 and cost of suit.

Court Officer Fred T. Mitchell adjourned after a ten minutes' session.

The Westerly Fire Department was called out twice Thursday evening. They first responded to an alarm from Box 68, Tower and Oak street, for a chimney fire in a dwelling on the north side of Ooak street. Little damage was done. The second call was in response to a still alarm telephoned in for a chimney fire in the house occupied by E. W. Sisson on Railroad avenue. On the arrival of the fire apparatus with Fire Chief Egger, smouldering soot was taken out of the chimney with a shovel and no damage resulted.

The work of removing the scaffolding in the new banking room of the Washington Trust Co., corner of Broad and Main streets which was begun this week, was completed Friday and an unobstructed view of the gold panelled ceiling 27 feet above the main floor was possible for the first time and it was possible to see the bronze figures of the clork dial above the entrance and inside of the banking room. Friday, workmen were busy retouching the entrance hallway ceilings.

The annual meeting of the Crescent club was held with Mrs. Alfred Burdick of 12 Lester avenue. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Hiram Edmond; vice president, Mrs N. F. Tuckerman; secretary, Mrs. David Pierce; treasurer, Miss Ruth Brook; benevolent committee, Mrs. John Stanton and Mrs. Alfred Burdick, social committee, Mrs. John Nichals. Refreshments and a social hour followed.

Herbert T. Kenyon, for nearly half a century identified with the building trade of this town and at his death a member of the W. C. Hiscox company, local contractors, died at his home Wednesday evening shortly before 10 o'clock. For the past few months Mr. Kenyon has been afflicted with a heart trouble.

Mr. Kenyon was born Oct. 6, 1856, in Greenendale, Conn. His school days were mainly spent in Ashaway. In 1875 he learned the builders' trade at C. Maxson & Co., of Westerly and in 1881 associated with Randolph-Bentley & Co., of Westerly, being with them for nineteen years, a large part of that time their architect. Shortly after Randolph-Bentley & Co., dissolved, after the death of Mr. Bentley, he became associated in August 1900 with Gurdon B. Hiscox in a partnership in the name of H. T. Kenyon & Co., with office 57 Main street. This firm has built many cottages at Watch Hill.

Mr. Kenyon was married at Adams Center, N. Y., to Eliza L. Gardner. He is survived by his wife, and four daughters, Mrs. Carl Flint fo Pittsfield, Mass., Mrs. Orrin Lamb of Worcester and Misses Laura and Geneva of this town.

STONINGTON

LIGHTING THE BEDROOM

There are three or four different purposes for which we may need lighting in a bedroom. At times we need a soft flood of light all over the room; when dressing, we need proper lighting of the mirror; a boudoir lamp on a small table near the head of the bed, or a bracket lamp on the bed itself serves as a night light; and if the room be a large one, there may be need for a floor lamp beside a comfortable chair for reading.

The Ceiling Fixture

The fixture that is selected for the center of the ceiling should provide enough general lighting all over the room for ordinary use of the room. To protect the eyes it must be shaded in such a way that the eyes of a person lying in bed cannot be strained by the bulb which furnishes the light. If a shade is used which is open at the bottom, the opening should be narrow. A total of from 50 to 100 watts will give plenty of light in this fixture.

Lighting the Mirror

We see objects by the light that falls on them and is reflected to the eye. Thus when we look in a mirror and see a reflection of our face, what has happened is this: The light falls upon our face which reflects a part of the light to the mirror; the mirror in turn, deflects a part of the light back to our eye, and we have seen an image of our own face.

Now it is easy to understand why it is more important to light the face itself instead of lighting the mirror. To do this, the bulb or light source ought to be in front of the face. And since the face is not a flat surface it can be best lighted from two directions, so that the light from one side will light up the shadows cast from the features of the face by the light from the other side.

The best lighting, then, is from two bracket fixtures on the walls, one at each side of the mirror. These fixtures are just at the level of the eye, and the light from them will cause eye-strain unless we are careful to have them well shaded for protection against glare. The bulbs in these bracket fixtures may be from 25 to 50 watts.

In some rooms where there is not enough wall space at each side of the mirror on which to put bracket fixtures, we may use a pair of portable candlesticks on the dresser itself, or a special sort of bracket which is made to fasten at each side of the mirror itself. Or we may have a single fixture hung from the ceiling over the center of the dresser, the bottom of which is just above the head of a person using the mirror.

If portable candlesticks are used, or if bracket fixtures are fastened to the mirror, we must not forget a convenience outlet, which may well be of the double or duplex type mounted in the wall 36 inches above the floor. This also makes it easy to attach a curling iron or other appliance. A convenience outlet will also be needed near the head of the bed for a boudoir lamp in which a 25-watt bulb will give plenty of light.

Servants' Rooms

Good lighting for servants' rooms may be provided from a ceiling fixture in which a 50-watt bulb is used with a suitable shade and a bracket fixture on the wall with a shaded 25 or 50-watt bulb. If the room be very small, the ceiling fixture may not be needed, and a pair of bracket fixtures may be used.

A small portable table lamp will do much to make the room more comfortable, but it is not essential. Whether it is used or not, a convenience outlet may be needed for electric appliances.

Canned corn tied with ribbons?

Ridiculous!

BUT—until Lowney's Gold Stripe Chocolates came you had to pay for fancy boxes and ribbons in order to get really high grade chocolates. We reasoned this way: Expensive boxes are appropriate for gift chocolates, but wrapping home chocolates in ornate boxes with expensive ribbon is almost as ridiculous as tying big red ribbons around canned corn.

Don't smile. We are quite serious about it.

Through specialization and a simple inexpensive package, we offer you a full pound of high grade chocolates for only 60c. This high grade specialty—Lowney's Gold Stripe package—has rapidly become the most popular of all packaged chocolates.

There are three delicious assortments:

Standard
Chocolates and Bonbons
Brittles, Cheweys and Nugats

Next time you want really fine chocolates at a really substantial saving, ask for Lowney's Gold Stripe Chocolates. They are sold by practically every good druggist or candy dealer.

A SURPRISING VALUE

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

DEER SACRIFICED FOR GOOD OF LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

As a final precaution in suppressing the dread foot-and-mouth disease in California, inspectors of the United States Department of Agriculture have found it necessary to exterminate the deer on two ranges of the Stanislaus National Forest. This action, decided on in consultation with officials of the state department of agriculture and the California fish and game commission, became imperative owing to the presence of the deer on ranges known to have grazed infected cattle and sheep. Following the removal from the forest of the domestic livestock owned by permittees, the sacrifice of the deer became feasible. A small proportion of the deer, which are susceptible to foot-and-mouth disease, are known to have been infected.

The necessity of the action was supported by a report on the situation by Joseph Dixon, economic mammologist, of the University of California. In his report to the state fish and game commission, Mr. Dixon pointed out that the quicker the work of eradiation in areas where the deed are known to have been infected, the smaller will be the number of deer that will have to be sacrificed. "California's game assets will thereby in the long run be best conserved," Mr. Dixon concluded. The migration of the deer population to other national parks and to cattle ranges is thereby prevented.

The most feasible method of extermination in the limited areas infected is by poisoning the salt licks which had formerly been used for cattle but which the deer had made a practice of using. Inspectors are also using rifles equipped with silencers to dispatch deer that do not take the poison.

An assisting factor in the suppression of the virus of foot-and-mouth disease in the Stanislaus national forest is the presence of bears. The inspecting forces are burying all dead deer that can be found, but the rocky mountainous nature of the region makes the finding of all carcasses virtually impossible. Bears are plentiful in the region, however, and since they are not subject to the disease, they will destroy the last vestige of infection.

EXPLAINS VEGETABLE CARE IN WINTER

Prof. R. M. Koon of the market garden field station, Waltham, Mass., says there are two principal reasons why we should have plenty of vegetables in winter. In the first place, a supply of vegetables will mean a great saving in the grocery bill. Secondly, the body soon rebels at a diet which does not include a variety of vegetables. There is much garden produce which can easily be saved in addition to that which has been canned.

Green tomatoes and peppers are usually hanging on the plants when the first severe frost ruins them. Their season may be prolonged. Before frost wrap the large tomatoes in paper and lay them on a shelf in an outer building where they will be cool but above freezing. They will ripen as do southern tomatoes, which being picked green, ripen in transit north. They will not be so high in quality as they are in normal season, but they will be good eating, nevertheless. Pepper plants should be pulled up with considerable earth adhering to them, and stood on the earthern floor of a barn or shed. The fruits will remain fresh a long time, particularly if a little water is poured upon the roots occasionally.

Onions and squashes must be fully mature. They should be kept in a dry well ventilated room above freezing. Dampness and low temperature will cause their decay. The cellar is no place for them.

Many vegetables may be stored outdoors in trenches, pits and root cellars, but the most convenient arrangement for the home supply is the indoor storage room. This avoids the inconvenience of opening a snow covered, ice-bound trench or mound in midwinter. The slight labor and expense incidental to separating a compartment of the cellar from the heater, is justifiable, when we consider the purpose.

A wall of masonry is best, but a double thickness of boards with an insulating space between will do. The size of the room will vary with the amount of vegetables to be stored. The conditions essential to successful storage are a temperature just above freezing, good ventilation and sound vegetables to begin with. A window, hinged at the bottom, will provide for proper temperature and ventilation, if it is manipulated according to the weather. A two-inch space under the door will permit an outlet.

The root crops, such as beets, carrots, turnips, winter radishes and artichokes (grasoles) can best be stored in the root cellar by covering them with clean, moist sand. Earth will cause them to rot.

Celery should be dug as late as possible, but before severely frozen. With plenty of earth adherine to the roots it is placed upright in the cellar bottom in a corner, preferably and packed closely together. A board can be used on the open side to prevent the stalks falling over. The foliage must be dry when stored, and kept so. A little water applied only to the roots occasionally will insure long keeping. Unblanched celery will blanch in storage and the hearts will continue to grow.

Cabbage should be placed on a slatted shelf in the storage cellar. Crates or barrels will be nearly as well if they are open enough to permit circulation. The air must not become too moist or the cabbage will decay.

Potatoes, placed in a slatted bin will remain firm, with little tendency to decay, provided they were sound when stored.

Parsnips and salsify may be left in the ground until spring, as freezing only improves their flavor. Should a supply be desired during the winter, however, they may be dug in late fall, stacked in an open shed and covered with just enough earth to prevent their drying out. They may be pried off the pile as needed, and thawed in cold water.

Rules for Storing Apples

Care should be taken when storing winter apples to do this job, "just right." Apples keep to the best advantage where each apple is wrapped separately in paper. If the apples are not already wrapped the wise householder wraps each one himself; but where this seems to be too much like work, at least be careful to put them in paper-lined barrels or boxes and then "go over" them frequently during the winter to pick out any that may show signs of decay, for "one bad apple will spoil a whole barrel."

Care should also be taken not to store the apples too near strong vegetables, such as turnips, onions, or even potatoes. For apples, like butter, are apt to "take on" the odors of other food that happens to be near them. Everyone knows that apples should be stored in a good dry cellar and in a cellar that will keep them cold but where they will not be frozen.

The tart varieties of apples are the best for canning purposes. All bruised spots, of course, should be carefully cut away from the fruit before cooking it. The most completely satisfactory method of preserving the apple is to make it into apple sauce and then place it in well-sterilized glass jars while it is hot. Or course, some may prefer to can the apples whole, so that they can be used more advantageously for apple dumplings.

PROTECT TREES FROM MICE IS WARNING TO ORCHARDISTS

September and October are the months when the far-sighted orchardist makes preparations to guard against possible injury to his trees by hungry field mice which gnaw the trunks and roots. Such injury is liable to occur at any time after November 1, although most of it usually is inflicted in mid-winter or very early spring under cover of heavy snow and when the more favored food supply is running low, according to the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture.

That serious injury to orchard trees by mice occurs at irregular intervals makes the menace the greater, for it usually catches the orchardist unprepared and wholly unaware of the damage being done until melting snow in spring uncovers trunks, or the wilting trees in mid-summer betray the hidden work of the mice on the roots.

Preventive measures cost little in comparison with the protection afforded, and although frequently a girdled tree may be saved by timely grafting, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Many progressive fruit growers realize this truth and each fall and several times during the winter, examine their orchards carefully for mouse signs. If mice are present they prepare to destroy them or take steps to prevent their attacks upon trees.

Methods of preventing mouse injury vary accordingly to the species of mouse and the cultural practices followed. In much of the eastern United States pine mice are present and their injury is usually below the surface of the ground. It is necessary to destroy such mice unless they are driven out by deep and clean cultivation of the whole orchard. Where meadow mice only are concerned, such methods as mechanical protectors and repellent washes are practicable, although the destruction of the mice is preferable.

Connecticut College Concert

Besides being a pianist of tremendous power and superb artistry, Elly Ney, who appears as soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra at the New London state armory Monday, October 20, is a delightfully human person, utterly lacking in the affectations which commonly are supposed to be part of a great musician's personality. The key note of her philosophy is "be simple."

Elly Ney brings with her some of the woes which are known as "prima donna airs." She lives simply and enjoys the companionship of her gifted husband, Willem Van Hoogstraten, the Dutch conductor who made so deep an impression with the Philharmonic last season. Her favorite diversion is walking. On arriving in New York for her first concert tour she asked whether there were any parks where she might take long strolls and was delighted to learn that there were several woodland places within easy distance of the metropolis.

American movie producers would be glad to hear the comment of Mme. Ney on some of their films. She likes American pictures, especially when they are "simple"—which is a favorable criticism.

Tickets for this and all other concerts of the series will be on sale at Starr Brothers tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. In ordering by telephone please call 2515.

What the Choir Sang About the New Bonnet.

With a ribbon and a feather and a bit of lace upon it;
And that the other maidens of the little town might know it
She thought she'd go to meeting next Sunday just to show it.

But though the little bonnet was scarce larger than a dime
The getting of it settled proved to be a week of time;
So when 'twas fairly tied all the bells had stopped their ringing,
And when she came to meeting, sure enough the folks were singing.

So this foolish little maiden stood and waited at the door,
And she shook her ruffles out behind and smoothed them out before.
Hallelujah, hallelujah!" sang the choir above her head—
Hardly knew you! hardly knew you!" were the words she thought they said.

This made the little maiden feel so very, very cross
That she gave her little mouth a twist, her little head a toss;
For she thought the very hymn they sung was all about her bonnet,
With the ribbon, and the feather, and the bit of lace upon it.

And she would not wait to listen to the sermon or the prayer,
But pattered down the silent street and hurried up the stair,
And she'd reached her little bureau, and in a bandbox on it,
Had hidden safe from critic's eye her foolish little bonnet.

Which proves, my little maidens, that each of you will find
In every Sabbath service but an echo of your mind;
And that the little head that's filled with silly little airs
Will never get a blessing from sermons or from prayers.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
Only a Little Sparrow

I am only a little sparrow,
A bird of low degree;
My life is of little value,
But there's One who cares for me.

He gave me a coat of feathers,
It's very plain I know,
With never a speck of crimson,
For it was not made for show.

But it keeps me warm in Winter,
It shields me from the rain;
Were it bordered with gold or purple
Perhaps it would make me vain.

And now the Springtime cometh
I'll build me a little nest,
With many a chirp of pleasure
In the spot I love the best.

I have no barn or storehouse,
I neither sow nor reap,
God gave me a sparrow's portion
With never a seed to keep.

In my meals are sometimes scanty,
Close picking makes them sweet,
I have always enough to feed me
And life is more than meat.

I know there are many sparrows;
All over the world we're found,
But our Heavenly Father knoweth
When one of us falls to the ground.

Though small, we're never forgotten,
Though weak, we're never afraid
For we know there's One who keepeth
The life of the creature He's made.

I roam through thickest forest
I light on many a spray,
I have no chart or compass
But I never lose my way.

And I close my wings at twilight
Wherever I happen to be,
For the Heavenly Father is watching
And no harm can come to me.

DRYING APPLES

Dear Social Corner Friends: What a wonderful autumn we have had so far! Now the leaves have taken on their beautiful shades of brown and gold, canning is done and fairs are almost over. I would liked very much to have gone to the Stafford fair this week, but had to omit it. They say the ride from Norwich to the fair is wonderful with it's steep hills, and scenery along the drive is more than worth the while say nothing of the fair when one reaches there.

I wonder if any of our members dry apples the oldfashioned way like our grandmothers used to do? I have a number of strings of them drying this fall, which we will use for fried turnovers and perhaps now and then an old fashioned bag pudding, when the winter winds are blowing and the snow has covered beautiful mother earth from our view.

I am glad to read of so many of the old timers once again! it shows that they are still among us. Ma of Greene Gables, and Historian, don't seem to remember us as they used to. Sorry, I presume they are very busy of late.

Will ring off with best wishes and prosperity to all the members.

AUSABLE CHASM

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I see many new sisters have joined you and I would like to be one of you if I may.

Your recipes and practical suggestions seem good and I can follow your summer journeys by automobile as I am taking them. All but the Watkins Glen trip taken by one of your sisters. I would so much like to talk it over with her. Rural Auntys' enthusiasm has created in me a great desire to see Watkins Glen. It must be a little sister or a big sister to the Ansable chasm, which is on the New York side of Lake Champlain. This chasm is considered one of the natural wonders of the United States and of the world.

And it is so near Connecticut all Social Corner sisters and brothers have no doubt, seen it.

Known as the Great Canyon of the east, it is two miles long and two hundred feet deep. After passing over steep stairways and narrow bridges you gaze at the many natural wonders such as; beautiful, (seventy feet deep) Rainbow Falls, Elephants Head, Devil's Bowl Jacob's Ladder, Hyde's Cave, Leaning Tower, Smuggler's Pass, and you are filled with dread and silent wonder at the great depth and narrowness of the awful chasm you are in. You are given a boat ride through the rapids of the Grand Piume out into the sunshine of the world you recognize. And then you are returned to your starting place by automobiles provided for that purpose.

The picnic grounds of the Ansable Chasm reservation are provided with every facility for the pleasure and comfort of its guests.

But this is all probably well known to you and I am taking too much space in your friendly and interesting page.

If I may join the social sisters and brothers I would like my pen name to be

DOM PEDRO'S VACATION

Dear Social Corner Editor, Sisters, and Friends: I have been taking a vacation and spent two weeks in Norwich with my nephew and family. I had a lovely time. Had my fill every day of fruit, lots of eats that I am fond of, and auto rides most every day. One day I rode 70 miles. I attended church in the morning, came home had our dinner and then went to Colchester, then to Westchester and called on some old friends of mine that I had not seen for four years. The man was a veteran of the Civil war, 91 years old and looks hale and hearty. His left arm was shot to pieces but he tends his garden and can do a lot of work and saws all his wood with a machine. His wife is a few years younger but has rheumatism and is not able to do very much. They hire a housekeeper and own a nice home at Westchester center. From there we came to New London, crossed the bridge to Groton where we called on some more friends and had refreshments of ice cream and cake. Then we returned to Norwich and reached there before eight o'clock after a lovely ride through the country where the trees are putting on their most beautiful foliage of all the year.

Wednesday morning I went to the Buckingham Memorial to the Social Corner meet. It was a year and a half since I had met with them and dont think I ever met with so warm a reception before in my life. Everybody seemed so glad to see me. I met a good many strangers, but they all seemed like old friends. I should think there were between 80 and 100 present. The tables looked so pretty and inviting as we stood around while the Doxology was sung. The spread was great and everybody seemed to be able to eat and talk at the same time. The buzzing was like a swarm of bees.

After the tables were cleared away we had music, both vocal and instrumental, recitations and readings, after which all departed for their homes seemingly well satisfied that the day was well spent.

Last Saturday evening we rode about 22 miles and spent the evening with some friends, had an oyster supper, watermelon, peaches and coffee.

Sunday morning went to church, in afternoon to Sheltering Arms where the pastor and choir of the Baptist church of Leffingwell held services It is an old ladies home supported by the United Workers There is a matron and two nurses. It is not a large place but a nice comfortable home. One of the ladies told me she was over 90, and looked as though she might live to a hundred. Then I came home from there with an invitation to come again at Thanksgiving time. Best wishes for all, from

SHOULD HAVE FULL PAGE EACH WEEK

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: As my name was in the roll call a long time ago I will answer present, if I am not too late. I wonder if I'm the last one of the letter a to answer. Although I have not written I always try to read all the letters when I have time. I like to read of the picnics tithough I have never attended any. Some day I may get up courage enough to go.

With over one thousand members and new ones every week I should think we would have a full page every week. So many can write such nice letters. I'm no good at writing myself.

Crimson Rambler: Will try and write you soon. Have not forgotten but am kept busy with canning and baking. Just now I have seven in my family and four dinner boxes to put up every morning. I don't have much spare time.

Caro: I think the pins a good idea. With best wishes to all members.

SUPERSTITUTIONS

It is wonderful what consolation people derive from pet beliefs. Luck and its portent influence in the lives lived today is far more than credited. Actresses singers and all the followers of the arts are partially prone to superstitions. The divine Sarah had a rooted antipathy to the number 4. Ian Maclaren was extremely superstitious; his mother was fully acquainted with the terrible powers possessed by hares. If she met one out driving she returned to her home immediately. I believe these notions have little hold on modern imaginations nor does one hear of the frequent indulgence of effigy vengeance —the theory that like produces like. When a person had a grudge against another he or she made a dummy figure of any handy material, generally of wax, and proceeded to stick pins in it, burn it and cut it up, by which process a current of evil was involved and the enemy usually withered away. This superstition is a touch of kinship between all nations, civilized or uncivilized. Sympathetic magic it was called and its powers were diverse. If an Elizabethan gentleman was feeling a bit off color and he met a stray dog he would exclaim, "Good luck, you hound! May you be sick and I be sound!" And the unfortunate dog immediately became the scape goat of his infirmities. Ostriches are also favgrable birds and their plumes the emblem of truth. What a truthful age this must be! and apropos of the age, it should be dire for men, as it is said, "Every curl on a woman's head is a screw in husband's coffin."

Its quite comprehensible nowadays, too, that "if your hat blows off you will wish that you had never started." also, that "lobsters foretell trouble to the person who gets one unexpectedly."

The eating of ants' eggs as an antidote to love has been disproved, nor is a daddy longlegs invariably regarded as a "messenger of good."

"To see seven frogs in a pond and you will soon be wealthy" has encouraged many a country heart. Pliny declared that frogs produced a consiliatory spirit, and a frog arm as an amulet rendered one proof against the evil eye. We still tax our faith on froggies though strange gods have the first hold on our affections.

Over the country is hurrying Billikens, the god of things as thy ought to be, to rival the little jade Maorigod, who, with the ankh (the emblem of a long life) has protected so many for the past few years. The amulet of the eye is among the latest guarantors of luck at bridge, for which Nefer the Egyptian charm, is regarded as equaling the bit of suicide rope that is sought after by fashionable gamblers at Monte Carlo. It leads to fortune if you stroke a black cats tail seven times before starting to play, but it is unlucky to meet a cat on the stairs going out. Always set at the crack on the table, and remember that "money talks," but to most people it says good by—unless you fold your banknotes lengthwise, when you will always have money.

Turquoises are considered happy stones in every land and emeralds and sapphires are recognized mascots. A lady born in May should always choose emeralds for her engagement ring. While emeralds in your garter buckles are infallible producers of good fortune. Unfortunately few of us have the opportunity of testing this belief. In conclusion, be warned not to tell your exact age. It is unlucky to lay an umbrella on the table or bed. Be sure at Christmas eve to have everybody's shoes in your house placed in an orderly row together, that the wearers may live in harmony through the year. Remember also, it brings sorrow to take something out of the house before bringing something in on New Year's day.

HOPING FOR BETTER DAYS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Since this Cornerite hasn't written I guess you will think I'm heartless. But I am still facing difficulties and can hardly think of writing a letter. But it is not quite so hard as the good man is able to work and that helps. He is still under the doctor's care though. I was working till the slackness of business came.

I still have to keep the needle in my hand and the foot on the sewing machine for children must have things to wear.

I was greatly surprised to receive a prize and when I opened the letter and found the check I was very thankful. If you all knew how much it meant to me at that time you know how thankful I was. I want to thank all who have helped me this year, especially my landloard. He is the best one I ever had and I cannot fail to appreciate what he and others have done for us during our trying days. Hope the coming year will bring better days.

Best wishes to all.

ENJOYS INDOOR GATHERINGS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As my name was in the roll call I will answer present and send greeting to all. Long live the Social Corner. I think it serves a good purpose.

Club No. 1 had a good attendance last week Wednesday and the hostesses proved their fitness for the occasion. Whirlwind proved a dandy auctioneer.

I haven't been able to attend any of the outdoor picnics but I always enjoy the indoor gatherings.

FRUIT CAKE

Dear Social Corner Members: A cake made after the following recipe has been shipped to England for the royal table, to Scotland, Austria, Australia, Canada, South America, Mexico, and even to the Philippines, "but the deepest feeling and pride" and happiness says the mixer of this cake "comes to me from the fact that my work, something I can make with my own hands, is worthy of a place on the table of the president of the United States for this is what I have had the privilage of making each Christmas—a cake for the white house.

The cake is always a fruit cake. All the ingredients, the flavoring, blending the baking, are each and every one the result of much thought and careful experimenting.

Recipe for this cake I had for my cook book in the year of 1916 in the month of January. This was about nine years ago and was made by Betty Lyle Wilson, one she had used for four administrations.

Fruit Cake: One pound butter, one pound sugar, one pound flour, browned and sifted. Twelve eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately; five pounds of seeded raisins, one and one half pounds shredded citron peel; one glass of grape jelly; two teaspoons melted chocolate, one pound of crystalized cherries; one pound of crystalized diceded pineapple, one pound blanched almonds cut fine and browned, one pound shelled pecans cut fine one tablespoon powdered cinnamon, one scant tablespoon of grated nutmeg, one half tablespoon of allspice, one scant teaspoon of powdered cloves, one glass of grape juice, 2 tablespoons of rose water, and one quarter pound of orange paste. Soak the almonds in the rosewater over night, soak fruit in the grape juice the same length of time, cream butter and sugar thoroughly, add the well beaten yolks of eggs, then the whites of eggs then the flour, reserving a small quantity. Mix the fruit in this and stir very small quantity at a time into the batter. The nuts are added last of all. The time required for baking depends largely upon the size. A five pound cake takes two and one half hours and a twenty-five pound cake takes four hours.

When the cake is finished set it away.

ANOTHER SOCIAL MEETING

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: There was a large attendence at the meeting Oct. 8th at Franklin hall, Willimantic. The morning skies were not very favorable for a pleasant day, but later on weather conditions improved. It is but to repeat, the report of another social, friendly gathering. We were glad to meet those who have not been with us before in a long time, especially Huldy and Anna Mell. Whirlwind as hostess with her able helpers, was all that could be desired for a successful day of enjoyment. The dinner table was filled with a good supply of tempting foods. The decorations were evident of the Social Corner color for sisters Olive and Whirlwind contributed generous boquets of the golden double marigold, also of the small single variety, which were much admired and appreciated. Eliza Jane served as pianist, as we stood at the tables and sang Auld Lang Syne. Then sister Neighbor Everready said grace.

A moment of silence, with bowed heads in memory and respect for our sister Keturah, whose services and burial had taken place only the preceeding day. After dinner was finished, the food remaining was disposed of. First the sunshine boxes were prepared then the auction which cleared the tables. The entertainment program followed.

Foxglove had an original poem, which was specialized for the Social Corner, including many names of the sisters. With reference to some of the former gatherings. Foxglove was applauded for her interesting contribution. Other sisters were called to lend a hand including Jennie, Wyltwick, Hope Cobweb, Betty, Miranda, Olga and Amy. Eliza Jane read a report of the finances of Club No. 1 which was most favorable. Whirlwind thanked all for their assistance. In closing we sang, God Be With You Till We Meet Again. In conclusion it can be added we had a very pleasant day visiting with each other, and at the time of parting expressed our hopes of meeting at another Social Corner gathering.

Julie: I had hoped to see you. Can't you plan to come to Norwich Nov. 5th?

Best wishes to all.

JENNIE.

CATCHING UP WITH THE CORNER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: After having fussed around for three weeks trying to cure a cold and keep going at the same time, it has finally landed me in bed with a bronchial attack. Now I have been doing what I haven't had time for over two months, reading the Corner pages saved for a spare minute. It has taken the best part of three days to catch up. Have been much interested in the roll call. Have all names saved and mark each name as they are answered. Was surprised at the large number of names—many I did not remember, some did not appear that I looked for, a few old writers whose names I did not find on the list have written lately I notice, but others haven't. Missed also the names of those who did so much for the Corner in its earlier years, but who have passed away. Might we not have a separate Memorial list for the sisters who, though "gone are not forgotten?"

Would like to thank the sisters who gave the names they had discarded. Wish all would do the same. Bee says she is using another name. We'd like to know also the ones that Ormandine discarded for her early love. And, Biddy, if you'll only tell us what you have thrown away, we, as well as the editor will cross them off our lists.
